Women's Union and the Triple C Society, into a new fellowship group for all women of the church. The congregation will hear and celebrate the many ministries of the two groups and the formation of a single fellowship.

Church school classes are provided for all ages each Sunday at 10 a.m. Infants and nursery school age children go directly to their classrooms; kindergarten children through grade nine meet first in the sanctuary to participate in the first portion of the service and then are dismissed to their classes. All classes are dismissed at 11:15 a.m.

Parents desiring to register their children in the church school may do so by calling the church office weekdays at 773-6424 or by registering them on Sundays at 10 a.m. with the church school superintendent, Debbie Tait.

Quincy Point Congregational Church also provides "The Daily Bible," a daily three-minute devotional tape recording, received 24 hours a day by calling 472-4434.

The church has a chairlift to the sanctuary, a new hearing system for the hard of hearing, and off-street parking. The pastors are the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon. For more information about the church call 773-6424, Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

'Separatist Heritage' First Squantum Church Sermon

Rev. Gene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum, preached Sunday on the subject "Separatist Heritage."

The call to worship was read by David Dykens, Amy Harper, Adam Macmillan, Ian MacRitchie and Emily Zachring.

The Scripture lessons were read by Roberta Sheehan and Leif Thornton.

The Chancel Choir sang. Pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott accompanied the hymns sung by the congregation.

Greeters were Kate MacRitchie and Si Porter. Ushers were Katrina Sorrentino and Patti Hurd. Since it was Stewardship

Sunday, they were assisted by Barbara Anderson and Barbara Sorenson who are members of the Stewardship Committee. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Dore Klock and Joan Hansen.

The Bible study group continues to meet each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to study The Acts of the Apostles. Meetings of The Way Up for teenagers are scheduled throughout the week including the principal meeting Sunday at 2 p.m.

Sunday school starts at 9:30 a.m. The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. A nursery for infants and child care for children through the eighth grade are available.

Seaside Christmas Fair At Houghs Neck Church

The Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., will hold its Seaside Christmas Fair tomorrow (Friday) from 6 to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Home made items, holiday gifts, baked goods, a secret children's room, and a cookie walk will be among the fair's highlights. There will also be a visit from Santa Saturday afternoon.

A seaside dinner will be available Friday and a snack bar all day Saturday. All are invited to attend.

Rape Prevention Precautions At Home, On The Street, In Public Places

(This is the second article in a three-part series on rape prevention.)

Precautions To Take At Home:

- Make your home as burglar proof as possible. Install good door locks and pin your windows.
- Always ask a repairman or deliveryman for identification, before opening the door.
- If someone wants to use your phone, offer to make the call for them rather than letting this person into your home.
- Report lewd or obscene phone calls. When you receive such a call, hang up immediately or blow a loud whistle into the mouth piece.

• It is better to enter an elevator alone than with a strange man or men. Be sure the elevator has not been summoned to the roof or basement before getting on. Stand near the control panel so that you can push the alarm, if necessary.

• Remove your keys from your purse before you get to your door. Your keys will be ready to open the door and you won't have to stand in front of the door fumbling in your purse.

• If someone drives you home, ask them to wait until you are safely inside before they leave.

Precautions On The Street:

• Know where you are going and don't get lost. Get clear directions ahead of time and have a phone number for your destination.

• Walk briskly and confidently and be alert to your surroundings.

• Walk close to the curb, except when a car pulls up.

• Choose well lighted streets and avoid streets where there are a lot of bars.

• Be familiar with your own frequently traveled routes.

• If you are walking and you get the feeling that you are being followed, turn around and look. If anyone looks suspicious, cross the street and walk in the opposite direction.

• If you are walking and being followed by a car, turn and walk in the opposite direction that the car is traveling in, then go to the nearest open store or neighbor. Report this to the police as soon as possible.

• If you are approached or grabbed on the street, make a scene and try to run away. Yell, scream or throw a rock through the nearest lighted window to attract attention.

Precautions In Public Places:

• In theaters, sit near the aisle and near the exit stairs, which often lead to the managers office. Don't go alone to theaters where security problems might occur.

• Stay in the vicinity of the largest number of people.

For more information, contact Crime Prevention Officer Bob Hanna at 479-1212 ext. 117.

(In the third and final part of this series, precautions in the car, on the bus or subway and self-defense techniques will be discussed.)

TIDEGATE AND OUTFALL PIPE REHABILITATION
MILTON/HOLLIS ROADS AND BEACH STREET

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for the rehabilitation works on tidegate chambers, outfall lines and replacement of tidegates at Milton/Hollis Roads and Beach Street until 10:00 a.m. Local Time on Friday, November 29, 1991, at the Department of Public Works Engineering Office, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169 at which time and place the bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this Contract includes, but is not necessarily limited to the following:

1. Modification and repair of two tidegate chambers, replacement of 36-inch tidegates and the installation of safety grill at the outfall pipe at Milton/Hollis Roads;
2. Modification and repair of one tidegate chamber, replacement of 36-inch tidegate, restoration of outfall casement and the removal and replacement of the safety grill at the outfall pipe on Beach Street; and
3. Clean up of both the tidegate systems and restoration of impacted areas.

All work of this Contract shall be completed within one hundred and twenty (120) calendar days.

A non-refundable deposit of $50.00 in cash or check, payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will be required for each set of Contract Documents.

Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy in the amount of fifteen dollars ($15.00) per set to cover the cost of shipping and handling.

The Contract Documents may be obtained after November 13, 1991, at the Public Works Engineering Office, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 during the business hours of 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the value of the bid in the form described in the Information for Bidders.

The Successful Bidder must furnish a 100 percent (100%) Construction Performance Bond and a 100 percent (100%) Construction Payment Bond with a surety company acceptable to the Owner.

The biddings and award of this Contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, as last revised.

Bidders attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid, as determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries under the provisions of Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 149, Sections 26 to 27D, inclusive.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within thirty (30) days, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, after the actual date of the opening of the bids.

The Milton/Caly Roads portion of the work included under this Contract is expected to be funded in part by the Mass. Bays Environmental Trust ("The Trust").

Equal Employment Opportunity, Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) and Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) policies of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Quincy are applicable to this Contract. The goals for this project are:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on this project a not less than ten (10%) percent ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.
2. A minimum of eleven (11%) percent MBE participation and five (5%) percent WBE participation by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

Failure to comply with these requirements may be deemed to render a proposal non-responsive. No waiver of any portion of these provisions will be granted.

The City of Quincy has residency requirements for workers which provides for local preference in hiring on city-supported construction projects.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids if deemed to be in their best interests.

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that BRIAN E. DONOVAN of QUINCY in the County of NORFOLK be appointed public administrator of said estate with surety on the bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney must file a written appearance in said Court at Dedham on or before ten o'clock in the forenoon on December 4, 1991.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving the specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

Witness, Robert M. Ford, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Dedham, the twenty-ninth day of October, one thousand nine hundred and ninety-one.

Nominations are now open for The Quincy Sun's seventh annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

Last year, Gerald Gherardi of Quincy was honored for his contributions to charities and service organizations over a half century. He was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

Gherardi received the award at a reception held at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The event was attended by nearly 100 persons, including family, friends and city officials.

The first recipient was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management (formerly Civil Defense). He was chosen from 31 nominees.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, was named the winner. She was chosen from 45 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch Sr. who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

The 1988 recipient was Martin Finnegan, athletic director for

Kolson: 'Time To Take The Bull By The Horns'

Free Enterprise Zone Proposed In Downtown

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson Monday night introduced a resolution calling for the city to look into the development of a free enterprise zone in downtown Quincy.

Such zones are created to lure businesses into the area by offering tax incentives to those wishing to participate in the zone.

Criteria are set as far as the businesses' commitment to the local property, and the tax incentives are offered through federal block grant monies and state matching monies with no cost to the city.

"I would really like to see us get into this," said Kolson, adding that a free enterprise zone would be very helpful to the city "because of the seriousness of the economic times that we're in."

"It's time to take the bull by the horns. We can do this ourselves; we don't have to wait for the federal legislation. It's time to get off our good intention and become proactive, not reactive."

Councillor Michael Cheney agreed. "There's no way it's going to happen unless we make it happen. I fully support this."

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley was at first wary of the wording of Kolson's order, since it referred only to "downtown Quincy."

Video Gambling Machines Banned Here

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Video gambling machines will not be allowed in Quincy.

The License Board agreed to send a letter to all licensed establishments in the city warning them about a new video game being distributed by a Melrose firm.

License Board chairman John Gillis read a letter in which the Melrose company is promoting its "New Lucky Eight" game to Quincy bars and clubs as "approved by the State of Massachusetts."

The machine features a variety of poker and gambling games and accepts $1, 5, 10 and 20 bills.

The License Board letter, written by Gillis, states that these video machines are not allowed and, if already present, must be removed from the premises of licensed Quincy establishments.

Police Chief Francis Mullen and Liquor Inspector Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy supported the video gambling ban and pledged to enforce it.

Must be 18 Years Old

Ronald Adams, the 1991-92 Massachusetts teacher of the year, urges his middle school students to get involved, to work for human rights, and to try to make a difference in the community and the world around them.

Adams, a seventh grade arts teacher at the Broad Meadows Middle School in Quincy, was chosen from 225 nominees (87 of whom submitted applications) for the annual teaching award, which is sponsored by the Massachusetts Department of Education and Encyclopedia Britannica.

The Massachusetts Teacher of the Year Program recognizes "exceptionally skilled and dedicated" K-12 teachers whose classroom work reflects outstanding commitment to students, school and community. The winner is chosen by a committee made up of higher education officials, school administrators, teachers, former Massachusetts Teachers of the Year, students, and state Department of Education staff members.

Adams received the award, which includes a grant from Encyclopedia Britannica and a MacIntosh Computer and printer from Apple Computers, at a recent ceremony hosted by Acting Commissioner of Education Commissioner Rhoda E. Schneider and Board of Education Chairman James F. Crain at the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston.

Six finalists in the competition were also honored in the event. They received gift certificates donated by Orchard Computers of Quincy, PCR of Hanover, and Unicom Company of Dedham.

"Ronald Adams in an innovative teacher who has developed programs and curricula that reach out and grab the interests of his students," said Schneider. "He instills a strong sense of community and citizenship in his students by getting them involved in local, national and international issues, particularly in the area of civil rights and human rights education. He exemplifies the teaching profession at its finest."

Seventh graders in Adam's classes have a history of activism. They successfully petitioned the Quincy Public Works Department to have public walkways near their school paved. They wrote letters to the mayor of Boston protesting racial taunts suffered by a Quincy student while marching in a parade, and they had a role in helping to free a Yugoslavian teen who had been imprisoned unjustly. Currently the students are involved in a campaign called "Bring Home the U.S.S. Lexington," which seeks to return the aircraft carrier to Quincy to serve as a shipbuilder's museum.

"I teach my language arts students that letter writing is a powerful but underutilized cornerstone of democracy," said Adams. "Whenever they face injustice, big or small, I encourage them to write a letter, make a phone call, discuss their ideas at home, and keep me informed of their progress. It's amazing what younger students can accomplish when their voices are respected and taken seriously. Simply put, their idealism becomes activism and their activism yields results."

The curriculum that Adams developed, "Idealism and Activism" has become a required course for all students at the Broad Meadows School. His human rights projects have earned him the Human Rights and Civil Rights Award from the Massachusetts Teachers Association, two Women's History Awards from the Governor's Office, and a certificate of recognition from the Massachusetts Department of Education.

As the Massachusetts Teacher of the Year, Adams will represent the Commonwealth in the National Teacher of the Year competition sponsored by the Council of Chief State School Officers and Encyclopedia Britannica.

"I'm looking forward to the year ahead as a time to campaign for teacher empowerment," said Adams, "and to remind the public that there are still great things happening in our schools every day."

City To Buy Vacuum Truck To Clean Sewers

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The Finance Committee of the City Council Monday night unanimously approved the transfer of $348,997 from the sewer rehabilitation fund to the Department of Public Works.

The allocation, which was first brought up at the council's Oct. 21 meeting, is part of a $1.3 million dollar overhaul of the city's sewer system that was originally introduced in June by Public Works Commissioner David Colton.

According to Colton, $148,997 of the funds will go toward the purchase of a Vactor 2100 Series vacuum/jet body and truck while the remaining $200,000 would be used for contractual services on a street-to-street basis to examine and refurbish the city's drain system "to determine where the problems are."

Colton called the Vactor truck "an intricate piece of equipment, adding that "we need it to help get the sewers clean—it's a machine that every up-to-date sewer system has."

Responding to a question by Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan as to whether the city would save money by instead contracting a truck from an outside agency, Colton said this would not be the case because of "too many variables."

"The sewer pipe sizes range from four inches to 30-some-odd inches; it varies from neighborhood to neighborhood," Colton said. "With our own piece of equipment we will have a better understanding of the sewer system and do a better job."

Colton added that relying on the use of trucks belonging to the Massachusetts Water Resource Authority was also an impossibility.

"They (MWRRA) only have two trucks that we could use," he said. "We can get them, but we can't rely on them all the time. We still need our own truck to do our own maintenance."

Phelan, who noted that he originally had reservations about the purchase of the Vactor truck, said that he was impressed with Colton's arguments in favor of the machine and said that he now was in favor of the allocation.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson also voiced his approval.

"I know it's an awful lot of money, but there's an awful lot of work to be done (on the sewers)," said Kolson. "It's a worthwhile appropriation and a step in the right direction."

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien brought up the issue of bonding and whether it would be necessary in regards to the allocation. City auditor Robert Foy, however, said this would not be necessary.

"We should move forward with the council order project," said Foy. "It could always be bonded at a later date if the sewer fund runs out."

Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio asked about the life expectancy of the truck and whether the idea of leasing the truck had ever been considered.

Colton replied, "It's a very specialized piece of heavy equipment that we will have for a long time. Leasing was not really looked at because we're going to need both the contractual services and the truck to do the job."

Councillor Timothy Cahill gave the allocation and the truck in particular his enthusiastic support.

"You make a good argument for it, and I hope we have it (the truck) for 20 years," Cahill told Colton. "I know you wouldn't waste money on something like this."

"I'm sick and tired of hearing about Quincy Center," said Nutley. "We're already done so much for Quincy Center. I'm concerned that the other business areas outside Quincy Center won't get their due."

Kolson, however, reassured Nutley by saying the city can apply for as many free enterprise zones as it sees fit, and added that he would amend the order to include all business areas in Quincy.

The order must next go through the offices of Mayor James Sheets, City Solicitor Steve McGrath and the Planning Department before it can be put into action.

On Tuesday, Mayor James Sheets said his administration will take a good look at the idea.

"We'll certainly look at it. I was glad it was amended to include the North Quincy and Wollaston business districts because when we look at the revitalization of the downtown, we have a responsibility to look at North Quincy and Wollaston too.

"If it's a good idea, we'll look at it, examine it go after it and give credit where credit's due.

"If it works, we'll do it. We have to bring people into Quincy to provide jobs and add to the tax base.

"We'll certainly look at the tax incentives," the mayor added.

Once the resolution reaches the mayor's desk, Sheets said he will ask Planning Director Richard Meade to examine the concept and its feasibility.

Silly String Sales Banned At Christmas Parade

Hawkers and vendors who attempt to violate a city ordinance by selling such toys as "Silly String" and "snappers" at the upcoming Christmas parade will now face a $50 fine.

Councillor Michael Cheney Monday night introduced an amendment to the ordinance that he and Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan first presented at the City Council's Oct. 4 meeting. The ordinance was the initial step in that it banned the toys from being sold, but the new banned the toys from being sold, but the new amendment is what allows the $50 fine to be imposed.

"The Christmas Parade Committee was grateful for the ordinance, but wanted some teeth in this," said Cheney. "This (amendment) will put some teeth in it."

Parents Say 'Suicide' Label Insensitive

(Editor's note: A copy of the following letter, addressed to John Haley Jr., MBTA general manager, was submitted to The Quincy Sun for publication)

Dear Mr. Haley:

During the early morning hours of Nov. 1, our son, Peter Eleuteri, was murdered at the Haymarket train station. That fact was apparent from the moment our son's body was discovered.

In the MBTA press release of Nov. 11 you stated that "initially no signs of foul play were apparent." Yet upon viewing our son's body we immediately noticed that our son's face was badly swollen and bruised. He had a cut on his right eye, his nose appeared broken, his jaw was distorted. His clothes were ripped, and his jacket was torn and tossed into a dumpster. He had no wallet or money in his possession—yet he was allegedly able to get beyond the station's turnstiles.

You knew all of this. Still you chose to label our son Peter's death as an apparent suicide. We have still not heard or read a single fact which lends credence to your statement. Again we must ask, what was so apparent.

We have spent the last two weeks fighting to restore our son Peter's good name. At a time when other parents mourn their child's loss we, instead, have spent our time convincing others that our son was murdered. The grief of the hundreds of family members and friends who came to the wake and funeral was escalated by the cloud of the suicide claim.

The stigma associated with suicide is overwhelming. We cannot begin to describe the additional anguish your insensitive portrayal and totally unfounded statement has caused us.

In your most recent statement you left the impression that we were apprised and condoned your public charade. We were not apprised of your ruse. We absolutely would not have condoned it. We do not condone it today.

Again, we fail to understand why you could not have issued a more general statement that would have preserved the integrity of the investigation and maintained Peter's good reputation. You had absolutely no right to play God.

We can only hope that other parents might be spared this unspeakable pain in the future.

The Parents of
Peter Eleuteri

No Relaxation For Mariano

After finishing one whirlwind campaign, State Rep.-elect Ron Mariano will barely have time to catch his breath before having to face another one.

The Quincy Democrat racked up an impressive win over Weymouth Republican William Izbicki and Quincy Independents Francis (Sandy) Eaton and Cheryl Balzano in last week's special election for the Third Norfolk District state representative seat.

But before he can really get comfortable in it he will be up for re-election and probably facing two serious challengers trying to take it away from him.

Mariano was elected to fill the unexpired term of long-time incumbent Robert Cerasoli who vacated the seat to accept appointment as state inspector general. That term expires at the end of 1992. And early 1992 is campaign kickoff time.

McGLONE

Waiting in the wings are two potential candidates: Jack McGlone and George Miller.

McGlone, making his political debut, gave Mariano a good run for the Democratic nomination, losing by only 224 votes.

McGlone is now living in Quincy with his bride of two months, the former Celeste Bradley, a Quincy Point girl, in her Burgin Parkway condo. They have the condo up for sale and are looking to buy a house. A house, McGlone stresses, located in the Third Norfolk District.

He had been thinking of again challenging Mariano since the results were tallied in the September primary.

Now, the expected entrance of Miller as a candidate has whet his appetite even more for another bid.

In this scenario, McGlone would probably buy that house in Weymouth and then take on both Mariano and Miller. Hopefully for him, he would be the lone Weymouth Democrat in the race and benefit by Mariano and Miller splitting the Quincy vote.

Miller, who made his political bow as a candidate for City Council at-large in this month's city election would have to be reckoned with.

He finished fifth in the at-large race with a vote of 5,422. This was 1,428 behind fourth placer and political veteran Joseph LaRaia.

Miller, who lives in Quincy Point and who had no trouble financing his campaign with advertising and signs would certainly be a factor as a candidate in the Third Norfolk District.

McGlone has a decision to make. He is also considering challenging Republican State Senator Robert Hedlund of Weymouth. Will he take on Hedlund or have a rematch with Mariano?

McGlone obviously is going to do one or the other. Last Friday night he hosted a "thank you" party at the Weymouth Elks for those who helped him in the special election. Among the invited: Quincy Democrats.

MARIANO'S ELECTION as state representative raises an obvious question: will he give up his Quincy School Committee seat or serve dually?

He indicates to friends that he will hold onto the seat for a while at least. He feels obligated to remain and have a voice in the selection of a successor to School Supt. Robert Ricci.

Ricci is stepping down effective the end of January. The search process for his successor has hardly begun. So it could be a while before Mariano would vacate the seat. And, he doesn't have to vacate it. Mary Collins, for example, is serving as both School Committee-woman and Norfolk County Commissioner.

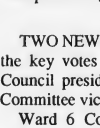

MARIANO

Now, if Mariano gives up the seat, who will get to fill it?

Past practice has been for the School Committee and City Council to convene in joint session to fill a vacancy from among a number of candidates.

But there is a growing feeling that the fair way would be to have the runner-up in the most recent election be selected. In this case it would be Margaret "Peggy" King who finished fourth 1,052 behind third place winner Linda Stice.

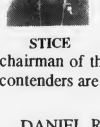

Giving the seat to the runner-up would take some of the politicking out of filling such vacancies.

AYERS

TWO NEWCOMERS MAY Hold the key votes in deciding the City Council presidency and the School Committee vice chairmanship.

Ward 6 Councillor-elect Bruce Ayers might be the swing vote as to whether Ward 5's Charles Chelien or Councillor at-large Michael Phelan gets to bang the gavel for the next year.

STICE

And, Linda Stice may find herself casting the deciding vote for vice chairman of the School Committee. The two strong contenders are Mary Collins and Ron Mariano.

DANIEL RAYMONDI, who topped the Quincy School Committee six-candidate field is gearing up for another election.

Raymond is a candidate for Democratic State Committeeman in the Norfolk District which comprises Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook and Avon. The seat is being vacated by Robert Gibbons of Quincy for business reasons.

Raymond has been chairman of the Quincy City Democratic Committee for 16 years and a member for 20.

The Democratic and Republican state committee elections will be held with the Presidential primaries next March.

JOSEPH LaRAIA was seriously considering seeking a recount in the City Council at-large race but apparently changed his mind.

He took out papers for the recount but did not file them by last Friday's deadline.

It would have been virtually impossible to change the outcome. LaRaia finished fourth with a vote of 6,850—some 1,191 votes behind third place winner Patricia Toland.

Which is a far cry from the famous recount of 1975 which gave LaRaia the mayor's office. Election day results showed incumbent Walter Hannon had defeated LaRaia by 134 votes. But a recount said LaRaia was the actual winner by 483 votes.

There were paper ballots back then and they were hand counted. Now the ballots are punchcards and they are counted by computers. Little chance for error.

By the way, if LaRaia had pursued the recount this year, it would have cost an estimated $6,000 to $8,000 and taken a couple of days to complete it.

1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169.

Nominations should be postmarked not later than Dec. 28.

Nominations can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 28.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely or his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 28.

The name of the winner will be announced in the Quincy Sun in January.

Here is an opportunity for you to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1991.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Mayor Hopeful Ross Pledges Clean Reign

City Council President Charles A. Ross, one of five candidates for mayor of Quincy, promised a candidates night audience at Finnish Temperance Hall that he would give the city "a clean business administration."

"But I cannot promise you a lower tax rate," he said, noting that it had reached $27.60. "I know the financial condition of the city of Quincy only too well."

Meanwhile, William W. Macdougall, campaign manager for Forrest Neal, complained of the "prize fight" atmosphere surrounding a candidates night at the Wollaston Improvement Association.

Nov. 20-26

"I personally want to enter my protest against the growing custom in Quincy of treating candidates for public office as if they were the prize buffoons of a vaudeville circuit," he said.

Councillor Thomas J. McGrath won the draw for top spot on the mayoral ballot. The other candidates were John D. Mackay and former Mayor Joseph L. Whiton, who held that office from 1917 to 1920.

A Fresh Approach To Ward 6 Issues

Editor, The Quincy Sun: Well, Campaign '91 is finally over and in the history books. For Ward 6 here in North Quincy and Squantum, it saw the emergence of a political newcomer Bruce Ayers who came across as a man on a mission.

When Ayers announced earlier this year his campaign for Ward 6 city councilor, many folks thought he was a nice young kid but not strong enough to beat both the incumbent ward councilor or the previous ward councilor. But Ayers had other plans, which included winning both the preliminary and general elections by healthy victory margins.

Ayers won his campaign the old-fashioned way, with a lot of hard work and a good support group behind him. He knocked on nearly every door in the ward, sometimes more than once. He listened to people and articulated their concerns. His was a positive campaign. He told us why he wanted to be our voice and vote at City Hall and he never downgraded either of his worthy opponents.

Hopefully, Ayers will be as good a city councilor as he was a council candidate. I urge Bruce to just keep on doing what he did throughout the 1991 campaign season. People want a city councilor who knows them and understands the real issues facing this end of Quincy.

It was time for a fresh approach to the growing issues affecting the ward. Historically, the northern end of Quincy has been the first stop for many on their way out of Boston. During the mid-70's, it was Irish-Americans crossing the Neponset bridge and during the late 80's, it was Asian-Americans doing likewise. There is a lot of cultural shock taking place as people started learning more about each other. We are a decent community and the newest arrivals can only strengthen the sub-neighborhoods that make up North Quincy.

City Councilor-elect Bruce Ayers' job will not be easy because of the diversity of Ward 6. He will certainly have much to do representing his wide-ranging constituencies.

I have faith in Bruce. I like his style and candor. He wants to do his best and, surely, he will. It was time for a change, time for a new brand of activist leadership. Time for consensus leadership. Together all of us can make a difference and North Quincy will be the better for it.

Two Dessert Delights For The Holidays

We didn't think we could eat another bite of food the last time we met at our monthly club group. In the first place, we begin by enjoying various appetizers prior to our going to a restaurant selected by the host and hostess. Then we head back to their home for dessert!

None of us resisted the not one, but two scrumptious desserts prepared by Marge. Both are going to be great, especially for the holidays. The first one is called chocolate delight and feeds 15. The second is the most delicious bread pudding called custardy raisin bread pudding.

CHOCOLATE DELIGHT

3/4 cup margarine (melted)
3/4 cup chopped nuts
1 cup powdered sugar
1 package instant vanilla pudding
1 package instant chocolate pudding
3 cups milk
1 1/2 cups flour
1-8 oz package cream cheese (softened)
1 large container whipped topping grated chocolate

Prepare the two puddings together with the 3 cups milk. Beat until done. Set aside. Combine flour, butter and walnuts. Press into a 13 x 9 x 2 pan. Bake in a 375 degree oven for 15 minutes. Cool. Combine the cream cheese, powdered sugar and 1 1/2 cups of whipped topping. Blend and spread over the crust and chill. Then spread the pudding over the cream cheese layer. Place remaining whipped topping over the pudding layers. Garnish with more chopped walnuts and grated chocolate. Refrigerate and cut in squares when ready to serve. Feeds 15.

CUSTARDY RAISIN BREAD PUDDING

4 slices raisin bread
1 Tbsp butter or margerine
1/2 cup sugar
1 tsp vanilla
2 cups scalded milk.
1/4 tsp salt
4 eggs beaten lightly ground nutmeg

Soak bread in scalded milk for five minutes. Add the butter, salt, sugar, eggs and vanilla and mix well. Pour into greased 1 quart casserole dish. Sprinkle with nutmeg. Place in pan of hot water in oven and bake in a 350 degree oven for 40 minutes or until center is firm. Serve warm with ice cream or whipped cream or just by itself, all are equally delicious. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

French Linguistic Attache' Visits Quincy High School

Quincy High School recently welcome a distinguished visitor to the school, Laurent Valliere, linguistic attache' of the Boston-based French Consulate.

Valiere arranged to visit the school through Nancy Milner Kelly, vice president of Massachusetts Foreign Language Association and a French teacher at QHS. He met with French teachers Kelly and Maureen Flaherty, as well as with Foreign Language Department head Joanne Tribulauskas and Assistant Principal George Yezukevich.

The purpose of the visit was to interview educators as to how the consulate and its subsidiary, the French Cultural Services, can best serve the needs of area French teachers and their schools. In addition, Valiere furnished Quincy High School with information regarding the latest pedagogical materials available from the French government. Resources include not only videotapes, films and realia, but also software for use in a computer link with high school students in France.

Quincy High's foreign language department is most pleased to have been interviewed by this representative of the French Consulate regarding learning materials and to be the recipient of an increased network and support services for its students.

Central Students Teaching Classmates About Energy

Four central Middle School students and their teacher recently attended the NEED (National Energy Education Development) conference held at the Northeastern University campus located in Ashland.

The NEED project was sponsored by Massachusetts Electric, which already has a school partnership with Central.

The conference was attended by four students and one teacher from 10 schools in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire. The Quincy contingent consisted of Kristen Fluhr, Maryann Ashworth, Tom Gildea and Michael O'Brien, as well as their teacher, Ken Panaro.

Over the course of three days and two nights the students and teachers interacted in a series of learning activities concerning energy and recycling. The aim of the conference was to educate the teams so they in turn could educate their fellow students and teachers.

The training, which was under the supervision of NEED's expert representatives from Washington, D.C., was given in the form of skits, songs, games, and the occasional short lecture.

The Central team is now in the process of teaching three other teams what they learned at the conference. Later in the year, Central will hold an Energy Fair where the teams will teach their entire eighth grade about the forms of renewable and non-renewable energy and the pros and cons of recycling.

NEW HOPE FOR BLOCKED ARTERIES

Nearly a half a million Americans every year have operations to open clogged arteries. Common procedures are by-passes, in which vessels are implanted to allow blood flow around blockages, and angioplasties, in which small balloons are inserted and inflated into blocked arteries to force them open. One discouraging aspect of such operations has been that up to 40 percent of them fail when the repaired vessels develop new blockages. Hopes for slashing that percentage have been raised recently, however, by University of Washington scientists who have used an antibody extracted from goats to keep arteries clear in rats that underwent angioplasties. The research is based on the hypothesis that a natural substance called platelet-derived growth factor (PDGF) may play a role in the new blockages that develop inside the repaired arteries.

P.S. Some 600,000 Americans die of heart attacks every year, and 160,000 of them are below 65 years old.

Recent developments in cardiology give hope to many patients suffering from heart ailments. I am a former hospital staff Cardiologist, and now I specialize in treating heart patients in my private practice. In our office, we place strong emphasis on the total care of the patient, rather than just the treatment of a disease. We invite you to call us for a consultation. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. Phone 472-2550. We wish you a happy and healthy Thanksgiving.

THAT BEAUTIFUL LEVERAGE

QUESTION: What is meant by the word "leverage" when used in conjunction with investing in real estate?

ANSWER: Leverage arises because ALL of the income and ALL of the appreciation belongs to the property holder regardless of the amount of the loan. To illustrate, assume a $100,000 property was purchased for only $10,000 cash and a $90,000 mortgage loan. Five years later, the same property is sold for $150,000 (a 50% gain in value). After paying off the $90,000 mortgage, the investor would realize, not a 50% gain, but rather a 500% gain on his initial cash investment because he only invested $10,000 for the property. That's leverage!

LEVERAGE is the key to multiplying profits from real estate.

Rape Prevention

Precautions In The Car, Bus Subway; Self-Defense Techniques

(This the third and final article in a three-part series on rape prevention.)

Precautions In The Car

•Park your car in a well-lit spot. Keep the doors locked at all times, including when you are a passenger.

•Always carry a road flare to signal that you are having car trouble. The flare should be outside the car, not you.

•If you have car trouble and have to pull over, keep your doors locked and windows up. If no one is nearby, jump out, raise the hood and then get back into the car and lock the door. If someone stops and offers help, simply ask them to call the police for you; do not open the door.

•Do not stop to help a motorist. Think of your safety first, and be a good Samaritan by stopping at the nearest phone and notifying police.

•Separate your house and car keys when you leave your car for repairs.

•Do not label your keys with your name and address.

•If you believe you are being followed by another car, don't pull into your driveway. Drive straight to the nearest police station or fire station and honk your horn until someone comes out. Do not leave your car until you are sure that it is safe.

Precautions On The Bus Or Subway

•While waiting for the subway alone and the station is deserted, keep your back against a wall in a well-lighted area.

•Stand near the change booth or near a group of people. Do not wander off by yourself.

•Select a seat with other women or near the driver. Select a seat that is near an emergency button.

•If you are bothered by someone on the bus or subway, don't get off at your normal stop unless it is well-lighted and populated. Inform the driver of the problem.

•If you have neither your own car nor a companion, especially at night, take a taxi rather than public transportation. Weigh the expense against the safety factor.

Self-Defense Techniques

•Some weapons, such as guns, are illegal without a permit. There are many other items that can be used as weapons. "Mace" works most of the time. A resident can get a permit to carry "Mace" at the Quincy Police Department. The cost is $2.00. Other items that can be used as weapons are fingernail files, hair spray (sprayed into the attacker's face), keys, an umbrella, a handbag can be thrust into an attacker's face.

•Do not rely on karate or judo unless you are an expert.

•The object of using a weapon is not to subdue the attacker, but to temporarily distract him so that you can escape and attract attention.

If you have any questions, contact Crime Prevention Officer Bob Hanna at 479-1212 ext. 117

Don Bosco High School

Entrance Exam Dec. 14

Don Bosco Technical High School, 300 Tremont St., Boston, will conduct an entrance examination Saturday, Dec. 14 at 8:30 a.m. The exam will be the same as the Archdiocesan exam to be held that day at various locations.

The school will also be one of only five sites where the mechanical aptitude test will be offered after the exam. Marks for both the exam and the test will be sent to the school of the students' choice.

The make-up day will be Dec. 21 at 8:30 a.m. On that day, there will also be a mechanical aptitude test for those who took the exam at a school which did not offer it.

For information on the exam, test and other inquiries about the school, call Dave Murray, director of admissions, at 426-9457 ext. 144.

Too Many Restaurants? Hearing On Restaurant License Request Continued

The City License Board is stuck in the middle of a controversy involving new and existing restaurants.

Teresa and Francesco Cortina would like to open a new restaurant called "The Sandwich Court" at 33 Cottage Ave. in Quincy Center.

However, Eileen Cohen, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, told the License Board and the Cortina's that the new eatery may not be welcome.

"The general feeling of the association (QCBPA) is that there are too many restaurants in the downtown already," Cohen said.

Board member Matt Mulvey said that too much competition could be harmful to all the restaurants.

"This is America," said board chairman John Gillis, "and if someone wants to invest money in downtown Quincy I think they should have a chance."

Francesco Cortina said he was confident that the quality of his food would make The Sandwich Court a success.

"You take a risk in this business. Some make it... some don't," Cortina said. He told the board his menu would feature items such as pasta, veal parmesan, chicken cutlet, and tuna and chicken salad. Operating hours would be 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"I don't like vacant storefronts," Gillis added. The location is presently vacant. It had been a newspaper distributorship office for many years and was recently used as a campaign headquarters for unsuccessful State Rep. candidate Jack McGlone.

Cohen asked the Cortina's to attend the QCBPA's next meeting Dec. 4 to present their proposal to local businessmen.

Montilio's Bakery, located across the street at the corner of Cottage Ave. and Chestnut St., recently moved to Adams St., creating another vacant store. Montilio's also featured breakfast and lunch.

Another neighboring restaurant, Kelly's In The Square, 15 Cottage Ave., recently reopened after going out of business earlier this year.

The hearing regarding the request for a Common Victualer license has been continued until Dec. 10.

MAYOR JAMES SHEETS and John Bell (center), New England Telephone's Managing Director, recently signed a seven-year contract to modernize the city's phone system saving Quincy $450,000. Also participating in the signing were (from l to r), David Colton, Commissioner of Public Works; Robert Brennan, Director of Data Processing; Wendy Shore, NET Systems Analyst; and Mark Giacomuzzi, NET Account Executive.

Louis Pares Named To Newbury Dean's List

Louis Pares of Quincy has been named to Newbury College's dean's list for the summer semester.

A student must be taking nine or more credits and have a grade point average of 3.3 or better to appear on the dean's list. Pares is majoring in business.

Quincy Receives $12,224 For 1992 State Elections

The city has been allocated $12,224 from the state auditor's office to offset its increased costs for coverage of extended voting hours for next year's state primary and general elections.

According to Auditor A. Joseph DeNucci, it is the responsibility of the Auditor's Division of Local Mandate to ensure that cities and towns are reimbursed for any expenses incurred from legislative mandates. Under the polling law, communities must document their additional election costs to DLM for review and certification to the Secretary of State's office.

"A 1983 law setting standardized polling hours statewide from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. means that citizens of the Commonwealth will have additional time to vote. However, it also means that the cost of polling has increased for cities and towns," DeNucci said.

In all, $887,713 has been certified for distribution. The funding will be released prior to the 1992 September primary and the November general election.

Catholics, Protestants Join For Ecumenical Thanksgiving Service At Point Congregational

Members and friends of St. Joseph's Catholic Church and Quincy Point Congregational Church will gather for their traditional, ecumenical Thanksgiving service Tuesday, Nov. 26 at 7:30 p.m.

This year, the service takes place at the Quincy Point Congregational Church, Washington St. and Southern Artery, where there is off-street and neighborhood parking. The service will be followed by a fellowship hour in the social hall.

The ecumenical service will be conducted by the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon of the Quincy Point Congregational Church and by Fr. Daniel Graham, pastor, and Deacon John Jeanette of St. Joseph's Church.

They will be assisted by Deacons Don Hunter and Susan Mahan of the host church.

Organist and choir director for the service will be Dr. Herman Weiss of the Quincy Point Congregational Church. He will play "Chorale Prelude" by Brahms and

"La Tromba" by Couperin. Donna Baione, alto soloist, will sing "Pilgrim on Earth" by Wolf. The combined choirs of the two churches will sing "Praise Ye the Lord!" by Franck.

The clergy of the two churches will announce the 1991 recipient of the "Community Service Award" which is presented in recognition of outstanding service to the Quincy Point neighborhood and to the City of Quincy.

All residents of Quincy and the South Shore are cordially invited to attend and to participate in this ecumenical service.

Thanksgiving Play At Houghs Neck Congregational

The Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave., will celebrate Thanksgiving Sunday with a special program during both services of worship.

A play, "The Thanksgiving Story," will be performed by the Sunday school department under the direction of Gloria Brummitt, superintendent, and teachers.

The early childhood department will perform at the 9 a.m. service and the intermediate and middle high departments at the 10:30 a.m. service. The readers at both performances will be Domenic Catrambone and Michael Freel. The children will be in pilgrim costumes made by Ada Freeman and Hugh Christie and in Indian costumes made by members of the intermediate and middle high groups. The congregation will be invited to participate in the responsive singing.

Rev. M. Alicia Corea will deliver the sermon and play the organ at the 9 a.m. service. Diaconate members serving will be Paula Younie and Miriam Coombs. Greeter will be Carol Hallett.

At the 10:30 a.m. service Dr. Peter V. Corea will deliver the sermon with Margaret McDonald and Martin Gordon, diaconate members, serving.

The choir, under the direction of organist Arden Schofield, will sing, and the trio of Gayle Mackay, Christine Prendergast, and Dorothy Sparks will sing an offertory hymn. Greeter will be Rod Hicks. Junior deacon, Robert Gordon, will read the Scripture at both services. The message of both ministers will be on "The Thankful Heart."

Between the services a coffee hour will be hosted by Marion Nelson in the conference room. The hospitality and membership enlistment committee will hold a sale of desserts to take home for Sunday dinner. Proceeds will help fund their work, programs and events.

Sunday at 7 p.m. the church choir will combine with five other peninsula churches at the 16th annual ecumenical Thanksgiving service at St. Boniface Church in Germantown. Arden Schofield will be director and organist.

Thanksgiving Dinner At Central Baptist Center

A Thanksgiving community dinner will be held Thursday, Nov. 28 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Central Baptist Community Center, McGrath Highway and Washington St. The event is being sponsored by the Quincy Interfaith Sheltering Coalition.

Admission is free and all are welcome.

St. Joseph Parish Informal Meeting Tonight

St. Joseph Parish, 22 Pray St., Quincy Point will host an informal meeting tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. at the rectory.

The meeting is for any adult(s) that may be interested in becoming a Catholic, receiving the sacrament of Confirmation or First Communion.

Refreshments will follow the meeting.

Ecumenical Service At St. Boniface

The 16th annual ecumenical Thanksgiving worship service will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at St. Boniface Church in Germantown.

The event is sponsored by six peninsula churches: St. Boniface Church, Our Lady of Good Counsel Church, Quincy Community United Methodist Church, Bethel Nazarene Church, Most Blessed Sacrament Church, and Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

The Thanksgiving

message will be given by Fr. English of Most Blessed Sacrament Church in Houghs Neck. Clergy of all the other churches will participate in the worship service. The combined choirs of all the churches will sing special music under the direction of Arden T. Schofield, organist of the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

The sponsoring churches unanimously agreed to donate the offering to the Protestant Social Service Bureau (PSSB) for its work in feeding people of all denominations, for its counseling and adoption programs, and for its promoting of the ecumenical AIDS healing prayer service.

Following the service a fellowship hour will be held next door at the Snug Harbor School cafeteria. Anyone who can do so is asked to bring some finger food which will be accepted at the church upon arrival. All are invited to attend.

Thanksgiving Sunday At First Parish

This Sunday United First Parish Church, Unitarian Universalist, will celebrate Thanksgiving during the 10:30 a.m. worship service.

There will be an ingathering of vegetables and foods for families in need. The children will bake bread and pass it out to parishioners at the end of the service.

The congregational will sing traditional Thanksgiving hymns, and Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will give the sermon titled "In Everything Give Thanks."

Guest instrumentalist David Cross will play solos from the clarinet concerto by Saint-Saens. Norman Corey, music director, will play organ selections by Couperin and Dupre.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Janet Gorman and Matt Malloy will usher.

The "Understanding the Bible from a Liberal Religious Viewpoint" discussion series will continue Sunday evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the church. This Sunday's discussion, the second of a six-part series led by Dr. Bennett, will be on the themes of creation and liberation in the Books of Genesis and Exodus. Future dates will be Dec. 8, Jan. 12 and 26, and Feb. 9.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. The church school will meet, Brenda Chin, director, and child care is provided. For more information call 773-1290.

First Church Of Christ Thanksgiving Day Service

First Church of Christ, Scientist, 20 Greenleaf St., will hold its Thanksgiving Day service Thursday, Nov. 28 at 10:30 a.m.

The community is invited to attend. There will be no collection, and child care is provided.

The special service will include readings from the King James Version of the Bible and from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. There will also be spontaneous sharing of the spiritual healing that has come to individual Christian Scientists from the practice of this religion.

One selection to be read at the Thanksgiving service from the Book of John in the New Testament illustrates Jesus' healing of disease.

While objective study of such religious healing is rare, the Christian Science Church continues to document healings of disease when prayer has been the chosen method of treatment. Recently the church has over 10,000 healings published during the last 20 years in the church's periodicals. A significant percentage involved serious, medically diagnosed conditions.

Christian Science was founded by Mrs. Eddy in Boston in 1879. Its proclaimed purpose is to return to Christian practice the importance of healing in daily living as evidence of God's love for man.

Family Worship Sunday At Bethany

The Rev. Roger Ketcham, pastor of Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center, will conduct a family worship service Sunday at 10 a.m.

His sermon is entitled "Freedom's Holy Light."

Music by the Chancel Choir will be directed by Gregory Flynn, organist. Scripture reader will be Fairlie Kinnecom. Worship greeters will be Mildred Rickson and Betty Stevens.

There will be an ingathering of foods to be given to the Protestant Social Service Bureau for their Pantry Shelf. Children of the church school will attend the service with their parents. During the service Rev. Ketcham will gather the children on the chancel steps for a children's story.

Following this they will go to their respective classrooms in the parish houses. Child care is provided for infants and toddlers. At 8:30 a.m. Sunday the weekly Bible study will be conducted by Rev. Ketcham in Room 3 of the parish house.

A unique spiritual experience for Bethany Church members and friends will take place on Sunday at 3 p.m. The service will mark the beginning of a new chapter in the life of Bethany Church, the installation of their newly called minister, the Rev. Roger Allen Ketcham.

In attendance will be delegations from sister churches in Quincy as well as churches in the Metropolitan Boston area of the United Church of Christ and from Rev. Ketcham's former pastorate as well as his family and friends.

The Rev. Charles H. Harper, associate conference minister in the Metropolitan Boston area for 19 years will conduct the installation. The Holy Scripture will be read by deacon James Ross, chairman of the Church Committee.

Other participants will include the Rev. William Siktberg of Kokomo, Indiana, who first suggested in 1970 that Rev. Ketcham consider attending seminary to focus his life and work; the Rev. Dr. Richard Wilcox; the Rev. Stanley Sizemore from Washington, Georgia; and the Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, co-pastor at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Special music will be provided by the Bethany Church chancel choir, directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and Don Boothman, international concert baritone. He was featured in a concert at New York's Carnegie Hall.

'When Jesus Is King' Sermon At Quincy United Methodist

"When Jesus Is King" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. at the 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Sunday worship service at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Sunday school will follow the pastor's Young Disciples message. Parishioners will bring forward to the altar gifts of food for the PSSB's pantry.

Carol Potter will serve as Scripture reader and Helen Burnham, Muriel Mellyn and Joanne Nolan will be the greeters. Helen MacDonald and Anthony Krystynick will be the ushers. At the fellowship hour Grace Shields, Millie McHugh, Frances Blair and Janet Shields will be the hostesses.

Church facilities are handicapped accessible and nursery care is provided. Sunday evening at 7 p.m. the junior high youth fellowship meets as does the prayer circle. Parishioners will also share in an ecumenical Thanksgiving service at St. Boniface Church, 26 Shed St.

Other events for the week include: Open recreation at the church gym at 7 p.m. and the finance committee meets at 7:30 p.m. Monday; the Christian Serenity Prayer Group meets at 7 p.m. and the trustees meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday; the United Methodist Youth Fellowship meets at 7 p.m. and church people and choir members will participate in the Inter-Church Council's ecumenical Thanksgiving eve service at Eastern Nazarene Church, Wollaston.

Judgement Sunday At Covenant Congregational

Judgement Sunday will be observed at the 10:45 a.m. worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

This Sunday also recognizes the sovereignty of Christ. Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will preach. Her sermon will be "Who Is King?" The World Relief offerings will also be received.

Richard Smith, minister of music, will direct and accompany the choir on both organ and piano. The choir will sing an introit and two anthems. Smith will play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday school, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age four and younger. The attendant will be Don Johnson.

Activities for the week are: Bible study

Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Florence Anderson; choir rehearsal Thursday at 7 p.m.; a social meeting of the church council and new members Friday at 7 p.m. (followed by the regular monthly council meeting); Covenant Community Saturday at 9:30 a.m.; and the all church Thanksgiving dinner Sunday at 5 p.m. Following the dinner, there will be a service of Thanksgiving in the sanctuary.

Coming events include an all church decorating party Sunday, Dec. 1 at 4 p.m.; a Lucia Fest and Swedish brunch at 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Dec. 14; the Sunday school program and party Dec. 22; a candlelight Christmas Eve service at noon and a New Year's Eve potluck supper at the parsonage.

For more information about the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

'St. John's Gospel' At ENC Nov. 22

The communication arts department of Eastern Nazarene College will host Donald Woodbridge in his original presentation "St. John's Gospel," Friday, Nov. 22 at 7 p.m. in the Cove Fine Arts Center.

"St. John's Gospel," is a joyful, vivid musical interpretation of the gospel account featuring original music composed and performed by Woodbridge. He incorporates divergent musical styles ranging from reggae and opera to rap to creatively contemporize St. John's messages.

Woodbridge played the lead in such ENC productions as "My Fair Lady," "The Singer," "J.B.," and "The Tempest," as well as for his musical adaptation, "Revelation."

All seats are $3. The sequel to this performance, "Part II," will be performed Sunday, Nov. 24 at 6 p.m. at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

For tickets and information write St. John's Gospel, Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Quincy, MA 02170 or call the ENC communication arts department at 773-6350 ext. 262 or 269.

Thanksgiving Eve Mass At St. John's

The annual festive Thanksgiving eve Mass will be held Wednesday, Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at St. John the Baptist Church, 44 School St.

Fr. William McCarthy, pastor and principal celebrant, will concelebrate a special Mass of Thanksgiving with St. John's associate pastors, Fr. Francis Conroy, Fr. Richard Moran and Fr. Theodore Fortier.

This will be a parish-wide celebration for the Thanksgiving holiday. The liturgy, including an offertory procession and presentation of the fruits of the harvest, has been planned by the spiritual development commission. Special music will be provided by the choir and folk group.

The parish activities committee will host a social and reception in the lower church hall following the Mass. Come and share in the joy of Thanksgiving.

'The Final Proclamation' At Point Congregational

"Christ The King Sunday" will be observed Nov. 24 during the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy Point Congregational Church. This is the last Sunday of the season of Pentecost and, historically, the last Sunday of the church year.

The new church year will begin Sunday, Dec. 1, the first Sunday of Advent.

This Sunday the Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon will preach on "The Final Proclamation." Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will be liturgist for the first portion of the service and then be a guest teacher for the sixth grade of the church school, speaking on "The Meaning of Holy Communion."

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play. The Chancel Choir will sing. The acolyte for Sunday's service will be Michelle Hunter, a member of the 1992 Confirmation class.

Church school classes will also be held at 10 a.m. Classes are provided for nursery age through grade nine by experienced and trained teachers; infant care is provided each Sunday in the Crib Room. Church school superintendent is Debbie Tait.

Parents wanting to register their children in the church school may do so by calling 773-6424 or by talking to the superintendent Sunday mornings.

The church telecasts its Sunday services on Continental Cablevision, Ch. 3 Sundays at 8 a.m. and Wednesdays at 11 a.m.

The church also provides "The Daily Bible," a three-minute devotional tape recording, 24 hours a day, with a new message each day, received by telephoning 472-4434.

The church is located at Washington St. and Southern Artery. There is off-street parking, a chairlift to the sanctuary for the physically impaired, and an infrared hearing system for the hard of hearing, including those who wear hearing aids. For more information, call 773-6424, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

It has been said that success comes in cans; failure in can't! It has also been said that the secret of success lies in doing well what you can do and forgetting about the rest.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS OF SUCCESS:
WORK HARD: Hard work is the best investment a man can make.

STUDY HARD: Knowledge enables a man to work more intelligently and effectively.

HAVE INITIATIVE: Ruts often deepen into graves.

LOVE YOUR WORK: Then you will find pleasure in mastering it.

BE EXACT: Slipshod methods bring slipshod results.

HAVE THE SPIRIT OF CONQUEST: Then you can successfully battle and overcome difficulties.

CULTIVATE PERSONALITY: Personality is to a man what perfume is to the flower.

HELP AND SHARE WITH OTHERS: The real test of business greatness lies in giving opportunity to others.

BE DEMOCRATIC: Unless you feel right toward your fellow men, you can never be a successful leader of men.

IN ALL THINGS DO YOUR BEST: The man who has done his best has done everything. The man who has done less than his best has done nothing.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

"I don't know what to say . . ."

Does knowing the "proper" thing to say keep you from going to a wake or funeral? It shouldn't!

Your appearance can be a support and expression of love to the bereaved. Words you express as you embrace or extend your hand can add feelings of warmth and concern — words aren't as important as your "just being there."

Try practicing what you wish to say beforehand, when you are alone. Sometimes just hearing yourself say the words out loud makes them easier to express to others.

Baptism At

Squantum First Church

There was a baptism Sunday morning at the First Church of Squantum during the morning worship service. Rebecca Stanton Zaebring, the daughter of Craig Zaebring and Cynthia Stanton, was baptized by the Rev. Alicia Hagerman, the former pastor of the Church of Covenant in Boston.

The pastor of the Squantum church, the Rev. Gene Langevin, preached on the subject "Christian Nurture." The call to worship was read by David Dykens and Amy Harper. The Scripture lessons were read by Patti Langevin-Hurd and Tom Williamson.

The Chancel Choir sang "See This Wonder In The Making" to a Swedish folk tune. The music was arranged by Jaroslav J. Vajda. Dore Klock, Leif Thornton, Emily Zaebring and Vanessa Zaebring were the soloists. Violinist James E. Sumner accompanied. Pianist Janet Williamson and organist Mary Ruth Scott.

Greeters were Cliff and Shirley Mason. Ushers were Katrina Sorrentino and Matthew Chetwynd. The fellowship hour after the service was hosted by Gretchen Bumpus and Janet Sumner.

The Bible study group meets Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. to study The Acts of the Apostles. Meetings of The Way Up for teenagers are scheduled throughout the week including three meetings Sunday at 2, 4, and 5:30 p.m.

Sunday school starts at 9:30 a.m. The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. A nursery for infants and child care for children through the eighth grade are available.

Fire Alert

by WILLIAM ARIENTI
Quincy Firefighters Local 792

Fire Extinguishers

It's five o'clock in the afternoon and you are checking a roast in the oven, while a pot of water is boiling on top of the stove.

Suddenly the phone rings, you shut the oven, put the pot holder on the counter, and answer the phone. As you are talking you notice the pot holder you dropped on the counter was too close to the burner on the stove and has caught fire next to your window curtains. This could be the beginning of a serious fire, unless you have prepared for this type of emergency by having a fire extinguisher somewhere in the kitchen.

Fire extinguishers can quickly put an end to a small fire, and limit damage to a minimum. Although they only contain a small amount of extinguishing agent, this may be all you need to control a fire in its early stages. As useful as the extinguishers are, they do not take the place of a trained fire department. Even if the fire is out, you should call the fire department to remove any smoke in the building, or check for fire extension in the walls.

There are three types of fires fire extinguishers can handle. Each type of fire is identified by a letter. For example, type "A" extinguishers are marked with a green triangle and handle wood, paper, and other basic combustible fires. Type "B" extinguishers are marked with a red square, and are used to extinguish flammable liquid fires. Type "C" extinguishers are marked with a blue circle and are effective in fighting charged electrical fires. When shopping for a fire extinguisher look for one which handles type A, B and C fires.

When using an extinguisher, remember it's only good for a minor fire. If you feel the fire may quickly get out of control, do not attempt to fight the fire with the extinguisher, it will not be effective, and may put you in more danger by staying in the house. When you do use the extinguisher on a controllable fire remember these 6 steps: 1. Call 911 and ask for the fire department; 2. Pull the pin which frees the handle of the extinguisher; 3. Point the nozzle of the extinguisher towards the base of the fire; 4. Pull the trigger on the extinguisher and spray the extinguishing agent; 5. Use a sweeping motion at the base of the fire; 6. Leave the house, there will still be toxic gasses from the fire in the house which the fire department will remove.

As always in any fire, make sure everyone is out of the house by using a pre-arranged escape plan, which is next week's topic.

Scarborough Chamber Players At United First Parish Dec. 1

David Alpher, internationally renowned composer/pianist, and Robert J. Lurtsema, host of WGBH's "Morning Pro Musica" will join the Scarborough Chamber Players as part of the 1991-92 multi-cultural series.

The event will take place Sunday, Dec. 1 at 3 p.m. (after the annual Christmas Parade) at the United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

The program, a mixture of chamber music, slides, prose, and jazz-influenced classical music, will appeal to "children" of all ages. Scarborough, recently honored by an educational grant from the Massachusetts Cultural Council for multi-cultural in-school programs, is made up of artists who have made compact disc recordings, toured as far away as the Orient, and are major contributors to Massachusetts' cultural

ROBERT LURTSEMA diversity.

Performing artists in this program are Virginia Sindelar, flute/artistic director; Mark Smith, viola; Andy Mark, cello; David Alpher, piano/composer; and Robert J. Lurtsema, narrator/composer.

The program features two of Alpher's multimedia works: "The Walrus & the Carpenter," using text of Lewis Carroll, and "Las Meninas: Variations," using slides of Picasso and Velasquez paintings of Las Meninas.

Lurtsema was inspired to write "Jabberwocky" after Alpher composed "Walrus" and Seymour Barab composed "Alice, A Cabaret." Both wrote these pieces to Lewis Carroll texts specifically for him to narrate.

Also on the program is Alpher's "Las Meninas: Variation" for piano and slides, a work for solo piano, and Duo for Viola & Cello by Rebecca Clarke, late 19th century Massachusetts composer. Adding background to the music, both Alpher and Lurtsema will speak on Lewis Carroll, composing and why multi-media attracts their artistic attention.

Other programs planned for the 1991-92 series include performances by soprano Anna Soranno, a member of the Scarborough Chamber Players, Gospel music by "Family" with director/composer Freda Battle and Andanzas, Songs of South America.

Getting Ready For Quincy

North Quincy Tumbles Taunton, 34-8

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team rebounded from a disappointing loss to Bridgewater-Raynham with an excellent two-way effort last Saturday as the Raiders walloped Taunton, 34-8, at Veterans Memorial Stadium to bring a 7-2 record into the Thanksgiving Day game.

"The kids really wanted this one because they wanted to give the winning game ball to Scott Prouty, who broke his neck in the Bridgewater-Raynham game," said coach Ken McPhee. "They came out with great intensity and scored twice early. They had a bit of a letdown but came back with a strong finish."

"We had a fine two-way game, passing and running well and playing excellent defense. We dominated the game and it was a fine way to get ready for Quincy."

| North Scoring |    |     |    |     |  |
|---------------|----|-----|----|-----|--|
|               | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |  |
| Murray        | 6  | 6   | 0  | 42  |  |
| Bellot        | 4  | 4   | 0  | 28  |  |
| Higgins       | 1  | 10  | 4  | 23  |  |
| Sinclair      | 4  | 0   | 0  | 24  |  |
| Licciardi     | 3  | 0   | 0  | 18  |  |
| Walsh         | 0  | 2   | 0  | 8   |  |
| O'Donnell     | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |  |
| Gott          | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |  |

Quarterback Mark Taylor was 8-for-16 for 180 yards and two touchdowns and the Raiders rushed for 272 yards for a total of 452 yards on offense, by far their best showing of the year.

Mark Sinclair carried seven times for 77 yards, Chris Murray carried five times for 54 yards and a touchdown and Matt Walsh had his best day, carrying four times for 53 yards, including a 34-yard run, and his first touchdown.

North held Taunton to 90 yards on the ground and 48 yards through the air on 5-for-9 passing. The Raiders did a good job of containing A.J. Viera, one of the top scorers in Eastern Mass., who rushed for 77 yards.

Late in the game with the reserves in action, Chris Galvin and Serge Belcastro ran well and sophomore Josh Gott scored a touchdown.

McPhee had good words for Walsh, Murray, Tony Licciardi, Desmond Bellot, Taylor, Mark Zych and Mark Kelleher for their all-around play. Dave Reinhart had a fine defensive game and Chris McCallum and Scott Kohler had fine games.

North scored the first time it had the ball as Mark Cocuzzo went for eight yards, Sinclair ran for 12 and 14 yards, Murray added 16 and Walsh scored from the nine. Liam Higgins kicked the first of his four extra points.

Taunton punted and North drove 62 yards for its second score. Taylor hit Kelleher for 27 yards and passed to Bellot for 25 yards and the score. Higgins again added the point.

Late in the first half Kelleher hit Licciardi, who outran the secondary and was all alone, for a 62-yard scoring pass and Higgins made it 21-0 at halftime.

Taunton came out strong in the second half and drove 70 yards after taking the kickoff. Viera did most of the running and then passed to Peter Higgins for the touchdown and Eric DeMoura passed to Higgins for the two-point conversion.

It was all North Quincy the rest of the way. Walsh ran for 34 yards to Taunton's 13 and Murray, shaking off several defenders, went the rest of the way for the score. North's try for two points failed.

The teams traded fumbles and North drove to its final score. Walsh's 14-yard run brought the ball to the two and Gott scored. Higgins finished off the scoring with his fourth extra point.

Galvin ran for 15 yards and 15 again and Belcastro rushed for four yards and 16 as time ran out.

North Jayvees Roll By Taunton, 35-18

By PETE ZOIA

The undefeated North Quincy Jayvees rolled by Taunton, 35-18.

North took a 21-0 lead in the first quarter. Dan Duncan passed to Brian Raftery for 21 yards to get the first score. Liam Higgins kicked his first of five conversion points.

Mark Sinclair added a 46-yard run to register the second touchdown. Holding Taunton at bay, Bill Skutul recovered a visitor fumble to set up Josh Gott who traveled 42 yards for the third North tally.

The visitors couldn't muster much of an attack at this time and kicked to the 50 yard stripe. Here Nathan Gott copied his brother and journeyed the 50 yards for the fourth Raider touchdown.

Taunton got on the scoreboard shortly after, coming from a sweep to the left for 70 yards by Sean Merrill. Their try for points after failed, making it 28-6 at halftime.

Co-Coaches Tom Carter and Pete Chrisom started to substitute freely after a second half drive, immediately on the receiving end of the kickoff, of 68 yards saw Jim Sapienza go into the end zone from six yards out. Here Taunton came life. Two scores followed. Darkness crept up quickly as the game came to an end.

There were some red highlights for the Red Raiders mentioned by the coaches. Justin Dilkes and Nick Mastrogiacommo made some great defensive hits.

"Our second defense had a few lapses that hurt us," said Coach Carter, "but we were pleased overall by their performance." Coach Chrisom commented on the surprise running of Sean Skahan, who had runs of 18 and 16 yards.

Saturday at 9 a.m. the annual doubleheader between the North and Quincy freshmen and junior varsity will be played at the stadium. Freshmen will play first, followed by the J.V.'s.

$10,000 Donated For New Seats At Stadium

The City Council Monday night accepted a gift of $10,000 from the Quincy School Athletics Contribution Committee for the purpose of defraying the cost of seats at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Committee member Frank Santoro, who presented the gift to the council, said "We (the committee) are the source through which the people of the city can buy seats at the stadium. And it's going very well. We already have over three sections sold."

Santoro said he wished to thank the "many people" who have contributed their time to the project, particularly Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The seats are currently selling for $25 apiece and $300 per row on a first come, first serve basis, said Santoro.

Councillor Michael Cheney praised the committee for their efforts, saying "You've done an outstanding job in selling the seats."

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan also had strong words of praise.

"It's been an enjoyable football season," said Phelan. "The seats look fantastic. Your committee has done a great job."

Santoro said anyone wishing to purchase a seat would probably still have time to have his or her name engraved on the plaque at the end of the seat's row before season's end. The first plaques should be installed in time for the Thanksgiving Day football game between North Quincy and Quincy High Schools.

Youth Hockey

Mite A's Win Two

The Quincy Youth Hockey Mite A team outskated Belmont, 3-2, and Wellesley, 5-3, in recent action.

In the come-from-behind win over Belmont, Quincy goalie

Ryan Kruegar made 21 saves after allowing two early goals.

Quincy cut the lead late in the first period on a goal by Brian Dooley assisted by Dom Papile and Kiva Tupe.

Dan Kennedy scored to tie it before the end of the period with assists by Scott Mattson and Tupe.

Mattson scored the game-winner with about two minutes left in the game assisted by Frank Currier.

McInnis. Tom Sullivan, Scott McDonald and Chris Griffin played aggressive defense.

Against Wellesley, Kruegar made 19 saves—many in the third period to pace the winners.

Kennedy, assisted by Dooley, scored Quincy's first goal in the opening period.

The Mite A's exploded for four second period goals. The first was by Mattson from Dooley and Kennedy, and the next by Dooley from Mattson. Kabilian scored two goals, both assisted by Goff and one by Althier.

The defense played very well in front of Kruegar. Defensemen Griffin, Currier, Tupe and Papile were outstanding and Sullivan, McDonald, McInnis, Murray and Cashins also played well defensively.

Colonial Federal Unbeaten

Colonial Federal remained unbeaten and Keohane's team over second place in the Quincy Youth Hockey Pee Wee House League.

Colonial Federal pounded Marina Bay Taxi, 9-2. Billy Graney scored three goals and Dan DiPaolo had two goals and an assist to pace the attack.

Chris Knox, Scott Shepherd, Chris Geary and Ken O'Connell also scored. Joe Bracken had three assists, Bill Barron two, and Knox and Jan Haddad one each.

Mark Glynn and Carlos Ashmanskas scored for Marina Bay.

Keohane's edged New England Deli, 5-4, as Andre Nagy scored two goals and Jeff Spear had three assists.

Mike Balducci, John Masone and Dan Stock each tallied a goal and Lucas Chenette, Justin Whitman and Mike O'Brien had assists for Keohane's.

Dave Rowell and Rich Perona each had a goal and an assist for New England Deli. Brad Macauley and Tim Hunter both scored goals and Rich Delisle and Brian Gates had assists.

The Standings: Colonial Federal, 5-0-1; Keohane's, 3-3; Marina Bay Taxi, 2-4; New England Deli, 1-4-1.

In 1952, Bill Mosienko of the hockey team, the Chicago Black Hawks, scored an amazing three goals in just 21 seconds.

Manganaro Named Hockey East 'Rookie Of The Week'

Sal Manganaro of Quincy was named Hockey East Rookie of the Week for Nov. 4-10.

SAL MANGANARO

was a New England Prep School all-star while at Worcester Academy.

He is the son of Salvatore and Claire Manganaro of 84 Faxon Road.

Manganaro, a freshman right wing for Boston College, scored the game winning goal in the Eagles' 3-1 league-opening win at Merrimack College.

The former North Quincy Red Raider star scored his second college goal in BC's 7-4 loss to RPI and played well in a 4-0 loss to Maine, the top-ranked team in the country.

Manganaro has played in all of the Eagles' games this season. Last year he

McAllister Team

Regains St. John's Lead

Bud McAllister's team has moved back into first place in St. John's Holy Name Bowling League with a 41-23 record.

The rest of the standings: Joe Matarazzo, 38-26; John Grande, 35-29; Aldo Saluti, 33-31; Jim Mastrantonio, 25-39; Karl Vonhartenstein, 20-44.

Grande rolled the weekly high single of 115 and Joe Zaccheo had 113. Grande also had the high three of 326.

Saluti's team had the high team single of 376, and Grande and Mastrantonio had 370. Grande had the high team three of 1088 and Saluti had 1075.

The Top Ten: Grande, 103.25; Bob Saluti, 103.17; Don Gilliland, 96.29; Dave Nolan, 96.13; Mastrantonio, 95.83; Mike Hart, 94.75; Matarazzo, 94.08; Rich Warner, 93.76; Art DiTullio, 92.79; Zaccheo, 92.67.

Hope To Rebound For North

Injured Quincy Falls to Barnstable, 22-7

A battered Quincy football team saw its six-game win streak come to an end last week when it lost to Barnstable, 22-7, and coach Jack Raymer hopes his injured players will be back for the Thanksgiving classic.

The Presidents (6-3) went into the Barnstable game with five players, including hard-running fullback Jason Anderson, out of the lineup and quarterback Pat Gallagher, having an outstanding year, sat out nearly a half because of an injury just before halftime.

"We had a lot of players out, but it was turnovers that killed us," Raymer said. "We turned the ball over six times, twice on bad snaps from center, three times on fumbles and once on an interception.

"When Gallagher was hurt, I had to move center Gary Collins to quarterback and he did a good job. I was forced to put a boy at center who never played the position, as my backup center was in the hospital. All in all, the boys did their best but things just fell apart after we had scored first."

Quincy scored first on a pass to Chris Walker, but the first bad pass from center gave Barnstable the ball on Quincy's 10 and the Raiders tied the score. After that things went badly for Quincy.

| Crespi    | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |

While Gallagher was in there he was 7-for-13 for 144 yards. Noel DiBona carried 15 times for 58 yards and Dave Bogan had a fine day with 52 yards on six carries. Walker had three receptions for 93 yards and Robbie Kane had two for 52 yards.

Kane had more than 120 yards on punt and kickoff returns.

The defense was outstanding in the first half holding Barnstable to 44 yards rushing and no yards passing.

Defensively Mike Kavanaugh had another fine day with 12 tackles, Scott MacPherson had five tackles, an interception and a fumble recovery, and Jason Eleuteri had four tackles. Mark Zaborowski played an excellent game.

Walker scored his 11th touchdown with his 10th touchdown pass reception to give Quincy the early lead. DiBona kicked his 18th extra point of the season.

Following a bad pass from center, John Rogers scored for Barnstable and also kicked the tying point.

In the third quarter Wesley Philamar scored on a three-yard run and Darryl Taylor rushed for the two-point conversion.

Barnstable completed the scoring in the final quarter on a five-yard run by Rogers and Rose's kick.

Volleyball

North Girls Capture Second State Crown

The North Quincy girls' volleyball team won its second state championship last Saturday with a surprisingly easy 3-0 (15-1, 15-2, 15-9) victory over Dracut.

The North girls finished at 20-2, one of the losses being to Dracut, 2-0, early in the season. Dracut went into the championship game with a 23-1 record.

Jim Rendle's North team thus achieved all four of its objectives this season. The girls first qualified for the state tournament, then won their first Old Colony League title and defeated Quincy twice.

North was awesome in breezing past Dracut in the first two games.

"Our loss to Dracut didn't count," said Rendle.

"This was the big match, this was the one that counted. From the very beginning we were planning on being here to play our best game of the season, and it was."

Rendle's daughter, Heather, slammed home the winning kill in the final game. When North last won the state crown it was Rendle's older daughter, Holly, now a standout at Colgate University, who registered the winning point.

Senior captain Brenda Hayduk once again controlled the offensive, setting up several power kills by senior Regina Murphy and sophomore Maureen McCarthy.

McCarthy and Murphy, the main hitters along the net, sparked the blowouts in the first two games with overpowering kills. It was Hayduk who pulled the team together for the final surge after Dracut had taken a 2-0 lead in the final game.

In the semifinal match North rolled over Milford, 3-0, (15-5, 15-7, 15-9).

"The girls looked good tonight and played intelligent volleyball," said Rendle. "I think we are one of the stronger offensive teams and there weren't many unforced errors."

North displayed solid defense, fine passing and accurate serving in earning the showdown against Dracut.

North raced out to a 6-1 lead in the first game behind the solid serving of McCarthy (seven kills) and the passing of Murphy and senior Cheryl Kelly.

After Milford moved to within two, 6-4, Murphy, who led the team with 13 kills, scored seven straight points off the serve, putting the game away.

"Our game plan was to just get serves in and make them earn points," said Rendle.

In the second game North jumped off to an 8-1 lead, including a superb block at the net by junior Joanne Currier and reliable serves by Kelly.

North started slowly in the third game and fell behind, 4-0, but Hayduk took control of the passing game, setting up her teammates for several hits and spikes.

40th Christmas Parade May Be Biggest, Best Ever

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

This year's Quincy Christmas Festival Parade "40 Years Of Christmas Memories" could be the biggest and best parade in the event's 40-year history.

The 40th anniversary parade will be held Sunday, Dec. 1. Approximately 250,000 people are expected to line the 2.8-mile parade route along Hancock St. from School St. to North Quincy High School.

The parade will feature more than 60 units, including many returning favorites as well as some new attractions

"I think this year, the 40th celebration of the Quincy Christmas Parade, will equal or surpass parades of prior years when all participants are finalized," Festival Chairman George White said Friday as final preparations were made.

"We have 23 floats participating which is more than we've had in prior years. The parade will also feature 19 bands, about equal to past years," said White, who is in his 37th year as a member of the festival committee, the last 11 as chairman.

In addition, the number of specialty units and color guards has increased this year, to 20 and 10 respectively.

Among the new attractions this year will be Tony Barrie's 25-piece all brass band. The band has appeared in numerous parades throughout the state.

To help mark this significant milestone in the parade's history, four past grand marshals will return to relive part of the parade's 40th year celebration.

Television celebrity Rex Trailer, former Red Sox hurler Luis Tiant, Quincy native and former broadcaster Ken Coleman and Past American Legion National Commander John (Jake) Comer will participate.

Trailer, well-known for his show "Boontown" and work with MDA, and Tiant, who twisted and twirled his way into the hearts of Red Sox fans, were grand marshals during the 1970s.

Coleman, who served as a radio and television voice of the Red Sox, Cleveland Indians and Cleveland Browns, and Comer, whose military and personal community participation has earned him and the city national recognition, were grand marshals during the 1980s.

With the high interest the parade has generated, White said he expects the event will attract at least 250,000 people. "I think the interest received so far has exceeded past year's and people are looking to the day as a time of enjoyment and entertainment.

"They can look at the happy side of life and see things in the Christmas spirit," he added.

Over the last 40 years, the parade has grown from a small holiday event into a large-scale tradition on the South Shore. In 1952, the parade featured only one unit, a marching band. It began on School St. near St. John's Church and finished around the corner in front of the former Sears building, now the site of Quincy Fair.

According to White, the parade route has changed 16 times. The most recent change came in 1985 when the finishing point was moved further north from Wollaston to North Quincy.

The longer route, which measures 2.8-miles, makes the parade more accessible for public viewing.

White said the parade has been successful for so many years because of the work and cooperation among the sponsors, city officials and the festival committee.

"I think it's an accomplishment of the parade committee. We certainly thank the sponsors and the cooperation of the City of Quincy and everyone involved that we can present a parade of this magnitude."

This year's float participants include: Quincy College, Quincy High School, Quincy Hospital, South Shore Plaza, Hingham Civic Music Theatre, Sen. Paul Harold, Sacred Heart Youth, St. John's CYO, Woodward School, Friends of Quincy Square, Jack Conway Real Estate, Quincy Tourism, Quincy Youth Hockey, Germantown Yacht Club, The Quincy Partnership, Continental Cable, President's Place, The Koch Club, Carney Hospital, SpeeDee Oil Change & Tune Up and

Quincy Fire Department. Of course, Santa will wave to spectators from his float sponsored by the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association and the Christmas Festival Committee.

Floats will compete for seven awards. The best overall float will receive the Fr. Thomas Tierney Trophy and $1,000 cash. Second place receives $500, third $300 and fourth $200.

Other awards are the Mayor's Trophy for best Quincy float, best commercial float and the Christmas Festival Committee Trophy for the best specialty unit.

Featured bands include: David Prouty, the Klassy Clowns, Chicopee Comprehensive, Canton Legion Post, Pittsfield High, Norton High, Marshfield High, Lawrence High, New Bedford High and Junior High; Agawan High, Chicopee High, Holbrook High, North Quincy High, Quincy High, Abington High, Canton High Tony Barrie Brass Band and Conant High from Petersborough, N.H.

Bands will be judged in the vicinity of Cottage Ave. and Hancock St. The winning high school band will be eligible to appear in the 1992 New Year's Cotton Bowl Parade.

Kathleen Cameron of Wollaston, who submitted the winning entry "40 Years of Christmas Memories" in the parade theme contest, will also participate in the parade.

Other specialty units

are poster contest winners, QHS and NQHS beauty queens, Ronald McDonald, Hallamore Clydesdales, Scituate Safety Car, Toys for Tots, costume characters, USAF miniature jet, Quincy Police Athletic League, MBTA motorcycle drill team, Rick Cobban on stilts, Mass State Police Unit, MDC Police Unit, MDC Police/Mounted Unit, Quincy Fire Dept. pumper and vehicle, Norfolk County police units, Quincy Police vehicles and motorcycles, Child World-60 costume pandas, City of Presidents Fund (toy train) and Bare Cover Fire Museum Engine.

The color guard competition will feature Quincy Police, Mass State Police, Milton Police, George R. Bean American Legion Post, George F. Bryan Post and Ladies State Color Guard, Cambridge Police, Quincy Fire Department, MBTA motorcycle drill team and Weymouth Police. Parking will be available in the MBTA parking area and Stop and Shop garage both on Burgin Parkway, the Ross parking garage and the Ross parking area on Cliveden St. at the Parkingway.

Additional parking will be available at the Adams Academy, Quincy College, North Quincy and Wollaston MBTA stations, State Street South and Pageant Field.

Towing will be strictly enforced from 5 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both sides.

The parade is expected to last two hours. Following the parade, band and float awards will be presented at an awards ceremony in North Quincy High School auditorium at 3:30 p.m.

Santa Arrives By Parachute Saturday

Santa Claus will "drop" into Quincy for the holiday season Saturday, Nov. 30 at noon when he parachutes from a plane and lands at Faxon Field behind the Quincy Center for Technical Education (formerly the Quincy Vocational-Technical School).

Costume characters will be present to give candy canes to children at noon. After the landing, Santa will be transported by fire engine to Downtown Quincy.

Santa will then participate in the festival's first ever "Holiday Stroll" from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 30. He and costume characters will stroll along Hancock St. and carollers will entertain with festive songs. Stores will have free refreshments and surprises.

At 6 p.m., the Quincy Tourism Association will light their Christmas Tree at the Woodward School, corner of Hancock and Greenleaf Sts. Mayor James Sheets will extend holiday greetings followed by Christmas caroling.

Turning On Christmas Lights Friday At Presidents Place

The holiday season will begin in Quincy Friday night, Nov. 29 when Christmas lights are turned on at the Presidents Place Galleria, across from Quincy City Hall Plaza.

Rick Cobban, the "One Man Band," and costume characters will entertain from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m.

After the introduction of local dignitaries, the lights will be turned on at 7:30 p.m. Santa Claus will put in a brief appearance.

Following the illumination, candy canes will be distributed to children in attendance by Santa and the costume characters.

In addition, winners of the Elementary School Christmas Poster Contest will be announced at the lighting ceremony.

Winning posters will be displayed at South Shore Bank. Other posters will be displayed in other Quincy Center storefronts.

What Is Too Many?

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
As a founder, past president and director of The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, I vehemently disagree with the statement issued by the executive director in behalf of the association regarding "too many restaurants."

I think it is arrogant and presumptuous of any person or group to limit competition based on present numbers. I totally agree with John Gillis in the fact that "This is America." In a free society each and every person has the right to succeed or fail based on their own abilities. This question is really not one of how many restaurants but one of restrictive government. It challenges the very basis of our free enterprise system.

Empty storefronts and vacant buildings are our constant enemy in Quincy. Competition should never be the reason for the non-issuance of a license. If we restrict business because of quantity, who is to set this number? It hasn't worked in other societies; why in Quincy? Let business exist on quality, not quantity.

If this is truly the "general feeling of The Association" (QCBPA), then I personally oppose it and lend support to any business that wants to locate in Quincy as long as they meet the zoning and quality standards now in place.

AIDS AND NURSING MOTHERS

Since the AIDS virus is transmitted through a transfer of bodily fluids, health specialists have been warning since the mid-1980's that the virus could be passed along to infants through their mothers' breast milk.

Reports in the "New England Journal of Medicine" confirm that three or four, and possibly as many as eight, recent cases of AIDS in infants have been attributed to mothers nursing their babies. One of the cases, noted by researchers in Africa, involved transmission of the virus by a wet nurse. In the United States and other developed countries, health authorities are now recommending that women infected with the AIDS virus should not breast-feed their babies. World Health Organization officials are still calling for breast feeding in countries that lack safe water supplies.

P.S. The most likely way for a baby to contract the AIDS virus from its infected mother is through the mother's uterus.

AIDS continues to be a matter of the utmost concern to physicians and the public. If you have any questions about the prevention, testing or treatment of this disease, call your doctor, or call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE. We'll answer your questions or refer you to another medical professional. We specialize in the treatment of heart ailments, hypertension and cholesterol. ### Cahill Joins Elite Circle

Tim Cahill has joined an elite Quincy political circle which may — or may not — help set a course to the mayor's office.

Cahill is only the fifth person in Quincy's recent political history to top the City Council at-large race in back-to-back elections. That's spanning at least 40 years.

Cahill first did it in 1989, leading a five-candidate field with a vote of 17,825. Second and third were Patricia Toland and Michael Cheney with respective votes of 17,242 and 13,993. Trailing and out of the money were Susan Gallagher with 9,055 with Denis Tardo with 6,079.

In this year's city election, Cahill led six candidates with a vote of 9,053. Cheney this time moved up to second place with 8,847 and Toland dropped to third with 8,763. Behind them were former mayor-councilor Joseph LaRaia with 6,850; George Miller, 5,422 and William Ryan, 3,395.

Cahill's 1991 vote production was far off the 1989 pace but so was everyone's. Reason: there was a much bigger voter turnout in 1989 — 60.6 percent compared to only 39.1 percent this year.

The big 1989 turnout was attributed to the James Sheets-Peter O'Connell mayoral race. This year, Sheets was unopposed resulting in the lower turnout.

Now, is topping the city council at-large race really a stepping stone to the mayor's office. Answer: Sometimes, yes, sometimes no.

The other four people who led the at-large field in successive elections were Amelio Della Chiesa (1953-1955); David McIntosh (1959-1961); George Burke (1963-65). And, Arthur Tobin who did it not twice but in three elections in a row in 1971-73 and 75.

Della Chiesa put his back-to-back election wins together under Plan E becoming mayor under that plan and then Plan A mayor in 1957.

McIntosh never went on to become Plan A mayor but did serve earlier as Plan E mayor when the chief executive of the city was a city manager and the mayor a ceremonial head who presided over city council meetings.

Burke opted not to run for mayor and became Norfolk County district attorney instead.

Tobin, after his historic three successive first place at-large finishes took on and defeated mayor incumbent Joseph LaRaia in 1977.

in 1979 and was elected mayor in the next election.

There have been several others who led the at-large field once but never became mayor. They include John Quinn (1967), George McDonald (1969) who became a Norfolk County commissioner; Paul Harold (1977) who became state senator; Richard Koch, Jr. (1983) who later dropped out of politics and Steve McGrath (1987) who is now city solicitor.

As for Cahill going on to the mayor's office, only time will tell for sure.

Meanwhile, those who have never topped the at-large field should take heart.

James McIntyre never led the at-large parade but became mayor, state representative, state senator and one of Quincy's all time most powerful figures.

McINTYRE

THE SUGGESTION THAT Mayor James Sheets has meddled in the City Council behind-the-scenes presidency tug-of-war between Charles Phelan and Michael Cheney really doesn't seem to hold much water.

Sheets has been around a long time — including 16 years as a ward councillor — and knows better than to get involved in a council presidency fight.

Any mayor that does get involved and picks the wrong horse winds up with an enemy banging the gavel and obstructing him in the City Council. Besides, as meddlers go, those who really know Sheets, will tell you he just isn't built that way.

It appears that Ward 5's Phelan has the council presidency wrapped up, and deserves the credit for putting the necessary votes together. He started to line up his support bloc early and then wooed the clingers, Ward 1's Peter Kolson and Ward 6 newcomer Bruce Ayers. And that's called good old politicking.

Phelan

If Sheets had a preference for the presidency it no doubt would be Phelan over Cheney. Cheney has been a frequent critic of the mayor. Phelan will be easier for him to work with. And for that matter, Phelan will be easier for the council to work with colleagues will tell you.

But Sheets didn't put the council presidency together for Ayers. Phelan put it together himself.

And Phelan will be his own man in the council chamber.

Held At Animal Hospital $500 Needed To Bring 'Abby' Home

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The family and friends of six-year-old Lorrianne Calley of South Walnut St. are trying to raise $500 to free the girl's nine-month-old kitten from a local animal hospital.

According to Bill Disalvio, a friend of the Calley family, the hospital will not release the animal until the family pays the remainder of the $900 bill for extensive surgery that "Abby" underwent after being badly injured in a hit-and-run accident.

Disalvio said Lorrianne is very depressed because of how much she misses the animal.

"She's been crying every night," said Disalvio. "She keeps saying, 'I want my Abby back.' That's why we're going this extra mile to try and help out."

Abby was struck by a car Friday, Nov. 15 when he got out of the house despite Lorrianne's attempts to stop him. He was immediately rushed to the hospital and kept on oxygen until a damaged lung could repair itself.

"There was a hole in the lung, and they had to wait for it to close before they could do the surgery," Disalvio said. "At first, they didn't think he was going to be strong enough to survive at all."

Although the hole in the

'ABBY' IS BEING held in an animal hospital until his family can raise $500 for his recent surgery. Those wishing to make a donation towards his freedom may call Bill DiSalvio at 961-4967.

lung closed by Sunday, Nov. 17, hospital officials said they would not operate until a down payment of $300 ($100 had been paid upon Abby's admittance on Friday) was paid. It took the family a couple of days to come up with that sum.

Abby finally underwent surgery on Tuesday, Nov. 19. Although the damage was repaired--the kitten also had received a broken leg and ribs--the procedure was both a delicate and a costly one. Hospital officials have said that after a recovery period of four to five days, Abby will be free to return home--after the family pays an additional $500 to cover the total cost of the surgery.

Abby, half tiger cat and half angora, was given as a gift to Lorrianne when he was four or five weeks, Disalvio said.

"All she wants for Christmas is her Abby back," he said. "Any donations would be greatly appreciated."

Anyone wishing to make a contribution towards Abby's freedom may call Bill Disalvio at 961-4967.

Firemen, Residents Battle Marsh Blaze

Firefighters and residents armed with garden hoses fought to contain a fire that raged unchecked across a half square mile of Houghs Neck marsh, threatening 25 homes on Lenox, Stoughton and Winthrop Sts.

Only three houses were damaged by the flames, which reached 20 feet in height at times and were fanned by a strong westerly wind, and residents of some 20 others were forced to flee with their belongings.

Mrs. Thomas Connors and her two children were assisted through the dense smoke from their home off Winthrop St. by an unidentified motorist.

Ironically, the fire started when a crew of firefighters were ordered to burn a small section of dry marsh grass off Newton St. and they lost control of their fire.

UNION PROTESTS

The CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers asked for a new election after losing their bid to represent workers at the Fore River Shipyard to the Independent Union of Fore River Workers by a margin of 5-2.

CIO leader Paul Mulhern said the Independent Union was permitted to campaign on the premises during the election and intimidated workers. "Typical company union tactics," he said.

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

Amy's Chicken Supreme

We thought we had eaten and cooked chicken hundreds of ways, but after last week's visit to Berkeley, our sister-in-law Amy served it yet another way. While our husbands were hammering away in Jerry's workshop downstairs, Amy prepared this chicken entrée in minutes. This recipe feeds six to eight depending on the appetites!

AMY'S CHICKEN SUPREME

1 Lb chicken cutlets
5 or 6 sliced low salt Swiss cheese
(or your own favorite)
1 can cream of broccoli soup
1 cup or so of seasoned croutons
1 can onion rings (or bagged,
(about 6 or 8 ounces)
1/2 cup milk

In a slightly greased baking pan (preferably glass) layer all the chicken. Cover each slice with the Swiss cheese. Over that pour the soup and the milk. Then over that, place the croutons and sprinkle the onion rings over all. Bake in a 350 degree oven for about 10 to 15 minutes, uncovered.

We had it with rice but it can be served with noodles, potatoes, etc.

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

3 Quincy Residents Elected To UMass Student Senate

Three Quincy residents have been elected to the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth student senate.

Joseph C. DeAngelo of 75 Turner St. is a junior political science/elementary education major. DeAngelo has been a member of the student senate for two years and is active in various committees on campus. A graduate of Quincy High School, he is the son of Theresa and Paul DeAngelo.

Alexander W. Mann is a junior political science major. Mann is the head of security for student activities. A graduate of North Quincy High School, he is the son of Ann and Geoff Mann.

Suzanne Shea of 15 Swan Rd. is a senior political science major and dean's list student. Shea is the news director for the campus radio station WSMU, co-chair of the lecture series committee and a voting member of the building authority. This is her fourth year on the student senate. A graduate of Quincy High School, she is the daughter of Geraldine and Gerald Shea.

The student senate serves as the major governing body of student government and offers a forum for debate on matters of importance to the student body. Students are active, voting participants on university committees that recommend policies and regulate procedures for academic and social activities on campus.

Three Quincy Residents Complete Don Bosco/Tufts Program

Three Quincy residents who are freshmen at Don Bosco Technical High School in Boston recently completed a program with 116 classmates given by first year students of Tufts Dental School in Boston.

The dental students advised the Tech students on nutrition and preventative dentistry. The program, which has been in operation for eight years, was coordinated by Bernadette Fitzgerald, the Don Bosco school nurse.

The three Quincy participants were Michael J. Chase of 441 Granite St., Sean R. Meehan of 79 Exeter St., and Jeremy J. Terry of 107 Centre St.

Crime Prevention Officer
Quincy Police Department

When And Why You Should Call The Police

One question that citizens often ask is, "when should I call the police to report something?" The answer is very simple. You should call the police anytime something looks suspicious or out of place. You should trust your intuition. The following are some examples of when to call the police.

Situation:

• Vehicles

Especially slow moving vehicles without their lights on. Vehicles that drive around the block several times or that circle parks or playgrounds.

Possible Significance:

• Parked, occupied vehicles may contain one or more persons. Especially significant if observed at unusual hours.

Possible Significance: Possible look out for burglary or robbery in progress. True even if occupants appear to be lovers.

• Vehicles being loaded with valuables suspicious if parked in front of a closed business or unattended residence, even if the vehicle is a legitimate looking commercial vehicle - possibly even bearing identifying sign as a repair or moving vehicle.

• Abandoned Vehicle

Possible Significance: Possible stolen car

• Other unusual activity

Persons attempting to forcibly enter a locked vehicle, especially at night or in a parking lot.

Possible Significance: Possible Burglary, theft or malicious mischief in progress.

• Person detaching parts or accessories from car, especially at night.

Possible Significance: Possible theft in progress.

• Apparent business transactions from a vehicle, especially around schools or parks.

Possible Significance: Possible drug sale or illegal transaction taking place.

• Persons being forced into vehicles, especially females or juveniles.

Possible Significance: Possible kidnapping

• Going Door to Door in a residential area, especially suspicious if, after a few houses are visited, one or more of the subject goes back into side yard. More suspicious if another remains in front of house.

Possible Significance: Possible "casing" for a home to burglarize.

• Carrying property

Suspicious, depending on the circumstances, or any other activity which appears suspicious to you, report it to the Police Department IMMEDIATELY. 479-1212. Don't worry about bothering the police, this is what we are there for. Don't worry about being embarrassed if your suspicions prove unfounded. Better to think what could happen if you don't act.

Two Residents Attend Literacy Volunteers Conference

Special Advent Services At Houghs Neck Congregational

Special Advent services will be held Tuesday evenings at 7:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church.

Carol Sheehan, director of the Hospice of the Quincy Visiting Nurses Association, will be guest speaker Dec. 3. Carla McDonald, soloist from Sacred Heart Church, will sing. The first candle in the Advent wreath will be lit by Stephanie Szabo, a member of Sunday school.

A fireside service will be conducted Dec. 10 by members of the Pilgrim Fellowship.

The Dec. 17 service will feature music prepared by organist Arden Schofield and sung by the church choir.

Each service will be followed by a coffee hour in fellowship hall hosted by the diocese.

This Sunday at the 9 a.m. worship service the sermon will be delivered by Rev. M. Alicia Corea who will also play the organ. Pete Little and Marge Tellier will serve for the diocese.

At the 10:30 a.m.

'Voice Out Of The Past' Bethany Sermon Topic

This Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., will mark the first Sunday in Advent.

At the 10 a.m. worship service the Rev. Roger Ketcham will preach a sermon on the topic, "A Voice Out Of The Past—I Am Zachariah."

Holy Communion will be served by the deacons and deaconesses. Music by the Chancel Choir will be directed by Gregory Flynn, organist. Scripture reader will be Sylvia Hofsepien. Church school classes are held during the worship hour.

At the weekly Bible study in Room 3 of the parish house next Sunday at 8:30 a.m. the Rev.

service Dr. Peter V. Corea will give the sermon with Waymon Giggey and Peg McDonald serving for the diocese. The first Advent candle will be lit by Donna Robbins, a Sunday school pupil, at each service. Janet Little will play a flute solo during prelude for both services. A coffee hour between services will be hosted by Gayle MacKay and Rod Hicks.

Sunday school meets at 8:30 a.m. for age two through grade one and at 10 a.m. for grades two and up. Pilgrim Fellowship, for people in middle and senior high, meet this Sunday at 7 p.m.

Members of the church and choir will participate in the annual Christmas tree lighting ceremony Sunday at 5:30 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Fire Station. The Seaside Christmas Fair Committee will have an encore table of handcrafted items at the Mistletoe Fair Saturday, Nov. 30 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in St. Thomas Aquinas Hall, Houghs Neck.

Roger Ketcham will lead the discussion of the Bible passages to be read during the 10 a.m. worship service.

An Intergenerational Advent Celebration will take place Sunday, Dec. 8 in the Allen Parlor. Crafts tables will be set up for adults and children with something for everyone. The program will start at 3 p.m.

At 4:30 p.m. a Vesper Service will be held with a children's message and the singing of carol hymns. A pot luck candlelight dinner will take place in the Allen Parlor beginning at 5 p.m. This will be followed by a carol sing accompanied by Gregory Flynn, pianist.

Interchurch Council Thanksgiving Eve Service

The Interchurch Council of Wollaston and North Quincy will hold its annual Thanksgiving Eve Service, Wednesday, Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. at the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene. Mayor James Sheets will deliver the Thanksgiving Proclamation. Preacher for the service is Richard Murphy. The service will feature combined choirs. Offerings will benefit the Quincy Crisis Center.

'God Is Faithful' Sermon Topic At United Methodist

Holy Communion and the First Sunday of Advent will be celebrated at the 10 a.m. worship service at the Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

The first Advent candle will be lit in memory of Richard W. Poore.

The Rev. Harry Soper Jr. will have "God Is Faithful" as his sermon message. Jay and Sybil White will serve as greeters and the hostesses for the fellowship hour will be Linada Conant, Susan Little, Margaret Buckley and Edna Colletti.

Following the pastor's Young Disciples message, Sunday school will convene. Church facilities are handicapped accessible and nursery care is provided. That evening at 6 p.m. the United Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p.m. and the prayer group at 7 p.m.

Events for the week include: Open house recreation and the Committee on Education meeting will both be held at 7 p.m. Monday; the Christian Serenity Prayer Group meets at 7 p.m. and the Council on Youth Ministries at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday; the Administrative Board meets at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday; the pastor's Bible study meets at 10 a.m., the bell ringers meet at 6:30 p.m., and choir rehearsal will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday.

'God's Advent Agenda' At Point Congregational

This Sunday at Quincy Point Congregational Church, Washington St. and Southern Artery, the Advent season will begin with a series of sermons starting with the word "Behold."

Sunday's 10 a.m. service will focus upon "Behold, I Will Fulfill The Promise," and the sermon has been entitled "God's Advent Agenda, And Ours."

During the Advent season, the Altar and Flower Guild, under the direction of chairperson Carol McGhee, will gradually decorate the sanctuary for Christmas for the four Sundays of Advent.

The Chancel will be decorated with the Advent wreath, upon which candles will be lit each Sunday in Advent. This Sunday, the Candel of Comfort will be lit by the Peterson, Croasdale and Forbush families.

The service will also include a celebration of the Sacrament of Holy Communion, to be served by members of the Diocese.

Church school classes will be held at 10 a.m. Infants, nursery and kindergarten children go directly to their rooms; all other children and young people gather with their families in the sanctuary before the students are dismissed to their classrooms and teachers.

The church provides designated parking for those with walking difficulties, a chairlift to the sanctuary, wheelchair and walker, large print bulletins, hearing aids, off-street parking and child care during worship.

Pastors are the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon. Church office hours are Monday through Friday (with the exception of holidays) from 8 a.m. to 4

Quincy Churches In 'Flip For Kids' Program

Four Quincy churches are participating in the Protestant Social Service Bureau's second annual 'Flip for Kids.'

The project, which started as a pancake breakfast to be held sometime in November, has turned into a meal being put on at a convenient date.

Ten different churches in six South Shore towns have signed up for the project, which has already begun and will continue well into December.

The Wollaston Lutheran

Church already held the event Nov. 17. The other Quincy participants will be Atlantic Memorial Church On Thanksgiving Day and Faith Lutheran Church and the Wollaston Congregational Church, both on Dec. 8.

The title "Flip for Kids" was created to indicate that the proceeds will help the Bureau's children's services. The month of November was chosen because it is National Adoption Month for 1991.

For more information call PSSB at 773-6203.

'Hanging Of The Greens' At First Church Of Squantum

The First Church of Squantum will hold its annual "Hanging of the Greens" Saturday, Nov. 30 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The event is an occasion on which persons of all ages help decorate the church for the Advent season and make Christmas crafts. A variety of Christmas refreshments will be served.

"Pilgrim Story" was the title of the sermon preached by the pastor at the church on Sunday morning. The sermon was part of the annual Thanksgiving Sunday service held at the church.

Scripture readers were Tom Klock and Louise Randall. The Chancel Choir sang and the congregation was accompanied by organist Mary Ruth Scott and pianist Janet Williamson.

Dana, Pat and Kim

Olsen were the greeters. Katrina Sorrentino and Earl Taylor were the ushers. Barbara Walter and Sally Wainwright hosted the fellowship hour after church.

Junior choir meets Thursdays at 3 p.m. Chancel choir meets Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. The Way Up, a group for teenagers, meets Sundays from 2 p.m. to 6:30 p.m.

The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Sunday school for children in grades 2-8 begins at 9:30 a.m. During the morning service, children in kindergarten in the first grade attend their own Sunday school class. A nursery is provided at that same time for infants and toddlers. Child care is available for children who are older who have parents attending church.

Decoration Sunday At First Parish

United First Parish Church, 1306 Hancock St., will celebrate the first Sunday of Advent at the 10:30 a.m. service. The service will include bringing in greens, decorating the tree and singing carols.

Children of the Church School will light the first candle of Advent and hang greens during the opening carol "Deck the Halls."

Adults and children will decorate the Christmas Tree with home-made ornaments and sing "O Christmas Tree."

Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister, will give the sermon "Born to Shop? Or Other Purposes." The sermon will consider ways people can find joy and spiritual renewal in the holiday festivities.

The Church Choir will sing under the direction of Norman Corey who will also play organ selections.

Ushers are Richard Post and Matt Malloy.

Visitors are welcome and invited to the social hour following the service. Brenda Powers will host.

The Women's Group will meet at noon as will the Men's Group.

A special program featuring Robert Lutzema, David Alpher and Robert Clarke will be held at 3 p.m. following the Christmas Parade. It will include music and narration based on Lewis Carroll's "The Walrus and the Carpenter" and "Jabberwocky." Tickets are $5 for adults, $3 for children.

Could Post Profit This Year

Quincy Hospital Is On The Road To Fiscal Recovery

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Quincy Hospital, which was on the brink of closing its door three years ago because of a multi-million dollar deficit, is making what city officials call "a miraculous" fiscal turnaround and could post a profit by the end of the new fiscal year.

At a recent press conference, Mayor James Sheets praised Hospital Director Ellen Zane as well as her administrative staff and other hospital employees for coming together and turning the health facility's budget shortfalls into a possible surplus.

The hospital's failing fiscal health was front page news several years ago. During the 1989 mayoral election, the facility's bleak fiscal picture was one of the more prominent campaign issues and a focal point for political advertisements.

Shortly after Sheets was inaugurated in January, 1990, former Hospital Director Mark Mundy and the hospital's Board of Managers asked the mayor for a $3 to $4 million loan from the city budget. They said the hospital would repay the city over a three to five-year period.

"What I heard said to me was if we don't have a loan of three to four million dollars, we're going to have to close our doors," Sheets said.

But because the city had its own budget problems and money was tight, Sheets refused to give the hospital any money.

"I would have had to cut fire, police and schools and the general budget to get that money because that would be the only place that it would come from," Sheets then told the board: "Well, I guess you'll just have to put a lock on the door because I really can't take that kind of money out of the city budget."

Looking back, the mayor said if the hospital had closed, the city would have been staring at approximately $77 million in debt in terms of unemployment compensation, closing and other related costs.

The city may have received some money if the hospital, which opened a new $60 million facility, had been sold. The federal government, which insured the bonding for the new facility, would have determined the facility's future.

"Still, you're probably looking at a net indebtedness of at least $40 to $50 million," the mayor added.

The hospital's closing would have meant more than just a fiscal nightmare for the city. Hundreds of employees, many living in the Quincy-South Shore area, would have lost their jobs.

The hospital, which has an annual operating budget of approximately $44 million, employs about 900 full-time positions.

A few months after the hospital's finances hit rock bottom, Zane became the hospital's new director.

The mayor instructed his administrative assistant, Bernice Mader, to work with Zane and the Board of Managers "to make the hospital go."

Since Zane has taken over the hospital's reigns, the health care facility's losses have been consistently declining. In FY 89, the hospital had a deficit of $3.5 million; in FY 90, the number dropped to $2.2 million.

Zane had predicted another shortfall of $2.2 million for FY 91 but a seven percent in admissions left the hospital with only a $300,000 deficit Sept. 30.

"Based on these figures, it would appear that in the next fiscal year, we may well end up operating in the black," Zane told Sheets in a letter dated Oct. 29.

"For an institution to come together as Quincy Hospital has in the last 23 months is nothing short of miraculous," the mayor said.

The mayor said he called the press conference to publicly commend Zane, her staff and the entire hospital family, from the nurses and physicians to housekeeping and maintenance crew. "They have all done the job."

"As the mayor of Quincy, you will never know the burden that was taken off me because the last thing that I needed to do facing the financial issues I have had to face is to look at the hospital that's not going to make it and the debt which that incurs."

Wollaston Business Association Special Event

More Than $1,200 In Prizes To Be Awarded

More than $1,200 in prizes will be awarded during the sixth annual Evening In Wollaston holiday celebration on Saturday.

A total of 29 Wollaston Business Association members have included coupons in this week's issue of The Quincy Sun which can be dropped at the appropriate businesses during Saturday's festivities. A drawing for the winner will be held at each store at the end of the event.

Evening in Wollaston will feature a magic show, special offers from Wollaston businesses, the annual lighting of the Wollaston Christmas lights, a special movie at the Wollaston Theatre and, of course, an appearance by Santa Claus himself. What better way to kick off the season?

Special events during the holiday celebration will begin with a performance by magician Jeff Danger at the Wollaston Theatre at 2 p.m.

The magic show will be followed by a special matinee showing of the hit comedy "Home Alone," starring the popular child actor Macaulay Culkin, at the theatre at 2:45 p.m. Admission is only $1.

After the movie children will delight when Santa Claus arrives on the scene at 5 p.m. Also in attendance will be a number of special guests, including Mayor James Sheets and Senator Paul Harold, who will join Santa in welcoming neighbors to Wollaston.

At 5:15 p.m. the Wollaston Christmas lights will be switched on, giving Beale St. the cheery glow of the season.

Beginning at 5:30 p.m. children will be escorted into the lobby of the Wollaston Theatre where they can have their photo taken with Santa. The photos are professionally done by Fine Light Photography and will be taken at a cost of $3 apiece. Free lollipops and balloons will also be handed out to the children.

Throughout the event there will be special holiday bargains from participating Wollaston businesses.

The festivities will end at 7 p.m. when participating businesses from the Wollaston Business Association draw the prizes from the coupons.

The participating merchants and their prizes are:

Barry's Deli, 21 Beale St., a party platter ($49.95 value), and free lunch for one for a week.

Beale St. Fish Market, 35 Beale St., $20 gift certificate.

Food Donations For Pantry Shelf

Those who plan on attending this year's Evening in Wollaston are asked to bring one non-perishable food item to the event on Saturday.
The food is to be donated to The Pantry Shelf, an emergency food shelter.
This will provide those who are at the celebration an opportunity to help those less fortunate to feel the true warmth of the season.

Wollaston Park Assn. Elects Officers

The Wollaston Park Association elected officers and directors during the civic group's 35th annual Dinner Meeting at The Hollow Restaurant.
Re-elected were Richard Lockhead, 106 Willow St., president; Dominic Falcetta, 55 The Strand, vice president; and Dorothy Kelly, 108 Davis St., secretary-treasurer.
Susan Gallagher, 21 Willow St., was elected as a new director. She joins re-elected directors Alice Delaney, 116 Davis St., Richard DeMers, 150 East Elm Ave., Madeline Falcetta, 55 The Strand, John Keenan, 234 Norfolk St., William MacDonald, 74 Copley St., and Eleanor Sharkey, 36 Briggs St.
Guest speaker, Mayor James Sheets, commended the Wollaston residents for their participation in the city's recycling program and outlined some of his downtown revitalization plan.
The association was organized in 1956 to preserve the residential nature of the Wollaston Beach area. The group has worked successfully to rezone the area Residence A and fought the building of row housing and 26-story apartments along the beach.

Residents living east of Hancock Street to Wollaston Beach are invited to join the association by contacting the president or secretary.

St. Ann's Christmas Bazaar Dec. 6-7

St. Ann's School in Wollaston will hold its annual Christmas bazaar Friday, Dec. 6 from 6 to 10 p.m. and Saturday, Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the school gymnasium.
The school is located across from Veteran's Memorial Stadium on Hancock St.
Among the fair's highlights will be crafts, baked goods, a silent auction, $999.99 drawing, white elephant table, pictures with Santa Claus and more.

Two Blood Drives In December

The South Area American Red Cross will conduct two blood drives in Quincy during December.
The drives, which are open to the public, will be held:
•Tuesday, Dec. 17 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. at Arbella Insurance, 1100 Crown Colony Dr., South Quincy.
•Monday, Dec. 23 from 1 to 7 p.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church, 444 Washington St., Quincy.

ARTS/ENTERTAINMENT

'Holidays In Quincy' At 4 Historic Sites

"Holidays in Quincy" will be celebrated Dec. 6 to 8 at the Adams Academy Building, the Adams Mansion, the Josiah Quincy House, and the United First Parish Church.

This is the fifth time the holiday season has been celebrated by the four historic sites since 1983. The four sites will be decorated for the season and special tours will be conducted through the four locations.

The celebration will be kicked off by an "Around the Town" gala Friday, Dec. 6 from 6 to 9 p.m. Each of the four sites will feature live musical entertainment and there will be food at the Adams Academy. Two trolley buses will link the four sites so that patrons do not have to drive to each location. The buses will arrive at each site at half-hour intervals, giving ample time to appreciate the music and decorations.

New this year will be a holiday craft fair and sale at the United First Parish Church. Several area craftspeople will offer their wares throughout the weekend. The Museum Shop of the Quincy Historical Society will also be open at the Adams Academy and a full stack of holiday gifts, toys, paper and antique ornaments will be available along with Quincy-related items.

"Holidays in Quincy" continues Saturday, Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Sunday, Dec. 8 from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. There will be periods of live musical performances at the Adams Mansion and Josiah Quincy House. There will be no trolley service on Saturday and Sunday. The crafts fair will continue at the United First Parish Church.

The celebration of the season is made possible by the cooperation of the four sites and the Quincy Arts Council.

The Wollaston Garden

Club decorated the United First Parish Church and the Sea Side Garden Club of Squantum decorated the Adams Mansion. Dot Circle Florists of Dorchester and Haron's Florist and Greenhouse decorated the Adams Academy building and the Josiah Quincy House with the help of volunteers and staff.

The trolleys have been coordinated through Traditional Tours. Mike McFarland of Barry's Deli and Tim Cahill of Handshakes donated food for the Friday gala.

Tickets are $10 per person for the gala and may be used throughout the weekend. Children ages 6-16 are $5. Tickets for Saturday and Sunday are $8 for adults and $4 for children ages 6-16.

Tickets are available from the Adams Academy at 8 Adams St., the United Parish Church, and the Josiah Quincy House throughout the weekend. For more information call 773-1144.

Quincy Christmas Parade 40th Celebration On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television will show the 40th annual Christmas parade live on Sunday, Dec. 1 at 12:30 p.m.

The parade will be replayed at 8 p.m. that evening for those people who attended the parade or participated in the parade. Other replay dates for the parade are Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 8 p.m. and Monday, Dec. 16 at 8 p.m. QCTV will also provide live coverage of the parade awards ceremony at 3 p.m. from the North Quincy High School auditorium following the parade.

The awards ceremony will be replayed later that evening at 7 p.m. on Ch. 3.

Santa's Mail Boxes In Downtown Quincy

Santa's mail boxes will be placed throughout Downtown Quincy Monday, Dec. 2. Children can write letters to Santa and place them in the boxes. The letters will be mailed to Santa's North Pole address.

GERALD T. HERRIGAN, seated center, a Quincy native and sculptor, was honored recently by Winthrop officials for his work on the town's Doughboy Statue he created in 1921. The statue was recently refurbished by sculptor restorer Gregory Curci, standing left. Members of the restoration committee presented Horrigan with a citation from the town at a recent ceremony held at Quincy Nursing Home. Sitting, left, Walter Van Dalinda and right, E. Arthur King. Standing, second from left, Col. Joseph McGonagle, Anne McGonagle, Reno Pisano and Dolly MacKay.

Gerald Horrigan Honored For Doughboy Sculpture

Gerald T. Horrigan, a Quincy native and sculptor, was recently honored by Winthrop officials for his work on the town's Doughboy statue he created in 1921 at a ceremony held at Quincy Nursing Home.

Mr. Horrigan's statue was recently refurbished by sculptor restorer Gregory Curci. Members of the restoration committee presented Horrigan with a citation from the town.

and Italy before settling in Houghs Neck. He married Isobel McMenemie of Brockton. The late Mrs. Horrigan worked at Remick's in Quincy and was responsible for opening the Serendipity Gift Shop there.

Horrigan sculptured many notable statues, including the Robert Burns statue in Quincy Center near Granite St. and the Burgin Parkway. His Joan of Arc sculpture at the Worcester Cathedral was commissioned by Cardinal Wright.

In addition, Horrigan sculptured life-size Union soldiers throughout the northern United States, the Police Memorial in Forrest Hills Cemetery and the Doughboy statue from World War I in Holbrook and Winthrop.

At the request of Mrs.

Pratt Whitney, a noted Newport socialite, he assisted on the Columbus Memorial in Spain.

Mr. Horrigan's father sculpted the Titanic Memorial in Washington, D.C. at the request of Pratt-Whitney who lost family members in the luxury ocean liner tragedy.

Mr. Horrigan began oil painting in his 70s. Due to poor eye sight he no longer is able to create sculptures or painting. He enjoys conversing with others, and according to Linda Smith, activities director at Quincy Nursing Home, discussing the news at the Current Events Club.

Friends and family visit often—including sculptor Reno Pisano and nephew John Moreschi. Mr. Horrigan has resided at Quincy Nursing Home since 1988.

Christmas Parade Committee Members On WJDA

With the 40th edition of the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade just a few days away, members of the festival committee will be guests on WJDA's "Party Line" Wednesday from 10 to 11 a.m.

Chairman George White and several other committee members will discuss the various aspects of this year's parade which will be held Sunday, Dec. 1.

The parade, one of the city's biggest, will get underway at 12:30 p.m. at Elm St., School St. and Quincy Ave. and continue north on Hancock St. to North Quincy High School.

Real Estate Update

Steve Fitzpatrick

IMPORTANCE OF COMPARABLES

QUESTION: I understand the most important task in selling a home is deciding on the right sales price. How do you come up with the best price?

ANSWER: This is not done by looking into a crystal ball or consulting with a guru. The most important factor is the price of comparable sales in your immediate area. These are sales which have already been completed of homes as nearly like yours as possible.

The sales should also be near in time, for five-year-old sales have almost no meaning in today's volatile financial market. Also, the homes should be similar in style, size and condition as your property -- the closer the better.

THE SALES price of your home must be based on comparable sales in your immediate area.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Americans tend to believe that Thanksgiving is a private invention native to these shores, and in thousands of expatriate American homes around the world foreign friends are invited to share in the Thanksgiving board.

Foreigners rarely pass up an invitation of that kind, particularly in countries where food is not plentiful. The delights of the Thanksgiving table are world famous, but sometimes foreign guests are privately amused by the host's belief that the harvest festival originated in New England.

Actually, Thanksgiving, without the capital letter, is, in fact, one of the oldest celebrations. The Romans had formal banquets in honor of Ceres, and the Druids always had a harvest rite on November 1. In many lands, the bringing in of the grain is accompanied by the symbolic ritual. All these celebrations are rooted in early belief in a "corn spirit" or a "corn mother."

But we digress. It does not make any particular difference that the Thanksgiving turkey is the sacrifice to an ancient custom. The simple fact is that no other people in history has ever had as much to be thankful for as Americans. And that's not just cranberry sauce!

Free Building Inspection For Flood Damaged Homes

The Quincy Building Department has been providing free inspection service to any Quincy property owner who suffered structural/content loss during the recent storms.

According to Building Inspector Matt Mulvey, building inspectors have been advising owners how to properly place heating, mechanical and electrical equipment, what measures to take to reinforce the integrity of the structure, anchorage requirements and flood proofing requirements so that the next flooding which may take place will cause minimal damage to the structure and expensive mechanical equipment placed below the flood level.

The Quincy Building Department is charged with enforcing State Building Code Flood Plain Construction Regulations, FEMA regulations and the city's Flood Plain Zoning By-law.

Staff members are ready to assist property owners with technical experience and access to technical information which may prevent further loss to flood prone structures.

For assistance, call 773-1380 ext. 367, 368 or 369.

Quincy Point Church Celebrates First Anniversary Of Telecast

Quincy Point Congregational Church recently celebrated the first anniversary of "Good News," the telecasting of Sunday morning services of worship on Continental Cablevision, Quincy Community Television, Channel 3, Quincy.

More than a year ago, the Revs. Fred and Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastors of the church, enquired of Ed Fiddler, director of QCTV, how services of worship could be telecast on a regular basis. Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon recruited eight laypeople of the church to be trained in the use of video cameras, and they completed the training program with Darlene Mendoza, production coordinator of Continental Cablevision.

For the past year, the church's "communications team" has faithfully taken turns video recording Sunday services with the use of two camcorders.

They include Jack Bissett, Don Hunter, Ruth McInnis, Dennis Rynne, Glen Sheriff, Rick Taverna and Andrea Taverna. Bob Gohl is the production coordinator, and Fred Atwood-Lyon is the executive producer.

"Good News" is telecast each Sunday at 8 a.m. and again each Wednesday at 11 a.m. on Quincy Cablevision, Channel 3. The services of worship are provided by the church as a community service for senior citizens and others who are physically or emotionally unable to attend worship. A second purpose of the telecasts is to attract children, young people and adults who are looking for a church in the community. Financial solicitations are never made on the telecast, but viewers are invited to write to the pastors to let them know that they are watching.

Title Match Airs

Nov. 28 On Ch. 52

The North Quincy High School girls' volleyball teams recent state championship match against Dracut will be televised Thursday, Nov. 28 at 6 p.m. on Channel 52.

Coach Jim Rendle's team finished the year at 20-2 overall with the 3-0 victory in the final match.

For the Red Raiders it was their second volleyball state championship.

Hospital On Road To Recovery

"I think every employee should be proud because I know of no institution of this size that has had this fiscal turnaround. I'm just here to say a whopping thank you for the great job that all of you have done."

Zane said the hospital "has rounded the corner" but won't be "out of the woods" until the Legislature approves new health insurance laws.

She also said she appreciated the mayor's kind words as well as the faith he has demonstrated in the her leadership and the board of managers.

"(The mayor) has seen fit to give all of us the autonomy to make the tough decisions, to make the changes and to put together a business plan and to go forward with that plan."

"He didn't have to do that."

In an interview after the press conference, Sheets also credited former Mayor Arthur Tobin and his administration for establishing an enterprise account for Quincy Hospital and Quincy College. Sheets called the enterprise accounts the most significant decisions of Tobin's administration.

Because of those accounts, both facilities operate with only the revenue they generate.

In the hospital's case, the facility functions on receipts and fees from patient services. "There is absolutely no line item in the (municipal) budget for the hospital," Sheets pointed out.

"One of the reasons we're fiscally well off now is because neither Quincy College or the hospital drains down at all on our budget. I think (the enterprise accounts) save both institutions and (Tobin) should be credited for that."

Fire Alert

by WILLIAM ARIENTI
Quincy Firefighters Local 792

Escape Plan

It's three o'clock in the morning and you and your family are sound asleep. Suddenly you are awakened by a high pitched tone of a smoke detector. You jump out of bed and open the bedroom door to see a hallway filled with smoke. Crawling low to the floor, you make your way to the children's room.

First, feeling the door for heat, you slowly open it to see the room is empty. You then crawl downstairs and make your way out of the house. Upon exiting, you see a mass of neighbors, firefighters, and police on your front lawn. Immediately, you look for the big tree on the sidewalk and see your children are safe at this designated meeting place. This is an example of an emergency escape plan which may save your life, and your home.

Every home should have an emergency escape plan to use in case of fire. Since each home is different, so each plan must be different to properly fit your home in an emergency. After your plan is devised, practice it, it may save your life.

There are three parts of an escape plan, exits, crawling and a designated meeting place. Each room in the escape plan must have two exits, whether they be doors or windows. In a plan which includes windows, you must make sure the windows can be unlocked and opened easily. The windows must also be large enough to exit from, and not so high that young children can't reach them. If you are on the second floor, make sure there is a way of reaching the ground safely.

If your primary exit is smokey, immediately try your secondary exit. If this exit is also smokey, choose the safest way, drop to your hands and knees, and crawl out. Crawling is the safest way to leave a smokey building. Since smoke rises, it only makes sense that the cleanest air will be closest to the floor. If you crawl in a smokey area, you will be breathing the safest air available.

When you get out of the house, get to a designated meeting place as quickly as possible. This place can be anywhere outside, a safe distance from the house. When you reach the meeting place, get your family together and see if anyone is missing. By informing the fire department that someone is missing, you will increase the chances of the fire fighters getting the person out alive.

An escape plan is only effective if you practice it, and upgrade it when necessary. Pay special attention to the needs of children when planning an escape.

Young children need special care to keep healthy, child proofing your home, next week.

Presidents Faced With Question Marks

Quincy Hopes For Healed Injuries

By TOM SULLIVAN
Quincy football coach Jack Raymer had hoped to bring a seven-game win streak into Thursday's 59th meeting with North Quincy.

Instead, the Presidents will try to rebound from a disappointing loss at Barnstable as they seek their second straight victory over the Red Raiders.

Quincy, after losing its first two games, won six in a row going into the Barnstable game but the battered Presidents, with five players, including hard-running fullback Jason Anderson, out of the lineup, made six turnovers as the win streak came to an end.

"We had a lot of players out, but we can't blame the injuries," said Raymer. "It is pretty tough to win when you turn the ball over six times. Our offense was hurt when quarterback Pat Gallagher had to sit out almost a half with an injury late in the first half.

"Gallagher and Anderson are question marks for the North game, but I hope with almost two weeks to rest their injuries, they will be ready. There is no doubt our offense will be hurt considerably if they have to sit the game out."

Gallagher has had an outstanding year and has hooked up with wide receiver Chris Walker for 10 touchdowns. Anderson has been running hard and is a key to the running game.

|----------------|----|-----|----|-----|--|
|                | TD | PAT | FG | Pts |  |
| Walker         | 11 | 0   | 0  | 66  |  |
| DiBona         | 3  | 13  | 1  | 39  |  |
| Kane           | 5  | 0   | 0  | 30  |  |

| Gallagher      | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |  |
| Crespi         | 1  | 0   | 0  | 6   |  |

Noel DiBona and Dave Bogan have also run well and Raymer has had a well-balanced attack passing and running well.

DiBona's kicking could be a factor in the Quincy attack. He has kicked 18 extra points and a field goal. Mike Malvesti has done the punting and has done a fine job.

Robbie Kane has been excellent on the special teams and has gained considerable yardage returning punts and kickoffs.

Quincy will start on offense with Mike Kavanaugh, who has had an outstanding year, and Malvesti at tight end, Kane and Walker at wide receiver, Duane Holmes and Keith Norris at tackle, Dave Cedrone and Steve Fernald at guard and Gary Collins, who will move to quarterback if Gallagher is out, at center.

Gallagher hopefully will start at quarterback with Bogan and DiBona at tailback and Anderson at fullback.

Calvin White, Scott MacPherson and Jason Eleuteri will also see action on offense.

On defense, Collins, Anderson and Eleuteri will

Raiders Have Well Balanced Attack

North Hopes To Avenge '90 Loss

By TOM SULLIVAN

After a disappointing loss to Bridgewater-Raynham, which ended its hopes of winning the Old Colony League title, the North Quincy football team needed a good game to prepare for Thursday's 59th meeting with Quincy.

The Red Raiders had that good game as it turned in a powerful two-way performance to wallop Taunton, 34-8, unleashing its best attack of the year and playing another solid defensive game.

"We needed a game like that before the Quincy game," said North coach Ken McPhee, whose team takes a 7-2 record into the holiday classic.

The Raiders hope to avenge last year's disappointing 23-17 loss to the Presidents after they had jumped off to a 17-0 lead.

With the exception of

are, Jack (Raymer) has a fine group of players who will be tough as usual."

North will start on offense with Bellot, who is outstanding as a pass receiver and runner and is tremendous on defense, and Kelliher at end, Scott Kohler and Mark Zych at tackle, Dave Raftery and Chris McCallum at guard and Chris Campbell at center.

"Liam is ready to return as backup quarterback," McPhee said. "He did a fine job replacing Taylor, who suffered an early injury, but he suffered an injury himself which has limited him to kicking duties. He is now ready to back up Taylor again."

"I expect another typical North-Quincy game and neither team should be a favorite," McPhee said. "I understand Quincy could be missing a couple of starters but, even if they are, Jack (Raymer) has a fine group of players who will be tough as usual."

North will start on offense with Bellot, who is outstanding as a pass receiver and runner and is tremendous on defense, and Kelliher at end, Scott Kohler and Mark Zych at tackle, Dave Raftery and Chris McCallum at guard and Chris Campbell at center.

Taylor will be at quarterback with Brendan O'Connell wing back, Cocuzzo and Sinclair tailbacks and Murray and Walsh fullbacks.

Willie O'Donnell, John O'Donnell, Pat Shea, Chris Peck and Chris Galvin will also see action on offense.

Defensively, Raftery and Sean Moran will be at end, Zych and Kohler at tackle, Dave Reinhart at nose guard, McCallum and Kelliher linebackers, Tony Licciardi and Shea

Willie O'Donnell, Peck, Brian Raftery, Sinclair, Serge Belcastro and Sean Skahan will also be playing on defense.

"Most of our players were in that game last year and are anxious to get even," McPhee said. "We will be ready and look forward to another outstanding Thanksgiving game."

"I want to give a lot of credit to my assistant coaches, who have done a tremendous job for us this season."

The assistants are Pete Chrisom, Earl Metzler, Tom Carter, Pete Zola and Chris Morton.

NORTH QUINCY co-captain Desmond Bellot has had a strong all around season for the Red Raiders. Bellot has been outstanding at defensive back, receiver and returning kicks on special teams.

TAILBACK CHRIS MURRAY leads a balanced North Quincy scoring attack with 42 points this season. Murray leads the Red Raiders in touchdowns with six and two-point conversions with six.

center Scott Prouty, who suffered a broken neck in the B-R game, North should be at full strength for The Game.

"Scott is coming along well and may be back in school by the end of the month," McPhee said. "Fortunately, there is no paralysis. His spirits were buoyed considerably when our four captains presented him with the game ball following the Taunton game."

North has a well-balanced attack with quarterback Mark Taylor passing well (his favorite receivers are Desmond Bellot and Mark Kelliher) and Chris Murray, Mark Sinclair, Mark Cocuzzo and, in the past few games, Matt Walsh, all doing some fine running.

Liam Higgins' foot could be a key to the Raider attack. In addition to his fine punting, Higgins

5 Ties (4 Scoreless) In Series

Quincy Has Won 29 North Quincy 24

Going into Thursday's 59th game, Quincy has won 29 games and North Quincy 24.

Five games have ended in ties including four scoreless ties in 1934, 1937, 1940 and 1983, while the 1987 game ended in a 14-14 tie.

Quincy has the longest win streak in the series, winning five in a row from 1954 through 1958. Quincy also won four straight from 1946 through 1949.

North's first five teams were unbeaten in the series, winning in 1933, 1935 and 1936 and playing to scoreless ties in 1934 and 1937.

North Jayvees 24, Quincy 0

By PETE ZOIA

Already knowing that their own Freshmen had won over Quincy earlier Saturday morning, the older J.V.'s were determined to win their game also. They did, shutting out the Blue and White 24-0 at Faxon Field.

They came up with 10 points in the points in the initial quarter thanks to a blocked Quincy punt and a 32 yard field goal. Dave Pacino and Justin Dilks paired up to block the kick and Sean Halpin fell on the ball in the end zone. Liam Higgins booted the field goal right through the middle of the goal post. George Wirtz had intercepted a Quincy pass that set up the touchdown.

The second quarter saw Quincy reach North's six yard line only to stall out. Nick Mastrogiacommo for the Raiders was outstanding defensively up to this point. Mark Sinclair threw the Quincy quarterback for an eleven yard loss that hurt the Blue and White offense just when they were threatening.

Late in the second period North matched 60 yards for their second touchdown. Three straight passes by Dan Duncan did the trick. He hit Wirtz, Jeremy Gott and finally Jason Gott for the final 32 yard touchdown. Higgins kicked his second conversion point as the half ended 17-0.

Quincy's claim to fame was the hard running of Mike Elder who broke many a tackle running back punts and kick-offs.

North bottled up the Presidents attack mostly in the second half, while they managed to score once more. Higgins took over at quarterback and paired up with Brian Raftery for a 47 yard pass play. This led to Josh Gott going the final nine yards to score. This is the first undefeated Junior Varsity team in North Quincy's history.

Coaches Pete Chrisom and Tom Carter praised the entire squad for their great season. Praises were for Bill Skutal, Halpin, Dilks, Raftery, Chris McCulley, Mastrogiacommo, Erik Delorey, Wirtz, Jim Sapienza, Brian Strout, Ken Duddy, Mike Linnehan, Pete Licciardi, Pacino, Sean Skahan, Keith Lentini, and Jamie O'Connell.

Originally both the Freshman and Junior Varsity games would have been played as a double header in the Stadium but the heavy rainy weather made the Stadium vulnerable to be torn up if used, and would be in poor condition for the Varsity finale Thanksgiving morning.

First Q-N Game Played On Armistice Day With North 6-0 Winner

The first Thanksgiving Day game between Quincy and North was in 1938 and was played at the then-new Memorial Stadium. Quincy won, 19-0.

The first meeting between the two schools was on Armistice Day, 1933, with North winning, 6-0. Two of the first five games were played at Pfaffman's Oval, the present site of the stadium, another was played at Coddington Field.

The team's played to a scoreless tie in both 1934 and 1937 and North Quincy won the 1935 game, 14-6, and 1936 game, 6-0.

North Frosh 34 Quincy 14

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy Freshmen did what every team strives to do. They scored without giving up the ball after the opening kick-off. This led to a convincing 34-14 win over Quincy at Cavanagh Field.

Touchdowns by Matt Nguttee and Jamie Karvellis put the Red Raiders out front, 14-0. Nguttee showed his speed in chalking up the initial score. Quarterback Eric Zimmerman passed to Shawn Nee for two points. Nee connected with Karvellis from Quincy's 14 for the second touchdown. Zimmerman sneaked in for the conversion points.

Quincy reached North's 28 yard line when a fake kick pass completion fooled North. Here North stiffened when Nee intercepted a stray pass. The Blue and White visitors blocked a Raider punt on North's nine yard line. After two futile tries and a great stand by North, the half ended with Quincy on the eight.

Zimmerman to Derick Epps collaborated for a 47 yard score to open the third quarter. Nee pounded in for the two extra points to make it 22-0. Epps got his score on a screen pass to their left for 38 yards.

Quincy responded during this quarter on a 36 yard touchdown pass from Sam Brown to Mike Flagg.

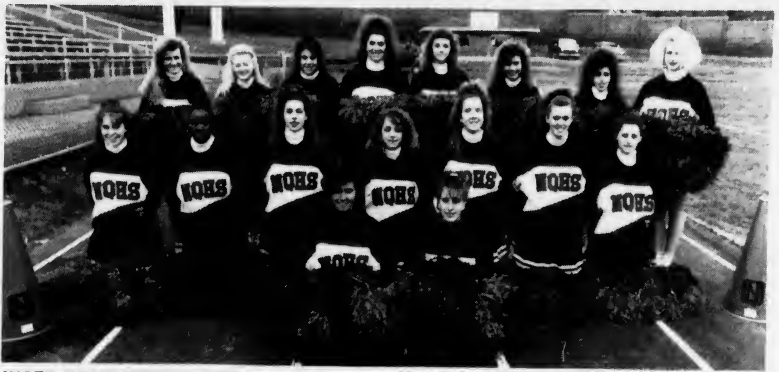

Both teams got scores in the final period. A Quincy pass was intercepted to Brendan Welch to set up the score. Zimmerman completed two passes and Nee carried for 29 yards and then he scored from the one. Karvellis added the final two points on a pass from Nee.

Quincy rebounded for a quick score when Brown and Mike Gibbons teamed up for a 50 yard pass play. Brown finished all the scoring for the morning when he passed to George Corey for the two pointer.

Winning Coach Chris Morton was elated over the win. "We have looked very good in our last two games. The boys have meshed into a fine unit. They will be heard from in the future."

Nee, Zimmerman, Epps, and Nguttee all excelled on the offense. Dave Carney was outstanding on the defense along with Karvellis and Nee.

Quincy Firm Wins $14.8 M Harbor Contract

J. M. Cashman Inc. of Quincy has won a $14.8 million contract to raze the Suffolk County House of Correction on Deer Island as part of the Boston Harbor cleanup project.

The MWRA Board of Directors award the contract to the Quincy marine and civil general contractor which submitted the lowest of four bids.

With the latest contract, Cashman has won eight Boston Harbor contracts. The company has $160 million worth of construction contracts in connection with the harbor cleanup.

Cashman will be responsible for demolishing the 87-year-old House of Correction, which will be vacated by the end of December. More than 880 prisoners will be moved to a new Suffolk County House of Correction recently completed in South Bay, Boston.

The Deer Island prison, a five-story brick and granite structure, must be demolished in order to make room for the construction of the MWRA's new secondary wastewater treatment plant. Construction on the plant is scheduled to begin in early 1993.

Under the terms of the contract, Cashman will also create a portion of a large hill at the northern end of Deer Island. That landform, which will be 120 feet high when completed, is intended to serve as a buffer between the new treatment plant and the adjoining town of Winthrop.

Cashman will also remove from Deer Island some 700,000 cubic yards of earth and other material that cannot be relocated on the island. A variety of related tasks are also included in the contract.

Cashman's bid of $14,783,000 on the contract for the prison demolition was 31 percent under the engineer's estimate of $21.5 million. The Quincy concern will award 8.6 percent of the contract to minority-owned companies and 2.4 percent of the contract to women-owned companies in accordance with the authority's affirmative action requirements.

No person except one engaged in the pursuit of agriculture, shall go about from place to place within the city, carrying or exposing for sale or selling meats, butter, cheese, fish and fresh fruit or vegetables in or from any cart, wagon or other vehicle, or in any other manner, without a license therefor from the sealer of weights and measures.

Section 2. Prerequisite to issuance; contents; term; fee.

The sealer of weights and measures shall have authority to grant the license required by the preceding section to any person of good repute for morals and integrity who is a citizen of the United States. The license shall bear the date of the day on which it is issued, and, unless sooner revoked, shall continue in force for one year from such date. Each person so licensed shall pay therefor a fee of ten dollars.

Section 3. Exhibition

Any licensee who fails, neglects or refuses to exhibit his license when it is demanded of him by the director or an inspector of standards, the sealer or a deputy sealer of weights and measures, or a constable or police officer, shall be subject to the same penalty as if he had no license.

Section 4. Revocation

Any license granted under section 1 of this chapter may be revoked by the sealer of weights and measures for violation of this chapter or any other good cause.

Section 5. Number plates

Every vehicle or other conveyance used by a licensee as a conveyer for articles offered for sale by him shall have attached to said vehicle or conveyance a number plate, where it may readily and plainly be seen, to be furnished by the city with his license at the expense of the licensee, bearing the number and date of expiration of such license.

Section 6. Duty of licensees to report, etc., to the Chief of Police.

No person shall act at any time or place in the city as a hawker or peddler unless he shall, upon receiving a license under the provisions of this chapter, report in person to the Chief of Police, and furnish evidence of such license and other information as shall be required by the Chief of Police.

Section 7. Unlicensed peddlers and hawkers - Registration.

No hawker or peddler shall sell or offer to expose for sale any of the articles enumerated in G.L. c. 101, s. 17, or in any acts in amendment thereof or in addition thereto, until he has recorded his name and residence with the sealer of weights and measures.

Section 8. General Requirements

No person hawking, peddling or carrying or exposing for sale any of the articles enumerated in G.L. c. 101, s. 17, or in any acts in amendment thereof or in addition thereto, shall cry his wares to the disturbance of the peace and comfort of the inhabitants of the city, nor shall carry or convey such articles in any manner that will tend to injure or disturb the public health or comfort, nor otherwise than in vehicles and receptacles which are neat and clean and do not leak.

PUBLIC INVITATION TO MAKE APPLICATION FOR A WAITING LIST FOR FLORENCE APARTMENTS AND FORESTVALE APARTMENTS

Florence Apartments (Roslindale) and Forestvale Apartments (Jamaica Plain) will be distributing applications for two and three bedroom apartments beginning December 2, 1991 until a sufficient number of applications have been received. Applications will not be distributed after December 31, 1991. The rents range from $538-$690 per month. Rental assistance through the Section 8 program is available to those eligible. All rents include heat, hot water and cooking gas.

Interested applicants should pick up an application at 566 Commonwealth Avenue, Boston between the hours of 9:00 and 5:00, Monday thru Friday.

Applicants will be accepted without regard to race, religion, sex, color, national origin or marital or military status, according to the priorities and preferences by HUD.

EQUAL HOUSING OPPORTUNITY

Equal Housing Opportunity statement: We are pledged to the letter and spirit of U.S. Policy for the achievement of equal housing opportunity throughout the nation. We encourage and support an affirmative advertising and marketing program in which there are no barriers to obtain housing because of race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.

Section 9. Requirements for weighing devices; use of illegal weighing devices.

No person shall be registered or assigned a number under the provisions of section 7 of this chapter until he obtains a certificate from the sealer of weights and measures stating that all weighing and measuring devices intended to be used by such persons have been duly inspected and sealed as required by law. The use of, or possession by such person with intent to use, any false or unsealed weighing or measuring devices shall be sufficient cause for the revocation of his license or the cancellation of his registration.

Section 10. Sales, etc., near parks and playgrounds

No hawker or peddler shall permit or cause a vehicle of any kind to stand nor shall he attempt to sell, solicit sales or any sales within a distance of one hundred yards of any public park or playground in the city.

Section 11. Chapter not to conflict with state licenses

Nothing in this chapter relative to hawkers and peddlers shall be construed as conflicting with any license issued under authority of the Commonwealth.

Section 12. Sales near school or licensed food service establishments.

No hawker or peddler shall sell or barter or carry for sale or barter or expose therefor any goods, foodstuffs, wares or merchandise within three hundred (300) feet of a school in the City of Quincy at any time.

Section 13. Sales of Certain Items Prohibited.

No hawker or peddler shall sell, barter or carry for sale or barter any goods or merchandise that are capable of exploding, including but not limited to exploding caps, snappers, etc.

No hawker or peddler shall sell, barter or carry for sale or barter merchandise capable of spraying or shooting an object, such as liquid string, through the use of compressed air or gas.

Section 14. Penalties

(a) Whoever violates any provision of this chapter may be fined up to the maximum, provided for in Chapter 1, Section 9(a) of the ordinances of the City of Quincy.

(b) In addition to the enforcement as described above, the provisions of this chapter may also be enforced, by non-criminal complaint pursuant to the provisions of M.G.L. Chapter 40, Section 21D. The penalty for violation of any provision of this chapter shall be $50.

On 50th Anniversary Pearl Harbor Survivors: 'We'll Never Forget It!'

By STEVE KAVANAGH

"I'll never forget it. It started at 7:55 Sunday morning," Earl Kuja recalled.

Nearly five hours later 324 out of 353 Japanese planes were back aboard six aircraft carriers headed home following the infamous "sneak" attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

The attack resulted in 2,403 deaths (including 68 civilians) and nearly 1,200 wounded and launched the United States into World War II. Four days later, Germany and Italy would declare war on the U.S.

Those who were there will never forget the horror and destruction of that day as some saw their friends die.

Also unforgettable were the countless acts of courage as men risked their lives to save others while under attack.

Kuja, a sergeant with the Army's 34th Combat Engineers stationed at Schofield Barracks, is one of six Quincy residents who are members of the Pearl Harbor Survivors Association.

"I was one of the lucky ones," Kuja said. "I made it. Others didn't."

Kuja, Bill Enders, Paul Powers, Harold Martson, John Moylan and Carl Lindblom, all of Quincy are members of the PHSA which will observe the 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor Saturday.

Another survivor, Lawrence Haletky of Houghs Neck, died earlier this year.

Kuja said he remembered the start of the attack because he was up early.

"On Sunday's we got to make our own breakfast at the mess hall," he said. "We could see the pilots because the planes were so low. None of us had rifles with us... We didn't know what was going on until the bombing started," Kuja recalled.

He said one explosion left a crater the size of a 2 1/2 ton truck.

Kuja, who had arrived at Pearl Harbor in October of 1941, said it was ironic that until less than a week before the attack Pearl Harbor had been on "live alert."

Powers, a Marine stationed in the Navy Yard, was on his way to Sunday Mass when the bombing began.

"A friend of mine woke me to go to church and we were walking across a field," Powers recalled. "Planes swooped down from out of nowhere and bombed the ships. At first we didn't realize we were under attack."

"We ran back to the barracks and out the back to man a machine gun by the mess hall," Powers said. "We got one plane."

Powers said most of the day was spent cleaning up and that everyone was worried about a second attack.

Enders was a Navy sailor aboard the U.S.S. Neosho, a tanker carrying fuel, which was moored

$12.05 For Residents, $26.59 For Business

Sheets Proposes Higher Tax Rates

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

Reacting to a drop in property valuations in Quincy, Mayor James Sheets has recommended higher tax rates of $12.05 per $1,000 for residential property and $26.59 per $1,000 for commercial, industrial and personal property for FY 92 to the City Council.

Homeowners and business owners will have a chance to comment on the mayor's tax classification recommendations at a public hearing Monday, Dec. 9 at 7 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall. After Monday's hearing, the council is expected to set the new rates at its Dec. 16 meeting.

Compared to FY 91's classifications, both new rates are up. This year's residential rate of $12.05 is up $1.33 or 11 percent from FY 91's rate of $10.72. The FY 92 C.I.P.P. rate of $26.59 is up $2.57 or 9.6 percent from last year's $24.02.

Sheets said the reason for the increase is due to the decline in valuation. "Since the values on property have gone down, the tax rates must go up," he said. With the new rates, the mayor said the average increase on tax bills for residents will be $55 if the council approves his recommendations.

For example, the owner of a home valued at $144,500 would pay $1,741 in taxes with the new rate, an increase of $55 or 3.27 over FY 91. The value of an average home has dropped by 8.1 percent, from $157,000 to $144,500.

The average bill for a commercial property owner could not be figured since there is a diversity of properties, Assessor Chairman Marion Fantucchio said. Commercial properties have held their value better than residential properties, she said.

On a whole, the city's total valuation for FY 92 has dropped more than $324 million. This year, the total valuation is $4.714 billion. In FY 91, the total valuation was $5.038 billion.

For the most part, the residential and C.I.P.P. percentages of the total valuation has remained the same compared to last year. Under the mayor's recommendation, residential taxes would make up for $3,608,197,600 or 76.53 percent of the total valuation. C.I.P.P. taxes would make up $1,106,016,907 or 23.46 percent of the total valuation.

In FY 91, the residential rate comprised $3,868,832,600 or 76.78 percent of the total valuation. C.I.P.P. taxes comprised $1,169,677,730

Bar Serving Suspension For Drug Activity

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Hat Rack Cafe is currently serving a seven-day license suspension for allowing illegal drug activity on its premises, 7-9 Copeland St.

The barroom's suspension began Monday and will run through Sunday.

Following drug buys at the Hat Rack by undercover agents, involving a day bartender and an evening bartender, Lt. John McDonough's drug unit obtained a warrant and found illegal narcotics on the premises, said Det. Sgt. Richard Laracy, the city's liquor inspector.

The day bartender, James Hatfield Jr., son of the owner, was one of two employees implicated in the drug activity.

The License Board ruled that since Hatfield had been arrested on drug charges last year the Hat Rack's ownership knew or should have known about his illegal activities.

Laracy said the two bartenders have been fired and that the Hat Rack declined to appeal the ruling.

Parking Regulations For Emergency Snow Removal

With the winter snow and ice storm season ushered in by Tuesday's storm, Public Works Commissioner David Colton reminds city residents of the importance of compliance with traffic and parking regulations and the overnight rule regarding parking.

Through the rest of 1991, parking is allowed on the odd numbered side of the street. Beginning in 1992, parking will be allowed on the even numbered side of the street unless otherwise posted.

Police Chief Francis Mullen, Fire Chief Thomas Gorman and Colton agree effective snow and ice control is vital to all public safety operations. "Public safety is something that cannot be compromised by unnecessary impediments to snow and ice removal. Police, fire and ambulance service often means the difference is life and death," they said.

Colton pointed out past history has shown that with city departments working together, combined with residents cooperation, streets have been kept open and life saving services have been maintained.

Remembering Hearing The News Of Bombing

Quincy residents recall what they were doing when they first heard the news of the attack.

Robert Noble, 66, was 16 years old at the time of the surprise attack. He had just received his driver's license and was driving through Dorchester when his uncle stopped him and told him the startling news.

"I knew we would eventually be involved in the war," Noble said, referring to Hitler's invasions in Europe. After the U.S. entered the war, Noble was confident of the outcome.

"I never had any thought that we would lose, regardless of what (the Japanese) did."

Noble eventually enlisted in the Army reserve in 1943 and was called to active duty in 1944.

The day before his 19th birthday (and the day before the start of the Battle of the Bulge), Noble was captured by Germans. He was a POW in three camps, mainly Stalag XI-B for 120 days, before he was liberated by the British Eighth Army "Desert Rat" tank unit.

Like many Americans, Noble associates Pearl Harbor with another infamous day--the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

"Pearl Harbor was a lot like Kennedy's assassination. Once it happened, you were glued to the radios and newspapers. I also remember that all of a sudden, there was a massive enlistment by all kinds of kids into the various services. There were pictures in newspapers of long lines of men looking to get back at the Japs."

Ted DeCristofaro, Quincy City Council President, joined the Navy six months after the attack.

"Being that I had just turned 17, it really didn't mean that much to me at the time," he said. "It wasn't until after I started reading the papers that I realized how serious it was... After that, my brother became the family's main concern."

"He lived down there and worked at the Navy Yard at Pearl Harbor. He was working at the Navy Yard the day it happened. He owned a bungalow (in Hawaii) that was completely demolished," DeCristofaro said.

Doris Oberg, vice president of the Quincy Historical Society, remembers the precise moment she heard the news.

"It was cold that day and the oil burner people had let our oil run out. I had a six-month old daughter in the living room with a fire in the fireplace trying to keep warm. That's when I heard it on the radio," she said.

"It was so far away from us and I remember at first I didn't feel it was that serious... probably because I was involved with a young family," Oberg said.

"It was a funny reaction as I look back on it."

Charles Sweeney, former Quincy School Committeeman and Division Chief of the Boston Regional Office of the Veterans Administration, was working for a private contractor on a military base in Argentina, Newfoundland, where the Atlantic Charter had been signed by Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill.

"We heard it on the radio. We could hardly believe it. Instantly security was tightened on the base," he said.

"After Pearl Harbor I tore home to enlist, over my wife's objections, and wound up in the infantry in Europe where I got shot up," said Sweeney who was 28 at the time.

"It was like the day J.F.K. was assassinated. I don't think anyone will ever forget what they were doing when they heard."

City Clerk John Gillis was 15 years old that day.

"It was a bitter cold day. I was working for Quincy Oil on Quincy Avenue pumping gas," Gillis said.

"I remember Scotty Ray, the manager came in and told me what had happened. John in seven days they'll be gone after we get through with 'em,' he said to me. Of course he was wrong as it turned out.

"We were actually scared. People thought the Japs were coming. Within a few days gun emplacements were installed around the Fore River Shipyard," Gillis recalled. "I remember it like it was yesterday."

Lionel "Shine" Buckley, former president of the Quincy-North Quincy Football Hall of Fame, recalls exactly what he was doing when he heard the news.

"My wife, Marjorie (Comis)--she was my fiancé at the time, and I had just left the Strand Theatre and were walking down Hancock Street when some friends along "Battleship Row" between the U.S.S. Oklahoma, U.S.S. Maryland and the U.S.S. California.

He was 19 at the time and was due to go back to the United States the next day to visit his mother who was dying.

"We knew we were going to go to war, but we didn't know when," Enders said.

"When the Japs hit we were on the stem of the ship after breakfast talking about how nice it felt to be going home," Enders remembered.

"The first planes bombed our planes on Ford Island," he said. "I used a Browning semiautomatic rifle and went on to the stack deck, the highest point on our ship. I hit one plane and it went down. Another plane went for me... I don't know how I got out of there..."

Enders said he remembers seeing the Oklahoma go down and the California and Arizona get bombed. The Neosho was the first ship underway and escaped undamaged.

The Oklahoma capsized quickly after being torpedoed and lost 415 men. Thirty-two men were saved when rescuers cut through the ship's bottom.

The California was sunk but later was repaired and fought in the South Pacific.

More than 1,000 men were killed when the Arizona sunk in less than nine minutes. Bombs broke the ship in half and those who were not killed by the explosions or fires drowned.

The Arizona still lies at the bottom of the harbor and officially serves as a memorial to those who gave their lives on Dec. 7, 1941.

"I saw the Nevada get underway and the Japs tried to sink her at the harbor entrance. If she went down we never would have got out. The captain beached her so it wouldn't sink in the harbor entrance," Enders said.

Quincy Before The Attack

By MICHAEL WHALEN
What was the City of Quincy like in the week preceding Pearl Harbor? Here is a look back:

The Granite City Garage at 84 Washington St. was selling a "big and roomy" new 1942 Studebaker Champion for $810.

At the A & P supermarket at 731 Hancock St., hamburger was selling for 19 cents a pound, pork shoulders for 23 cents a pound and shrimp for a 25 cents a pound. The Stop & Shop on Southern Artery offered both chicken and lamb legs for 25 cents a pound and steak for 31 cents a pound.

Enterprise Department Stores at 1487 Hancock St. was selling reversible garbaine sportcoats for $6.99. The Bargain Center at 2 Washington St. was also offering dresses from $1.95 to 3.85 (regularly $5-$8), ski pants for $2.75 (marked down from $4.95), and fur hood jackets for $3.95 ($3 off the usual $6.95).

Kay Jewelers at 1509 Hancock St. had Bulova Miss America "A" gold watches for $33.75. If you wanted, you could put 75 cents down, and pay the same amount per week until paid in full. Kincaide's, just a few buildings away at 1609 Hancock St., was also a smart place to shop: Lounge chairs were $19.50, brand new radios $12.95, and sewing cabinets $9.95.

Looking for an apartment? Six rooms in Merrymount could be had for $50 monthly, four rooms on Farrell St. went for $43 and 5 rooms on Furnace Brook Parkway $40. You could rent three rooms on Beach St. for $30 if you were looking for something cheap.

Those seeking a more permanent residence could purchase a two family home in West Quincy for $5,800, an English colonial home in North Quincy for $4,500, or a six room, single family home in Quincy Point for $3,500.

Popular movies at the time were "You'll Never Get Rich" starring Fred Astaire and Rita Hayworth, which was playing at the Strand Theater; "Life Begins For Andy Hardy," with Mickey Rooney and Lewis Stone, at the Alhambra; and "Affectionately Yours" featuring Hayworth and Merle Oberon, at the Adams Theater.

Among the Quincy residents who made news that week:

• Ward 3 City Councillor J. Girard White, who publicly thanked voters for their "most splendid endorsement" in electing him to office.

Toland Proposes Election Runnerup Fill School Committee Vacancies

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Ordinance Committee of the City Council Monday night discussed a home rule petition that would change the way in which a successor to a vacant School Committee seat is chosen.

Under the current process, a joint convention of the School Committee and the City Council appoints a new member to the committee if someone is forced to step down because of health or other reasons.

The petition, introduced by Councillor Patricia Toland, would allow the person who had been first runner-up in the previous School Committee election to assume the vacant position.

Toland said "It's the fairest and easiest way of doing it." Councillor Michael Cheney and Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio also said they would support the petition, although Fabrizio questioned what would happen if they had been no runners-up in the previous election.

Toland said that she really hadn't considered such a possibility because there are always more candidates than school committee seats, but agreed that some kind of change could be made in the petition to compensate for that situation.

Meanwhile, Councillor Timothy Cahill voiced his disapproval of the matter.

"I disagree with this amendment," said Cahill. "I don't think we've made any mistakes in recent years. We've chosen some good people. You can't argue with the results, even though the process was a little messy."

"I don't think we have too many powers down here on the City Council, and we shouldn't have to give up what we have."

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien suggested that the council keep the matter in committee.

"We should put this on the School Committee agenda," Chretien said. "We owe them that courtesy. We should slow the process down; we can pass this anytime."

"Everyone on the School Committee looks fairly healthy right now," Chretien added with a smile.

Council President Theodore DeCristofaro agreed.

"I agree that a change has to be made, and we'll do it as soon as possible--after it's left in committee," he said.

Chretien said he would send a letter to the School Committee requesting that the matter be put on its agenda for an upcoming meeting.

If the petition is eventually approved by the council, it then must be signed by Mayor James Sheets before going to the state legislature for final approval.

Speaking on behalf of the mayor, Executive Secretary Thomas Koch said Sheets will support the home rule petition.

"The mayor's feeling is that while there could always be exceptions such as the ones discussed at the meeting, it would still be a vast improvement over what we have in place now," said Koch.

Seafood Restaurant Gets License Board Approval

By STEVE KAVANAGH

The Seafood Express is coming to town. The License Board approved the fast-food, seafood restaurant Tuesday which will be located at 65 Granite St.

However, before the new eatery can fry its first fish, the owner of the property, Demetrius Vardakostas, must furnish the License Board with a letter stating he will install a dumpster, approved by the health and building departments, in the rear of the location.

At a neighborhood meeting last week nearby residents expressed concern over the dumpster and limited parking at the site, said Ward 3 City Councillor Larry Chretien.

"The neighbors were more concerned about Luke's Lounge than anything," Chretien said.

Seafood Express is owned by North Shore residents Robert Schena and his son Sean. The menu will feature seafood and seafood plates, subs, sandwiches, Italian food and salads.

WHAT TO DO ABOUT COLD SORES

Now that the cold and flu season is here, so is another scourge of winter:
the cold sore. Although they occur throughout the year, these small, fluid-filled blisters are often triggered by colds and fevers. Cold sores are caused by the herpes simplex 1 virus, which is transmitted by saliva. The virus finds a home in the membranes of the lips and mouth, and flares into sores when stimulated.
The good news is that the longer you have the virus, the less frequent the outbreaks of sores. The bad news is that there is no vaccine or cure.
Prescription antiviral ointments can speed
healing of eruptions.
Moisturizers and numbing ointments can relieve pain and soften the sores.

P.S. By the age of 40, 80 percent of Americans have contracted the virus that produces cold sores.

If you are experiencing cold sores or other skin problems, see your

It Happened At The Lincoln

(Henry Bosworth has given himself a day off from behind the typewriter. Now and then he is asked to repeat a certain column. At least one readers requested the one that appeared on August 25, 1988 and it is being recycled today. Well, if Ann Landers can do it, why can't he!)

I don't think I'll ever run for President.
And, if someone ever asks me to be his (her) vice presidential running mate. I'm going to pass that up, too.

I just don't want anyone digging into my background.

If I were a potential vice presidential candidate the Presidential nominee would, of course, have me checked out. And, if he didn't do a thorough job at it, the press would.

One of the questions they would probably ask would be: "Have you ever committed a crime?"

And, I would reply: "No never!"

But then, they would get to digging and some little thing I had long forgotten about might pop up and prove embarrassing.

Like when I was a kid in Quincy Point I did something that I shouldn't have. But others were doing the same thing and you really had to be pretty good at it to get away with it.

If you won't think I'm terrible, I'll confess right now.

I sneaked into the Lincoln Theater.

Not once. But several times.

Now, if you lived in Quincy Point or North Weymouth back in the mid 1930's or early 1940's, the Lincoln Theater on Washington St. was your social center.

That's where you went on a Saturday afternoon if you were a kid. And for a dime you could see The Three Stooges, a Buck Jones or Gene Autry western and maybe a Bulldog Drummond B feature. And you might get Popeye as a bonus.

But times weren't always easy to come by.

And if you had the dime, you kind of liked to hold onto it to buy a bag of gumdrops or green mints or chocolate drops.

The Saturday and Sunday matinee were usually packed. People bought their tickets at the little box office out front and then waited for the doors to open.

As soon as the doors swung open, there would be a great surge forward. Those of us without tickets would stand in the middle of those with tickets and be carried in with the tide. The ushers were so busy taking tickets, they didn't see the ones without them walk right by.

One kid, just to make it more interesting, used to walk in backwards. And if an usher caught him he would say: "Oh, I remember seeing this movie before, I'm just leaving."

Those of us who did sneak in didn't do it always just to save a dime. It was a challenge. I don't remember any of us ever being caught.

But then, when the theater started to have Saturday afternoon drawings for prizes we bought a ticket so we would be eligible to win.

One Saturday afternoon I won a baseball bat and ball. I was the envy of every guy in the theater.

After the drawing, I returned to my seat near the back of the theater and the movie resumed. Suddenly, in the darkness, the ball dropped out of my lap and rolled down to the stage area. Someone scooped it up and pocketed it.

I was heartbroken. So were my friends. A new bat and ball to start the summer season off with were something to look forward to.

I timidly went to the office of the theater owner, and almost in tears told him I lost the ball. He kindly gave me another one.

We used that bat and ball in the field off Des Moines
Rd., the whole summer, taping the ball when the cover was knocked off and the handle of the bat everytime it was cracked. The ball got bigger and the bat heavier as the days went by.

The Lincoln Theater, as I said, was our social center long before movies were brought into our living room via television.

The theater was usually packed on Saturday afternoons. Sundays, when the best movie of the week was shown, Tuesday night which was dish night, Thursday and Saturday nights which were money nights.

You knew just about everyone in the theater. Most people sat in the very same seat every time they went there which was just about every time the movies changed.

I'm sure there were times when many families in Quincy Point sat down to Sunday dinner with the same set of dishes on the table.

The dishes were given to women on Tuesday nights, one dish a week until the set was complete. Admission price was 15 or 20 cents.

Money nights were big nights, too.

There were sealed unmarked brown envelopes, two or three with a $1 bill in them, one with a $2 bill, one with a $5 and another with the big prize: $10.

Ticket numbers were called and the lucky stub holders, one at a time, walked down to the stage to pick out one of the envelopes. And if you happened to have one of the first numbers and picked out a $1 bill, you got the Quincy Point razz all the way back to your seat.

And whenever the $10 envelope was the last to get picked up, that person was cheered all the way back to his or her seat.

We didn't have much else back then but we did have a lot of fun.

The Lincoln is long gone now. But the fond memories are still there.

You know, I feel a little better now that I have confessed my crimes at the Lincoln.

But, I'm not going to run for President or vice president.

If I do, they're going to find out for sure that I was the one that led the raids on the tomatoes in Hubbard Elia's garden on Winter St.

Not to mention the apples over at _____.

Never mind.

I've told you too much already.

came along and told us about it," Buckley recalled.

"It was startling. I couldn't believe it. I thought we would be going to war with Germany but I didn't envision going to war with Japan like that," he said.

Buckley was 19 at the time and would later volunteer for the Air Force.

Bernie Reisberg, owner of Bernie's Modern Formal Shop in Quincy Center, was a teenager at the time and would enlist and join the Air Force in 1943 at age 17.

"I knew it was a bad thing and I did understand we would go into war... but as a youngster it didn't penetrate right away but as time went on I realized the seriousness of it," Reisberg said.

"I was with a bunch of my friends when we heard it. I was shocked but it didn't hit me 100% as to the seriousness of it all."

Reisberg served three and a half years with the Air Force in the South Pacific.

Another Quincy Center business owner, Bill Fitzgerald of Photo Fitch, remembers the reaction of his family on that fateful Sunday.

"I was outside playing ball with two of my friends," recalled Fitzgerald, who was just six years old at the time. "My older brother, who was 15 at the time, ran past me into the house. A couple of minutes later I could hear my mother's voice, she was screaming 'Oh my God! Oh my God!' I ran into the house and she was embracing my brother with tears in her eyes," he said.

"Being so young I didn't grasp the significance of it," Fitzgerald said. He added that the repercussions would be great for his family as his brother and two older brothers, age 17 and 18 at the time, would all eventually serve in World War II.

THE WAY IT WAS—The Honolulu Star-Bulletin ran three extras on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941. The first extra reported six dead and 21 injured. Unfortunately the death toll would rise as 2,403 were killed and nearly 1,200 people were wounded.

"My two oldest brothers came home from playing football that day and that started my mother into hysterics again. I couldn't understand then why my mother was so upset. My father was trying to be calm and bite his lip," Fitzgerald said.

Fr. William McCarthy of St. John's Church was at a Boy Scout meeting at Sacred Heart Church in Haverhill when he heard about the attack.

"I was very surprised and shocked. It certainly was not the happiest of days," said Fr. McCarthy, a 14-year old high school freshman at the time.

Fr. McCarthy recalled the concern of his family as his brother-in-law, father of a newborn baby, entered the service shortly after the attack on Pearl Harbor.

"A question that a lot of people asked was, 'How long was this going to last?' People thought it was going to be a long war... Thank God it wasn't."

Herb Fontaine, former WJDA announcer, was an 18-year old Boston University freshman.

"I was at home studying for exams at the time," he recalled. "I was really taken aback when I heard it on the radio. I closed my books and sat and wondered what's going to happen next. It was frightening," Fontaine said.

Arthur Tobin, Clerk Magistrate of Quincy District Court, said he heard the news following Mass at St. John's Church.

"I heard the bulletin over the radio," said Tobin who was 11 at the time. "We all gathered around with my father. We were trying to understand as he explained it to us."

"At that age there was a lot we didn't comprehend," he said.

Tobin also said he remembered listening to President Roosevelt's Declaration of War. He also recalled Army trucks being parked in the driveway as he lived close to the Quincy American Legion Post. After the United States entered the war the Legion Post was used by the military.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Council Considers 'Modest' Pay Hike

The City Council was considering "a modest across-the-board pay raise" in the 1959 budget for city employees, who were requesting increases of 10 percent.

School Supt. Dr. Paul Gossard told the School Committee that his estimate of the sum to be set aside for salaries and personal services in the budget would be $4,650,440.

TRANSIT DISTRICT RECOMMENDED

The Old Colony Area Transportation Commission, headed by George A. Yarrington, recommended a South Shore Transit District to supervise public and private transportation in the Quincy area.

Yarrington opposed a proposal by Rev. John T. Driscoll (D-Dorchester) to extend the MTA one stop to the Dorchester marsh to attract riders from the new Southeast Expressway.

BRETT REBUFFED

The Park Board rejected a suggestion by City Councillor Joseph Brett that it take over jurisdiction of Kendall Park and spend $2,000 to beautify the old estate in North Quincy.

Park Board Chairman J. Ernest Collins pointed out that the Park Department had only 12 regular workmen, compared to 22 in 1948. He suggested the Forestry Department would be in a better position.

HEARING POSTPONED

A City Council public hearing on proposed rezoning of a large section of Germantown was postponed when Norfolk County Judge David Nagle issued a restraining order at the behest of opponents.

John Uccello, the Quincy developer who owned 20 percent of the 50 acres that were to be rezoned from Industrial to Residence B, had a case pending in Superior Court to block the change.

TREE LIGHTING

Henry Kilduff, president of the Houghs Neck Community Council, presided at the first community Christmas tree lighting ceremonies at the granite memorial in the park at Sea St. and Manet St.

who lost their playing hoods after the Thanksgiving Day game and publicly expressed hope that someone would return them. The players would have to pay for the hoods out of their own pockets if they were not found.

On Dec. 6, 1941, the only news pertaining to the City of Quincy on the front page of The Quincy Patriot Ledger included stories on repairs being done on the John Adams homestead, an update on the Quincy High School Debating Club's latest activities, and an announcement that plans for the annual Christmas promenade were being made. Although the paper carried news about the war in Europe, it was strictly depicted as being just that—a war in Europe.

What a difference a day would make.

Marie's Kitchen

Stuffed Clams With Spinach

This past Thanksgiving, turkey wasn't the only thing left over. I found myself with left over vegetables, at times not enough to serve again, but enough to keep. With the left over spinach, I made stuffed clams on large shells that were both easy and delicious. You need about 2 cups of spinach cooked any way you like. The following recipe fills six large shells or a dozen small ones.

STUFFED CLAMS WITH SPINACH
 2 cans whole baby clams (drained)
 1/2 cup plain bread crumbs
 1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs
 2 cloves garlic (minced)
 2 Tbsps olive oil
 1 Tbsp margarine (or butter)
 a dash of cooking sherry
 2 cups spinach, chopped (or fresh equivalent) shredded cheddar cheese
 a fresh lemon

In hot oil and margarine, saute the minced garlic and add the clams. Cook for about a minute or so, then remove from heat. Add the bread crumbs, the sherry, add the spinach and stir until the mixture resembles the consistency of stuffing. Fill each shell and sprinkle the top with cheddar cheese. Place on a cookie sheet and bake in a 400 degree oven until cheese is melted. Serve hot with lemon wedges if desired.

Correction

Baking time for "Amy's Chicken Supreme" recipe in last week's column should have read 40 to 45 minutes uncovered, instead of 10 to 15 minutes.

Quincy Couple Selected As Lung Association Heroes

Carol and Paul Magrath have been selected as local heroes by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association.

The couple will be honored at a reception at the Pillar House in Newton Dec. 5. The Pillar House was one of the first restaurants in the country to totally offer smoke-free dining.

The couple biked 3500 miles three years ago in a cross-country trek to raise monies to help the Lung Association fight lung disease. They have also completed other regional treks, and Paul was a volunteer mechanic on several treks. This fall, they completed the "Autumn Escape" weekend bike trek, which they began on a tandem bike.

"When people asked us why we biked across the country, we told them it was because it was too far to drive," said Paul with a laugh. He is a field engineer for Kodak.

"We still talk about the cross-country trek," said Carol, who works in the pathology department at Boston City Hospital. "It was a tremendous experience which fit our philosophy of being healthy and staying fit. We also met wonderful people who have become real friends who keep in touch." Tom Larsen, owner of the Pillar House, was also a participant with the Magraths on the cross-country trek.

The local hero program of the Lung Association honors people who are committed to protecting our environment and whose efforts promote lung health.

Nominations for local heroes can be sent to the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, "The Healthy Lung People," at 25 Spring St., Walpole, MA 02081.

Mernie Clifton Named Hospital 'Employee Of The Month'

Mernie Clifton of Weymouth has been named Quincy Hospital Employee of the Month for October.

Clifton was cited for her contributions as a member of the Social Services department.

She joined the staff in June, 1980 after having worked with neglected and abused children at Catholic Charities.

Clifton completed undergraduate studies at Boston University and received a masters degree in social work at Boston College.

She enjoys working with older people and likes the fact that the hospital is located in a community with a large number of senior citizens. Clifton described Quincy Hospital as a "pretty stimulating environment."

Patricia Toland, Russell Johnson Honored By CP Of The South Shore

Patricia Toland and Russell Johnson were honored by Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore Area with the Annual Community Service Award held recently at The Atrium at Presidents Place.

Both Mayor James Sheets, honorary chairperson of the event, and former mayor Frank McCauley, master of ceremonies, praised the honorees for their exemplified service to the community.

Johnson has been a rotarian for more than 28 years and was recently recognized as a Paul Harris Fellow, the highest award of Rotary. His community services have been varied over the years including the South Shore Prayer Breakfast, Salvation Army and Pantry Shelf.

Toland has served the City of Quincy as an elected official for 16 years, including the School Committee and City Council. She has also been involved with statewide activities including having served as president of the Massachusetts Councillors Association.

All proceeds will benefit the Children's Developmental Disabilities Center located on Adams St. in Quincy.

The Children's Developmental Disabilities Center provides therapeutic services to children, two months to eight years old, who have mild to severe disabilities. The children receive intensive speech, occupational and physical therapy to prevent physical deformities and contractures which could occur later in life. The Center also offers a preschool program and has a nurse and social worker on staff.

For more information about Cerebral Palsy of the South Shore and its programs, call 479-7443.

Kaki Chan Awarded Full Scholarship To UMass

Kaki Chan, a senior at Quincy High School, has been awarded a talented minority scholarship from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

The ward is a full-tuition scholarship for 1992-1996. She is planning to study engineering.

At Quincy High, Chan has consistently been named to the honor roll for distinction. She is a member of the school band, the girls' tennis team, the International Club, the Key Club. She also was the winner in last year's Science Olympiad.

She studies Chinese dance and is a member of the chorus at the Wollaston Lutheran Church.

Salvation Army Kettle Drive Begins 100th Year

This holiday season marks the 100th year since the first Salvation Army kettle was set out on the docks of San Francisco to collect money for the needy of the city.

Since then, the popularity of the kettle quickly spread throughout the United States and to many foreign countries. Now, the Salvation Army kettle has become part of the holidays for many people.

Now through Dec. 24, bell ringers and musical entertainment will be posted at Salvation Army kettles around town to collect funds for the needy. All contributions are used locally for food, shelter, clothing and gifts for those in need.

This season, the Salvation Army is expecting the number of those needing assistance to be higher than ever. To supplement collection efforts, two life-sized cardboard Salvationists, appropriately named "Merry Christmas," will be placed at various office locations on a rotation basis.

This year's honorary Christmas chairperson is First Lady Barbara Bush. Commenting on the Salvation Army's Christmas campaign, Mrs. Bush said, "I can't possibly think of Christmas without the Salvation Army."

Those wishing to serve as kettle volunteers can call the Quincy Corps office at 472-2345.

Two QHS Students Recognized By College Board

Two students at Quincy High School have been recognized by the College Board for exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement (AP) Examinations they took through May 1991.

Dean Tantillo qualified for the AP Scholar with Honor Award by earning grades of 3 or above on four or more AP Examinations. Sarah Goodman qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP Examinations with grades of 3 or higher.

The College Board recognizes three levels of achievement--the AP Scholar with Distinction, the AP Scholar with Honor, and the AP Scholar. Only about 10 percent of the 359,000 students who took the examinations last May performed at a sufficiently high level to merit such recognition.

Quincy College Opens New Photography Darkroom

Quincy College recently held the opening of its brand new darkroom facility.

The darkroom, which is funded in part by donations from the Quincy College Media Arts Endowment Fund and by Quincy College, is equipped with eight enlarging stations and negative development capability. More than 30 students study photography at the college and use the facility each week.

Francis X. McCauley, chairman of the Quincy College board of trustees, spoke about the new opportunity opened to Quincy College students with the new darkroom.

Quincy College president O. Clayton Johnson congratulated Charles Flagg, a member of the Media Endowment Fund Board and a photography instructor at the college, on his hard work in establishing the darkroom and said the school was proud to have such a fine facility.

The guests at the opening toured the facility, took photographs and were assisted by photography students to develop the pictures.

Flagg and Senator Paul Harold, who are co-chairmen of the fund, held two fundraisers for the facility. Senator Harold held a brunch in his home last spring, and the committee held a photography auction last fall. They plan to sponsor additional projects in the future.

Quincy College To 'Adopt' 52 Snug Harbor Students

Quincy College will adopt 52 students graduating from the fifth grade in 1991-92 from the Snug Harbor Elementary School in Germantown.

The college will develop a support system for these students as they continue through middle and high school which will include tutoring and academic assistance, and college admissions which will be provided on completion of high school.

Forty thousand dollars is being invested in a long-term account by the college to provide tuition support for these students to attend Quincy College beginning in the year 2000.

In establishing the program, president O. Clayton Johnson said "Project 2000 initiates the opportunity for Quincy College to serve those who need us now so they will better serve society later.

It is our responsibility to prepare for the future by improving the social circumstances for others to become our future diversified leadership."

Quincy College currently enrolls over 3,500 students and has a day diversity of 71% female and 19% minority.

RELIGION

'Affirming The Future' At Point Congregational

The Second Sunday of Advent will be celebrated at the Quincy Point Congregational Church, Washington Street and Southern Artery, Sunday at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon, pastor, will deliver the Advent sermon: "Affirming The Future." She will be assisted by her husband, the Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor, who will serve at the liturgist. The acolyte for Sunday's service will be Chris Brokmeier, member of the 1992 Confirmation class.

Sunday's service will include the lighting of the Advent wreath. "Emmanuel Candle" will be lit by Donald and Denise Hunter and their children. With the lighting of the candle, alto soloist Donna Baione will sing.

The Sacrament of Christian Baptism will be administered upon Katrina Lee Carlson, infant daughter of Eric and Kathleen Carlson of Brockton.

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play and the Chancel Choir will sing.

Church school classes are provided each Sunday from 10 to 11:15 a.m. during the hour of worship, for infants in the Crib Room to young people in grade nine.

Following Sunday's 10 a.m. service, there will be a "Church Family Advent Workshop" for all ages in the social hall.

'Challenge Of Peace' Sermon At United First Parish Church

Dr. Sheldon Bennett, minister, will preach on a sermon "Season's Greetings--The Challenge Of Peace," at the 10:30 a.m. worship service Sunday at United First Parish Church--Unitarian Universalist, 1306 Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Kirk Schroeder will be guest soloist and will play pieces for saxophone. Norman Corey, music director, will also play the organ.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Janet Gorman will be host. Tara Hastings and Michael Araujo will usher.

The "Understanding the Bible from a Liberal Religious Viewpoint" discussion series will continue this Sunday evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the church. Future dates will be Jan. 12, Jan. 26 and February 9.

The church school will meet, Brenda Chin, director, and child care is provided. Call 773-1290 for information.

'Are You Ready?' Sermon At Covenant Congregational

The lighting of the second Advent candle during the 10:45 a.m. worship service of the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., will mark the second Sunday of Advent. Rev. Kirk Johnson, co-pastor with Rev. Kathleen Graves, will preach. His topic will be: "Are You Prepared?"

Richard Smith, minister of music, will direct and accompany the choir in an introit and two anthems. He will also play either a piano or organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday school, with classes for all ages, will begin at 9:30 a.m. It is most important for all members to attend as most of the time will be devoted to rehearsing the presentation for Dec. 22.

During the worship service, a nursery is available for children age four and younger. Children in grades K-4 are dismissed for junior church.

Immediately following the service, there will be a special Congregational meeting. Following that, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call 479-5728.

'Birth For Rebirth' Bethany Church Sermon

The morning worship service at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center will begin Sunday at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Roger Ketcham's sermon topic is "Birth For Rebirth."

Scripture reader will be Vivian Miller. On this Second Sunday of Advent, the Advent candles lighting ceremony will be conducted by Steve Roberts and his daughter, Elizabeth. Music by the Chancel Choir will be directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director. Greeting the worshipers as they enter the sanctuary will be Cliff and Doris Evers.

Hosting the fellowship hour in the Allen Parlor at the conclusion of the worship service will be Jerry, Beverly and Sharon Capobianchi. The church school classes will begin at 10 a.m. in the parish house. At 8:30 a.m. Sunday Rev. Ketcham will conduct the weekly Bible study group in Room 3 of the parish house. Child care is provided at both hours for infants and toddlers.

An Intergenerational Advent Celebration will take place Sunday at 3 p.m. in the parish house. The afternoon program is for adults as well as children with crafts, a vesper service at 4:30 p.m., and a candlelight pot luck sandwich supper in the Allen Parlor followed by a carol sing.

'Preparing For Christmas' Sermon At Community United Methodist Church

"Preparing For Christmas" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. at the 10 a.m. worship service at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., on the second Sunday of Advent.

Following the pastor's Young Disciples message, Sunday school will meet.

Greeters will be William and Marion Cross and ushers will be Jay and Sybil White.

Fellowship hostesses will be Esther Paulsen, Eleanor Laitinen, Connie Schaffer and Dorothy Nogueira. Following the service the New Women's Group is sponsoring a Christmas tour to two mansions in Newport, R.I.

The Sunday school continues its support program of Christmas gifts for St. Ann's Home for emotionally and behaviorally disordered children and parishioners and friends have been asked to contribute to it.

Lord's Supper Celebrated At Squantum First Church

First Church of Squantum observed the First Sunday of Advent by celebrating The Lord's Supper.

The Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor of the church, preached on the subject "Expected Crisis."

Readers were Adam MacMillan, Amy Harper, David Dykens and Ian MacRitchie.

Lori Ogilvie played the role of Giddy the Clown to acquaint the church with Christian clowning. She performed a mime on the subject of Noah's Ark. Later, Matthew Sullivan-Moran and Kathryn Sarah MacRitchie assisted the pastor in lighting the first candle of the Advent wreath.

The deacons who assisted with the Lord's Supper were Tom Klock, Tom Williamson, Richard Hendry, Sandra Concannon and Andrew Ogilvie.

Tim and Betsey Norland were the greeters.

Richard Hendry and Harry Holmes were the ushers. Barbara Sorensen and Deborah Stohberg hosted the fellowship hour after church.

The Bible study group continues its study of The Acts of the Apostles Wednesdays night at 7:30 p.m. Junior choir meets Thursdays at 7:30 p.m. The Way Up, a group for teenagers, meets Sundays from 2 to 6:30 p.m. This week only The Way Up will meet from 4 to 8:30 p.m.

The Sunday morning worship service begins at 10:30 a.m. Sunday school for children in grades 2-8 begins at 9:30 a.m. During the morning service, children in kindergarten and the first grade attend their own Sunday school class. A nursery is provided at that same time for infants and toddlers. Child care is available for children who are older who have parents attending church.

Quincy Crisis Center Seeking Food, Toys For Christmas

The Quincy Crisis Center is in need of toys for children for Christmas. Especially needed are gifts for older children.

The center is also in need of all kinds of food for distribution during the Christmas season.

The purpose of the center, which is located at 98 Phillips St. in Wollaston, is to aid children, adults and families who are temporarily unable to function because of an unexpected or overwhelming crisis.

The center is a non-profit organization and depends on the generosity of outside agencies and other concerned citizens. For more information on how to make a donation call 471-7075.

200,000 Turn Out

Rain Fails To Dampen

By STEVE KAVANAGH

A little rain couldn't dampen the spirits of an estimated 200,000 parade goers as the 40th annual Christmas Parade was a tremendous success.

Many families and spectators of all ages lined both sides of Hancock Street from School Street in Quincy Center all the way to North Quincy High School.

Christmas Festival Committee Chairman George White was understandably happy with the parade.

"People were ready for a happy occasion and the parade provided it," White said. He said the crowd was more enthusiastic and responsive this year than he could remember.

"The band and float quality was absolutely excellent and the grand marshalls were well received," White said.

Indeed, 19 marching bands stirred the crowd with Christmas music and 22 colorful floats vied for the Father Thomas Tierney Trophy and $1,000 cash.

Fr. Tierney was the founder of the annual parade back in 1952. "Fr. Tierney started the whole thing with one band and one float. We really owe it all to him," White told the throng at the crowded awards ceremony at North Quincy High School.

The Woodward School captured first place in the float competition for "It Started In The Misty '50s."

Second place and $500 was awarded to the Quincy Fire Department's "40 Years Ago In The Fire Service."

The Koch Club earned third place and $300 for "Santa's Sleigh."

St. John's CYO garnered the fourth place prize and $200 for "Christ In Christmas." The float was dedicated to Fr. Tierney.

The Quincy High School Student Council was awarded the Mayor's Trophy by Mayor James Sheets for "Santa's Soda Shop."

Quincy Hospital won the trophy for Best Commercial Float for "40 Years of Family Traditions."

The Hallamore Clydesdales took first place in the Special Category division.

The parade grand marshalls were big hits with the crowd. People shouted "Boom-boom Boomtown!" as Rex Trailer, host of the old children's program Boomtown, rode by.

Cries of "Loouie! Loouie!" rang out as former Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant came into view.

And cheers and waves for plentiful for hometown favorite John "Jake" Comer, past National Commander of the American Legion.

Other crowd pleasers included the colorful

Quincy Partnership and South Shore Plaza floats, Germantown Yacht Club's "Dr. Seuss" float, Rick Cobban—the Keystone Cop on stilts, a 40-foot model of the U.S.S. Lexington, the Spee Dee Oil Change float which featured a stock car and an antique Corvette, Quincy Tourism's "Beantown Trolley" which featured Big Bird and friends, and the bands, cheerleaders and Homecoming Queens of both North Quincy and Quincy High schools.

Douglas High School took first place in the Division I band competition with Lawrence High School second and Comprehensive of Chicopee third.

David Prouty High School of Proctor won the Division II competition with Abington second and Pittsfield third.

Agawam was the Division III winner followed by Chicopee and Conant High School of Peterborough, N.H.

New Bedford won the Division IV title followed by Marshfield.

40th Christmas Parade

TOP OF THE POPS—Woodward School's "Take Us Back" float was decorated in a 1950's theme and won the Fr. Thomas Tierney Trophy for best float.

APPROPRIATE THEME—Quincy Hospital's "Celebrating Family Traditions" float won in the Commercial Division. The annual parade itself has become a family tradition.

BIG CROWD PLEASER—The Quincy Fire Fighters float, "40 Years Ago In The Fire Service," took second place. It featured a replica of an old fire engine.

Council Commends Christmas Festival Committee

The City Council Monday night presented a commendation to the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee for its work on the 40th annual Quincy Christmas Festival Parade held last Sunday.

Committee Chairman George White accepted the award on behalf of the committee.

"We are 28 strong; we work as a unit and make decisions as a unit, and that helps make the job easy," White said. "On behalf of myself and the committee, I thank you very much for this award."

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson praised the efforts of White and the rest of the committee for making the parade a successful event.

"I had a fantastic time watching the parade," said Kolson. "You must have a great love in your heart for the children and all the people who watch the parade. God bless you; you did a wonderful job."

White also thanked the council for a recent ordinance that he said eliminated 60 per cent of the use of such toys as "Silly String" and "snappers" at the parade.

The toys have been known to distract marchers in the parade in years past. The council's ordinance bans hawkers and vendors from selling the toys at the parade and imposes a fine on anyone trying to defy it.

Sights, Sounds Of Holiday Season At Wollaston Festival

QUINCY'S OWN--John "Jake" Comer (center), former American Legion National Commander, marches proudly in the 40th annual Christmas Parade. Comer was one of three Grand Marshalls in the parade.

PITCHING IN--Chants of "Looouie! Looouie!" greeted former Boston Red Sox pitcher Luis Tiant. "El Tlante," sans cigar, was one of three Grand Marshalls in the parade.

HOWDY!--Rex Trailer, of children's TV fame, greets parade spectators. Trailer was one of three Grand Marshalls in Sunday's parade.

"SANTA'S SLEIGH" was pulled down Hancock Street by the Koch Club's two-legged reindeer team. It took third place in the float competition.

Parade Committee Apologizes For Santa Mixup

George White, Chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee, has issued an apology on behalf of the committee to parade spectators between Sacred Heart School and North Quincy High School.

White said a decision was made to remove Santa and Mrs. Claus and the 18 young elves from the Santa float at Sacred Heart School as they were cold and wet from the rain.

"We regret that this was not a good decision as the spectators beyond the reviewing stand did not have the opportunity to view the Santa float," White said. "It is a decision that will not be repeated in future years and a valuable committee learning experience.

"The Christmas Festival Committee wishes everyone a most enjoyable holiday season and a happy, healthy and prosperous 1992. Again our apologies."

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

RESPONSIBILITY. Some people seem to be in it up to their necks. Others seem to have a perfect genius for avoiding responsibility.

This thought reminds us of an interesting old legend that we would like to share with you ... It is the story of two young boys who set out to fool an old wise man. They decided to trick the local hermit who had a reputation of being a wise old man. They captured a small bird and were going to show it to him and ask if it was alive or dead. If he told them it was alive, the boy holding the bird would crush it to death and drop it at the wise man's feet. If he told them it was dead, the boy would release it and let it fly away in front of the wise old man. "Well, wise man," they taunted, "is this bird alive or dead?" They chuckled as they waited for the answer. They were sure they would fool him.

Slowly the old man said, "It is in your hands."

Couldn't it be said that so many times in life, people go searching for the answers and it is in their hands all the time? The responsibility is there ...

Central Middle School Student Senate Holds Appreciation Day

The Central Middle School Student Senate recently hosted a luncheon to express their thanks to the school's staff and special guests.

Newly elected officers Terrence Roche, mayor; Mary Ann Patch, deputy mayor; Kelly Guggan, secretary; and Margaret Goodwin, treasurer, spearheaded the arrangements to make it a successful event. Assisting them with hospitality were Senate representatives Sarah Beston, Jamie Christo, Melissa Lord and Kara McSweeney.

Senate greetings were expressed by Mayor Roche who then introduced Central's principal, Louis DiMartino.

Traditionally, Central has recognized Friends of Education during American Education Week. This year, special recognition was made during the luncheon to Paul Jarvie, Harry Jones, Kenneth Grippi, Priscilla Grippi, Dr. Peter Skoler, Deborah Tirrell, Gerard Tirrell and Dr. Allan Yacubian. Their contributions to the students at Central have made many projects and activities possible. The school appreciates their genuine interest and support of young people's education.

Parent Teachers Organization officers Beverly Cullen, Anne Gildea, Denise Goodrich, Paul Jarvie and Elizabeth Swanton were also invited guests.

Candy sales during the recess periods have been the fundraisers to cover the expenses incurred. Senate representatives in charge of sales include Christina Amate, Jessie Barnes, Kristin Champoux and Cassandra Beck.

Staff members Carter Caudle, Donald Houghton, James Piccini and Student Senate advisor Mary Catherine Iannoni helped with the details.

North Quincy High School Christmas Concert Dec. 10

North Quincy High School will present a Christmas Concert Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium.

The Concert Choir, Jazz and Show Choirs, under the direction of Catherine Carnabuci, and the concert band under the direction of Richard Kenneally will present music of the season. The 68 voices of the concert choir will sing the music of Handel and Rutter and will premier a work by Erik Gustafson, a NQHS alumnus and student at Harvard University.

"A Christmas Portrait" and "Joyful All Nation" will be included in the selections presented by the band.

North's Show Choirs will step to their singing of the upbeat "On the Roof" and "Applause, Applause." The Scarlet Tones, a select group of 12 seniors and one junior, will present "Winter Wonderland" featuring Ellen Barrett, soloist, and Route 66 with Mark Jolly.

The Jazz Choir boys will render "Pretty Little Angel Eyes" with soloists Cassian Jae and Philip Pacino. David Ziolkowski, David Scott and Pacino will combine singing the traditional "Coventry Carol" and "One Small Child."

Other soloists will be Tracy O'Sullivan, Leanne Morris and Maria Passalacqua.

The public is invited and tickets may be purchased at the high school office or at the door.

The Jazz Choir and Madrigals have scheduled several performances during the holiday season. They will entertain at the Fenno House and State Street holiday parties.

NORTH QUINCY HIGH School's Jazz Choir members, from left, David Ziolkowski, Erin Kinnally, Cassian Jae and David Raftery, will be among the featured performers at a Christmas Concert Tuesday, Dec. 10 at 7:30 p.m. in the school auditorium.

New Ordinance Aimed At Trash Dumpsters

By MICHAEL WHALEN

In an attempt to keep the city cleaner, the City Council Monday night unanimously passed an ordinance that will require dumpster owners to keep trash from overflowing the dumpsters and falling onto the ground.

The ordinance, which was originally introduced by Councillor Michael Cheney, affects all commercial businesses utilizing dumpsters except those using temporary construction dumpsters, as well as all residential dwellings having eight or more units.

"We've been talking about this for a long time," said Cheney. "I would like to see this pass tonight."

Councillor Timothy Cahill agreed. "It's time to support the Health Department on this," he said.

Ward 4 Councillor Lawrence Chretien and Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson also voiced their approval of the ordinance.

Those who are found to be in violation of the ordinance will be fined $50 for a first offense, $100 for a second, and $200 for a third and subsequent offenses.

Council President Theodore DeCristofaro noted that the ordinance actually serves two purposes, since it will both improve the sanitary conditions of the city and also prevent businesses and other dumpster owners from being overridden with rats and other vermin.

Mayor James Sheets said he will sign the ordinance when it reaches his desk. It was the mayor's task force on litter that recommended the ordinance.

The health department will have the authority to enforce the ordinance. "They will ticket (the violators) and they will have to pay the fine just like a parking ticket."

"If they don't, we'll turn the collection over to the court. There are cumulative fines for failing to respond to the first ticket," Sheets said.

The mayor said the problem of overflowing dumpsters has varying intensity. He noted some dumpsters in the area of the Parkway in Quincy Center are well maintained while others are allowed to overflow.

"We'll target the problem areas. It's not meant to discourage business but to make sure the business areas stay clean. A lot of the litter you see on the street blows from the dumpster. It's just not tolerable."

North Wins The Battle Of Defenses, 7-0

By TOM SULLIVAN

It was a battle of the defenses and North Quincy's was just a little better as the Red Raiders avenged last year's tough loss and defeated Quincy, 7-0, before more than 10,000 on Thanksgiving at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The win, North's 25th in the series against 29 Quincy wins and five ties, gave the Red Raiders an 8-2 record, the best in Ken McPhee's 10 years as head coach. Quincy, which had won six in a row after losing its first two games, finished at 6-4.

It was North's fourth shutout win of the year.

The secondaries of both teams were outstanding, as neither club could do much through the air and had to depend on the running attacks.

North's Mark Taylor was 3-for-11 for 62 yards, but had one touchdown pass nullified by a holding penalty. He played well under a lot of pressure.

Quincy's Pat Gallagher was 3-for-15 for 55 yards and had three passes intercepted. Each was sacked three times.

Statistics were close as North rushed for 228 yards and Quincy for 194. North had 12 first downs to nine for Quincy.

"This was a great defensive game and our defense won it for us," said McPhee. "We gave them a lot of chances in the first half but each time our defense rose to the occasion. Both defenses played outstanding ball."

"Desmond Bellot had another outstanding defensive game. He is ranked ninth in the nation among defensive backs. He had two interceptions, knocked down two other passes and again had many tackles. On the game's opening kickoff he saved a touchdown when he made an open field tackle on (Noel) DiBona."

"Tony Liccardi had an interception and stood out on defense as we shut them down in the second half."

Final Quincy Scoring

"Brendan O'Connell had a fantastic day, especially on defense, as he played his best game of the year."

McPhee also praised Pat Shea, who knocked down a pass on the goal line, Chris Peck, Willy O'Donnell, Mark Zych, who had a tremendous game; Scott Kohler, Dave Raftery, Dave Reinhart, who was in on almost every tackle; Mark Sinclair, Mark Kelliher and Chris McCallum, all for their defensive efforts.

Offensively the coach had good words for Kelliher, Zych, McCallum, Chris Campbell, Raftery and Kohler.

Chris Murray, who ran well all season, had his best game with 118 yards on nine carries including runs of 37, 27, 19 and 16 yards. Mark Cocuzzo carried nine times for 64 yards, including a 31-yard hard-running fullback, was limited to defense and did a fantastic job. He was playing on true grit. He had three sacks and was all over the field. He, Gallagher and other players who had sat out the Barnstable game, were able to practice for only a few days prior to the game."

Scott MacPherson had a fine day on pass defense, knocking down two passes, and also recovering a fumble. Chris Walker had another standout game, carrying for 84 yards as a running back and catching two passes for 45 yards. He did a fine job covering Bellot. Robbie Kane, Walker and Mark Zaborowski played well in the secondary.

"Rich Buckley did a terrific job in his first game and Rich Howard, Gary Collins, Chris McLaughlin and linebackers Dave Bogan, Ally Sleiman, Jason Eleuteri and Mike Kavanaugh all had fine games," said Raymer.

DiBona carried 12 times for 37 yards, Bogan carried eight times for 39 yards and Gallagher rushed for 34 yards himself.

Quincy received to open the game and, after DiBona was stopped by Bellot on North's 37, Quincy drove to the Raider 12 with a 15-yard pass to Walker the key play. However, Licciardi intercepted a pass to stop the threat.

North, taking over on its 19, drove downfield, making three first downs with Cocuzzo's 31-yard run starting things off and going to the 50, Murray adding 15, Cocuzzo going for two, Murray racing 27 yards to the six and Cocuzzo scoring from there. Liam Higgins kicked the extra point.

Quincy's second drive was halted when Bellot intercepted a deflected pass as Walker fell on the slippery turf. MacPherson recovered a fumble on the North 32 and the Presidents reached North's 10. A holding penalty set them back and Bellot intercepted a pass in the end zone and returned it to the five-yard line.

After a Higgins punt, Quincy's Mike Malvesti got off an excellent punt which rolled dead on North's three. Taylor tried a quick kick on third down that traveled only to North's 15.

With fourth and 10 Gallagher was sacked and North took over on its 22.

Quincy held and Walker raced 42 yards to the North Quincy five. With five seconds left in the half Gallagher's pass was deflected and DiBona's 20-yard field goal try went wide with one second to go.

After holding North following the second half kickoff, Quincy reached North's 33 but again

Gallagher was sacked by O'Connell as the Raiders regained possession on their 38.

North had a first down on Quincy's 15 and, on fourth down, Higgins' try for his fifth field goal, this one from 30 yards, went wide.

With 2:30 left in the game, Bogan recovered a fumble on Quincy's 29, but time ran out as North celebrated its big win.

Fore River Noise & Odor Call-In-Line Opens

A group known as the Fore River Staging Area Committee has begun a Noise & Odor Call-In-Line.

The device was created to allow residents to voice objection to sounds and smells coming from Massachusetts Water Resources Authority operations within the interim sludge processing plant in the Fore River area.

Committee member Bernice Nader said the group, which is a tri-community organization made up of people from Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth, has been monitoring the MWRA's actions for over two years.

"The call-in-line is another way for us to try to oversee and review over the kinds of things the MWRA has been doing," said Nader.

While originally conceived as a way of pinpointing the kinds of odors resulting from MWRA activities at the plant, Nader said the great majority of the calls received so far are complaints about the noise coming from the area.

Nader said that the noise is caused through a process which the MWRA has begun using sample loads of sludge.

"There are fans at the plant that are producing a pure tone noise that has caused some disturbance," she said. "It's the pitch and the tone of the noise, not the volume, that is bothering people."

Nader added that residents who utilize the call-in-line can be of assistance to her group's cause.

"Citizens can be helpful by calling and putting themselves on record," she said. "Within seven days they should receive written acknowledgement of their complaints. Eventually these writings might end up helping us."

Those who have been disturbed by any noises or odors coming from the plant can call the Noise & Odor Call-In-Line at 376-0400.

Council Considers Fire Safety Ordinance For Tents

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The Ordinance Committee of the City Council Monday night discussed an ordinance that could help improve fire safety in certain temporary building situations.

The ordinance would require all temporary structures or facilities not permanently fixed to land with a capacity of holding 100 or more people to have a fire watch detail during all hours of operation.

In general terms, only tents set up for businesses purposes, such as those at carnivals, would be affected by the ordinance. This would not include The Tent in Squantum, however, since that business is considered to be a permanent structure.

Councillor Timothy Cahill, however, questioned the intentions of the ordinance when he noted that it would affect only businesses and not private functions such as weddings.

"It seems a little like tax; call it a fee or what you will," said Cahill. "It's not really fair to the businesses."

Fire Chief Thomas Gorman said he would just as soon have all temporary structures with the capacity to hold 100 or more people, including those for private functions, be required to have a fire watch detail.

Councillor Patricia Toland questioned the necessity of such a detail.

"A fire watch detail is just one fire fighter," said Toland. "How much could one person do?"

Gorman replied, "The fire fighter (on the fire watch detail) can summon the fire department rapidly. The owners of these businesses will sometimes try to quietly put out a fire by themselves, and it gets out of control. And then we have a panic on our hands."

In a response to another question by Toland, however, Gorman confirmed that such an occurrence has never happened in the City of Quincy.

Gorman noted that he also had trouble with some of the ordinance's wording, since it does not allow the fire chief to have the final say in determining which structures would require a fire watch detail.

"It should say that the fire chief can determine which structures with capacity of more than 100 requires a fire watch detail," Gorman said. "That's what I want."

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolsen suggested an amendment to the ordinance that would allow the fire chief to be the determining factor in such a situation.

Since there were too many questions about the wording of the ordinance, the council agreed to put the matter back into committee.

Gloucester-Dartmouth Playoff Game Here Saturday

Quincy's Veterans Memorial Stadium will be the site of the Division 3 Gloucester-Dartmouth schoolboy playoff game this Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

This will be one of 12 games under the new playoff format which has replaced the Super Bowls. There will be two games in each of the six divisions.

Gloucester won the Northeast Conference title with an overall record of 8-2, while Dartmouth won the Eastern Conference crown with an overall mark of 7-3.

Of particular interest to Quincy and North Quincy fans will be the Division 1

Bridgewater-Raynham vs. Waltham game to be played at Boston University at 10:30 a.m.

B-R won the Old Colony League championship with an overall mark of 9-0-1, while Waltham won the Greater Boston League title with an overall mark of 10-0.

Annual Tree Lighting Jubilee Tomorrow Night In Germantown

Santa Claus will appear in Germantown tomorrow (Friday) at 6 p.m. for the third annual Tree Lighting Jubilee.

The event will take place in the circle in the heart of Germantown near

St. Boniface Church.

After the lighting, refreshments will be served at the church.

Registration For Ski Instruction Starts Monday

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct registration beginning Monday, Dec. 9 for a five-week program of ski instruction at the Blue Hills Ski Area, announces Recreation Director Barry Welch.

The program is open to Quincy youngsters age eight through high school and features a one hour and 45 minute lesson from beginner to advanced, and free use of the ski tows. Supervised transportation from Quincy and return will also be included. Instruction will be provided by certified instructors of the Blue Hills Ski School.

The program will be conducted Tuesdays beginning Jan. 7 and continue for five weekly lessons. Cost is $72 and is payable at the time of registration. Equipment rental can be arranged for an additional cost.

Registration will take place at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. as long as openings exist. For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 204.

5 Schools To Divide $10,000

The City Council Monday night unanimously approved the allocation of $10,000 to be divided evenly among five city schools for various school projects.

Receiving $2,000 apiece will be Quincy

High School, Central and Broadmeadows Middle Schools, and Atherton Hough and Merrymount Elementary Schools.

Ward 1 Peter Kolsen said "This allocation is for various things that will help make them better schools. It shows the City Council's commitment to the education of children and our desire to make this (Quincy's) the finest school system possible."

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan said, "I enthusiastically support this measure."

AARP Meeting On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television will show the AARP meeting at Pagnano Towers that was videotaped Wednesday, Nov. 6 with special guests Judge Albert Kramer and Mikhail Baochev.

The meeting will be shown tonight (Thursday) at 8:30 p.m. on Ch. 3.

Judge Kramer spoke about crime and youth, how to discourage teen crime and how to prevent it in the future. Baochev, an English professor from St. Petersburg, Russia, discussed his country's health care issues. He also compared the differences and similarities of the U.S. and Russian health care systems.

The program will be repeated tomorrow (Friday) at 10:30 a.m. and Monday, Dec. 9 at 2:30 p.m.

Women's Exercise Classes

The Quincy Recreation Department will conduct two exercise programs at the Fore River Clubhouse Monday, Wednesday and Friday mornings at 8:45 and 9:45 a.m. beginning Friday, Dec. 6.

Each class includes exercise to improve and strengthen flexibility, endurance and overall fitness. Adaptations to the exercise allow each participant to work out at their own pace.

Program cost is $25 for 30 classes and registration is on a first-come, first-serve basis at the Quincy Recreation Office, 100 Southern Artery, Quincy from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays.

What Quincy Was Like After Pearl Harbor

By MICHAEL WHALEN
The news of the bombing of Pearl Harbor had a tremendous effect on the City of Quincy, and the week after the attack saw great changes in both the lives of its citizens and the everyday routines of the city itself.

On Monday, Dec. 8, 1941, Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, calling Quincy "a community rich in historic tradition," publicly stated that the city and its 80,000 men, women and children would do their duty to serve the country for the duration of the war and would "be prepared to join in the fruits of another glorious national victory."

Members of the police and fire departments were ordered not to leave the city without special permission because, as

Burgin stated, "the activities of the municipality will be conducted on a wartime basis."

Acting Capt. William Ferrazzi of the Quincy Police Department was named the War Duty Officer of the department by Chief John J. Avery. Ferrazzi's role was to be the "contact man in all relations between the Quincy Police Department and all military, naval and civilian defense organizations."

On the evening of Dec. 8 the City Council, which had voted against the establishing a city department of defense only a week earlier, rescinded its action and voted unanimously to create a Defense Council as part of the city government. This council formerly went into action as a municipal unit the following Friday. The council also introduced a resolution formally approving President Franklin Roosevelt's declaration of war against Japan.

On Tuesday, Dec. 9 1,200 men from Camp Edwards in Cape Cod arrived in the city to establish anti-aircraft batteries for the protection of local industrial plants. This was the first time the war actually hit home for many of the city's residents.

Later that afternoon Mayor Burgin requested that all industrial plants close until 7 a.m. the next day "to permit the army to become settled." The navy later ordered the workers back on the night shift.

The ninth of December was also the date of the first air raid test alarm in the history of the city. Mayor Burgin would later say that the people of Quincy responded "splendidly" to the alarm. Many people were apparently either frightened or confused by the alarm, however, and The Quincy Patriot Ledger would later run an editorial questioning whether it was actually "a good test or a cruel hoax."

On Dec. 10 the City of Quincy and other areas in the South Shore were ringed with anti-aircraft guns as hundreds of soldiers literally took over the area. Air raid warden classes of a "concentrated training period" for air raid workers in Quincy were also scheduled for the following week.

On Dec. 12 Ferrazzi announced that the city's children, handicapped and elderly would be evacuated if Quincy were subjected to an air raid.

The following day (Dec. 13) Ferrazzi would issue the first wartime traffic rule for the city: "Don't try to cut through an army or navy convoy at an intersection." Motorists must wait until the entire convoy passes by, Ferrazzi said, adding that other traffic regulations would be soon to follow.

Although people tried to some extent to carry on with their normal schedules, it wasn't always easy. Scheduled meetings at the Masonic Temple were canceled because the military had taken over the temple. At the Francis Parker School PTA meeting, Principal William D. Morrison put aside the regular agenda to talk about the war. And Dr. William Yandell Elliot of Harvard University, guest speaker of the Wollaston Mothers Club, predicted a "painful" struggle in the war against the Axis powers.

Meanwhile, letters to the editor reflected a myriad of emotions regarding the war—some for it, some against, and some unsure. Some people, like Mayor Burgin, were confident of victory, while others weren't quite as certain.

Only one thing was certain: That the bombing of Pearl Harbor and subsequent events of World War II had made a definite impact on the City of Quincy, and would for years to come.

Sheets Proposes Higher Tax Rates

or 23.21 percent.

FY 92's total valuation is the city's lowest since FY89 when the valuation was $3,838 billion.

In recent years, small business owners have asked the mayor and council for tax relief, charging they are overburden at a time when business is struggling to survive. Some have stated the increase in tax rates may force them out of Quincy or out of business.

If the mayor's recommendations are approved, businesses would pay 40 percent of Quincy's tax load. The residential levy would be 60 percent.

Sheets defended his tax rate recommendations, saying they are as fair. He acknowledged taxes for businesses have been increasing in recent years but added the city is trying to boost business by investing in its future.

"I think, obviously, the commercial property owners are paying as high a rate as they have the last eight or nine years. However, a lot of resources for this city will be going into the business areas."

"The investment of federal, state and local dollars to the revitalization of the business areas compensates for the disparity in the rates," he said.

If the new rates are approved by the council Dec. 16, the first tax bills for FY 92 would likely go into the mail by Dec. 30 and be due Feb. 1.

Councillor Timothy Cahill, who voted against

Special Education

The Quincy Parent Advisory Council will meet Thursday, Dec. 12 at the mayor's classification rates last year, said he may introduce an alternative plan.

The Quincy Board of Assessors advises taxpayers that lists of the FY 92 values are on display at the assessors office and at the main branch of the Quincy public library.

The tax levy for FY 92 is $72,887,771. That figure represents the amount of last year's levy, times two and a half percent (Proposition 2 1/2) plus $1.59 million in new growth.

Tax classification determines what the different tax classes will pay under the provisions of Proposition 2 1/2.

Council To Meet

7:30 p.m. at Stop & Shop on Newport Ave.

Meetings are open to the public.

Phelan Thanks Colleagues For Confidence

Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan recently thanked his colleagues on the City Council for choosing him to serve as council president commencing January 1992 for the next two-year term.

"I am looking forward to meeting with all councillors over the next month to work out committee assignments," said Phelan. "I am grateful and flattered by the faith my colleagues placed in me through this nomination.

"I look forward to working with all the councillors, the mayor and city department heads during the next two years."

Leaves Collection Extended Through Friday

Due to leaf persistence on trees and some rainy weekends, the city-wide curbside leaf collection has been extended one additional week through Friday, Dec. 6 to accommodate citizens, announces DPW Commissioner David Colton.

The leaf collection, which began in November, operates on the same day as regular residential trash collection.

Youth Council Christmas Celebration Dec. 6

The Quincy Youth Council is sponsoring a Christmas Celebration, Friday, Dec. 6 at the Fore River Club House from 8 p.m. to midnight.

The evening will feature dancing, socializing and Christmas fun for all ages and will include a disc jockey, refreshments and raffles. Donation is $5 at the door.

WHO ARE THE BUYERS?

QUESTION: Can you classify types of buyers and how each class operates?

ANSWER: Basically, there are three classes of people who look at homes. The first is in a hurry to move. They may have been transferred or already sold their present home. These are the buyers. The second kind is looking for a real bargain. They look only for ads by owners and for thousands of dollars under fair market value. The third kind will never buy. They enjoy looking at homes for a pastime.

Since Realtors publish 35% of classified home sale ads, the 2nd and 3rd groups, of non-buyers will be compressed into viewing only 15% of the ads. It makes sense to list with a REALTOR.

85% of home sale ads are published by Realtors.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

A Special Invitation

We extend an invitation to members of the clergy in the area to visit with us, view our facilities, and become better acquainted with our funeral home, our staff and directors. It also becomes an opportunity to discuss how we can serve more appropriately your congregations from a religious viewpoint.

This invitation is also extended to doctors and nurses, hospital staffs, coroners, florists, etc., to those who might be benefited by our "open house" visit. Please phone in advance so we can personally spend this time with you.

Holiday Season Crime Prevention Tips

Shopping areas across the Commonwealth become more popular as the holiday season approaches, not only for shoppers but also for robbers and thieves. The Quincy Police Department recommends the following tips for all citizens visiting malls and shopping areas this holiday season.

- Always keep your car locked whenever and wherever it is parked. Remember "Lock it and pocket the keys."

- If it is necessary to leave packages in your car, put them in your trunk, out of sight. If you have a station wagon, put the packages on the floor and place a blanket over them.

- Park in a well-lit area and as close to the stores as possible, avoiding remote and poorly-lit areas. Try to park in an area where people will be coming and going constantly. This will discourage the mugger.

- Do Not put your purse down while looking at merchandise or buying groceries. Only carry a purse if necessary. You can lock your purse in the trunk of your car and only take the items you need.

- Do Not carry large sums of money. Bring only the cash necessary for purchases. Credit cards should only be brought with you if you anticipate using them.

- Do Not let your purse dangle. Place one end of the purse in the palm of your hand and the other in the bend of your elbow, keeping the purse close to the body.

- Never place your wallet in your rear trouser pocket, carry it in a front trouser pocket. Should you need to carry a wallet in a rear pocket, either place a comb inside it or wrap a rubber band around it. Both of these methods will make the wallet cling to the inside of your pocket thus deterring a pick-pocket.

- Be on your guard. Bargains such as expensive items, offered at a fraction of their real cost, could be fraudulent or stolen.

- When you leave your home to go shopping, turn on a light and leave a radio or TV on. This may help to keep a potential burglar from entering your home.

If you see anything suspicious during this holiday season report it to the local police IMMEDIATELY!

Fertilizer Plant Noise Public Forum Dec. 17

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority will hold a public forum Tuesday, Dec. 17 at 7:30 p.m. inside the Quincy City Hall Council Chamber, to discuss issues relating to testing programs at the new fertilizer plant at the Fore River Staging Area.

The program will include a report on attempts being made to reduce noise levels created by the testing of exhaust fans. Members of the MWRA staff and engineering consultants will present a status report and explain the measures planned for noise reduction.

"We are setting aside plenty of time for open discussion after the formal presentation," said Carole Greenleaf, MWRA community coordinator for Quincy, Braintree and Weymouth.

The city council chamber is wheelchair accessible.

The newly opened treatment plant in Quincy Point has begun turning tons of foul-smelling sewage sludge—the major source of pollution to Boston Harbor—into odorless, BB-sized fertilizer pellets.

By the end of the year, the $87-million plant, which is part of the $6.1 billion cleanup project, is scheduled to be in full operation. The full-scale start up will put an end to the dumping of sewage sludge that made Boston Harbor one of the most polluted in the country.

MWRA officials say a few minor problems at the plant must be worked out before the plant begins processing all of the 164 million gallons of sludge the MWRA sewage district generates each year. Ultimately, the plant will turn sludge into 70,000 tons of fertilizer pellets a year.

For more information, call Greenleaf at 617-241-6057 ext. 1180.

The sludge to fertilizer process comprises seven steps.

First, about 450,000 gallons of sewage sludge, slightly more than one-day output of 43 cities and towns, arrives on a covered barge. It is offloaded through a hose into one of four storage

Sheets Stands Firm On Classification Hikes

Residents, Business Unite In Opposition To Higher Taxes

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Despite an overwhelming "no new taxes" message from homeowners and business owners at a public hearing Monday, Mayor James Sheets said he stands by his tax classification recommendation to increase the residential rate to $12.05 and the business (CIPP) rate to $25.69.

Under the Mayor's plan the average single family home owner would pay an additional $57 in fiscal year 1992. While the average increase for business owners would be 6.1% on their tax bills.

"My recommendation gives the best possible break to the single family homeowner," Sheets said.

The general consensus of about 150 people at City Hall Monday night was that business and homeowners should not be pitted against one another and that they prefer no increase at all.

"The City Council is our last line of defense," said Loren Strout of 112 Robertson St. Strout owns Presidents City Motel and is acting president of the recently formed Quincy Business Voice. "You are the public's voice and we are sending a message to the Mayor through you. We don't want a tax increase."

The council will vote Monday night on the matter and may adopt the Mayor's recommendation or one of its own. Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien has proposed a plan more favorable to business. His plan would raise the average homeowners bill by $81 while the average increase to business would be 4.8%.

Chretien said that because of new information he has since received and after input from the public hearing he is undecided. "The Mayor and I are in the same ballpark," he said.

Councillor-at-Large Tim Cahill was upset by a proposal which was attributed to him by Chretien and printed in a recent issue of The Patriot Ledger. A press release from Chretien detailed a plan by Cahill calling for an increase of $164 to homeowners and 0.06% to business.

"That is not my proposal," Cahill said. Chretien said he apologizes for the error.

Cahill said that although he doesn't think Chretien's proposal goes far enough in easing the burden on business he hasn't formulated a proposal of his own yet.

"I wanted to wait for tonight (the public hearing). I haven't determined what I'm going to recommend (for the tax shift), it may be lower than (Chretien's) proposal for business)," Cahill said.

Nobody spoke in favor of a tax increase during the public hearing while 32 people spoke in opposition, 30 others signed their names in opposition and 16 letters in opposition had been received.

A drop in property values has created the need to increase tax rates. The fiscal year 1991 total tax levy was $69.5 million. Through new growth and the increase allowed by Proposition 2 1/2 the FY 1992 tax levy will be $72.8 million.

Marion Fantucchio, chairman of the Board of Assessors, said the new rates were calculated based on property valuations as of Jan. 1.

Business leaders argued that the city will suffer in the long run if stores close up because the tax base will shrink and residents will have to make up the difference.

"You won't see new business coming to Quincy and there will be no new growth," said Quincy attorney Robert Quinn whose firm owns its condominium office on Willard Street.

'A Way Of Helping'

Quincy Store Owner Donating New Clothing To City's Needy

By MICHAEL WHALEN
In a heartwarming display of generosity, a local shop owner recently exemplified the true spirit of Christmas by making a substantial donation to the city's needy.

Caryn Smith, owner of Caryn's Corner at 1360 Hancock St., has given away what she estimates to be 800-1000 units of brand new clothes to various local charity organizations.

"I've worked in Boston City Hospital, and I knew organizations like the Pine Street Inn and Rosie's Place took clothes donations," said Smith. "I thought it would be nice to help people locally."

Smith said the clothes she donated were part of a surplus she owned as a result of buying a shop in Wellesley known as La Sweatre.

"There was certain merchandise in the shop I wanted for my store, and it ended up I had to buy the entire place," she said.

The clothes, which consisted of sweats, shirts, pants, jackets and other items, were divided among five local organizations: Father Bill's Place, the Koch Club, the Protestant Social Service Bureau, the Long Island Shelter, and the Sacred Heart Church Prayer Group.

Smith said the poor economy was one reason she decided to do her part to become involved in the spirit of the holiday season, adding that she has spoken to customers who have fallen upon unemployment and other financial problems.

"It's a way of helping people at this time of year," she said. "It's going to be a tough year for a lot of people."

CARYN SMITH, right, owner of Caryn's Corner, 1360 Hancock St., Quincy Center, hands a new sweatshirt to Simone Koch of the Koch Club. Smith is donating 800 to 1,000 new garments to five local charities. The charities will distribute the clothing to needy Quincy citizens this holiday season.

No appointment is necessary.

Leaf Recycling Saves $50,000

The Quincy Department of Public Works saved nearly $50,000 this year through the second annual curbside leaf collection program.

DPW Commissioner David Colton said that 5,300 cubic yards of leaves had been collected for recycling. The savings to the city results from money Quincy does not have to pay by sending the leaves to a landfill.

The leaves are being stored at the DPW's compost facility and are being converted for use as loam and topsoil in the Spring.

This year the five-week collection program resulted in an increase of 1,000 cubic yards over last year.

Keep Mailbox Paths Clear Of Ice, Snow

The U.S. Postal Service reminds residents to keep clear ice and snow from walkways and steps leading to mailboxes so letter carriers will be able to deliver mail in a safe and timely manner this winter.

Letter carriers experience a high incidence of injuries resulting from slips, trips and falls when icy and snowy conditions prevail. Many of these accidents could be prevented if walkways and steps were shoveled, salted or sanded.

MEDICAL MARVELS IN YOUR VEGETABLE BIN

Medical researchers are finding that chemical compounds in common fruits and vegetables may act as powerful agents in fighting cancer and lowering blood cholesterol.

For example, rats in a University of Chicago study experienced a drop in blood pressure and cholesterol levels after four weeks on a celery diet. University of Florida scientists think fruit pectin may also lower cholesterol. Broccoli contains a substance called indole carbinol, which scientists believe may help prevent the formation of cancerous breast tumors. At New York's Mount Sinai School of Medicine, researchers found that lecithin, abundant in soybeans, may protect against cirrhosis of the liver and liver cancer. P.S.: Binging on these foods is definitely not advisable, since other chemicals contained in them may have harmful effects.

At COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE, cholesterol and its related problems are one of our specialties. Please call us for information on this medical problem and its treatment. We will provide you with helpful information and make an appointment for a consultation if necessary. We specialize in the compassionate treatment of medical problems related to the heart. Our office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. Phone 472-2550. We are affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospital.

Mariano Staying On

There apparently will be no vacancy on the School Committee to fill for sometime yet.

Ron Mariano, who was elected state representative in the Third Norfolk District special election last month plans to serve dually.

"I am going to fill out my term on the School Committee," he says.

That term has two years to go.

"There are a number of important issues coming before the School Committee," he says. "I feel obligated to those who worked for my election and those who voted for me to finish my term."

Mariano was elected to a four-year term in the 1989 city election. At the end of this month he will have served half of it. It won't be until the end of December, 1993 that he will have completed it.

Serving two posts simultaneously is not new for the School Committee. Mary Collins is both a school committee member and a Norfolk County Commissioner.

COLLINS

Ironically both Collins and Mariano have been mentioned as contenders for vice-chairman of the School Committee in January.

But Mariano appears to have taken himself out of contention. His new Beacon Hill duties are keeping him busy as he adjusts to the role of state representative.

He feels that taking on the vice chairmanship might be a little too much. He feels, however, that he can handle both his school committee and state representative duties without any problems.

Of course, nothing is etched in stone. If Mariano thought his work on Beacon Hill was getting in the way of his work on the School Committee he might give up the latter. But right now he has no plans to do so.

Meanwhile, the City Council has before it a home rule petition introduced by Councillor Patricia Toland that would change the way a School Committee vacancy is filled.

Under the present procedure, an open seat is filled by vote at a joint convention of the School Committee and the City Council.

The home rule petition would have the runner-up in the most recent election get the appointment.

There's a lot of support for the petition. And there should be. It's the fair way of doing it.

MARIANO

Under the present process, just about anyone with a little political pull could wind up filling the vacancy. It's a sort of popularity and political who-knows-who contest. Someone who has never even run for the office could be the one getting it.

The home rule petition would be fair to those who run for School Committee — those who have the interest to run, go out and campaign, and spend their money to do so.

The job shouldn't be handed to someone who didn't have that interest.

In this year's election, Margaret "Peggy" King finished fourth behind winners Dan Raymondi, Steve Durkin and Linda Stice.

Under the home-rule petition she would — if approved — be the one to get the appointment if Mariano stepped down before completing his term.

She would then have to run for election but not as an incumbent.

BRIANBUCKLEY, Quincy Seniors Citizens-Youth Director, has done it again. Another celebrity Christmas Card.

This year's card features a picture of him with actor George Wendt, who as Norm, is parked weekly at the bar on TV's "Cheer's" sampling the beer.

His celebrity card lineup BUCKLEY and FRIEND down through the years has included: Bo Derek, Bob Hope, Jack Nicklaus, Bobby Orr, Reggie Jackson, Rafer Johnson, Rodney Dangerfield, Carroll O'Connor, Jerry (The Beaver) Mathers, Monty Hall and Marjorie Vincent, last year's Miss America.

Buckley says he has no trouble getting them to pose with him. "Everyone has been nice," he says.

MAHONEY

JOHN (BUTCH)

MAHONEY, coordinator of Social Health for the Quincy Public Schools, found a little excitement in the otherwise peaceful village of Blarney on a recent visit to his roots — County Cork, Ireland. Mahoney was right there in the village square when a bull broke loose from a cattle truck and seemed to panic. Police and the owner decided the safest thing to do was to shoot the animal when it could not be rounded up.

Mahoney's mother and father were born in Blarney and later came to this country and settled in Quincy.

Butch was a pretty good football player at North Quincy High School which prompts friends to ask: "If you had tackled the bull they wouldn't have had to shoot him."

Morrissey Asks MDC To Increase Hours At Shea Memorial Rink

Citing the emotional and financial hardship as well as concerns for affordable public recreational opportunities, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) has called upon the Metropolitan District Commission to increase the hours available for public skating at the Shea Memorial Rink.

In a letter to MDC Commissioner M. Ilyas Bhatti dated Dec. 2, Morrissey wrote, "During this period of economic hardship I believe it is our responsibility as public officials to provide our residents with increased and affordable recreational opportunities."

Morrissey also in the letter applauded the efforts of the MDC in opening its rinks to schools, parents and their very young children during day time hours. However, Morrissey expressed his increased concern for the severe need for more public skating times, particularly for teenagers.

Real Estate Update

Steve Fitzpatrick

BRIDGE LOAN TO THE RESCUE

QUESTION: I have just found a buyer for my home but he cannot close the purchase for three months. The replacement home I am buying has a closing date in only one month. In other words, there is a two month lag between the time I need the cash to purchase the replacement house and the time I will get the cash from the sale of my present home. Where do I go from here?

ANSWER: An experienced Realtor can often arrange interim financing, or what is known as a "bridge loan," for you. The money is advanced by your bank on a short term basis with interest computed daily. Your equity in your present home is the loan security.

IF YOU BUY BEFORE YOU SELL, a "bridge loan" may be the answer to your new financing.

By MICHAEL WHALEN

A little more than a year after it began, a dream for a Houghs Neck family has finally become a reality.

A specially-trained dog that will enable eight-year-old Erin Leth of Manet Ave. to better cope with a rare seizure disorder arrived at Logan International Airport in Boston last Thursday night after being flown in from Byron Center, Michigan.

The animal, which cost $6,000, comes to the Leth home through a special fund that was started last year by the Quincy Firefighters Association Local 792. According to Erin's mother, Teresa Leth, the firefighters had become acquainted with Erin through various calls to 911 the family made when Erin was having seizure attacks.

"It was wonderful," said Mrs. Leth. "Erin had been in and out of the hospital a number of times, and the firefighters knew her well."

Erin's father, Philip Leth, added that of the $6,000 raised, "the fire department ended up giving about half the total figure, easily."

The money went to the purchase of "Shadow," a 1 1/2 year old golden retriever who has been trained to help Erin with her pattern-induced seizure disorder, a rare affliction that has thus far prevented her from living a normal life.

"With Shadow here, we'll be able to leave her in the yard," said Mrs. Leth. "It will give her more independence and help to increase her self esteem."

The dog is trained to run for help when Erin begins to have a seizure, and also to prevent the girl from accidentally hurting herself during an attack.

"For instance, if Erin starts banging her head against a wall, the dog is trained to get in the way so she'll be hitting the dog and not the wall," said Mr. Leth. "He's trained to roll her over and keep her safe."

Shadow comes from an a Michigan-based center called Paws With A Cause that trains service dogs to help people with a number of different problems. Mrs. Leth said she first learned about such animals through Ann Sava, an advocate for service dogs who spoke as a special guest at The Woodward

School for Girls.

"My sister teaches at the school, and that's how I originally heard about Ann," she said, adding that Sava has become a family friend since first coming into contact with the Leths.

Originally, the dog's training name was "Bluey," but the family changed his name to "Shadow" at Erin's request.

"I feel that's so appropriate, because that's what he's going to be—her shadow," said Mrs. Leth.

Both of Erin's parents expressed their gratitude towards the many people who helped the family bring Shadow into their home.

"We'd like to thank Ann Sava and Chelsea (Sava's dog; Sava also uses a service animal for a back ailment she has) for letting us know about service dogs; the Quincy Fire Department for their wonderful generosity, and all of the people who have been there to listen to us when things were rough, and are here now to help celebrate," said Mrs. Sava. "A lot of people who we didn't even know who read the stories (in the news last year) contributed to the fund."

Her husband agreed.

"It was our family's perfect Christmas gift for Erin," he said.

Jenness Gains But Loses To McIntosh

William W. Jenness gained 48 votes in the recount but he still failed to displace David S. McIntosh as city councillor from Ward 1 by 91, instead of 189, votes.

The recount found that a block of 50 votes originally credited to McIntosh should have gone to Jenness by 48 to 2.

"Quincy is getting a very bad reputation for its conduct of elections," said Hespel E. Sutherland, chairman of the Republican City Committee.

"This latest error was entirely too serious to be lightly passed over."

COMMUNIST DANGER CITED

The destroyer USS Moffett was launched at the Fore River Shipyard amid strict security after a reduction gear on the USS Quincy was badly damaged in a suspicious accident.

"If certain episodes in this yard can be definitely traced to Communist activities," said State Auditor Thomas H. Buckley, the luncheon speaker, "the time has come for every patriotic American to demand immediate deportation."

LYONS REAPPOINTED

Gov. James M. Curley reappointed Lawrence W. Lyons to a sixth five-year term as clerk of Quincy District Court, passing over his challenger, former Sen. Edward G. Morris.

Morris was named to a $3,180 post in the Department of Taxation and Corporations by Curley in order to avert a split in the ranks of Norfolk County Democrats.

QUINCY-ISMS

George A. Bonsall was reported in line for reappointment to a second two-year term in the $3,750 post of city auditor ... The Granite Trust Carol Singers, under the direction of Edward Whittridge, sang at a Christmas social sponsored by the Daniel Webster School PTA ... A barbeque chicken dinner was 60 cents at the St. Moritz Gardens on Willard St., West Quincy, "the largest dine and dance casino on the South Shore" ... Nicholas DiCross was elected president of the John Quincy Adams Club ... Mayor Thomas S. Burgin said he will remove three assistant assessors appointed in January by former Mayor Charles A. Ross, his predecessor ... They are D. Forest Taylor, Benjamin Rappaport and Lyndon Gurney ... A duplicate of the ranch house owned by movie cowboy star Hoot Gibson was on display in the Boys Department at Remick's ... It was announced that Milton would replace Boston Farm and Trade on the 1936 North Quincy High School football schedule ... Mrs. Dorothy B. Lee reported that she spent $5.60-$4.60 with Franklin Printing for cards and $1 for an ad in the Patriot Ledger ... on her unsuccessful campaign for School Committee ... Clarence Trask, president of the Blue Hills Recreation Club, criticized the MDC for its "unfair attitude" toward St. Moritz ponds and winter playgrounds ... Oysters were 21 cents a pint at the Mohican Market, 19-25 Chestnut St ... Edwin J. MacEwan, who held a similar post with the Asbury Park, N.J., Board of Trade, was named secretary of the Quincy Chamber of Commerce ... city Councillor John R. Shaughnessy, angered by the Quincy Taxpayers Association's failure to oppose a $1.1 million tax abatement to Standard Oil, predicted the "death" of the QTA as long as Charles E. Greeley is president ... A box of stereoscopic slides taken by Amory H. ## Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'OLIMPIO

John's Scones

After Christmas shopping one night with my brother John and sister-in-law Anita, we went back to the house for coffee. As a rule, I would just have coffee, but John had baked some delicious scones that we couldn't resist. He had added anise, a favorite of ours.

JOHN'S SCONES

1/3 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1/4 tsp salt
1 Tbsp baking powder
1/2 tsp baking soda
1 Tbsp cream of tartar
1/4 cup margarine
3/4 cup raisins
1 egg
1/2 cup milk
2 tps anise

Beat egg and milk together and set aside. Mix dry ingredients and cut in the margarine. Add the egg and milk and anise and stir until blended. Add the raisins. Drop by large tablespoons full on a piece of aluminum foil placed on a cookie sheet. Bake in a 375 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Cool and serve with tea or coffee, you'll love them!

Marie D'Olimpio is the author of "Simply Italian-And then Some," a collection of her own recipes. Copies of the book are available at Previte's Market, Sumner St., Quincy Point, Samoset Pharmacy, Samoset Ave., Merrymount and Winfield Gift Emporium, Hancock St., Quincy Center.

Three Residents Invested In Boston Boy Choir

Three Quincy residents have been invested into the Boston Boy Choir which performs regularly at Symphony Hall, Tanglewood and Carnegie Hall.

They are: Michael Dwan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dwan of Dickens St.; Steven Liu, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Liu of Elliot Ave.; and James Michael Spencer, son of

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Spencer of Babcock St.

The three are members of the fifth grade at the Boston Archdiocesan Choir School.

Volunteers Recognized At South Shore YMCA's 'Celebration 91' Event

The South Shore YMCA recently held its annual volunteer recognition event at the Fontbonne Academy.

The event, called "Celebration '91," included a musical performance by singer, songwriter and storyteller Steve Schuch. Several individuals were honored, through presentation of the Youth of the Year Award, the Hodgkinson Award, and induction into the YMCA's Hall of Fame.

Paul Hurley Jr., YMCA past president and chairman of the YMCA's 100 Year Anniversary Committee, said, "This year's event was also the kickoff of our centennial, and the introduction of our new 100-year logo, designed by Graham Communications of Quincy."

Daniel Camacho of Stoughton received the YMCA's Youth of the Year award. Camacho, 17, a student at Stoughton High School, has been a camper at the YMCA's boys camp on Cape Cod, Camp Burgess for five years.

He has volunteered at camp, working as a member of the maintenance staff during part of the summer, and serving as a member of the camp's teen weekend volunteer program called "Camp Crew."

The YMCA's Benjamin F. Hodgkinson Award was presented to Doris Ehrens, a volunteer with the YMCA's swim team. Ehrens began volunteering in 1985, when her son joined the team.

She has volunteered countless hours working as a timer at the many swim meets, and has served as the Parents Booster Club treasurer for the past several years. She is also a certified stroke and turn judge, and volunteers often in this capacity at meets. She has volunteered well over 1,000 hours to the South Shore YMCA's swim team.

Three new members were inducted into the YMCA's Hall of Fame, which honors people who have made a significant impact on the Y.

Gilbert Crofts, who began his involvement with the YMCA while a student at Quincy High School, was the first inductee. In 1930, he joined the staff of the Y as assistant physical director, a position he held for 18 years.

His contributions to the Y include turning out championship basketball teams, and teaching thousands of young men and boys to swim. In 1956, he became the general director, coordinating the Y's move to their new facility on Coddington St. in Quincy.

He retired in 1969 and has 12 active years of retirement before his death in 1981. His wife, Helene Crofts, accepted the award on his behalf.

Eleanor Dacey, who was active in the Y for three decades, was the second inductee. Through her generosity, hundreds of children whose families could not afford the full fee, were able to attend camp.

Quincy Hospital Boards To Meet

The Quincy Hospital Board of Managers Finance Committee will meet Tuesday, Dec. 17 at 6:30 p.m.

A board of managers meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the education center at the McCauley Building.

Children's Christmas Program At First Presbyterian

The children of First Presbyterian Church, Franklin St., South Quincy, will present their annual Christmas program Sunday, Dec. 15 at 6 p.m. at the church.

This year's program will be a reenactment of the Christmas story through the eyes of a child featuring music and drama. The community is invited and there is no cost.

For more information call the church at 773-5575.

YMCA After School December Vacation Camp

The South Shore YMCA's After School Care Program is running a December Vacation Camp at Kramer's Hayloft for children in grades 1-6.

The camp will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Dec. 23-27 and 30-31 (six days at a cost of $100), and Dec. 23, 26, 27 and 30 (four days at a cost of $70).

For more information or to register call Melanie Lyons Ferreira at 479-8500 ext. 104.

Heart Association Opens South Shore Chapter

The South Shore Branch of the American Heart Association was formed recently for the purpose of promoting education within the school systems, health facilities and the community at large.

The branch covers 11 towns in the South Shore area. It is currently involved in a fund raiser to benefit research.

Hearts in Bloom Day will be Thursday, Feb. 13, 1992. Participating companies and workites statewide will gather orders from their employees, and spring bouquets will be delivered in celebration of the day.

Bouquets are given in exchange for a $7 contribution to the American Heart Association.

Hanging Of The Greens Sunday At Bethany

Family Sunday will be observed at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday morning at Bethany Congregational Church, Spear and Coddington Sts., Quincy Center.

Children of the church school will participate in the Hanging of the Greens ceremony. The Rev. Roger Ketcham's sermon topic will be "The Beautiful Message of Christmas." He will also speak to the children on the Chancel Steps prior to their retiring to their classes. Scripture reader will be Maria Sanchez.

Greeting the worshippers will be Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Fitzgerald. The third candle will be lit during the Advent Candelighting Ceremony.

Hostesses for the fellowship hour will be Edmund, Elaine and Paul Aluisi. Music for the service will feature the Chancel Choir directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director.

The weekly Bible study at 8:30 a.m. Sunday will be conducted by Rev. Ketcham. Child care is provided at both hours for infants and toddlers.

On Sunday evening at 7 p.m. Bethany Church continues a long standing tradition of caroling at the Massachusetts Respiratory Hospital in Braintree. Participants are invited to enjoy refreshments at the Ketcham's parsonage following the caroling.

A Holiday Stress Workshop conducted by Lynda Ketcham will be held Friday, Dec. 13 at 7 p.m. in Allen Parlor of Bethany Church. The workshop is a stress free gathering for support and ideas on how to handle stress traps for the holidays. Refreshments will be included in the program sponsored by the Christian Education Committee as an adult education program.

'Who Is Jesus?' Sermon Topic At First Parish

This Sunday, Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will give the sermon "Who Is Jesus? And So What?" during the 10:30 a.m. worship service at United First Parish Church-Unitarian Universalist.

The church choir, Norman Corey, music director, will sing anthems by Handel. Corey will also play organ selections by Pachelbel and Peters.

Visitors are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Mark Meadows and Florence Grose will host, and Richard Post and William Westland will usher.

The All Church Christmas Potluck Supper and Party will be held Saturday beginning at 6:30 p.m. There will be carol singing, a play by children and adults of the church school, and, of course, Santa Claus will pay a visit, bringing gifts for the children. Reservations are necessary.

The Quincy Choral Society will perform their annual Christmas concert Sunday afternoon at the church at 3 p.m.

The Quincy Holiday Festival Committee Nativity Pageant will be held at 6 p.m. in the church.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. The church school will meet, Brenda Chin, director, and child care is provided. For more information call 773-1290.

'Repent And Rejoice' Sermon Topic At United Methodist

"Repent and Rejoice" will be the sermon topic of the Rev. Harry Soper Jr. at the 10 a.m. worship service Sunday at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St.

Sunday School will meet following the pastor's Young Disciples message.

Music director is Douglas Ulwick. David Nieman a Hammered Dulcimer player will be guest soloist.

Greeting worshippers will be Phyllis Hawes and Helga Strong. Ushers will be William and Marion Cross. Robert Blair will be the scripture reader. Fellowship hostesses will be Virginia Hawes, Margaret Troup, Phyllis Johnson and Shirley Gargano.

Church facilities are handicapped accessible and child care is provided.

The 3M's social group will hold its Christmas party Friday following a pot luck supper.

An Advent Family Celebration will be held Sunday, Dec. 15 from 4 to 7 p.m. At 6 p.m. the Junior High Fellowship will meet and at 7 p.m. the Prayer Circle meets.

'Are You Happy?' Topic At Covenant Congregational

Rev. Kathleen Graves will preach a sermon entitled "Are You Happy?" at the 10:45 a.m. worship service at Covenant Congregational Church, 315 Whitwell St.

Rev. Graves is co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson.

The third advent candle will be lighted.

The choir, directed and accompanied on the organ and piano by Richard Smith, will sing an introit and two anthems.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. The children will be rehearsing the play to be presented Dec. 22.

Following the worship service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs. Volunteers are needed to serve as hosts for the remainder of the year.

Activities for the week are: senior adult luncheon and program at 11:30 a.m. Thursday; choir rehearsal at 7 p.m. Thursday; A Luciafest and brunch will be held Saturday, Dec. 14 at 10:30 a.m. with traditional Swedish foods, crafts and other items on sale. Tickets are $5 adults and $3 for children 12 and under and may be reserved through the church office.

Coming events include: the Naomi Society Christmas potluck Monday, Dec. 16 at 6:30 p.m. at the home of Florence Anderson; the Sunday School play and Christmas party Sunday, Dec. 22 at 4 p.m.; a candlelight Christmas Eve service at 11 p.m.; the church council budget meeting Friday, Dec. 27 at 7 p.m. in the parsonage; and a New Year's Eve potluck at the parsonage.

For information call 479-5728.

Childrens Choirs To Sing At Good Shepherd Church

'A Simple Christmas' Pageant At Point Congregational

The church school pageant "A Simple Christmas" will be performed Sunday at 10 a.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

Music will be sung by the Chancel Choir, and church school children will act out the birth of Jesus Christ in the area of the chancel.

With the exception of infant care, nursery and kindergarten, all church school students will worship with their families during the service. All church school classes will continue with their regular schedule Sunday, Dec. 22 at 10 a.m.

Directing this year's children's pageant will be Mrs. Helen Patterson. Readers of the Christmas story will include Elizabeth Egan, Danielle Gates, Cherylann Smith, Kristen Knudsen, Richard Carboneau, and Tracey Jewrich.

Members of the pageant cast include Gail Donaldson as Mary, Christopher Harrison as Joseph, Elena Quintiliani and Patty LaCasse as the angels, Timothy Egan, Adam Jewrich and Paul Dibona as the shepherds and John Donaldson, Steven Geloran and Christopher McAuliffe as the kings. The original script has been rewritten for the presentation by the Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon, pastor.

Sunday's service will also include the lighting of the Joy Candle of the church's traditional Advent wreath. This third candle of the Advent season will be lighted by Ian and Debbie Tait.

Church organist and choir director Dr. Herman Weiss will play.

'Getting More Out Of Christmas' Topic At Houghs Neck Congregational

Rev. M. Alicia Corea will deliver a message on "Getting More Out Of Christmas" Sunday at the 9 a.m. worship service at Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave. She will also play the organ.

The service will be led by Rev. Dr. Peter V. Corea. Susan Mackay will reading the introduction of the Advent candle lighting ceremony. The candle will be lit by a member of the Sunday school. Members of the diaconate serving will be Michael Stewart and Ruth Gordon. Greeter at 9 a.m. will be Bea Goodwin.

At the 10:30 a.m. service Dr. Corea's sermon will be "Setting Priorities." Rev. Corea will lead the worship service. The offertory solo will be sung by Harold Little. Members of the diaconate serving will be Jason Schofield and Joyce Bishop. Greeter will be James Bassett.

Between services a coffee hour hosted by Gayle Mackay and Rod Hicks will be held in the conference room. Houghs Neck Congregational Church commemorative mugs will be on sale then.

Sunday school for early childhood will be at 8:30 a.m. and intermediate and middle high classes will be at 10 a.m.

Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. the third Advent service will be a program of Christmas music prepared by organist and director Arden Schofield and sung by the church choir. Soloist will be Suzanne Dennis. The trio of Chris Prendergast, Gayle Mackay and Dorothy Sparks will also sing. Following the service a coffee hour hosted by the diaconate and a stocking stuffer sale will be held in fellowship hall.

Wednesday the Mothers and Others Club Christmas party will be at 7:30 p.m. Each attendant should bring a wrapped gift to be exchanged. The gift must be connected to music somehow. Secret pals will be revealed.

Public Forum On Fore River Fertilizer Plant

tanks at the plant.

Inside a storage tank, the sludge, which is 97 percent water, is treated with potassium permanganate to neutralize its odor and thickening agents.

Next, the sludge is fed onto rollers, where it is pressed into long, thick sheets that fall to a conveyor belt below. Foul-smelling air is drawn off into gas-fired cylindrical burners where it is used to heat the furnaces.

Water squeezed from the sludge is piped back through sewers to the sewage treatment plant at Deer Island.

Then, the rotating, cylindrical furnaces cook the sludge at 720 degrees Fahrenheit for about 30 minutes, until all bacteria and pathogens are destroyed. The rotating action turns the dried sludge into tiny pellets an eighth of an inch in diameter.

Gases from the furnace are propelled into a ceramic-lined "afterburner" whose 1,500-degree temperatures destroy any remaining odor before gas is emitted from a 213-foot-high stack.

Lastly, the sludge pellets are blown into one of five silos, to be stored until they can be loaded into railroad cars or trucks.

Residents, Business In Opposition To Higher Taxes

Quincy real estate developer Mark Dickinson of 1266 Furnace Brook Pkwy. warned the City Council that Quincy's tax rate on business is too high already and could drive business out of the city. Dickinson said that the computer software company Lotus is moving 1/3 of its operation out of Cambridge to North Reading because of real estate taxes.

"Jobs are the thing that's really gonna turn this thing around," Dickinson said. "We (Willard Building) just lost a major tenant to Braintree."

Anthony Agnitti of 45 Elm St., owner of Agnitti Insurance, 21 Franklin St. told the council that Quincy is not competitive with neighboring towns such as Weymouth and Braintree which have much lower tax rates for business.

"If you push me too hard I have to lay people off," Agnitti said. "Companies will bypass Quincy during the 'Big Dig' because the tax rates are not competitive. Don't push business out. You will end up putting more of a burden on the homeowner."

"The perception is that the city wants to sock it to business. All that the business people are looking for is equity and fairness," said Elmer Fagerlund of 11 Churchill Road and a Quincy business owner.

Ed Nelson of 62 Hamilton St. said the city needs to attract a major business soon.

"We need a big business, not another hair dresser. If we don't do something now there will be more people leaving (Quincy) than you've ever seen before," Nelson said.

"I don't subscribe to the 'gloom and doom' theories about business," Sheets said. "Business is bearing a heavy portion of the (tax) burden but we're putting money into the downtown and business areas which will help business."

The Mayor said the city has attracted many new businesses in the past two years. "We are sensitive to business," he said.

Sheets said he fears that Quincy's local aid from the state will be reduced again which would mean a reduced budget and layoffs.

He said that he does not want to make any more cuts in the police, fire or school department budgets.

"The number of patrolmen in our police department is at its lowest level in many years," Sheets said.

Although many homeowners said they were sympathetic to the plight of business owners, they told the City Council they could not afford to shoulder a bigger share of the burden. Others said it was unfair for home owners who are retired with no income or a fixed income.

Margaret Keough of 243 Highland Ave. said that higher taxes, sewer and water bills and other costs are forcing longtime residents out of the city.

"You are forcing us out. My house is up for sale."

"Protect the homeowner because hard times are going to come for business anyway," said John Howard of 28 Ridgeway St.

George Miller of 120 Summer St., who lost in his bid for a Councillor-at-Large seat in this fall's election told the council he would remind voters who the council acts on this issue when the next election arrives.

The Mayor's proposal has the support of some City Councillors. Ward 6 Councillor Tom Nutley said he is "committed to the Mayor for a variety of reasons. Homeowners are taxed to the limit. People want cuts not taxes."

Ward 2 Councillor Ted DeCristofaro also said he would support the Mayor's plan. "If people want the same services they are getting now I'm inclined to agree with what the Mayor has brought forward."

"I wish there was an option for no new taxes. That's the way I'd vote," Cheney said adding he is undecided.

Ward 5 Councillor Chuck Phelan and Toland said they have not made a decision yet.

"I have to absorb what I heard hear tonight,"

Toland said. She added that the council's option to raising taxes would be to cut $3.7 million from the current budget which has six months to go.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Many people have asked us recently what are the advantages pre-arranging and/or pre-financing a funeral.

There are many reasons... But the foremost reason is that it gives one peace of mind. One knows that his family will be relieved of many burdens which face a family in their time of sorrow.

When death strikes unexpectedly or even when it is expected, many people are not emotionally ready to make the many decisions that have to be made in a relatively short time. By making pre-arrangements ahead of time, one can relieve the family of some of the grief at a very emotional time; it can relieve many "traumatic" decisions; it can relieve confusion; it can eliminate differences of opinion concerning cost and ritual.

Please feel free to stop by or call us at anytime for full details concerning pre-arrangement. We will answer all your questions frankly and honestly. We do not charge a fee for any consultation and, of course, you are not under any obligation...

For those times when the darkness lingers

With the loss of a loved one through death, it is helpful to be able to share the feelings and emotions which we all experience.

For most of us, there are family members, clergy, and friends who are ready to listen in a caring way.

Yet, there are those who find it helpful to share their grief with someone outside their immediate circle of support.

Because of our continuing commitment to the families we serve, Keohane Funeral Service is pleased to announce that Dr.

Sherry Johnson has joined our staff as a Grief

Counselor. Her educational background, professional experience and understanding manner can be particularly helpful.

We are the first funeral home in New England to offer the service of a Grief Counselor.

Quincy Opens Season Against Falmouth Dec. 17

By TOM SULLIVAN

Last season was one of celebration as the Quincy boys' basketball team not only enjoyed its first winning season in six years but qualified for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the first time in 10 years.

The Presidents, under John Franceschini, the Division I South Coach of the Year, went from an 0-20 season to a 12-8 campaign to make the tournament. They lost to Somerset in the first round.

Franceschini has high hopes for another successful season when Quincy opens the season at Falmouth next Tuesday, Dec. 17.

"We are led by three excellent tri-captains, Dave Jolley ('63 1/2"), Steve Loud ('62") and Joey Crespi ('6")," Franceschini said. "Jolley and Crespi made Old Colony League all-star honorable mention and Loud was our unsung hero. They are excellent players and will be fine leaders."

Other seniors are Mike Malvesti ('61"), A.J. Kabilian ('6) and Rod Lynn ('63").

The only juniors on the squad are Matt Dwyer ('51") and Robbie Kane, an outstanding all-around player ('510").

Five sophomores have made the varsity squad, Harold Mortel ('510"), Mike Bartlett ('6), Tom Malvesti ('61"), Jon Gangi ('6) and Joe Kelley ('61").

"We have a younger team than last year but we are deeper," said the Quincy coach. "Three of the sophomores started for the junior varsity as freshmen, so they have experience. We are very good at the skills level and, though we don't have a lot of size, I feel our quickness will make up for that. Defense won for us last year and it will win for us this season. The defense will carry the offense. We are very deep at guard and I have six boys who can play there without weakening us."

Jolley was the team's number two scorer last year and Franceschini expects him and the other two tri-captains to do much of the scoring. He expects Jolley and Mike Malvesti to lead the defense.

Franceschini, in his seventh year as head coach, has spent many hours working to develop the basketball program and has worked to develop the Quincy High School Youth Basketball Program, which has finally paid dividends.

"I must credit my assistant coaches, Ray Papile and Mike Draicchio for much of our success as well as Youth Basketball coordinator Bob "Moose" Cochrane and assistant coordinator Ron Mariano," Franceschini said.

Following a busy pre-season scrimmage schedule, the Presidents play their first five games on the road. After Falmouth they will play at Bridgewater-Raynham Friday, Dec. 20, will go to Weymouth, Monday, Dec. 23 and will play in the Boston College High Christmas tourney Dec. 28 and 29.

QUINCY'S ALL STARS -- Pee Wee players Dan Stone, left, and Tommy Sullivan were selected recently to play for the Greater Boston Mini Bruins team which will compete in the America's Cup Tournament in Quebec.

2 Quincy All Stars To Play In Quebec Hockey Tournament

The Greater Boston Mini Bruins have selected two Quincy players, Tommy Sullivan and Danny Stone, for the Greater Boston Pee Wee All Star Team which will compete in the 10-day America's Cup Tournament in Quebec City.

Sullivan and Stone were selected after three weeks of tryouts at Boston University. They will join players from Belmont, Canton, Medfield, Dorchester, Somerville, Needham, Wellesley and Brookline.

The Boston squad will play against teams from the United States, Canada and Europe in the world's largest Pee Wee tournament.

The tourney is televised to more than 200,000 homes in Canada and is expected to attract more than 25,000 spectators to the Quebec Coliseum.

The players will stay with Canadian families during their visit.

The Boston area team needs to raise $20,000 for the trip. Players will be soliciting contributions from area merchants. All contributions are appreciated. To help send checks made payable to Boston Mini Bruins to Dan Stone, 45 Estabrook Road, Wollaston, 02170.

Patricia Anastasi Nails Hole-In-One

Patricia Anastasi of Quincy recently scored a hole-in-one at Presidents Golf Course.

Her 60-year ace on the second hole qualified her for the Drambuie Rusty Nail Hole-In-One Sweepstakes. Grand prize is a one-week trip for two to Scotland, VIP tour of the Drambuie Liqueur Co. Ltd. and $1,000 cash.

North Hosts Wayland In Opener Dec. 18

When the North Quincy boys' basketball team opens its season next Wednesday, Dec. 18, at home against Wayland at 5 p.m. coach Ted Stevenson hopes the Raiders can avoid the injury jinx that hounded them last season.

Last year North's hopes were dimmed when Desmond Bellot, who showed signs of greatness the year before as a sophomore, was sidelined for the entire season with a broken leg suffered in football.

Then starter Chris Olson was sidelined for the season early in the campaign and late in the season starter Matt Flynn was put out of action.

"It was difficult for the boys to play short-handed virtually all season," said Stevenson, whose team was only 5-15. "We lost several close games and the injured players could have made a big difference."

Bellot ('61") and Chris Olson ('62") are the Red Raider captains and should be in for big years.

"It is taking Desmond a little time to get back into playing condition after missing all of last season, but he is coming along well," said Stevenson. "He is fast and has great hands and I look for a big season from him. Olson is one of four players returning from the varsity squad and is a good scorer and defensive player."

Other seniors are Flynn ('51"), Adam Russo ('6), Tim Johnson ('64"), Ken Ross ('63") and Jeff Jones ('6).

Ross played for the varsity as did junior Sean Donovan ('6). The rest of the players are up from Ged Phelan's successful junior varsity team.

Other juniors are Luke Sheets ('63"), Bo Smith

('61"), Mike Staiti ('59"), Pat Shea ('58") and Mike Patch ('51").

"We don't have a particularly big guy but have good overall size," said Stevenson. "Bellot can really jump and as a sophomore he outjumped much taller players. He is an excellent rebounder."

The North coach expects most of the scoring to come from Bellot, Donovan, Flynn, Olson and Smith. He looks to Olson, Jones, Ross and Bellot for defensive help.

North has a busy pre-season schedule and faces

Cathedral, Hull, Scituate, Marshfield and Boston English in pre-season scrimmages.

North opens its Old Colony League schedule Monday, Dec. 23, at home against Plymouth at 7 p.m. On Dec. 28 and 29 the Raiders host their annual Christmas Tournament, facing Stoughton in the opener while Boston Latin meets St. John's Prep.

Phelan is back as junior varsity coach and Jim Johnson returns as freshmen coach.

10 Inducted At Q-N Hall Of Fame Dinner

By PETE ZOIA
The eighth annual Football Hall of Fame banquet was a big success with over 350 people attending.

Ten new members were inducted, five each from Quincy and North Quincy High, and Jack Raymer, M. Elenior Osborne and Tommy Gilmartin were inducted into the special category of the Hall of Fame.

Quincy High's inductees were Cecil Kilraine, a tackle from the 1930's; Don Buckley, halfback, '40's; Gerry Frazier, halfback, '50's; Larry Kelcourse, guard, '60's; and Dave Omar, tackle, '70's.

North Quincy High's inductees were Kurt Butterfield, center, '30's; Bill Robertson, guard, '40's; John Pettinelli, end, '50's; Fred Cobban, quarterback, '60's; and Mark Mulvaney, guard, '70's.

Raymer, Quincy's head coach, was inducted into the special category by John "Butch" Mahoney, one of the founders of the Hall of Fame along with Raymer and North Quincy coach Ken McPhee in 1984.

Former Quincy coach Tom Fitzgerald introduced Osborne who was inducted for her 16 years of helping Quincy athletes through her many activities connected with the Quincy Parents Club.

McPhee praised young Gilmartin who was inducted into the special category for his work with the North teams as a ballboy, loyal fan and inspiration to the team.

"Thank you for the award that you presented to me and good luck to both teams," Gilmartin said.

Both McPhee and Raymer introduced their seniors and spoke about players from both schools having great respect for each other.

Ken Coleman, a North Quincy graduate and famous sportscaster served as master of ceremonies.

Among the dignitaries present were Mayor James Sheets, City Clerk John Gillis, Scotty Whitelaw, former North quarterback and Commissioner of the ECAC; North Quincy principal Peter Chrisom and Quincy principal Lloyd Hill.

Jim Colclough, president of the Hall of Fame and a former standout at Quincy High and Boston College and with the Boston Patriots, greeted the crowd.

McPhee introduced his coaching staff, Peter

Chrisom Jr., Tom Carter, Earl Metzler, Pete Zoia and Chris Morton. Raymer also introduced his coaches, Bob Noble, Bob Keuther, Jack Green and Bill Shaughnessy.

Other distinguished guests included School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci, Athletic Director Marty Finnegan, two former Quincy High coaches Bill Sullivan and Hank Conroy, Mario Casali, long time coach of all sports at Central Middle School; LaRoy Rogers, a living legend of North Quincy who recently was honored at his 90th birthday by friends and former players.

Also attending were former Quincy sports great Nick Malvesti, former Quincy stars Guido and Bob Pettinelli, Ward 1 City Councilor and Hall of Famer Peter Kolson, George Page of the Quincy Park and Recreation Department and Patriot Ledger sports writer Roger Barry.

The banquet was a success due to the efforts of Chairman Jerry Perfetto, who is president of the Quincy Football Parents Club, president Colclough, treasurer Mark Giordani, secretary Ed Venna, Lionel "Shine" Buckley, Raymer, Dan McPhee and Harold "Turk" Beston.

7 North Swimmers Named To All Star Team

North Quincy placed 15th out of 56 teams at the recent MIAA State Swimming and Diving Championship meet at Northeastern University.

The North Quincy girls have also placed seven swimmers on the Pilgrim Conference All Star Team.

League coaches selected Justine Fagerlund, Julie Ramos, Joanna Dyer, Claire McCarthy, Jennifer

Walker, Liz Gormley and Zoe Bohl to the all star squad.

The Red Raiders scored 26 points at the State Meet, all in freestyle events.

Justine Fagerlund placed 10th in both the 200 and 500 freestyle.

Fagerlund was also part of the 200 Freestyle Relay team which placed sixth. Ramos, McCarthy and Walker also swam the relay and the foursome placed 12th in the 400 Freestyle relay.

Coach Bill Walker said he was pleased with his team's overall performance this year.

"We will lose some talented seniors. However, this is a young team with 25 returning underclassmen, who have scored well all season long. I am looking forward to next years campaign."

Four Quincy Teams Play In Peppereale Tournament

Four Quincy teams in various age groups played in the recent Peppereale Fall Classic Soccer Tournament and one team, in the open high school division, playing as the North Quincy Raiders, had fine fine tournament facing teams from Dorchester, Danvers, North Middlesex, Sterling and Fontbonne Academy.

Representing the North Quincy High varsity were Amy Bergeron, Carin Corrigan, Katie Deady, Erin Duffy, Calce Greely, Melissa Johnson and Nicole Perona.

North jayvees Mary Jane Bergeron and Karen Manna played, as did Jessica Barry and Shannon O'Toole from the Woodward School for Girls.

The 6-on-6 tournament opened with the Raiders defeating the Sterling Strikers, 5-1. O'Toole, Perona, Amy Bergeron, Johnson and Duffy scored for Quincy.

The team then edged the Danvers Falcons, 3-2, with Quincy protesting the referee's awarding a goal to Danvers. Goalkeeper Deady told the referee the ball had rolled down the back of the net, the referee then turned back the goal. O'Toole, Amy Bergeron and Corrigan scored the Quincy goals.

Quincy then won two straight shutouts, 3-0 over the Celtics and 4-0 over North Middlesex.

Karen Manna was in goal briefly against North Middlesex but was injured. She was sidelined the rest of the game and also sat out the Celtics game. Amy Bergeron scored twice against North Middlesex.

Quincy and Fontbonne faced each other with 4-0 records and the winner would win the tournament. Fontbonne took a 1-0 lead but the Raiders tied it on O'Toole's goal. The game ended at 1-1.

Tournament rules for breaking ties called for head-to-head decision and then goals scored against. Quincy had eight goals scored against it while Fontbonne had only one.

Mite B's Excel At Reebok Tourney

The Quincy Mite B Youth Hockey team, sponsored by the Quincy Fire Fighters, went unbeaten in the recent Reebok Tournament and also beat Wellesley in a Greater Boston League game.

Quincy defeated Billerica, 6-3, King Phillip/Walpole, 2-0, and tied eventual champ Northern Rhode Island, 1-1, in the semifinals. Northern R.I. advanced to the final based on fewer total goals allowed.

Jon Paquette had two goals against Billerica and Chris Lumaghini, Tom Gaeta, Mike Carloni and Charlie Sorrentino had one each. Joey Cunningham had two assists and Steven King and Paquette had one each.

Stephanie Allen sparked the defense.

Goalie Joe Prada was outstanding as he combined with Danny Randall for a 2-0 shutout over King Phillip/Walpole. Paquette scored early in the game and Gaeta clinched it with a goal assisted by Pam Sullivan.

Andy Nestor scored against Northern R.I. assisted by Carloni. Randall was outstanding in goal and Prada also played well in net.

Steven McGonagle, Merri Langille, David Germain, Tommy Hughes and Kevin Patten all played very well throughout the tourney.

Against Wellesley, Paquette scored in the third period to tie the game and Sorrentino scored on a fine individual effort to win it.

Recreation Dept., Quincy Elks Co-Sponsoring 'Hoop Shoot'

The Quincy Recreation Department and the Quincy Lodge of Elks will co-sponsor Quincy's championship in the Elks' National "Hoop Shoot" Free Throw Contest.

The Quincy competition is the first step in the national contest for boys and girls age 8-13. Contestants are assigned to three separate age categories, and a boys division and girls division. Age groups are 8-9, 10-11 and 12-13. Contestant age is determined by their age on April 1, 1992.

More than three million boys and girls will participate nationally in the annual contest celebrating its 20th year. Participants are awarded points for successful free throws. Boys and girls in the 8-9 age group will shoot from four feet in front of the regulation foul line.

The program will be supervised in neighborhood gymnasiums by recreation leaders assigned to their regular recreation programs in that area. The program is free and contestants may participate even if not previously enrolled in the recreation program. Participants may choose any of the various times or sites to compete; however, they may only compete in one Quincy qualifier.

The first round of the Quincy contest will be offered at the following gymnasiums:

•Atherton Hough, boys, Tuesday, Dec. 17, 3 p.m.

•Atherton Hough, girls, Tuesday, Dec. 17, 4 p.m.

•Atlantic Middle, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Beechwood Knoll, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Lincoln Hancock, Thursday, Dec. 19, 2 p.m.

•Merrymount, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Montclair, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Parker, boys, Wednesday, Dec. 18, 2:30 p.m.

•Parker, girls, Thursday, Dec. 19, 2:30 p.m.

•Daniel Webster, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Snug Harbor, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Sterling, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Quantum, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

•Wollaston, Saturday, Dec. 14, 9 a.m.

"We are pleased that the Quincy Lodge of Elks has once again provided this program for the benefit of our participants," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. "Many Quincy residents have in the past enjoyed the benefits of this activity at the local, regional and state level.

"The Elks devote a great deal of attention to youth programs. The Quincy Lodge is a sponsor of this program as well as sponsoring local sports teams. Their commitment to our citizens is to be admired," Welch said.

The Quincy Lodge Hoop Shoot chairman is Ed Miller, former North Quincy High basketball player and head coach. He is presently the head boys' basketball coach at Marshfield High School.

Dever Tackle At Plymouth State

Steve Dever of Quincy was a member of this fall's Plymouth State College football team which finished with a 6-3-1 record. Dever, a 1985 graduate of North Quincy High, was a defensive tackle for the Panthers, who failed to defend their New England Conference football title. They did receive a post-season ECAC playoff invitation and lost to Cortland State University, 21-6.

Wilson-Watt Memorial Tourney Raises Funds For Scholarships

The annual Wilson-Watt Memorial hockey tournament played to raise funds for scholarships was held recently at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Bibby Lewis and Paul Hussey were co-chairmen of the games.

Scholarships were given this year to Lisa Pugliese in memory of Dick Wilson and to Christian Golden in memory of Charlie Watt.

In the first game, Paul O'Brien led the Executive League to a 6-3 victory over the South Shore League with a hat trick. Art Boyle, Paul Veneziano, and Rich Gibbs scored a goal each. O'Brien, Marty Tolson, Dave Casey, Al Gullickson, Bob Carroll and Jack Duffy had assists. Tom Umbriano had two goals and Kevin O'Keefe one for the South Shore League. ## Business Security

Part 1

How would you like to help burglar to break into your place of business and steal everything of value?

Sounds crazy? Don't be too sure. Quite a few business owners do just that ... though they don't realize they're doing it.

If your not doing everything you can to make it hard for a burglar to get in ... if you're not making it likely he'll get caught if he does get in ... or if you're making your business too tempting a target, you might as well be the thief's accomplice.

Are you a potential accomplice? Here's one way to find out: Stop by your business at night, when it's closed. Look at it with a burglar's eyes. Case the joint.

Start across the street. Are there shadows to hide you as you try to get in? Would boxes stacked near the building provide cover? Is a delivery truck or company car parked near the side so you could use it as cover or as a ladder to get in a window or onto a roof.

Is there merchandise in the display window, where you could smash, grab and run? Can you see into the far corners of the display room, or could you work at your leisure, unseen by passersby?

Now take a walk around the building. Does the sidewalk grille lead to a basement loading entrance? Is there evidence of a burglar alarm - a door or window sticker or some visible wiring? Are hinges on the outside of the door, so you could remove them and lift the door out? What kind of a lock is on the door? Is there a glass panel you could break to reach inside and unlock the door? Check the door - is it even locked? (It's much easier to walk in than to break in.)

How about the basement or ground floor windows - could you gain access through them? Could you pull a van into the back alley to cart away loot? How about a skylight or large vents as a way to get in - or adjoining buildings?

You could find out all these things without going into your business ... probably without making anyone suspicious. If you came back during business hours you could do further checking on your locks and burglar alarm, see where the money is kept, find out when there's a lot of money on hand and where valuable merchandise is displayed.

These are some things a would-be burglar looks for. And they are things that you, as a business owner must be aware of too ... unless you want to be his accomplice.

Security is an important part of business management ... just as important as inventory control and pricing, because it directly affects your balance sheet. A good security system may seem costly, but it's cheaper in the long run than risking being wiped out by a skilled burglar ... and that can happen to a small business.

How much time and money you spend on security will depend on a lot of variables: whether you're in an area with a high crime rate, whether your merchandise is especially appealing for its resale value, the layout and size of your shop, and other things. But regardless of how "safe" you think you are, you must spend some time and money on it; you can't afford to ignore it.

Next week "How to put burglars out of business."

Special Sunday Pool Program

The Quincy Recreation will conduct a special swimming schedule at the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool on Sundays during the holiday season.

The pool will be open Sundays Dec. 15, 22 and 29 from 1 to 3:50 p.m. for children age 6-18, who may swim all or part of this period while parents take advantage of the Sunday store openings and shop at local stores. From 4 to 5 p.m., the normal adult swim will remain in effect.

Regular pool memberships can be used or $1 for youth and or $3 for adult guest's fee can be paid at the door.

Swims will be supervised by American Red Cross trained personnel from the Quincy Recreation Department. Adults may also swim in the extended hours and family groups are encouraged to participate.

"In the past years this program has proven popular to parents and participants alike and I am pleased that we can offer it again," said Recreation Director Barry Welch. For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 204.

Council Approves Chretien Plan On Tax Classification

By MICHAEL WHALEN

After much discussion about what would be best for both the city's homeowners and business owners, the City Council Monday night voted 5-4 to support Ward 3 Councillor Larry Chretien's tax classification recommendation over Mayor James Sheets'.

Chretien's plan will increase the residential rate to $12.19 and the business (CIPP) rate to $26.12. Sheets' recommendation was to increase the residential rate to $12.05 and the business rate to $26.59.

Simply put, the Chretien plan will raise the average homeowners bill $75 in fiscal year 1992 while the average increase to business will be around 5.1%. The mayor's plan would have meant an increase of $57 in the homeowners bill with an increase to business of 6.1%.

Chretien's plan was supported by Councillors Timothy Cahill, Michael Cheney and Patricia Toland and Ward 5 Councillor Charles Phelan. Council President Theodore DeCristofaro, Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, Ward 4 Councillor Thomas Fabrizio and Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley supported the Sheets proposal.

Chretien said that although he thought the Mayor's proposal was "basically a good plan," he felt his own recommendation was overall a fairer way of setting the rate.

"This issue is important to everyone in the City of Quincy," Chretien said. "The mayor's proposal, I thought, brought us in the right direction, but if you tax either side too much, you run into trouble."

"It (Sheets' plan) was going to create a situation where homeowners would face a slightly smaller increase than businesses. We should try to level the playing field and do what we've done for the last couple of years."

"My plan sends a message to the community that we're in the bucket together."

Cahill, who said he "reluctantly" supported Chretien's plan, expressed mixed feelings on the subject.

Early Deadline For Sun Christmas, New Year's Issues

Because of Christmas and New Year's Day coming on a Wednesday this year, The Quincy Sun will be published a day earlier the next two weeks.

News releases, sports copy and advertising should be in The Sun office, 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Sq. by noon tomorrow (Friday) to assure publication in next week's issue.

An early deadline will also be in effect for the New Year's issue. News releases, sports copy and advertising for that issue should be in The Sun office by Friday, Dec. 27.

Initial Reaction: 'More Needs To Be Done' Mixed Reviews For Sheets' Quincy Plan

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The long-awaited Quincy Plan proposed by Mayor James Sheets and released Monday received mixed reviews from a sampling of local business people who essentially said the blueprint for downtown revitalization is a good start but more can and needs to be done.

The 31-page plan focuses on three specific proposals which, over a 10-year period, would be the main thrusts of the revitalization project. The proposals are:

- Constructing a $26 million east-west crossway connector from the Burgin Parkway to Route 3A. One possible route for the connector would start near the Revere Rd.-Mechanic St. intersection, go to Hancock St. either at grade or under it, then into the Parkway over the MBTA and end at the Granite St. intersection.

- Locating a commuter rail station in Quincy Center. The mayor, who campaigned against the Old Colony Commuter Rail restoration project before he was elected two years ago, has conceded his administration cannot stop the line from going through Quincy.

Instead, Sheets said he wants the MBTA to locate a rail station on the Parkway in Quincy Center. A station in Quincy would bring more people to the downtown and keep a station out of the neighborhoods, he said.

- Developing the 5-acre Hancock Parking area as a retail center and possible hotel. The center would be served by the center crossway, making the site more accessible for motorists.

The plan also calls for the creation of a public-private partnership to boost development through large-scale planning and promotions. The partnership would also be responsible for guiding and driving the revitalization of the North Quincy and Wollaston business districts.

According to the plan, the partnership would study Quincy's strengths in terms of what the city could offer prospective manufacturers, processors, researchers, retailers or service providers who seek

Quincy Plan Highlights

- Construct $26 million east-west crossway connector linking Route 3A with the Burgin Parkway. One route would begin on Revere Rd. to the Revere Rd.-Mechanic St. intersection, to Hancock St. either at grade or under it, then into the Parkway over the MBTA and end at the Granite St. intersection.
- Locate a commuter rail station on the Parkway in Quincy Center to boost development and provide access for consumers and tourists to Quincy.
- Develop a retail center and possible hotel on the site of the 5-acre Hancock Parking lot across from the Quincy District Court House.
- Establish a public-private planning partnership which would "actively market Quincy to prospective investors, retailers, companies and industries as well as tourists and visitors."
- Establish a Design Review Board to oversee future development in the downtown area. The DRB would not be subject to the Historic District Commission and would have the authority to direct and control exterior changes to building facades and signage.
- Award grants of 25 percent (up to $3,000) of the cost of any improvement mandated by design review board.
- Hire a consultant to examine traffic and road improvements in the downtown area; the consultant would determine the required infrastructure and traffic improvements to support a hotel, civic-cultural center, museum, visitors center and new retail space.
- Study the city's entire parking network, including metered parking, availabilities of space, zoning as it pertains to parking and paid or unpaid parking at the city's lots.
- Commission a study which would make recommendations on sidewalks, crosswalks, signals, street lighting and streetscaping.
- Order traffic engineer to design permanent improvements along Quarry St. to Granite and Hancock Sts.
- Modernize all traffic controls from Hancock and School Sts. to Franklin and Water Sts.

More Police Patrols In Business Districts

To help make the downtown business district safer for shoppers this holiday season, Quincy Police Chief Francis Mullen has added police patrols Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings.

"We have patrol cars and walking patrols up there in addition to our other patrols. We also have unmarked cars instructed to assist patrol cars," Mullen said.

The chief said there has not been a marked increase in shoplifting this holiday season. "We just want our presence to be known up there."

Free Metered Parking Now Through Dec. 24

Holiday shoppers in Quincy will find an early present in the city's three business districts: free metered parking now through Dec. 24.

Mayor Sheets announced the lift on metered parking Tuesday. He said parking restrictions including parking at handicapped spaces, on crosswalks and at fire hydrants will be enforced.

The temporary free parking policy does not apply to municipal lots or parking garages since they are under separate contract.

Local Restaurant Owners To Aid Norwood Boy With Fundraiser This Weekend

By MICHAEL WHALEN

The owners of a West Quincy restaurant are trying to help make this Christmas the best one ever for a three-year-old Norwood boy.

Antonios and Debra Katskis, who own The Old Railroad Cafe at 273 Willard St., are holding a fundraiser at the restaurant this weekend for young Kevin McNulty, who requires a bone marrow transplant for a rare type of leukemia.

Debra Katskis said she and her husband got involved in the cause after one of Kevin's young relatives came into their restaurant.

"This beautiful little blonde girl walked in one day and asked if she could put a collection jug on our counter and we said 'sure,'" she said, adding that she and her husband subsequently contacted Kevin's parents, Andy and Patty McNulty, to see what else they could do to help.

The fundraiser at The Old Railroad Cafe will be held Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Photos with Santa Claus will be taken for $5 apiece, and the money will go towards helping Kevin find a way to overcome his disease. Free pizza and candy also will be made available to the children who pose with Santa.

Mrs. Katskis said that Kevin himself may attend the fundraiser with one of his parents, since the boy is now in remission.

She also noted that she's very happy to have become involved in such a worthwhile cause.

"It's been a real good feeling all around," she said.

NPS, City To Sign Planning Agreement For Future Historic Resources

The City of Quincy and the National Park Service will sign a Memorandum of Understanding today (Thursday) at 10 a.m. for the cooperative planning of the city's historic and cultural resources.

Principals signing the document will be Mayor James Sheets and NPS Regional Director Gerald Patten. Senators Edward Kennedy and John Kerry and Congressman Brian Donnelly have been invited to witness the historic signing.

"I am pleased that we have reached an agreement with Mayor Sheets on the direction of this cooperative planning effort," Patten said. "The City of Quincy has a number of nationally significant resources and the National Park Service is honored to assist the City in their preservation, promotion, interpretation and development."

As part of this study, the NPS has already facilitated the establishment and work of the Quincy Historic Walking Trail Steering Committee. A loop of the trail was dedicated Oct. 30.

When completed this spring, the trail will offer a three-mile pedestrian walk from the Adams Mansion to the Adams Birthplaces via Hancock St.

Other historic sites on the trail include the Quincy Homestead, the Adams Academy, the Liberty Tree, Christ Church Cemetery and other milestones from Quincy's past.

The cooperative project will also inventory and evaluate the City's cultural resources, analyze their relationship to Adams National Historic Site, present alternatives for the interpretive development for those resources which do not relate to Adams National Historic Site, address needs and location for a permanent visitor center for the City, and recommend methods of preserving, enhancing and interpreting cultural resources.

Targeted dates set for completion of projects include:

January '92 - completion of Significance Statement.

March '92 - Draft report on alternative management strategies and visitor center siting study.

April '92 - Public review.

May '92 - Final report.

The effort, including the walking trail, is in response to an appropriation of $250,000 for conducting a special Quincy resource study. In requesting the appropriation, Sen. Kennedy wrote, "(there is a need) to provide technical expertise and assistance to city officials in considering such matters as visitor information, signage, transportation, resource preservation, thematic interpretation and possible expansion of the Adams National Historic Site to include new properties."

Ship's Food Donated For Local Charities

Food from the ship S.S. Wright, docked at the Fore River Shipyard, is being donated to the City of Quincy for distribution to food pantries for the needy.

The S.S. Wright recently returned from the Persian Gulf for repairs at the shipyard. Barbara Johnson of Pantry Shelf was contacted by James Pearsons, project manager for operators of the ship.

The Quincy Army National Guard will transport the food from the ship to the National Guard Armory on Hancock Street. Officials from food pantries and other organizations will be notified when they may pick up food at the armory.

ROTC students from North Quincy and Quincy High schools and Emergency Management personnel will assist in unloading the ship and transporting the food. Star Market is supplying a refrigerated tractor trailer for meat products.

Hearing On Marina Bay Land Rezoning

A public hearing will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. in the City Council chamber, City Hall, second floor (old building) regarding the rezoning of land in the Marina Bay area that houses the Jordan Marsh warehouse.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley wants the area, which is primarily composed of Business Area "B" land but also includes a tiny portion of Residential Area "B," to become a Planned Unit Development area.

Nutley said PUD would "kick in the public process and allow the residents to have protection as to what's going on out there."

He also stressed that request has nothing to do with Jordan Marsh, who will continue to run operations as usual.

"They (Jordan Marsh) have been good neighbors," said Nutley. "The people just want more input and knowledge and awareness of what's going on out there."

PUD would allow residents to hold public hearings and make recommendations to the planning board and City Council about events that occur in the area. Nutley said he already has the support of the Atlantic Neighborhood Association and the Squantum Neighborhood Association in the matter.

An area must be over 100,000 square feet in order to become PUD. The land that houses the warehouse is 1.2 million square feet.

After the public hearing, a special meeting of the City Council will be held to vote on the matter. Nutley said that the votes of seven councillors are needed in order for it to pass.

Council Approves Fire Watch Ordinance

The City Council Ordinance Committee Monday night unanimously approved an ordinance intended to improve fire safety in certain temporary building situations.

The ordinance requires all temporary structures or facilities not permanently fixed to land with a capacity of holding 100 or more people to have a fire watch detail during all hours of operation.

The requirement could be waived by Fire Chief Thomas Gorman or his designee in specific instances.

In general terms, only tents set up for businesses purposes, such as those at carnivals, will be affected by the ordinance. This will not include The Tent in Squantum, however, since that business is considered to be a permanent structure.

Two weeks ago, the council put the ordinance back into committee because it originally did not allow the fire chief to have the final say on whether a fire watch detail would be necessary in a given situation. A new amendment to the ordinance, however, now leaves the decision ultimately up to Gorman.

Gorman said he was pleased with the amendment.

"This is the fair way of doing things," said Gorman. "Now I or one of my deputy chiefs (if so designated) can determine whether or not a fire watch detail is actually necessary."

Supports Petition Against 'Joe Camel' Cartoon

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
As a member of the board of directors of the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association I support the petition of the Coalition on Smoking OR Health to the Federal Trade Commission urging the FTC to act now against the "Joe Camel" cartoon campaign by the R.J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

The American Lung
Association, the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association, united as the Coalition, note that tobacco kills 434,000
Americans annually.
Tobacco-related illnesses cost this country $65 billion a year, $260 per American.

At least 3,000 children
begin smoking every day.
More than 50% of smokers are addicted by age 14.
Unfortunately, the "Joe Camel" ads appeal to children much too young to legally buy tobacco products. This is evidenced by the fact that since the ads came on the scene, the number of youngsters

smoking Camels has risen dramatically.

The Coalition's recent letter of petition is supported by research on the effects of tobacco advertising on children by John B. Pierce, Ph.D., and colleagues. The article appears in the most recent Journal of the American Medical Association.

Scott Ballin,
spokesman for the Coalition on Smoking OR Health, states that the tobacco industry continues
"its shameful tradition of targeting children with tobacco advertising that encourages them to smoke. Children who start smoking today because they are as comfortable with Joe Camel as with Mickey Mouse will be tomorrow's victims of death and disease caused by smoking."

It is time for us to urge federal agencies and Congress to safeguard the health of all Americans by freeing themselves from the political hold of the tobacco industry.

GOODBYE TO RED NOSES

People embarrassed by the chronic red color of their noses need be re-faced no longer, according to doctors at the Mayo Clinic and other medical centers. Noses may take on a stubborn ruddy glow for a number of reasons:
extensive exposure to the sun, the spread of acnelike eruptions, or the result of some facial surgeries.
To get rid of the red,
doctors have successfully started using brief laser treatments. The carefully directed intense light is passed through the skin, destroying the blood vessels causing the abnormal skin color.
Perhaps best of all, the procedure causes almost no discomfort or bleeding.

and scarring is minimal.
P.S. Contrary to popular belief, a red nose is not the sign of a heavy drinker.

As a cardiologist, I specialize in medical problems related to the heart, including chole-

the treatment of a disease.

Ward 2 Reunion

Politically speaking, Ward 2 is unique when it comes to ward councillors.

There are five living past ward councillors whose service — along with that of present seat holder Ted DeCristofaro spans nearly a half-century.

The five former: Carl Anderson, William Papile, Joseph LaRaia, Clifford Marshall and Dan Raymond.

DeCristofaro, a member of the Ward 2 Civic Association Board of Directors, has suggested that maybe the association might honor his five predecessors for their service to the area.

Nothing official at the moment but the special recognition might could be put together for February.

To the best of DeCristofaro's knowledge, Ward 2 has more living former councillors than any of the other five wards in the city.

The "dean" of the former Ward 2 councillors is Anderson who was first elected in 1943 — 48 years ago.

ANDERSON
City Council.

William Papile was elected to the Ward 2 seat in 1947 when Anderson vacated the seat to run at-large. He served only one term as Plan E was voted in and all the councillors were elected at-large from 1949 to 1957.

Plan A returned in 1959 and LaRaia was elected Ward 2 councillor and served three terms. He gave up the seat in 1965 to run against James McIntyre for mayor after Amelio Della Chiesa retired. McIntyre crushed LaRaia by a 22,034 to 7,713 vote.

That defeat was the first in several predictions to come that LaRaia's political career was ended.

But he bounced back in 1971 to win a council at-large seat and was re-elected two years later. In 1975 he defeated Mayor Walter Hannon in a controversial recount by 483 votes.

LaRaia lost the mayor's office to Arthur Tobin in 1977 but came back again two years later to win a council at-large seat which he held until 1987 when he again ran for mayor and nearly upset incumbent Frank McCauley. Two years later he ran again for mayor but finished fourth in a four-man preliminary election race behind James Sheets, Peter O'Connell and Steve McGrath.

DeCRISTOFARO

He was re-elected in 1945 and then became a councillor at-large two years later serving through 1963. All in all he served 10 terms — two decades in the

LaRAIA

This year LaRaia finished out of the money in a council at-large comeback bid. Most observers agree that LaRaia has reached the end of his political road. But has he, really?

Marshall took over the Ward 2 seat from LaRaia.

Marshall won the Ward 2 seat in 1965 when LaRaia vacated it to make his ill-fated run for mayor against McIntyre. Marshall was elected to five terms and served through 1975 when he decided to run for Norfolk County Sheriff and still holds that badge today.

Raymond was elected to the Ward 2 seat in 1975 and served three terms until 1981 when he made an unsuccessful run for mayor against Frank McCauley after Tobin left office.

Raymond later became Norfolk County treasurer and did an outstanding job cleaning up a corruption mess left by his predecessor and putting that office on a clean, progressive keel.

Unfortunately for Raymond he became a non-deserving victim of the anti-incumbent tidal wave of last year and lost the office he had done so much for.

But Raymond came back this year to not only win a School Committee seat but to top that field with an impressive huge vote.

DeCristofaro succeeded Raymond as Ward 2 councillor in 1981 and was re-elected to his fifth term this year. He has been City Council president for two years.

There have been hints that DeCristofaro might call it a career after he finishes the 1992-1993 term.

DeCristofaro, however, isn't saying, publicly, anyway. Right now he'd rather talk about the Ward 2 recognition night he'd like to see in February.

"I think it would be nice to recognize these five past councillors for the service they rendered to the Ward 2 area. I think it would be a night to fondly remember."

SEAN BARRY who made an impressive political debut this year as a School Committee candidate has a much bigger fight on his hands right now.

BARRY

Sean has been a patient at Massachusetts General Hospital since October after a bad fall. He is fighting a serious infection near his leg implant — a leg he has been trying to save through surgery since 1986. He is "resting comfortably."

You might like to drop him a card.

Here's wishing you a speedy recovery, Sean, and a return to the political trail.

STORK REPORT: City Councillor Tim Cahill and his wife, Tina, are the parents of a fourth daughter, Kendra, born Dec. 3. Kendra's three sisters are Makena, 7; Nicole, 4 and Devin who will be 3 Jan. 13.

Congratulations. (From a proud father of four daughters — and a son.) CAHILL
Gee, Tim, one more and you'll have a girls basketball team.

TRIVIA NOTE: The South Shore YMCA is celebrating its 100th anniversary. But did you know it wasn't until 1930 — 61 years ago — that formal programs for women and girls were organized.

But today, more than half of the members at the YMCA are female. And the "Y" has two resident camps on Cape Cod: Camp Burgess for boys and Camp Hayward for girls.

Third Graders Holiday Guest Authors In Next Week's Sun

The Quincy Sun will continue a 23-year Christmas tradition in next week's issue with holiday articles from young school students.

This year, third graders in Quincy's public schools have been invited to write their thoughts on the theme: "If I Could Have One Wish Come True This Holiday Season It Would Be..."

We want to thank Dr. Janet DiTullio, Director of Curriculum in the Quincy Public School System and classroom teachers for their assistance and cooperation.

And, we are sure you will enjoy this year's young guest authors in next week's Quincy Sun.

Nominations Coming In For Sun 'Citizen Of Year'

Nominations are coming in for The Quincy Sun's seventh annual "Citizen of the Year Award."

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement.

Last year, Gerald Gherardi of Quincy was honored for his contributions to charities and service organizations over a half century. He was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

Gherardi received the award at a reception held at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The event was attended by nearly 100 persons, including family, friends and city officials.

The first recipient was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management (formerly Civil Defense). He was chosen from 31 nominees.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, was named the winner in 1986. She was chosen from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch Sr. who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

The 1988 recipient was Martin Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy public schools. Selected from 38 nominees, Finnegan was recognized for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and adults to help youths deal with drug, alcohol and other peer problems.

Those nominated the past six years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since this is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated once has an equal chance to being named the final winner.

Deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 28.

Nominations are now being accepted. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 28, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process is on Page 5 of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know of someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Citizen of the Year
The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169.

Nominations should be postmarked not later than Dec. 28.

Nominations can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 28.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely or his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

Remember, deadline for nominations is Saturday, Dec. 28.

The name of the winner will be announced in the Quincy Sun in January.

Here is an opportunity for you to voice your opinion as to who deserves to be The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1991.

Quincy's Yesterdays

Teachers Reject Temporary $300 Raise

Quincy teachers took a secret ballot vote on what to do next in their campaign to reject a temporary $400 salary hike and obtain a permanent $500 increase.

Kenneth J. Kelley, secretary of the Quincy Central Labor Union, said a number of the teachers had asked the American Federation of Labor how to go about organizing a union.

William H. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, which supports the temporary raise, said a poll taken of Medford citizens was against permanent increases.

But a committee of Quincy police and firemen noted that their counterparts in Somerville had received permanent hikes to $2,912 a year, adding only $1.40 to the tax rate. The Somerville tax rate was $42.50 and the Quincy rate was $30.

U.S. ACCEPTS MANSION

Interior Secretary J.H. Krug accepted the deed to the Adams Mansion on Adams St., which is to become the Adams National Historic Site. It was owned by the Adams Memorial Society since 1927.

"There is probably no other home in the United States which has so long an association with American history and those who had an important part in shaping it," said Krug.

FOREIGN GRANITE PROSCRIBED

Officials of the International Association of Granite Cutters of America announced that Quincy granite cutters will not work on blocks of finished granite shipped from Scandinavia.

The local quarrymen denied that the Quincy hills were running out of granite, maintaining that there is enough to take care of the granite industry's needs for at least 100 years.

BELL RINGERS SERENADE

The Granite Trust Bell Ringers, under the direction of Ringing Master Edward B. Whittridge, took part in the Christmas Carol Promenade on Hancock St. in downtown Quincy.

The ringers included: Priscilla Whitton, Edith Nicoll, Virginia Smith, Anna K.I. Olsson, Myrtle Whittridge, Priscilla Lantz, Vere Hatch, Isabel Meldrum, Esther Weedon.

QUINCY-ISMS

Mayor Charles A. Ross said he plans to file a new application with the Civilian Production Authority for permission to build the Quantum School addition ... The heavy cruiser USS Rochester, the last warship scheduled to leave the Fore River shipyard for nearly a year, sailed from her outfitting dock on Bent's Creek on builder's trials ... Candelit Christmas trees were banned from public buildings in Quincy by Capt. Thomas F. Maloney, head of the Fire Prevention Bureau ... The Quincy Manets were granted a franchise in the New England Professional Football League along with teams from Providence, Pawtucket, Hartford, Portland, Holyoke, Fitchburg and Bristol, Conn ... James Cagney and Mae Clark were starring at the Strand in "Great Guy" which was billed as "the red-headed swashbuckler of the screen wages a lone battle against food racketeer" ... Mrs. William Scotson was elected president of the Evening Aid Society at the First Church of Squantum ... A new supermarket was opened by the United Cooperative Society at the corner of Granite and Water Sts ... Frozen peas were 25 cents a package at the Everfresh Frosted Food Center, 1630 Hancock St ... The New Haven Railroad reported that its Old Colony Division had an estimated deficit of $3 million for the first 10 months of the year and warned that the line could be abandoned by the end of 1974 ... Sonny Nicholson's 11 points led the Granite Chips to a 47-44 victory over the North Shore All Stars at Point Junior High School ... A lobster dinner was $3 in the Knotty Pine Room at Walsh's Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd., Norfolk Downs ... The School Committee adopted a tentative 1947 budget of $1,940,000 an increase of $425,000 over the previous year ... Don Castor's Danceable Band was playing nightly at the Roadside Cafe, 619 Washington St., Quincy Point ... Miss Dorothy H. Bates, executive director of the Quincy Girl Scout Council for the past six years, was honored prior to her departure for Peoria, Ill., and new duties in the scout movement ... Constable William J. Weyland, 21 Waban Rd., Merrymount, was elevated to first vice president of the Massachusetts State Deputy Collectors Association.

Christopher Kemp Designs Harold Christmas Card

For the 13th consecutive year, Sen. Paul Harold's official Christmas card has been designed by a student from St. Coletta's School in Braintree.

Christopher Kemp, winner of the Christmas card contest which was conducted at the school, will receive a $50 U.S.

savings bond as a prize for his winning entry. His drawing, depicting children coasting, has been reproduced as Sen. Harold's official Christmas card.

"We like to use the student's idea for the annual Christmas cards instead of the usual etching of the State House because, after all, Christmas is for children,"

Harold said.

The winning entry is selected each year by the faculty at St. Coletta's School after the students participate in the drawing contest.

Harold will hold an appreciation party for the students tomorrow (Friday) at the school. Each student who participated will receive a special recognition certificate.

Jed's Garlic Mashed Potatoes

When our daughter Nancy got married this past October, we didn't expect that her new husband, Jed, would be such a good cook. But one night last week, my husband and I went to see their first Christmas tree in their home. Nancy had just arrived home from work and her husband was putting the finishing touches on some great looking mashed potatoes. Naturally we had to taste them and naturally I asked for the recipe.

They are a delicious alternative to plain mashed potatoes. Especially for garlic lovers and I know there are plenty out there.

JED'S GARLIC MASHED POTATOES

6 large potatoes
1 1/2 cups milk
4 or 5 cloves of garlic
1 stick of butter
1 cup ricotta cheese
salt and pepper to taste

Boil and mash the potatoes as you normally would. Sauté the minced garlic in the butter (or place it in the microwave). Then add everything in the mashed potatoes and beat until smooth. You can either heat it on the top of the stove, or in a baking dish in a 350 degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes. Jed served these potatoes with breaded schrod!

Quincy Youngsters Help Needy People In Community

By TONY FERULLO
Robin Elder and Jennifer White of Quincy are two girls who wanted to have fun. And they did, while raising money to help others.

Following the beat of their caring hearts, Jennifer and Robin recently conducted a fair in their neighborhood. Through their hard work and dedication, they raised a total of $1.65 and presented it to the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

"These kids deserve a great deal of credit for caring to help needy people in our community, many of whom are youngsters themselves," said Robert Chandler, president the chief operating officer of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, a non-profit charitable organization which serves the people of Quincy along with 80 other cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts.

"Their parents must be very proud of everything they have accomplished. I know I am."

By making a contribution to the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, Robin and Jennifer knew they had done something special, that their money would be given to help the less fortunate among us. They discovered how the United Way improves the quality of life for many real people with real problems, and they wanted to be part of the solution.

"It felt good giving to the United Way," said Jennifer, 9, a fourth-grade student at St. Joseph's Elementary School in Quincy. "It was a nice feeling."

"We ate hot dogs and ice cream, played games and gave out prizes," said Robin, 6, a first-grade student at Point Webster Elementary School in

Quincy. "It was a lot of fun."

Terri Elder, Robin's mother, assisted the girls in coordinating the fund-raising event in her backyard, and was delighted with the results. "The girls devoted themselves to this project," explained Mrs. Elder. "They made their own tickets and had to plan everything out. This was a good learning experience for them."

Dick Piccuito, United Way of Massachusetts Bay's labor liaison in Quincy, was the lucky individual who received Robin and Jennifer's donation. "They gave it to me in a sealed envelope," said Piccuito. "It was great to see them so spirited to help other people."

"In these tough times, every little bit helps."

Quincy Service Clubs Helping To Make Christmas Merrier

Members of the three service clubs in Quincy once again are joining to help make Christmas merrier for some of the unfortunate people in our area.

They are standing by the Salvation Army Christmas kettle, a holiday tradition since 1891.

Quincy Lions Club members performed their duties last Saturday outside the Osco/Star Market complex on Granite Sts. Members of the Quincy Rotary Club will be stationed there Saturday and members of the Kiwanis Club will be there Saturday, Dec. 21.

According to Captain James LaBossiere of the Quincy Salvation Army, unit contributions to the kettles will help feed a hungry family, provide a toy for a poor child at Christmastime or clothe the homeless.

Those wishing to volunteer for the Salvation Army this holiday season can call 472-2345.

When a coin, dollar bill or check is dropped in a red kettle it becomes part of making a difference in meeting the needs of others.

MR. and MRS. JOHN J. MCFARLAND

Mr., Mrs. John McFarland Renew Vows At 50th Anniversary Mass

Mr. and Mrs. John J. McFarland of Wollaston recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary by renewing their vows at a Mass celebrated at St. Ann's Church.

About 50 family members and friends watched as the Rev. Jack Ahern officiated at the ceremony and bestowed an Apostolic Blessing from Pope John Paul II.

A dinner party followed at Raffael's Restaurant in North Quincy where Mr. and Mrs. McFarland were presented with congratulatory citations from President George Bush and Mayor James Sheets.

The McFarlands were married Oct. 26, 1941, in Most Blessed Sacrament Church, Jamaica Plain. Both Mr. and Mrs. McFarland were born in Boston and have lived at their Wollaston address for over 25 years. Mrs. McFarland is the former Helen Ulius.

Mr. McFarland, who is now retired, was employed by Railway Express Agency for 40 years. He served with the Army during World War II.

Mrs. McFarland was employed at Goodhue's Religious Goods Store and also at the Carney Hospital Coffee Shop.

Mr. McFarland is a member of the Knights of Columbus and the St. Ann's Bowling League. Mrs. McFarland is active in the Ladies of St. James the Apostle Bowling League and sings in the St. Ann's Church Choir. They often travel with the Merry Shores Senior Citizens Club and are members of the St. Ann's Senior Citizens.

'The Enchanted Flufftato' On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television will show the Enchanted Flufftato, Monday, Dec. 23 at 7 p.m.

The program is a stage play written by Dianna Purdy for her Children's Theater Workshop. The play deals with the themes of racism.

The comical situations and discussions of the play reveal that a lack of communication can result in preconceived opinions that have no foundations.

The show will repeat Tuesday, Dec. 24 at 10 a.m.

Donna Costello Wed To Charles Gendreau

Donna Marie Costello, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kay Costello of Quincy, was recently married to Charles Robert Gendreau, son of Mr. Roland R. Gendreau of Weymouth and Mrs. Gayle Dolan-Simpson of Orange Park, Fla.

The ceremony was celebrated in St. Joseph's Church, Quincy, and officiated by Fr. Daniel Graham. A reception followed at Lantana in Randolph.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Michael F. Costello.

Nancy Collings of Quincy served as Maid of Honor.

Bridesmaids were Cynthia Costello of Brockton and Kathy Costello of Quincy, sisters-in-law of the bride; Christine DiBella of Quincy; and Jill Taylor of Weymouth, sister of the groom.

Matthew Gendreau of Weymouth served as Best Man for his brother.

Ushers were Paul Costello of Brockton, Michael Costello of Quincy, and Thomas Costello of Bourne, all brothers of the bride; and Joseph Gendreau of Orange Park, Fla., brother of the groom.

The bride is a graduate of Quincy High School and Quincy College. She is employed as an administrative assistant at the Universal Fixture Manufacturing Co.

The groom is a graduate of Quincy High School and the U.S.M.C. Recruit Depot in Parris Island, South Carolina. He is employed as a mechanic for Whitman Mobil in Whitman.

Following a wedding trip to the Paradise Island in the Bahamas, the couple are living in Abington.

Reading And English Tutors Needed

Tutors are needed to teach reading and English as a second language to adults. Anyone interested in volunteering may call Literacy Volunteers at the Thomas Crane Public Library, 984-1950.

Training begins in January. Tutoring will be one-to-one or in small groups.

The program is designed to help people who have no trouble speaking the language learn to read. Most participants have had some schooling but who read and write poorly. Some have graduated high school but are functionally illiterate.

The English as a Second Language Program helps people from other countries learn English. Quincy has seen a dramatic increase in new immigrants settling here who need help understanding and speaking English.

ESL emphasizes verbal communication reinforced by reading and writing. Tutors do not need to know another language to participate. Our training will help you to develop the skills needed to teach English.

Tucker Trainor On Dummer Academy Honor Roll

Tucker M. Trainor of Quincy has been named to the honor roll at Governor Dummer Academy in Byfield.

Trainor, a junior, achieved honor roll status by maintaining a grade-point average higher than 13 on a scale of 18. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Trainor of Manet Ave.

Edmund Sharp On Newman Honor Roll

Edmund Sharp IV, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sharp III, 73 Saratoga St., North Quincy, has been placed on the honor roll at Newman Preparatory School in Boston.

To qualify for the honor roll, a student must maintain an average of 85 or higher for the first half of the academic session. If the achievement is attain for the entire fall session, a student is named to the Dean's List.

FALLING FOR FRILLS

QUESTION: My wife fell in love with a built-in microwave oven and insists that we buy a house that is overpriced and out of our financial range. Any advice?

ANSWER: This is one of the typical mistakes a house-hunter can make - buying the frill instead of the house. All too often a family will fall in love with any eye-catching feature and buy the wrong house. Yielding to superficial attractions like these can result in your family ending up with a thoroughly unsuitable house. Bear in mind that the same alluring feature can usually be added to another house at a relatively small cost considering the amount of the overall purchase.

MAKE SURE YOU BUY THE HOUSE and not the frill. You may end up with the right frill and wrong house.

First Jail Located On A Highway Median

500 Attend Dedication Of New Norfolk County Correctional Center

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The Norfolk County criminal justice system took a giant step into the 21st century last Tuesday as 500 federal, state, county and local officials and invited guests dedicated the new $26.7 million Norfolk County Sheriff's Office and Correctional Center.

Located on a 12-acre site in Dedham in between the north and southbound lanes of Route 128, the 332-bed correctional center is the only jail in the United States located on the median of an interstate highway.

The facility will employ a concept called direct supervision. Under this method, inmates live in housing modules and are in direct contact with a correctional officer. The officer is responsible for eliciting positive inmate behavior from his or her module.

Used by more than 90 jails across the United States, the direct supervision method has been shown to reduce inmate violence, tension vandalism and increase job satisfaction for employees.

The correctional center, which will begin housing inmates early next year, includes a one-story administrative building with eight two-tiered housing modules extending from the main building. The 144,000-square-foot facility also has a low rise, brick facade, two-story minimum security pre-release building and a vehicle maintenance garage.

The jail's precast and reinforced concrete exterior was designed to address aesthetic and motorist safety concerns of the Federal Highway Administration.

from view, and lights were placed for minimal distraction to motorists.

Although it will not solve all of Norfolk County's correctional problems, federal, state, county and local officials agreed the new facility is an important step toward relieving inmate overcrowding in Massachusetts.

"I do not profess that the new Norfolk County Correctional Center will be a panacea for the ills of a criminal justice system in crisis," said Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall. "But I and my staff are committed to protecting the public from criminal offenders, joining with other forces in law enforcement, while managing this facility in the most cost effective ways.

"Public safety concerns will dictate our every decision...No matter what our personal philosophies might be," Marshall said, "it is our obligation to remember that we are responsible for human lives, both of the staff and inmates."

The new correctional facility was built to alleviate the overcrowded conditions at the old Dedham Jail. In the last 16 years, the prison population at the 174-year-old facility has skyrocketed from 68 in 1975 to a court-ordered maximum of 200 today. Before that cap, the population hovered well over 200.

The concept of a new jail was conceived in 1963. Five years later, the state legislature approved $50,000 in grants for plans and specs for a new jail. The project, however, slowed to a snail's pace throughout much of the 1970s and early 1980s.

NORFOLK COUNTY SHERIFF Clifford Marshall presents one of the original locks of the old Norfolk County Jail circa 1850 to U.S. District Court Judge Walter Skinner at the recent dedication of the new Norfolk County correctional center. Marshall said the lock was for Skinner's judicial insight, confidence and support for the new center.

The project was put back on the fast track in the early 1980s after U.S. District Court Judge Walter Skinner ruled that the overcrowded conditions at the Dedham Jail did not meet minimal constitutional standards mandated by the Supreme Court and appellate courts.

When he visited the jail for the first time in 1983, Judge Skinner found inmates housed in the jail's Old North Wing which had been condemned 60 years earlier. He also found prisoners housed in corridors, the boiler room and the recreation hall.

"Internal security was virtually impossible. It was only through the skill and tact of Sheriff Marshall and Deputy Sheriff Robert Campbell and their staff that kept the institution functioning," Skinner said.

Shortly after his inspection, Skinner closed the North Wing. The project was back on the front burner.

In the interim, the old jail underwent extensive renovations and improvements in 1986 to help ease the saturated inmate population. Even with the renovations, inmates were routinely released when the population figure exceeded the court cap.

By statute, the old jail is scheduled to close 90 days after the new center opens. In which is likely early next year. At least one local citizens group wants the facility used for something besides corrections.

Legislation would have to be approved to keep the Dedham jail open. Although no "keep the jail open" movement has surfaced, Skinner said the Village Ave. facility is still functional as a jail.

"It is a very respectable jail limited only by its size. I would counsel against being in a hurry to convert (the Dedham jail) to condominiums.

"We may need it yet," Skinner said, sending a quiet murmur throughout the packed gymnasium.

Like Marshall, Skinner said the new facility will not solve all of the county's criminal justice system problems. However, the judge said the new facility's design and direct supervision concept represents two important facts which are a part of the solution.

The direct supervision management method offers different levels of custody and treatment to the many different types of county criminals. This method is important, Skinner said, because after two and a half years at the most, inmates will be released into the community.

"It is important to increase the chances that they will not return by fair and constructive treatment," the judge added. Officials speaking at Tuesday's dedication commended Marshall for his leadership and active participation in the planning of the new jail and making it a reality. In short, they said that year. At least one local without him, the new jail project would still be on the drawing board.

"(Sheriff Marshall) just didn't create plans and say 'go ahead and build this facility. He became an integral part of the planning," said James J. Collins, chairman of the Norfolk County Commissioners.

Secretary of State Michael Connolly called the facility's siting on a median strip "a stroke of genius."

"It was Cliff in what are the toughest economic times that I can remember who was able to keep this project on line and when all the word at the State House about no capital outlay budgets, no construction, no expenditures, he kept pushing ahead and it was through his perseverance and his efforts that this facility is the reality today," Connolly said.

In turn, Marshall thanked Auditor Joseph DeNucci who helped secure the bond issue for the correctional facility when he was chairman of the House Human Services and Elderly Committee. "Joe DeNucci said 'Sheriff, if you can convince your legislative delegation and you can convince me I'll be willing to add it to the bond issue.

We went to our legislators and they convinced their colleague Joe DeNucci and the money was put in not for study, but for construction of this facility and that is followup," Marshall said.

"It's recognizing a need and that's what they did."

To Committee On Uniform Probate Code

Atty. Mark A. Leahy has been reappointed to the Committee on the Uniform Probate Code formed jointly by the Boston and Massachusetts Bar Associations.

The committee has been studying the text of the code for possible adoption in Massachusetts.

The Uniform Probate Code encompasses rules for inheritance, wills, estate and trust administration.

The committee has recently filed legislation which would significantly simplify the probate process and which would broaden the rights of a widow or widower in the estate of a deceased spouse.

Leahy is a probate attorney with an office in Quincy.

Arthur Chandler Re-Elected Quincy Citizens Assn. President

Arthur Chandler, 320 Belmont St., Wollaston, owner of the Wollaston Theatre, was re-elected president of the Quincy Citizens Association, Inc., at the city-wide civic group's recent annual meeting and Christmas party.

Also elected were:

Dr. Donald MacLeod, 66 Dixwell Ave., first vice president; Atty. John Keenan, 234 Norfolk St., second vice president; Dorothy Kelly, 108 Davis

St., secretary; and John Digilio, 148 Newbury Ave., treasurer.

Digilio replaces Saul Lipsitz who retired.

Mayor James Sheets told the membership that he feels Quincy is in good shape. He noted during the past two years the city has realized a budget saving of $1.2 million through the recycling program and quarterly tax mailings which saved a half million dollars on short-term payroll borrowings.

Chandler said the QCA will continue its role as "voice of the people" in monitoring matters affecting Quincy and its residents inasmuch as the membership is large and represents the sentiments of a cross section of voters in all six wards.

The QCA meets on the fourth Wednesday of every month at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center on Hunt St., rear of North Quincy High School.

Interested voters are invited to attend meetings.

Volunteers Commended For Massive Food Distribution

Commendations were presented at Monday night's City Council meeting to those who helped distribute a massive food donation to local food pantries and emergency shelters.

The food was unloaded from the SS Wright, which recently returned from a trip to Italy, Turkey and Saudi Arabia. The ship has been temporarily deactivated at the Fore River shipyard.

The donation was divided among the Salvation Army, the Southwest Community Center, Father Bill's shelter, the Crisis Center and the St. Boniface pantry in Germantown.

The commendations were given to ROTC students from Quincy High School and North Quincy High School, who actually unloaded the food; Barbara Johnson of the Protestant Social Service Bureau, who directs the Pantry Shelf on Hancock St.; Major Thomas J. Sellars, administration officer for the Massachusetts Army National Guard; Paul Baharian, executive director of 1000 Southern Artery (who couldn't attend the meeting); Star Market Company; McDonald's of North Quincy and their team; Quincy Emergency Management Agency and the Comprehensive Emergency Planning Committee.

Johnson praised the over 80 ROTC students who helped unload the 2000 cartons of food from the ship onto "six or seven" National Guard trucks that transported the food to the Quincy Army for distribution. She also called Tony Siciliano, Quincy's emergency defense director, "our hero."

Siciliano for his part also had strong words of approval for all involved in the project.

"This was a labor of love," he said. "It was like a windfall for the community." Siciliano added that a videotape of the project is planned for the near future.

Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson expressed gratitude to those involved in the project, saying "I know of 100 or more families in Germantown, which is part of the area I serve, whose Christmas will be a little better because of this."

Councillor Michael Cheney agreed.

"In our eyes, you are all heroes," Cheney said. "It's really warm to see this. If anyone tells me there's anything wrong with this generation, I wish they could be here to see this tonight."

Commendations were also presented Monday night to members of the North Quincy High School girls volleyball team, who recently won the Division 1 State Championship.

Ward 6 Councillor Thomas Nutley, who handed out the commendations, congratulated the team which, he noted, was recently named the best girls volleyball team in the state in The Boston Herald.

"The best team in the state," said Nutley. "That really caught my eye."

Coach Jim Rendle, while receiving his own commendation, praised his team for their "dedication and hard work."

"It started a year ago," said Rendle. "These girls were baking cakes, washing cars and doing all sorts of things to buy their own uniforms and volleyballs. They worked hard because they wanted to do it right."

"These girls are the best this state has to offer."

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

What is proper Funeral Attire?

Black is no longer the rule for a visitation, wake, or funeral.

Today a visitor may wear colorful clothing in good taste. Gloves and hats may be worn, if desired; but are being worn less and less. Small customs and local mores may suggest a small black veil, an armband or something similar.

The widow or widower will usually wear something basic or conservative in color and style.

The fact that you were there will remain in the family's memory longer than what you wore.

RELIGION

'Mary, A Woman Of Faith' United Methodist Topic

"Mary, A Woman Of Faith" will be the Christmas sermon topic of the Harry Soper Jr. Sunday at 10 a.m. at Quincy Community United Methodist Church, 40 Beale St., Wollaston.

Special music of the season, including the Wollaston Wesley Bell Ringers, has been prepared by music director Douglas Ulwick. Following the pastor's Young Disciples message, Sunday school will meet. Greeters will be Melvia Sears and Janet McGonicle and ushers will be Paul and Linda Del Greco. Fellowship hour will be hosted by Phyllis Hawes. Olga Hawkins, Anne Kjellander, and Margaret Rund. Church facilities are handicapped accessible and child care is provided.

That evening at 6 p.m. the junior high youth fellowship meets with director Derek Schmitt and at 7:30 p.m. a "First Annual-Last Minute" Christmas concert will be held featuring handbells, organ, piano and guest soloists and carol singing. On Christmas Eve, the parish and friends are invited to participate in two services. At 7 p.m. a family service and at 11 p.m. worship of carols, communion and candles.

Christmas Sunday At Houghs Neck Congregational

Christmas Sunday, Dec. 22, the choir will sing at both services at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

Music will be directed by organist Arden Schofield. At both services Susan Mackay will read the introduction to the Advent candle lighting ceremony. A Sunday school member will light the candle.

At 9 a.m. the Christmas message will be delivered by Rev. M. Alicia Corea. Members of the diaconate serving will be George Pooler and John Conway. Greeter will be Bea Goodwin.

At 10:30 a.m. Dr. Peter V. Corea will give the Christmas message. James Bassett will greet the worshippers. Gloria Brummitt and Carol Lee Griffin will serve for the diaconate.

Between services there will be a coffee hour hosted by Gayle Mackay and Rod Hicks in the conference room. The Christmas Post Office will make its final delivery.

At 4 p.m. Sunday "Why The Chimes Rang," a pageant, will be performed by members of all Sunday school classes under the direction of Gail Freil, chairman of the Board of Christian Education. Peter Johnston, home from Minnesota, will play the organ. It will be followed by a light supper prepared by Janet Little. The supper will be served in fellowship hall at no charge.

A traditional candle lighting service will be held Christmas Eve at 11 p.m. There will be a reception of new church members at this service. Harold Sparks, Rod Hicks, Martha Chase and Barbara Christie will serve for the diaconate.

There will be Christmas music provided by the choir and organist Arden Schofield, flutist Janet Little, and a vocal trio of Dorothy Sparks, Chris Prendergast and Gayle Mackay.

'An Unspeakable Gift' Bethany Sermon Topic

Christmas Sunday at Bethany Congregational Church this Sunday will include a morning worship service at 10 a.m.

The Rev. Roger Ketcham's sermon topic is "An Unspeakable Gift." He also will have a children's story.

Participating in the Advent candlelighting ceremony as the light the Angel's Candle will be Bruce, Helene and Heather Crofts. The musical portion of the service will include a selection by the children's choir directed by Marsha Archer, the Chancel Choir directed by Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director and Mike Peitman, trumpeter.

Scripture reader will be Lisa Birr. Greeting the worshippers as they enter the sanctuary will be Lisa Andre and Jerry Capobianchi. The Bethany Chancel will feature a huge display of memorial poinsettias. Hostesses for the fellowship hour in Allen Parlor following the worship service will be co-chairs of the Christian Education Committee, Elaine Caliri and Mary Chenette.

The Rev. Mr. Ketcham will lead the weekly Bible study at 8:30 a.m. which is held in Room 3 of the parish house.

There will be two worship services held on Christmas Eve next Tuesday.

The first service at 7 p.m. is designed for families. It will feature a children's story by the Rev. Roger Ketcham. Corinne, Darryl and Kyle Mikami will participate in the Advent candlelighting ceremony. Scripture reader will be Vivian Miller. Music will be by the Bethany Folksingers and Gregory Flynn, organist.

A candlelight service will be held at 11 p.m. The Rev. Mr. Roger Ketcham's sermon topic will be "Rediscovering Wonder."

The musical portion of the service will feature Brenda Bonoli, soprano; Paul Frazier, baritone; Laura Barron, flutist; and Gregory Flynn, organist.

Bethany Church is handicapped accessible with a ramp on the Spear St. side of the church.

Family Christmas Service Sunday At First Parish

Christmas services at United First Parish Church (Unitarian Universalist), "Church of the Presidents," will include a family Christmas service Sunday, Dec. 22 at 10:30 a.m., a Carol Sing Sunday at 7 p.m., and a traditional candlelight service Christmas Eve at 7:30 p.m.

"Gifts Of Precious Value" will be the theme of the 10:30 a.m. Sunday family service. There will be carol singing, and members of the church school—Elizabeth Bennett, Marisa Ross, Russell Savelle, and Caitlin Sullivan—will do readings.

Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will lead the worship and give a brief sermon. Kurt Harrison, guest musician, will play cello selections by Valentin, with Norman Corey, music director, as accompanist.

Visitors and children are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service. Natalie and Bryan Donovan will be hosts and will also be ushers. There will be child care for toddlers, but regular church school classes will not be held this Sunday.

Sunday evening at 7 p.m. there will be a time for carol singing and readings, followed by hot cider around the fireplace and fellowship.

The Christmas Eve candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday will include carols, readings from Scripture and modern sources, anthems by the choir, and a reflection by the minister. Children of the church school will ushers and be candle lighters. They are: Justin Adams, Mark Adams, Elizabeth Bennett, Annie Bergen, Valerie Chin, Marisa Ross, Bethany Savelle, Russell Savelle, and Caitlin Sullivan. The service will conclude with the singing of "Silent Night" by candlelight. Visitors and children are welcome, but child care will not be provided.

Historic First Parish is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center, opposite City Hall. For more information call 773-1290.

'The Tale Of Two Cousins' Topic At Point Congregational

The Fourth Sunday of Advent will be celebrated Sunday, Dec. 22 at 10 a.m. at Quincy Point Congregational Church.

The Rev. Fred Atwood-Lyon will deliver the sermon titled "The Tale Of Two Cousins." He will be assisted by Rev. Carol Atwood-Lyon who will be liturgist for the service.

The acolyte will be Matt Hourin, member of the 1992 Confirmation class.

The lighting of the fourth candle of the Advent wreath—the Candle of Light—will be conducted by Karen Mastico and Ron Kearns. Jeffrey Spasato, guest soloist, will sing.

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play and the Chancel Choir will sing.

At the worship hour, infants and children in nursery and kindergarten will go to their classrooms; all other children and young people of the church school will worship with their families until they are dismissed to their classrooms from the sanctuary.

For more information call 773-6424.

Former Quincy Minister Serving In Weymouth

Rev. Dr. Cynthia Edson has been named interim minister of Unitarian Universalist Church of Weymouth. She had previously been interim minister at United First Parish Church in Quincy.

"I used to have Abigail and John Adams buried in the basement. Now I'll be passing Abigail's birthplace with some frequency," she said, noting the historic site is only a short distance from the church.

Since being in Quincy she has served at a log church in Anchorage, Alaska, and spent three years in North Carolina worked in three small congregations.

Bilingual Christmas Services At Wollaston Lutheran

Wollaston Lutheran Church, 550 Hancock St., Quincy, will hold bilingual Christmas Services this year.

Members of the congregation will join members of the Chinese ministry to worship both in English and Cantonese. Christmas carols will be sung in both languages simultaneously. A combined choir will sing in both English and Cantonese. The Chinese children's Handbell Choir will play.

Christmas Eve service time is 7:30 p.m. Christmas Day service begins at 10 a.m. The bilingual Christmas services mark a "first" for the congregation.

On Thanksgiving, the parish celebrated its very first bilingual service together with members of the Chinese ministry. The Chinese ministry at Wollaston Lutheran Church began holding Cantonese services several months after the arrival of Pastor Richard Law from Hong Kong in 1989.

The parish has been involved with social outreach programs to the Asian community in Quincy since 1986.

'Are You A Believer?'

Covenant Congregational Topic

At the 10:45 a.m. worship service Sunday at the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., the fourth and final Advent candle will be lighted.

Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, will preach on "Are You A Believer?"

Richard Smith, minister of music, will direct and accompany the choir.

Sunday school, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will be at 9:30 a.m. The children will have the final rehearsal for the program. During the worship service, an attended nursery is available for children age four and younger. For children up to age 12, there is junior church.

Immediately following

'the worship service, coffee will be served in the fellowship hall downstairs.

Activities for the week are: Choir rehearsal Thursday at 7 p.m., men's breakfast at Newcomb Farms Saturday at 8:30 a.m., and the Sunday school program and Christmas party. The children will present a play entitled, "All Because of Christmas."

Coming events include a candlelight Christmas Eve service with Communion at 11 p.m., a council meeting Friday, Dec. 27 at 7 p.m. at the parsonage and a New Year's Eve potluck supper at the parsonage.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call the church office at 479-5728.

Sheets Honors VNA For Home Care Service

Mayor James Sheets recently issued a proclamation in honor of National Home Care Week to the Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc. commemorating the outstanding service of the Quincy VNA.

The mayor handed the formal citation of honor to Stephen Robbins, executive director of Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, at a special "Celebration Breakfast."

Among those attending were David B. MacIntosh, chairman of the Board of Managers of Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, Inc.; Fr. Daniel Graham, pastor of St. Joseph's Church; Dr. Cecil Paul, president of Eastern Nazarene College; Paul Hurley of the Hurley Insurance Agency; John (Jake) Comer, executive director of Quincy Housing Authority; Ellen Zane, director of Quincy Hospital; and Nina Silverstein of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay.

Robbins spoke of the successful free care outreach of the Quincy VNA and acknowledged that the many relationships and program collaborations among different organizations make effective home health care support possible for all residents of Quincy.

Christmas Parade Documentary On Ch. 3

Quincy Community Television will show a documentary "Quincy Christmas Parade - Forty Years of Memories" tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

The video was premiered during a special function at President's Place. The documentary was presented to Mayor James Sheets.

The annual parade was started in 1952 by the late

Fr. Thomas Tierney of St. John's Church. The parade route was only a quarter of a mile in length and had one float and one band. This year's parade featured 19 bands, 23 floats, a parade route of three miles and an estimated 200,000 spectators.

Quincy Community Television will replay the parade documentary Friday, Dec. 20 at 9 a.m. and Monday, Dec. 23 at 1 p.m.

Christmas Parade Committee Presents Special Awards

George White, Christmas Festival Committee Chairman, presented the Committee

Chairperson Award to Morrill.

"This plaque is for much deserved recognition and appreciation for the untold time and most cooperative effort expended by Ann Morrill on behalf of the Christmas Festival Season program activities," White said.

White also acknowledged Myers for his contributions to the parade through the years and presented him with the Christmas Parade Appreciation Award.

"The appreciation of the Christmas Festival Committee is expressed through this presentation for your 20 years of participation and much deserved recognition," White said.

Quincy School Students View Scientific Explanations

Students from Central and Atlantic Middle Schools in Quincy recently visited the Boston Museum of Science to see live telecasts via satellite of scientific explorations from the Galapagos Islands.

The telecasts highlighted the JASON project, an educational program specifically created to get students involved in the excitement of scientific discovery.

Raytheon Company sponsored the JASON telecasts at the Boston Museum of Science.

Explorations by the JASON scientific team included dives to underwater reefs swirling with exotic fish, hikes along the rim of a volcano and up-close looks at iguanas, large tortoises and other exotic wildlife.

Expanded Gym Schedule For School Vacation Week

The Quincy Recreation Department will supervise nine neighborhood gymnasiums on an expanded schedule during the upcoming vacation period, announces Director Barry Welch.

Free supervised activities are scheduled at various times and locations. Programs are co-ed and are for boys and girls age eight through high school.

The basic time schedule city wide is 9 to 10:45 a.m. for elementary age participants, 10:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. for middle school age and 12:30 to 2 p.m. for high school age participants.

Depending on enrollment slight variations may occur in these times at some locations.

Atherton Hough, Atlantic, Merrymount, Point-Webster, Snug Harbor, Squantum, Wollaston and Montclair will be on the expanded schedule for Monday, Dec. 23, Thursday, Dec. 26, Friday, Dec. 27 and Monday, Dec. 30. On Tuesday, Dec. 31, the same gyms will be open 8 a.m. to noon.

The Recreation Department supervised program at the Beechwood Community Life Center gym will be Thursday, Dec. 26 and Tuesday, Dec. 31 from 8 a.m. to noon.

Welch noted most locations will see an increase of 24 hours of supervised gym activity.

"We find that working parents have become more dependent on these activities during school vacation periods and the department is anticipating well attended programs."

He emphasized the regularly scheduled Saturday gym program will still be conducted as usual at all locations on Saturday, Dec. 21 and Dec. 28.

Participants should wear sneakers at all locations. For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 204.

Instructional Ice Skating Program Has Openings

The Quincy Recreation

Department has limited openings in its instructional ice skating program for boys and girls 6-14, Director Barry Welch announces.

The program will be conducted at the Quincy Youth Arena Wednesday afternoons beginning Jan. 8. Instruction will be under the supervision of Anne Eagles, a U.S. Figure Skating Association professional, and will utilize the basic program of instruction designed by the USFSA.

Instruction is from beginner to advanced and there are two separate classes, one at 3:10 p.m. and one at 4:10 p.m. Each class runs for nine weeks.

Cost is $38 which includes instruction and ice time. Registration is conducted at the Quincy Recreation Department, 100 Southern Artery, Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. and is taken on a first-come, first-serve basis.

For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 204.

North Has Experience And Promising Newcomers

By TOM SULLIVAN

When Tom Benson started his second season as North Quincy's hockey coach against Barnstable last night (Wednesday), he had one thing on his side—experience.

"We have 14 returnees from last year's varsity, so we do have experience," said Benson. "We also have some fine looking newcomers and if we can just improve our goal production, I have hopes of not only going over .500 but possibly returning to the state tournament.

"We lost several low-scoring, one-goal games last year in addition to playing four ties (7-9-4) and we must score more this season."

Benson has a first line of senior veterans Steve O'Brien, Mike Christopherson and Chris McCallum. They are the team's tri-captains.

High scoring Mike DesRoche joins two sophomores, Jim Sapienza, who saw considerable action as a freshman, and Joe Carinci on the second line.

Sean Vermette, Matt Riley and Aiden O'Donoghue make up an all-senior third line.

Benson is also expecting a lot of help from Kevin Barrett and Brian Kelley on the forward lines.

Heading the defensive corps are senior Steve DesRoche, junior John Gladu and sophomore Andrew Vermette and Dave Pacino.

Other defensemen are sophomore Jay Evans and junior Bill Knox, who have looked good in practice.

Dennis Ruggere, who split the duties with Pat O'Donoghue last year, will be the Red Raider goalie and Benson expects big things from him.

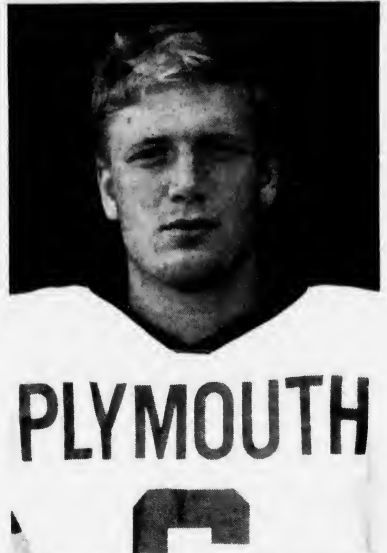

"Dennis did an excellent job for us last year and should have a fine season," the coach said. John Linehan and Sean Conley are battling it out for the backup job.

"I think we will be strong on defense and in goals and we will be working hard to improve our goal production," Benson said. "The Old Colony League will be strong again with better balance than last year."

The Raiders will play at Silver Lake Saturday at 5 p.m. and will be at Rockland for a non-league game next Thursday at 1:30 p.m. They took part in last Saturday's jamboree at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Bob Doyle and Paul Noonan are back as Benson's assistant coaches.

CHRIS NOBLE of Quincy was a member of this year's Plymouth State College football team, which finished at 6-3-1 and lost to Cortland State in the ECAC playoffs. Noble, a 1989 graduate of Quincy High, was a reserve quarterback for the Panthers.

Quincy Has Almost Entire Team Back

Quincy's hockey fortunes took a decided turn for the better last year when the Presidents enjoyed their first winning season in 10 years and finished with as many wins as in the three previous seasons combined.

Quincy finished with a 9-8-2 record after going 7-11, 1-18 and 1-15-3 the previous three years.

With only two seniors playing regularly on that team, virtually the entire club is back and it appears the Presidents should continue on the way back up.

Quincy opens its season Saturday, hosting Plymouth in a 6:40 Old Colony League game at the Quincy Youth Arena. The Presidents will play at Taunton Monday at 1 p.m. and will be at Boston Latin for a non-league game Friday, Dec. 27, at 1 p.m.

"I was very happy for the kids last year and it was a result of their hard work," said Bob Sylvia, starting his 28th season as Presidents' coach.

"We had the youngest team in the league and the smallest physically. This season, with so many boys back, we should hold our own in a strong league. We are still young but have a lot of experience."

Sylvia has five senior veterans who will key the team. They are Shane Abboud, captain for the second year in a row, on defense; Scott MacPherson, Quincy's leading scorer, Sean McArdle, Jim Smith and John Lewis, forwards, and goalie Steve MacPherson.

Scott MacPherson led the team in scoring two years ago as a sophomore and last season had 39 points on 24 goals and 15 assists, and was the league's number three scorer. He was named to the league all-star team.

Other returnees are defensemen Mark Gilmore and Dan Morrell, juniors, and sophomore Derek Mullen.

Returning forwards are junior Jeff Craig, sophomores Dan Mann, Steve Provost, another Scott MacPherson—no relation to the top scorer, and juniors Dave Mullen and Jamie Schatzl.

"This is a very coachable squad," said Sylvia. "I think we will score our share of goals and the defense should be strong. Steve MacPherson, who shared the goalie duties with Scott Mann last year, did a fine job and should have a fine season."

Ted Walsh and Jim Gilmore are back as assistant coaches for the Presidents, who played in the jamboree last Saturday at the Quincy Youth Arena, and George Peachey, a member of the Quincy Hockey Hall of Fame, is back as the coach's "good right arm."

Walker 'Coach Of The Year'

Bill Walker, coach of the North Quincy High girls' and boys' swim teams, has been named Massachusetts Girls Swimming Coach of the Year by the Eastern Mass. Swim Coaches Association.

Walker has led the North teams to several outstanding seasons and this year the girls finished in second place in the Pilgrim Conference and 15th out of 56 teams in the MIAA State Swimming and Diving championships at Northeastern University.

Seven of Walker's girls were named to the Conference all-star team. With 25 returning underclassmen, North should do well again next season.

Timberlake Assistant At George Washington

Quincy's Jeff Timberlake, who starred for coach Mike Jarvis at Boston University where he broke the school's assist record and helped lead the Terriers to four straight North Atlantic Conference finals, a NIT tournament and an NCAA Tournament appearance, has rejoined Jarvis as an assistant coach at George Washington University.

Timberlake, a four-year starter and two-time captain under Jarvis at BU, was named the MVP in the 1987-88 NAC Tournament when the Terriers won the tourney championship and advanced to the NCAA tournament. He was named the MVP in 1988-89 after setting a single season record of 230 assists. His 782 assists still stand as the most by any player in school history.

After his final season at BU, Jeff had pro tryouts with the Celtics, Denver Nuggets and Golden State Warriors and was a fourth-round draft choice in the CBA. He toured with the Harlem Globetrotters as a member of the Washington Generals in 1989-90 and played for the Marathon Oil team for the 1990-91 season.

Timberlake replaces Larry Mangino, who recently accepted the head coaching job at Clark University, as Jarvis' assistant at GW.

Quincy Mite A's Reach Tourney Finals

The Quincy Mite A's made a strong showing in the Thanksgiving Tournament by reaching the finals. The team also won a Greater Boston League game Saturday, 7-1, against Allston-Brighton.

The Mite A's came up short in the tournament, bowing 5-4 in an exciting overtime contest against Masco.

To reach the final Quincy first beat Saugus, 8-3. Ryan Krueger was outstanding in goal. Dan Kennedy paced the scoring with a hat trick, Didier Alther netted two unassisted goals and Jill McInnis, Jim Cashins and Sean Dooley also scored.

Scott Mattson, Shane Kabilian, Dooley, Scott MacDonald, Cashins, Chris Griffin and Frankie Curreri had assists.

In the second game, Quincy battled Medford to a 2-2 tie. Krueger made 17 saves including a penalty shot. The Mite A's got outstanding defense from Tom Sullivan, Kiva Tupe, MacDonald, Curreri and Dom Papile.

Mattson scored unassisted in the first period and Alther scored with an assist by Griffin.

Quincy romped over Concord, N.H., 6-1, to earn a spot in the finals. Krueger was sharp again with 17 saves.

The Mite A's received balanced scoring. Dooley scored twice and Alther, Kabilian, Kennedy and Cashins each scored. Curreri had three assists and Steve Goff, Mattson, Papile, McInnis and Ryan

Murray also had assists.

The final game saw Quincy battle back and forth into sudden-death overtime. Quincy got three second period goals to forge a 3-3 tie. Kennedy scored assisted by Mattson, Alther scored unassisted, and Kabilian netted the third goal from Goff and Alther.

Masco took the lead in the third period but Dooley tied it up with assists by Kennedy and Mattson to force the overtime.

Krueger finished with 15 saves in a strong outing.

In the GBL win over A-B, Kennedy scored another hat trick, Dooley had two goals and MacDonald and Curreri had one each.

Mattson had two assists and Dooley, MacDonald, Tupe and Sullivan had one each.

Krueger stopped 14 shots and Papile and Griffin excelled on defense.

The Mite A's split their most recent two games, winning, 6-4, over Medford and losing, 7-5, to Dorchester.

Krueger made 16 saves against Medfield while Papile, Sullivan, Curreri and Tupe played tough defense.

Kennedy scored three goals, Curreri two and Alther one. Kabilian had two assists while Murray and Dooley had one each.

Cashins, Goff, Mattson, McInnis, MacDonald and Griffin also had solid games.

Cashins, Kabilian, Kennedy, Alther and Curreri scored in the loss to Dorchester and Mattson had two assists.

Basketball

Jolley, Crespi, Loud Quincy Tri-Captains

Quincy basketball coach John Franceschini announces that David Jolley, Joey Crespi and Steve Loud are this year's tri-captains. The Presidents opened their season Tuesday night at Falmouth.

Jolley is a three-year varsity player and was the team's second leading scorer last year. He is considered one of the best forwards on the South Shore and was named Mr.

Offense a year ago as well as being named to the Old Colony League all-star team.

"Dave is an exceptional student and is looking forward to going on to college, hopefully at an Ivy League school," said Franceschini.

Crespi is another three-year varsity player and led the team in assists last season. Expected to provide much of the floor leadership, he received the Quincy High Alumni Award last season. He also plans to attend college.

Loud is also a returning varsity player who last year won the Unsung Hero Award. One of the best defensive players in the league, he is also a standout in baseball and golf. He has his eyes set on college.

"These three young men are solid student-athletes of whom Quincy High School is very proud," Franceschini said.

THREE PRESIDENTS—Dave Jolley, left, Joey Crespi and Steve Loud are tri-captains of this year's Quincy High basketball team, which hopes to make the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the second straight season.

3 Quincy Players On B.C. High Team

Senior Mike Chiccano and juniors Matt Fennessy and Jay Schnabel, all of Quincy, have made the B.C. High School Basketball team, according to coach Brian Buckley of Quincy.

B.C. High opens its season next Tuesday at home against New Bedford and will host the first Eagle Holiday Tournament Dec. 27 and 28 with Quincy facing Fitchburg, coached by former North Quincy All-Scholastic Doug Grutchfield, at 6 p.m. on the 27th and B.C. High meeting Cathedral at 8.

The consolation and championship games will be played on Saturday, the 28th.

Assisting Buckley are Quincy natives Paul Donoghue, Bob Evans, Fred Murray and Norm Walsh and Ed Anderson of Hyde Park.

Additional Swim Hours At Lincoln-Hancock Pool

The Quincy Recreation Department will supervise the Lincoln Hancock Community School pool for an expanded schedule during school vacation.

Additional swims have been added on Monday, Dec. 23, Thursday, Dec. 26, Friday, Dec. 27 and Monday, Dec. 30. Participants age six through high school may swim from 1 to 3 p.m.

Participants may use their regular pool participation card or pay a guest fee at the door. Adults who accompany youngsters may also participate.

All swims are supervised by the Quincy Recreation Department Aquatic Staff.

Welch emphasized the program is additional to the regular scheduled evening and Sunday program.

During the holiday season, the pool will be closed Tuesdays, Dec. 24 and 31, and Wednesdays, Christmas Day and New Year's Day.

The Sunday 1 to 5 p.m. and Monday, Thursday and Friday 5:30 to 9 p.m. schedule will remain unchanged.

For more information, call 773-1380 ext. 204.

Cross Country

NQ Girls Finish Season At Mass. Allstate Meet

The North Quincy girls cross country team capped off a great season with a string of outstanding performances in the Mass. Allstate meet held at Franklin Park in Boston.

The annual meet pits the Eastern Mass. finalists against the Central and Western qualifiers in two divisions (large school and small school).

North's girls, coming off a surprise 3rd in Class B, came in 13th out of 16 teams in the large school division, just a few points way from Fitchburg, the 1989 Allstate champion. The meet was won by Amherst with 115 points; North had 279.

Leading the way for North was Suzanne Lewis, who ran an incredible race, finishing 6th overall and was the 4th Eastern Mass. finisher and eighth fastest from the two divisions. Her time of 19:03 was even faster than the 19:14 turned in a week ago, and the course was a bit longer (3.1 miles).

Melanie Gaziano, Sonia Olmedo, Erin Duggan and Laurie Connolly also ran faster than the week before despite the longer course. Tricia Hughes, who spent most of the year playing soccer and only began running a few weeks ago, took a big chunk of time off breaking 22 minutes.

Coach Hennessy was not surprised by the team finish but has to admit Lewis' race was not expected.

"We didn't 'upset' any teams, we came in where we should have," said Hennessy. "But Suzanne beat a lot of good people, and she was only 27 seconds behind the winner (Greenfield's Maura McDonald). You can prepare a team to race, but they have to want it. They did themselves proud, they were the only OCL team to make it this far, and we had the fourth best record during the dual meet season. We did our best performance in the biggest meet—that's what every team strives to do and we did it."

Several North Quincy runners will participate in the Kinney Northeast Regionals held at New York City's Van Courtlandt Park in North Bronx. Lewis, Duggan and Katie McNamara will run in the girls races while Greg Buck and Eric Torvi will participate in boys races.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

The Christmas Season is upon us once again, providing a time for family gatherings, fellowship with friends and taking time to remember and be remembered by others.

It is also a time to reflect on the meaning of Christmas and to give thanks at church and in home devotions for the many blessings that have been bestowed upon us in this past year.

Finally, it is time to look ahead to the New Year that is to come in setting realistic goals to attain and then pursuing those goals like the Three Wise Men who diligently followed the shining star in the East.

But no matter how you celebrate the holidays with your family, or what your religion, the unified efforts of one and all in preserving the good will and cheer of this happy season all year round can help make every day seem like Christmas Day and help make the world a better place in which to live. If we can all work together to make one day of the year so very special, isn't there the possibility that we can work together to make every day something special, too?

Business Security Part 2

How to put burglars out of business:

You can do a number of things to "put burglars out of business" - specifically, your business. They fall into four general categories: 1. Making your business uninviting to a burglar; 2. Making it hard for him to get inside; 3. Making it hard for him to find or remove valuable items; 4. Making it likely he'll get caught if he does get inside.

1. Making Your Business Uninviting:

Good lighting, both inside and outside, is probably the single most effective and inexpensive deterrent to burglary. Lighting destroys the cover of darkness burglars prefer to work in. Outside lights, the sodium vapor type is best, should cover all points of entry, alleys and passageways, especially those in the back. Inside lights are particularly important around the safe and cash register.

Valuable merchandise should be illuminated too, but try to keep it out of display windows at night. Arrange your stock so that a burglar working in a far corner of the shop could be seen by someone walking by. If you have a burglar alarm, make it obvious, put a decal on the door or window, or make it visible from outside. Don't provide other kinds of cover for a burglar, stacked boxes, a vehicle parked close to the building, ladders, and so on.

2. Making it Hard to Get Inside:

Exterior doors should be heavy and solid ... not hollow. Wooden doors should be metal-lined to resist sawing and drilling. Glass panels should be protected against being kicked or knocked out. Side and back entrances should also have metal bars as wide as the inside of the door that can be dropped into place at closing. Hinge pins on doors should be installed inside so that they cannot be removed by a thief.

A deadbolt lock is best for the doors. There are two main types. One (single cylinder) requires a key to open from both outside and inside. This is effective if the door is not so strong or there's breakable glass near it. But it also can be a fire hazard if it's kept locked during business hours. Make sure your local codes permit this type of lock before installing one.

Avoid springlatch locks that can be opened by using a knife blade, a thin piece of metal or a plastic strip.

Window security is just as important as door security. Break resistant glass is best, especially for display windows. Rear and side windows should be protected by grillwork (iron bars) or by heavy duty screen (No 9 gauge interior wire guards), also useful on doors with glass panels. The grillwork or screen should be bolted through the buildings. Locks are useful on some types of windows; check with a good locksmith.

Don't overlook other ways a burglar might get inside your business - skylights, ventilators, sidewalk grilles, loading docks, old coal chute openings and others. Take steps to make these burglar resistant also.

And don't forget that some thieves don't even have to break in: they walk while your open, then hide in a rest room, closet or similar hiding place until after closing time. So check all potential hiding places before closing up.

If you store some of your stock outside, it should be well lighted and enclosed by a fence, high, sturdy and topped with barbed wire (otherwise it's too easy to climb over or poke a hole through).

Council Approves Chretien Plan On Tax Classification

"I'm disappointed," said Cahill. "We're forced to do this (raise taxes) because we passed a budget last year. Nobody up here (on the council) wants to do this. Nobody."

"First and foremost, I'm a homeowner in this city. I rent my business (Handshakes Cafe), and we business owners don't get any kind of a tax break."

"But when the cost goes up to the business person, the cost goes up for the consumer. There's no easy way around this. The question is, do we go for the short term solution (Sheet's plan) or the long term approach (Chretien's)?"

"To keep the business rate down is best for the whole city. I don't want the decay that has begun in Quincy Square and other pockets of the business community to spread to residential areas. This helps residents in the long run. The business owners are only asking for the opportunity to keep going, not a special break."

Nutley, however, disagreed with Cahill on his final point.

"That's what you're doing, is giving business a break and putting the burden on the residents, in simple and plain English," Nutley said. "There's no doubt that business people are hurting, but they're not hurting because of the Quincy tax rate, but the economy."

"If we do this (adopt the Chretien plan), we'll set a precedent. People will be asking for a difference every year, and we'll lose what we have now."

"The businesses will get by, unlike the homeowner who may not have the money in his pocket to do so. I firmly support the mayor on this."

Cheney, however, said he too sided with the Chretien plan.

"What people have to understand is that this is a vote to shift the burden, not whether or not to increase taxes," Cheney said. "It's unfortunate that we're pitted against one another for this particular vote."

"This (Chretien's) plan makes it more favorable to businesses to come to Quincy. And the important thing is what businesses can do to supply jobs for the city."

"This is not a break for businessmen. I do this for jobs for residents in the City of Quincy."

DeCristofaro said he felt the residential taxes should only be raised as little as possible.

"To put one more dollar on the residents of the City of Quincy would be asking too much," said

DeCristofaro. "I support business all that I can, but to add one dollar to the residents' taxes would be wrong. The mayor's plan is more fair."

Kolson, despite calling Chretien's plan "courageous," agreed.

"I support the mayor's position on this," said Kolson. "I think the chief executive officer of the city does have long term plans in mind, and the shift of responsibility for the tax burden must remain the same for now."

"It's that curable, damnable water sewer rate that is screwing everyone to the wall. I've talked with people who said they would be willing to share more of the burden if not for the sewer bill. They're stuck between a rock and a hard place."

A drop in property values has created the need to increase tax rates. The fiscal year 1991 total tax levy was $69.5 million. Through new growth and the increase allowed by Proposition 2 1/2 the FY 1992 tax levy will be $72.8 million.

Sheets said he was not at all disappointed by the council's vote.

"I wasn't lobbying against the City Council. If they chose to accept my recommendation that would be fine, and if not, that would be fine, too."

"They made their decision, and that's fine with me."

Mixed Reviews For Sheets' Quincy Plan

to site new businesses or to relocate existing ones. After studying the city's strengths, the partnership, along with its hired personnel, would seek out such enterprises and provide support systems they require to make new ventures a successful reality.

It would also create programs to assist existing retail in difficult economic times, the plan states.

To fund the programs and fuel the partnership, members would pay $5,000 to $500 the first year, depending on the size of their business. Future contribution rates would be set by the members.

The city would contribute $300,000 annually from the federal Community Block Grant Fund.

While some of the local businessmen surveyed agreed with some of the mayor's proposals, virtually all agreed more action can be taken to aid the revitalization effort. Moreover, they said the city can make small scale improvements now to help the local economy.

One theme the businessmen echoed was tax incentives.

"They should be offering tax breaks and whatever else to fill up the empty spaces because that in turn will add to the retail base which will increase the city's tax base and raise more revenue," said Mark Bertman, chairman of the Quincy Business Council, and a member of the Quincy Partnership and Quincy Center Business and Professional Association's Board of Directors.

"They have to start talking about getting people in here who represent the good, hard-working middle class," said Bob Coleman who is also a member of the QCBPA Board of Directors.

QCBPA President Charles Ryder agreed tax incentives would help lure new business to Quincy. "In these tough economic times, it's not easy for anyone to open up a new store or business."

Councillor Tim Cahill, chairman of the council's Committee on Downtown Economic Development, also said tax incentives should be part of the revitalization effort. "We need tax incentives, zoning incentives and government infrastructure to get the downtown going again."

"In this economy, (the downtown) needs all the help it can get. We have to make the downtown worthwhile for investing."

Cahill, who said he had not received a copy of the mayor's plan as of Tuesday afternoon, agreed with the push for a commuter rail station and a crossway connector.

However, he said the station should be located at either the Quincy Adams or Quincy Center

MBTA stations since the rail stop would serve as a transfer point for commuters using both the rail and Red Line.

Bertman, Coleman and Ryder agreed with the need for the rail station.

"If the choo choo train is going to come, let's get something for it. I can't believe they would let it go by without stopping to say hello," Coleman said.

Ryder added, "We absolutely need that station. For business and tourism it's essential we have a commuter rail station."

The crossway connector project drew support and opposition.

Cahill said he favors the connector provided the project does not disrupt business along Hancock St.

Ryder said the connector only makes sense if the Hancock Parking lot is developed. "A road to nowhere is a road to nowhere. I'd like to see something specific before running a road through there."

Coleman said he is against a connector, adding the project could spell the end of the downtown.

"The downtown can't take the shock. It's gone through enough already. (The connector) would be the finish. Someone has to show me what the crossway is all about."

New Trustees Hold First Meeting Woodward School Officials Optimistic About The Future

By ROBERT
BOSWORTH

Officials at the Woodward School in Quincy, troubled by financial problems and a bitter legal rift in recent years, hope the school has turned the corner and will see better days now that those problems are history.

Headmaster Marshall Litchfield and Rev. Sheldon Bennett, chairman of the new board of trustees, say other school officials and trustees are optimistic about the future because they will have more control of the school's governance. With a new governance structure, trustees and school officials can now concentrate on improving the 97-year-old educational institution as well as boosting morale and school finances.

The first step in the school's new direction took place in September when the City of Quincy and the school settled a six-year lawsuit regarding the school's management. A judge approved a $400,000 settlement between the city and the school.

The city, which has paid $250,000, will pay the remaining $150,000 to the school next July.

Litchfield said the money will help the school regain its financial footing.

"The settlement allowed us to take care of some incumencies. If enrollment goes up, we can run a balanced budget and be on a level playing field.

"It's been a struggle but this could be the year that we turn the corner," he added.

Of equal importance, Litchfield and Bennett said, is the school's new board of trustees made up of members of the Woodward School "community." The court-approved board replaces an outdated and in recent years ineffective governing structure comprised of two boards: a board of supervisors and a board of supervisors.

The board of managers, comprised of a panel of city officials, was responsible for overseeing Woodward's financial assets that once included more than 200 acres of Quincy land left by Dr. Ebenezer Woodward when he died in 1869.

The board of supervisors was made up of local clergy with authority over educational issues at Woodward.

Over the last decade, members of the two groups hardly spoke.

"Based on what I've seen, the two boards never met and never worked together. It was a longstanding source of frustration," Litchfield said.

"(The two boards) may have made sense in 1869 but it's not the way to run an independent school in 1991," Bennett added.

In 1986, trouble between the two boards surfaced publicly when their different authoritative roles compounded the school's budget problems. Former Mayor Francis McCauley asked the Norfolk County Probate Court to clarify the authority of the two boards.

The case dragged on and three years later, McCauley asked for a seven-year accounting of school finances. He complained the supervisors had no right to permit then headmaster Robert L. Johnson to borrow money to keep the school operating.

The supervisors filed a counter suit of $5 million against the city and board of managers, charging the city had mismanaged the Woodward will.

After Mayor James Sheets was inaugurated, Bennett and other supervisors approached the mayor to reach a settlement. Bennett suggested a settlement calling for one board of trustees to manage the school. Sheets agreed.

"(Sheets) was interested in solving the litigation as well as what is best for the Woodward School. It's part of the city's culture and tradition. He felt it was important for the school to have a shot at succeeding as an independent school," Bennett said.

Litchfield also praised the mayor. "He supported a solution (to the suit). He

Suggested As Weapons Deterrent QHS Students, Staff Feel No Need For Metal Detectors

By STEVE KAVANAGH

"I feel safe here. Quincy High is a good place to be," said Quincy High School senior Alex Mak, 17.

Students and staff at the high school agree that there is not presently a need for metal detectors at the high school.

Last week School Committee member Mary Jane Powers said that the possibility of using metal detectors should be considered at the high schools and middle schools to deter students from bringing guns and knives to school.

Quincy High School has been in the spotlight this year because of weapons related incidents. In October, two freshmen and a sophomore were arrested, two for carrying guns and one for selling a gun. In November, a student was suspended for bringing bullets to school. And this month, a student was stabbed in the leg by a 15-year old student outside the school during a fight at lunch time.

At Central Middle School a student was stabbed with a hypodermic needle in October and last month a student at North Quincy High School was allegedly threatened by another student with a knife.

Quincy High principal Lloyd Hill said the problems at Quincy were "isolated incidents."

"I don't think there is any pattern to it (the incidents)," Mak said.

Hill said he is against installing metal detectors at the school. "It's not the time for that. I would support it if conditions warrant it. But I don't think we're at a point to take such a drastic measure," he said.

"I know there is a problem but I don't think it affects my safety," said Quincy junior David Flaherty, 16. "But it disturbs me that kids are carrying guns to school."

"There are certain bad apples in the bunch. It's like that at every school," said senior David Jolley, 17. He said the problems have involved underclassmen and not members of the senior class.

"I think the younger crowd is doing it (carrying weapons) more," Jolley said.

"I'm sorry to say I do see it as a trend," said Superintendent of Schools Dr. Robert Ricci. "The issue of weapons is a terrible problem in our big cities. If we don't strongly discourage it (carrying weapons) in Quincy we'll be in big trouble in the future."

Ricci, who previously served as Superintendent in Providence, R.I., said he will recommend using some of the same measures towards the problem here in Quincy.

"We stemmed it in Providence because we got right on top of it," Ricci said. He said he will release a comprehensive program on security in January.

Ricci said he too is against installing metal detectors. "Once you've put metal detectors in you make it clear that school is an unsafe environment."

He also said that there are many problems with the practicality of metal detectors. "We are looking at the use of walkie-talkies, camera to monitor certain areas and other things which I can't talk about," he said.

Ricci said two new security officers are being added—one at each high school and that he would like to see a bigger security staff.

Hill said he welcomes the hiring of a new security officer at the school. Quincy presently has two security officers and North has one.

"I think that is definitely needed. We have always been understaffed... I've said that for years. We need an adult presence around the building in addition to our teachers in the classrooms. We're only talking about one (new security guard) here and one at North Quincy. We need several."

Hill said he would like to see a new style of security officer at the schools. He said there is a need for a young, intelligent security guard who would serve more in a supervisory/counselor supportive role than in an enforcement role.

Quincy High social studies teacher Jack Scanlan said, "The best defense is to provide good role models who can teach students how to resolve conflicts."

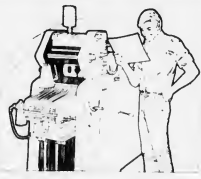

Scanlan agreed with Hill that a younger security force which interacts with students is a good idea. "There may be a place for that (metal detectors) at some point, but there are other things we can do first."

Scanlan said younger staff is needed because they relate better to students. He said an "age gap" has been created in recent years between students and teachers which he attributes to Proposition 2 1/2.

Over 500 Needy Families Homeless Aided At Christmas

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Approximately 500 Quincy families will enjoy a brighter and more festive holiday season thanks to the efforts of local charitable organizations that are once again coordinating their efforts to make this a better Christmas for the city's needy.

These organizations, through the generosity of area residents, churches, schools, companies and other groups, will be giving food, toys and other gifts to those who are less fortunate despite these trying economic times.

And this is not the first time; rather, these efforts are part of what could almost be described as a yearly routine for those in the City of Quincy who annually donate their time and services to make Christmas a day to remember to people who might otherwise have no reason to celebrate.

Mike McArdle, Exalted Ruler of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, says it really isn't difficult at all to get his fellow Elks involved in the spirit of giving.

"They're glad to do it," said McArdle. "This is one of the things you don't have to beg the brothers to do. They get a warm feeling out of it, too."

The Elks donated over 150 baskets of food to needy people throughout the entire city. McArdle said that this number is up from last year, when the Elks gave out "about 120" baskets.

"It's a lot of work," McArdle said. "We've been receiving requests by mail and on the phone since November from needy families."

The baskets, which included a full turkey dinner including potatoes, vegetables, cookies and egg nog, were distributed Sunday morning by about 50 Elks members who donated their time to make sure the baskets were delivered promptly.

The food came from Roxie's Supermarket, which has also been helpful to the Elks in past years by opening on Sunday and having everything ready to be distributed throughout the city.

McArdle said most of the praise belongs to the two chairmen of the Elks' Christmas Committee, Terry Cullen and Colin MacLeod, who coordinated the Elks' efforts in the food distribution.

"They put in a tremendous amount of time towards the effort," said McArdle.

Another organization putting in a lot of time towards helping the city's needy is Father Bill's Place, a local shelter for the homeless. Laurie Boisbert, the food service coordinator at the shelter, says that a special dinner will be served Christmas Day from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Central Baptist Church on the corner of Washington and Foster Sts.

"It's a traditional Christmas meal, with all the fixings and

Tobin Appointed To Special Coastal Storm Committee

Rep. Steve Tobin has been appointed by House Speaker Charles Flaherty to a special House committee to investigate the damage to the coastline caused by the October Northeast storm.

"I am pleased to be selected by the Speaker to address this critical issue," Tobin said. "We need to look into the ongoing cleanup efforts in order to maximize reimbursement for Quincy as well as the other communities affected."

Other committee members include Rep.

Frank Hynes (D-Marshfield), Rep. Mary Jeanette Murray (R-Cohasset), Bruce Tarr (D-Gloucester), Eric Turnkington (D-Cape and Islands), Bruce Tarr (D-Gloucester), Robert Lawless (D-Orleans) and Edward Clancy (D-Lynn.)

QUICK SALE QUERY

QUESTION: I listed my home with a Realtor on a Friday and he had it sold on Saturday. Do you think he really earned his fee?

ANSWER: He certainly has! In fact, more so than the broker who would take several months to close the same sale. If it were the other way around, you would be asking the same question. A quick sale is not a matter of luck or lack of effort. Your Realtor has built up a bank of excellent prospects through hundreds of hours of phone calls, showing homes, interviews and advertising. He has tapped this bank. He has done his homework and made a big investment that has paid off — FOR YOU!

Navy Expresses Thanks
For Support Of Lexington

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
I would like to thank
Mr. Harvey Kertzman of 450 Quincy Ave. for his letter expressing support of the City of Quincy, Massachusetts, to obtain the USS Lexington (AVT-16) for display as a naval museum. I am responding for Secretary Garrett.

As you know, we have been working very closely with the City of Quincy to develop the necessary information to support their application for the ship.

You can be assured that the Navy is giving this selection the most careful consideration.

Thank you for your interest in the Navy. If I can be of further assistance, please let me know.

'Dismayed' By St. Gregory School Closing

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Sitting down several times to voice my dismay at the sudden and unexpected closure of my school, I decided to use verse as my vehicle for expression.

St. Gregory's High
School will close in June,
The most simple and
expedient way.

A pioneer teaching the integrated way.

No fancy courses, just the basic skills
For Life and Learning, both meant to fulfill.

And learning Service to the community,
We study hard with plans to earn a Degree.

St. Gregory High School
will close in June,
The most simple and
expedient way,
We're told too small to count, too much to pay.

With hopes of plans to merge and stay alive,
And working, talking were the twenty-five.*

Concerned for what was best for all their needs,
One hundred forty-two,** where all succeed.

St. Gregory High School
will close in June,

The most simple and
expedient way.

So take the building,
desks and chairs and books,

And store them, waste
them—empty cold and dry,
Our spirit will not wither, bend or die;

For all of us will grow
and learn and live,

But never stop, forget our pain—forgive.

St. Gregory High School
will close in June,
The most simple and
expedient way.

I want to thank the Sisters of Notre Dame, my teachers for some 12

a love for learning. But, more especially, I want to thank my own students over the past 14 years, (from St. Gregory me more about life and living than any text book.

Ward 1 Mayoral Champ

Former Mayor Frank McCauley would like a little equal time for Ward 1 on the subject of ward councillors.

First of all, he would like you to know that Ward 1 has as many living former ward councillors as Ted DeCristofaro counted in Ward 2 in last week's column.

And secondly, seven Ward 1 councillors went on to become mayor — more than any other ward in the city.

McCauley says it is actually a three-way tie for most living former ward councillors with Wards 1, 2 and 5 all with five.

Ward 2's were listed here last week starting with Carl Anderson (elected 1943) and including William Papile, Joseph LaRaia, Clifford Marshall and Dan Raymond.

Ward 1's five are: Charles Shea (1960-63),
McCauley (1964-67), Edward Graham (1968-73), Leo Kelly (1974-84) and Michael Cheney (1984-89) who is now a councillor at-large.

"And, did you know," asks McCauley, "that not one ward councillor has been defeated for re-election since 1920?"

Ward 5's five living former ward councillors: George Burke (1960-63), Walter Hannon (1964-1971) William Delahunt (1972-73) Warren Powers (1974-77)
Steve McGrath (1978-89).

Wards 3 and 4 each have four former living ward councillors and Ward 6 will when Tom Nutley leaves office in January.

Ward 3's four: James McCormack (1960-63), John Koegler (1964-1971), Ted McLelland (1972-73), John Lydon (1974-87).

Ward 4's four: Christian Burkard (1938-1940), George McDonald (1960-67), Albert Barilaro (1968-1973), James Sheets (1974-89).

Ward 6's three former living ward councillors are Tom Gilmartin (1945-48), Dennis Harrington (1974-77), Joanne Condon (1978-85). Nutley, who was elected in 1985 will join the "former" ranks in January when he is succeeded by Bruce Ayers.

The seven Ward 1 councillors who went on to become mayor, McCauley notes, are:

Charles Francis Adams elected in 1896, Joseph
Whiton (1917), Perley Barbour, (1925), Tom McGrath (1927), Tom Burgin (1935), David McIntosh (Plan E, 1952) and McCauley, (1982).

Ward 3 and Ward 5 are tied for runner-up mayoral honors with three each.

Ward 3's: James Thompson, (1906) Charles Ross
(1934) and Amelio Della Chiesa (1958).

Ward 5's: Henry Fairbanks, (1890) Charles Byrant (1902), Walker Hannon (1972).

Ward 2 and Ward 4 have two mayors each. Ward 2's Eugene Stone (1912) and Joseph LaRaia (1976).
Ward 4's: William Shea (1910) and James Sheets (1990).

McCauley, who is a Quincy history buff, notes that no Ward 6 councillor has ever gone on to become mayor. (Incoming Bruce Ayers has the next shot at it).

McCauley's political career, by the way, spanned 22 years including Ward 1 councillor, councillor at-large, school committee and four terms as mayor.

And, the history buff himself has a unique spot in Quincy's history: he is the only person to be elected to those four offices.

Ted DeCristofaro hopes to have a special recognition night in February for the five former living
Ward 2 councillors.

McCauley muses: "Ted, how about being a good neighbor and invite the boys from Ward 1 as guests that night?"

Christmas Tree Recycling Dec. 26-Jan. 11

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Don't throw those Christmas Trees away!

The Quincy Evergreen
Program gets underway
Thursday, Dec. 26.

The program is a chance to swap your Christmas Tree for a live
18-inch Evergreen tree.
The idea behind the program is to save the city on landfill costs while at the same time beautifying
the city with new trees.

The program was a big success in its first year as over 2,600 trees were recycled, according to Leo Kelly, chairman of the program.

"We're hoping to do better than last year. We're hoping more people get involved," said Kelly, the founder of the program.
"The city saves money and there are positive results for the environment. We win both ways."

The city turns the trees into mulch for fertilizer for city-owned land. Quincy also benefits by not having to pay the cost of disposing the trees at a landfill.

"We save on the landfill cost and these trees don't break down easily," Kelley said.

Quincy residents can bring their trees to the Park and Recreation Facility, 100 Southern Artery, (next to Adams Field) weekdays through Jan. 10 and on the following Saturdays, Dec.
28, Jan. 4 and Jan. 11, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Gift wrapping paper may also be dropped off for recycling.

When participants turn in their Christmas Tree they will be given a coupon for a live tree which may be picked up in April.

"The trees may be planted on resident's own property or they may be donated to the city of Quincy for planting on city property," Kelly said.

J.M. Cashman, Inc., of Quincy is the sponsor of the program. Cashman picks up the tab for the new trees and the cost of flyers publicizing the program. Flyers are being distributed around the city where Christmas Trees are being sold and will be sent home with school children.

AN ALTERNATIVE TO HYSTERECTOMY

The hysterectomy has been called one of the most over-performed of surgeries. At least 500,000 women will have the operation to remove their uterus this year. For some, the choice is clear, as when the uterus has become malignant. For others, the procedure is the last resort to treat an otherwise healthy organ that is producing painful, abnormally heavy bleeding. A faster, less expensive as well as less drastic procedure called endometrial ablation may be the answer for some of these women. Doctors draw an electrified tool along the lining of the uterus, destroying the cells that produce the monthly lining. Risks include the possibilities of sterilization or a perforated uterine wall.

P.S. Some 50 percent of all hysterectomies are performed solely to stop bleeding caused by hormonal imbalance or benign growths.

questions about the advisability of a hysterectomy, call your

Sun 'Citizen Of The Year' Nominations Deadline Saturday

The deadline to submit nominations for The Quincy Sun's seventh annual "Citizen of the Year Award" is Saturday, Dec. 28.

Established in 1985, the award recognizes an individual for outstanding community service or a special achievement. Sun readers have the opportunity to nominate the person they feel is the most deserving.

After nominations close Dec. 28, a judging panel will be selected to make the final choice from the nominations submitted. A nomination ballot to help the selection process in on Page 5 of this week's issue of The Sun.

If you know of someone you would like to see recognized with this award, fill out the form and mail it to:

Citizen of the Year
The Quincy Sun
1372 Hancock St.
Quincy, MA 02169.
Nominations should be postmarked not later than Dec. 28.

See Ballot Below

Nominations can also be dropped off at The Sun office at the above address no later than Dec. 28.

Those submitting nominations should identify themselves. They can also attach to the ballot a letter describing in more detail the reason for the nomination.

Nominees can be someone in elective office, a member of an appointed board, a clergy member, a teacher or school administrator, a police officer or firefighter, someone in the business community, a sports figure or someone next door who has given freely or his or her time to a worthy project or cause.

The name of the winner will be announced in the Quincy Sun in January.

Here is an opportunity for our readers to voice their opinion as to who deserves to The Quincy Sun's "Citizen of the Year" for 1991.

Last year, Gerald Gherardi of Quincy was honored for his contributions to charities and service organizations over a half century. He was selected from 41 nominations submitted by Quincy Sun readers.

Gherardi received the award at a reception held at the Quincy Sons of Italy Social Center. The event was attended by nearly 100 persons, including family, friends and city officials.

The first recipient was Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management (formerly Civil Defense). He was chosen from 31 nominees.

Ruth Wainwright of Houghs Neck, a long-time community volunteer, was named the winner in 1986. She was chosen from 43 nominees.

The third award was presented posthumously to the late Richard J. Koch Sr. who was active in many charitable and community causes for four decades.

The 1988 recipient was Martin Finnegan, athletic director for Quincy public schools. Selected from 38 nominees, Finnegan was recognized for coordinating Project Impact, an innovative program which trains teachers and adults to help youths deal with drug, alcohol and other peer problems.

Those nominated the past six years are eligible to be nominated again this year. Since this is not a popularity contest, a person receiving the most nominations is not necessarily sure of being the final winner.

Anyone nominated just once has an equal chance to being named the final winner.

City Council Rejects Private Ambulance Service For City

The City Council turned thumbs down on a proposal, endorsed by City Manager William J. Deegan Jr., to turn most of the city's ambulance service over to a private contractor.

Under the proposal, the South Shore Ambulance and Oxygen Service would have handled private patients while the police vehicle would have taken accident, emergency and welfare cases.

The contractor agreed to carry private patients at $8 a trip and also volunteered to make other runs at $5 a trip.

KING DENIES SALE PLAN

Delcevere King denied a report that he was willing to sell a six-acre section of his estate at 270 Adams St. for $55,000 as the site of the proposed Furnace Brook School.

"I am absolutely convinced," said King, "that the school should be located on the other side of Adams St. and I am opposed to their taking our property and feel sure they will not."

However, he added, "if it works out that this property is taken by eminent domain, I will not require more than 25 percent above the assessment, that is, $55,000."

FUNDS TAKEN ILLEGALLY

Probate Judge James F. Reynolds ruled that Quincy had taken $21,773 illegally from the operating fund of the Woodward School for Girls and must restore it with 4 percent interest.

The city was sued by the trustees of Dartmouth College over whether certain funds that had accumulated in the Ebenezer Woodward Fund were part of the principal.

Central Middle Students 'Share And Care'

The Central Middle School Student Senate continued its Adopt-a-Family Project this year with the theme "Central Cares and Shares."

Students held various fundraisers to buy clothes for four families in need of winter outfits.

The entire school participated in supporting the fundraisers including craft and bake sales, Hat Day, photographs, etc.

The program included an educational aspect as well. The students did the actual shopping for clothes. The students had to shop withing a budget.

Central teachers Camille Courtney, Linda Lew-Hanson, Patricia Drew, Jean Healy, Lucy Baker and William McWeeny assisted students with shopping.

Marie's Kitchen

By MARIE J. D'ONOFRIO

Lemon-Cheese-Cherry Pie

This past Thanksgiving, after baking the usual pumpkin and apple pies, I baked a lemon pie made with cream cheese and cherry that was very delicious. I plan to make it for Christmas also. The recipe calls for cream cheese which I used the first time I baked the pie, but later used ricotta cheese with equally good results.

LEMON-CHEESE-CHERRY PIE
either a graham cracker crust or plain crust (baked)

1 package of lemon pie filling

1 package of whipped cream cheese (8 ounces)
(or ricotta cheese)
1 can cherry pie filling (sweet, not tart)

Cook the lemon pudding as directed. While hot, blend in the cream cheese or the ricotta cheese until smooth. Pour into the crust. Chill for about 30 minutes. Then spread the can of cherry pie filling over the lemon-cheese layer. Chill for at least 2 hours. It is a very delicate dessert and cuts quite easily after chilled. It will serve at least 8 people. Happy Holidays!!!

CHRISTMAS CAROLERS--Montclair School students in the Transitional Bilingual Education program perform holiday songs for residents of the William B. Rice Eventide Home recently.

Montclair Students Carol For Eventide Residents

The students of the Transitional Bilingual Education Program at the Montclair School recently entertained residents at the William B. Rice Eventide

Home with a concert of Christmas carols and holiday songs.

The students performed a wide variety of both traditional and contemporary holiday music selections and distributed handmade gifts and holiday cards to 20 Eventide residents.

Eventide is a retirement and nursing home on Adams Street.

ATHERTON HOUGH SCHOOL students recently presented the play "A Christmas Carol." Scrooge (Caitlin Nichol), right, and the "Ghost of Christmas Present" played by Caitlin's twin, Colleen Nichol, look on as the Cratchet family toasts the holidays. ## St. Mary's Parish Variety Show A Success

By BRIAN CONNOLLY

Nearly 1,100 people participated in the second annual parish variety show of St. Mary's Parish in West Quincy held recently at the Broad Meadows Middle School Auditorium.

One hundred and forty talented students and children from all over West Quincy performed an extravaganza entitled "Clowns A Poppin'."

An Ed Rooney production, "Clowns A Poppin'" as first produced last year in commemoration of St. Mary's 150th anniversary. Because of show's success, it was decided to make the show an annual event.

This year's edition was a blend of talented sings and performers along with outrageously humorous skits and songs. The audience was entertained with several enchanting solo singing spectacles, including a performance from Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, a piano ensemble by parish organist Gay Sullivan and fifth grader Brendan Griffin and a rock 'n roll exploit from "Double Barrel," a local band.

A cast of 70 children from kindergarten through seventh grade collaborated to delight the audience with their singing talents. Dressed in white shirts, red bow ties and straw hats, the youngsters chanted a half dozen songs from the "good ol' days."

The talented performances were balanced with comical acts from an assortment of amusing characters. As various clowns danced around to their favorite circus tunes, others told jokes or roamed into the crowd to get the audience involved. Scenes included a singing and dancing performance by the trio of Fr. Ronald Bourgault, Sr. Catherine Mulkerrin and Fr. Bryan Parish.

Fr. Parish, one of the chief organizers and the master of ceremonies of the extravaganza, said the main purpose of the show is to build parish spirit. "It's great to see people coming together to enjoy themselves and getting together in the parish to have a lot of fun," he said.

Bill Griffin, one of the many clowns on stage, added, "It was just really enjoyable. We had a lot of fun and I liked meeting a lot of people in the parish who I never knew before."

The variety show was funded by mainly by parishioners and local businesses who were very generous in their donations to the show and to the Ad book. With their support, $6,800 was raised to help finance the production. The rest was paid for through ticket sales.

With the second annual St. Mary's Parish variety show successfully concluded, parishioners cannot wait until next year to meet and perform once again.

Fr. Parish added, "It's nice to see the parish coming together."

Over 140 Children Attend Sons Of Italy Christmas Party

One hundred and forty-two children and an equal number of adults recently attended the Quincy Sons of Italy Lodge annual Christmas Party.

Children were treated to a lunch of hotdogs, chips, soda and ice cream prepared by Brother Tony Vardaro and his "Kitchen Crew." After lunch, the children were entertained by "October Creations" who performed various magic tricks and fascinated the audience.

Later in the day,

Chairman Joe Cristiani Jr. and Kevin Realini, with assistance from Pauline Roy, introduced the star of the day--Santa (Gus Purpura). The children, from infancy to age 10, each received a gift from Santa and were able to highlight their Christmas lights.

The chairmen wish to thank President Michael Capone for supporting this longstanding event, and the many members who donated their time and effort to ensure its success.

Youth Coalition Sponsors New Year's Eve All-Nighter

A group of churches in the Quincy area known as the South Shore Youth Alive Coalition are sponsoring a New Year's Eve All-Nighter for junior high and senior high youth.

CHRISTMAS IN CHURCH

lights the way to the spirit and brotherhood of Christmas

The Christmas Story

Luke, 2, 1-14. At that time, there went forth a decree from Caesar Augustus that a census of the whole world should be taken. The first census took place while Cyrenus was governor of Syria.

And all were going each to his own town, to register.

And Joseph also sent from Galilee out of the town of Nazareth into Judea to the town of David, which is called Bethlehem - because he was of the house and family of David - to register, together with Mary his espoused wife, who was with child.

And it came to pass while they were there, that the days for her to be delivered were fulfilled.

And she brought forth her first-born Son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were shepherds in the same district living in the fields and keeping watch over their flock by night.

And behold, an angel of the Lord stood by them and the glory of God shone round them, and they feared exceedingly.

And the angel said to them, "Do not be afraid, for behold, I bring you good news of great joy which shall be to all the people; for today in the town of David a Savior has been born to you, Who is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign to you; you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger."

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men of good will."

On Tuesday, Dec. 24 the 4 p.m. Mass will be hosted by the parish school choir and presided by Fr. Dan Riley. A special Mass for tiny tots and pre-school children will be celebrated at 5:30 p.m., hosted by the parish school choir and presided by Fr. Dan Graham.

The Midnight Mass will be a solemn concelebrated Mass involving the entire parish staff.

There will be two Masses on Christmas Day. Fr. Dan Graham will preside over the 9:30 a.m. Mass (the homily given by Deacon John Jenette), and Fr. Dan Riley will preside over the 11:30 a.m. Mass. The congregation will sing at both Masses.

Traditional Candlelighting Service Christmas Eve At HN Congregational

A traditional candle lighting service will be held Christmas Eve at 11 p.m. at the Houghs Neck Congregational Church, 310 Manet Ave.

There will be a reception of new church members at the service. Harold Sparks, Rod Hicks, Martha Chase and Barbara Christie will serve for the diaconate.

Christmas music will be provided by the choir and organist Arden Schofield, flutist Janet Little, and a vocal trio of Dorothy Sparks, Chris Prendergast and Gayle Mackay.

Christmas Eve Candlelight Service At First Presbyterian

A Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held Tuesday, Dec. 24 at 7 p.m. at the First Presbyterian Church, 270 Franklin St.

The evening will include a service of Scripture and singing. The carol singing will conclude with a congregational candle lighting and the singing of "Silent Night."

Special music will be presented by the choir under the direction of Paul Haight with Sue Hersey at the organ.

The community is invited. Contact the church office at 773-5575.

Two Worship Services Christmas Eve At Bethany

Christmas Eve at Bethany Congregational Church will feature two worship services.

At 7 p.m. a family service will be held with music by the Bethany Folksingers. The Rev. Roger Ketcham will have a children's story.

The Advent candle ceremony will be conducted by Corinne, Darryl and Kyle Mikami. Scripture readers will be Vivian Miller, Lisa Chenette, and Tammy Vozella.

At 11 p.m. a candlelight service will be held. Rev. Ketcham's sermon topic will be "Recovering Wonder."

Scripture readers will be Shirley Pyne, Jean Ross and Edmund Aluisi. The musical portion of the service will feature solos by Brenda Bonoli, soprano; Paul Brazier, baritone; Laura Brown, flutist; and Gregory Flynn, organist.

Morning worship at Bethany Church on Sunday, Dec. 29 will be held at 10 a.m. The Rev. Ketcham's sermon topic will be "It's Cold Out There!"

Scripture reader will be Vivian Miller. Music by the Chancel Choir will be under the direction of Gregory Flynn, organist and choir director. Greeting the worshippers as they enter the sanctuary will be Jim and Jean Ross.

Hosting the fellowship hour after the worship service will be members of the Leuchte family.

There will be no church school classes this Sunday. The weekly Bible study conducted by Rev. Ketcham will meet Sunday at 8:30 a.m. in Room 3 of the parish house. Child is provided for infants and toddlers at both hours.

Candlelight Service Christmas Eve At First Parish

A Christmas Eve candlelight service will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at United First Parish Church (Universalist Unitarian), "Church of the Presidents," 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Center.

The service will include carols, readings from Scripture and modern sources, anthems by the choir, and a reflection by the minister.

Children of the church school will ushers and be candle lighters. They are:

Justin Adams, Mark Adams, Elizabeth Bennett, Annie Bergen, Valerie Chin, Marisa Ross, Bethany Savelle, Russell Sullivan.

The service will conclude with the singing of "Silent Night" by candlelight. Visitors and children are welcome, but child care will not be provided.

For more information call the church at 773-1290.

Candlelight Service Christmas Eve At Union Congregational

Union Congregational Church, 136 Rawson Rd., Quincy, will observe Christmas Eve with a candlelight service at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary.

The service will feature carol singing, special music, Scripture readings, the lighting of the Christmas candle and the spreading of the light.

Children's Choir At Good Shepherd Christmas Service

A Christmas Eve candlelight service of Holy Communion will be celebrated at 5:30 p.m. at Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, corner of Harvard and Squantum Sts., North Quincy.

The service will feature the children's choir.

All are welcome. For more information, call 328-8348.

Christmas Eve Communion Service At Covenant

The Christmas Eve service at Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts., will begin at 11 p.m. and conclude at midnight. It will be a candlelight service with music.

Rev. Kathleen Graves and co-pastor Rev. Kirk Johnson will lead the service, which will conclude with Communion.

The choir, directed and accompanied by Richard Smith, will sing. Soprano soloist Luisa Dano will also sing.

Smith will play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will resume at 9:30 a.m. During the service, a nursery is available for children four and younger. Children up to age 12 will be dismissed for junior church.

Future activities include a New Year's Potluck supper at the parsonage and the winter retreat Jan. 19-20 at Pilgrim Pines in New Hampshire.

For more information on church activities, call 479-5728.

Christmas Eve Candlelighting At Point Congregational

On Christmas Eve, church members, friends and visitors will gather in the sanctuary of the Quincy Point Congregational Church to light individual candles from the Christ Candle.

The services will be conducted at 7:30 p.m. and 10 p.m. and will be led by the pastors, the Revs. Fred and Carol Carol Atwood-Lyon. The church is located at the corner of Washington St. and Southern Artery.

Both services will include lessons and carols for the Christmas season, the lighting of the Christ Candle upon the Advent wreath, a brief meditation and the lighting of individual candles.

Dr. Herman Weiss, church organist and choir director, will play. Soprano soloist Sally Powers and the Chancel Choir will sing.

Members of the 1992 Confirmation class will decorate the exterior of the sanctuary by lighting luminara candles and locating them outdoors. The lighting of luminara is symbolic of "lighting the way to Bethlehem" and is a custom in many lands.

For more information about services of worship and church activities, call the church office at 773-6424, Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Michael McDonald On Xaverian Honor Roll

Michael McDonald of Wollaston has been named to the Honor Roll at Xaverian Brothers High School, Westwood, for the first marking period.

McDonald, junior, earned second honors.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McDonald.

In an attempt to generate tourism in the City of Quincy, the City Council at a special meeting Thursday night appropriated $35,000 to the planning department for the purpose of promoting the city during the "Sail Boston 1992" program scheduled for July.

The event will coincide with the 200th anniversary of Quincy's separation from Braintree as an independent town.

The money is to be used by the Quincy Tourism Association to pay for various expenses involved in the intensive promotion of the city planned for when the Tall Ships arrive in Boston next summer.

These expenses include the printing and mailing of brochures on the city, advertisements in various Bay State newspapers and selected radio stations, signs directing tourists to Marina Bay and Quincy Center, buses to transport tourists around the city, boats to shuttle people between Marina Bay (where several of the Tall Ships may stay while in the area) and Boston, police service for crowd control, cultural festivals, tour guides and other contingencies.

A Bicentennial and Tall Ships Committee has been organized by the mayor's office to plan and implement programs appropriate for Quincy. The council listened to comments from several members of the committee, which was originally asking for an appropriation of $70,000.

"Our intent is to expose as many visitors as possible to the City of Quincy in as short a time as possible and for as little money as possible," said Bernice Mader, administrative assistant to the mayor. "It is estimated that 4-6 million people will visit Boston that week (in July), and there will be overflow. Boston simply won't be able to accommodate that many people, and this is a terrific opportunity for the city." She added that the committee not only hoped to be able to earn back the entire $70,000 to pay back the council, but also to make a profit which would be used towards future commercial interests.

MaryAnne McMahon, president of the Quincy Tourism Association, said she also had high hopes for the summer promotion.

"There are no hotel rooms left in Boston (for July)," said McMahon. "Quincy started getting calls two or three months ago. We have to get in there now; it's about time we did. Quincy is Massachusetts' best kept secret."

Another member of the committee, Walter

Hannon of O'Connell Enterprises, said he hoped as many as six to eight of the Tall Ships would be staying at Marina Bay, although nothing has been guaranteed at this time.

Several members of the City Council, though supportive of the program, felt that $70,000 was too large of an appropriation at this time.

Councillor Patricia Toland suggested an appropriation of $25,000, saying that it was too soon to be giving out such a large amount at once and that the rest of the request could always be granted at a later date.

Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien agreed.

"This is a great marketing opportunity," said Chretien, "but the council has some reservations as to how to do this. We should slow down the appropriation process."

Councillor Timothy Cahill said the matter should be kept in committee, adding that he would feel uncomfortable appropriating so much of the taxpayers' money. Mader said the funds had to be appropriated from free cash, since UDAG and CDBG monies could not be used for commercial purposes.

"We have to get a little bit more of a guarantee that we are going to get it all ($70,000) back," said Cahill. "I would feel better about this if you come back to us in two or three weeks with some safeguards and a little bit more guarantee."

Councillor Michael Cheney also questioned some of the committee's figures, saying $2,000 of the appropriation to be used for new signs and $10,000 to be used for police service were just two of the amounts that seemed a little too high.

"We have a vision," said Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson, "and if we get too timid about it, we're going to lose it."

Council President Theodore DeCristofaro also voiced his support of the appropriation.

"I have no problem voting for this," said DeCristofaro. "It's about time Quincy got on its feet, and this is an opportunity to get the city on its feet. I can't see why we're quibbling about a few thousand dollars."

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

Students in Quincy public schools again this year were invited to submit articles for the holiday season including Merry Christmas, Chanukah and New Year.

This year's theme is: If I could have one wish come true this Holiday Season it would be...

Students participating are in Grade 3.

The Sun is happy to share these young thoughts with you at this season. Publishing these articles has become a tradition which all of us at The Sun look forward to and, we hope, you do, too.

We want to thank Dr. Janet DiTullo, Director of curriculum in the Quincy Public School System and classroom teachers for their assistance.

We were again swamped with entries and because of space limitations we regret we cannot print every single article submitted.

So many others were worthy of publication, too.

We hope to publish more next week.

To all who participated we extend season's greetings and a happy, healthy New Year.

Thank you all, most sincerely.

It would be that all the homeless people get a home. They could buy clothes. It would be wonderful.

Jennifer Wozny
Bernazzani

It would be to get my hamster back. I loved him. I miss him. I would be so happy if he came back.

Timothy Braga
Bernazzani

It would be to have school every day of the year. I want to go to school to be smart and go to high school and college.

Angela Sass
Montclair

It would be that homeless people have some money this Christmas.

Brian Clark
Parker

It would be to get nice homes for all the homeless people and to give food for the hungry.

Vincent Traietti
Montclair

It would be that my grandmother's hand gets better by Christmas Day so she can open the presents. I hope she won't have the pain in her arm anymore so she can walk my dog with me.

Nicole Palermo
Snug Harbor

It would be that everyone is home with a happy family for Christmas because Christmas is a family holiday as it was a family who started it.

Ainsley E. Morse
Snug Harbor

It would be for my cat to come home. My cat has been gone for four weeks. He is only one-year old. I would really be happy if my cat came home.

David Armstrong
Bernazzani

It would be for all those homeless people to get a job. Then they would have money to buy a nice house to live in. Maybe if they work real hard they can get a built-in pool and a tennis court.

Matthew Mormino
Bernazzani

It would be that there be no more smoking so people's lungs won't be black.

George Bush
Point Webster

It would be that my cousin won't lose his house.

Andrea Leahy
Bernazzani

It would be that people would stop having wars because a lot of people are getting hurt.

David Fox
Snug Harbor

It would be that my father does not get laid off.

Audra Dompier
Snug Harbor

It would be for my mother to get a job because she wants one. I also wish sick relatives get better because I don't want them to be sad.

David Weners
Snug Harbor

It would be to go to school every day and get a scholarship so I could go to college.

Dean Zoia
Montclair

It would be no more wars. I hate guns and weapons.

Ryan Phillips
Snug Harbor

It would be that people would not die until they are about 140. Or 100 as the lowest. My dad was 45-years old when he died. I did not have a long time to see my dad. I miss him so much.

Donna Pagnani
Snug Harbor

It would be for everyone to be happy and to be full, not hungry.

Hung Ngo
Snug Harbor

It would be for people to stop fighting. The world would be peaceful with no fighting. People would get along.

Marianne Casper
Bernazzani

It would be that people would live in their own homes. Then people who had no food will get it.

Robert Dellamano
Bernazzani

It would be for all the poor people to get homes. If that happened there would not be anymore people that needed homes. Then everyone could buy clothes and food.

Michael Whalen
Bernazzani

It would be no more wars. I don't want any people to get hurt.

Long Ngo
Snug Harbor

It would be that the world would have happiness and people would not fight.

Steven Pagington
Snug Harbor

It would be to get a lot of presents and give a lot of presents and then everyone would be happy.

Jessica Gallant
Atherton Hough

It would be to get a new boat, because I go fishing a lot.

Daniel Dorsey
Atherton Hough

It would be for all the kids in the world to be happy.

Lisa Wong
Montclair

It would be to get a four-speed bike, so I could go racing.

Kostas Blathras
Parker

It would be to get gifts. It is fun to get gifts on Christmas.

Trinh Ly
Parker

It would be to get all the puppies and kittens in the world.

Kristal Ann Spaulding
Parker

It would be to get a big table to celebrate our dinner and have a party.

Anthony Chau
Parker

It would be a color TV and a few more computer games.

Rafal Nickrasz
Atherton Hough

It would be to get some Nintendo games because it gets boring playing the same ones over and over.

Michael Cheever
Parker

It would be for the Earth to be clean and no one would litter. It would be great if there would not be a single piece of paper on the ground.

It would be a little brown boy puppy. I would want it to be cute. I would feel happy if I got it. Puppy begins with a P. P is my favorite letter. I hope I get a puppy!

Lisa Chaisson
Wollaston

It would be to get everything on my Christmas list. I would like Reebok Pumps, a yo-yo ball, Electronic Survivor Shot and a new toy box. I would also like Turbo Fist, a color tv with a built-in VCR, Ninja Turtle 2, the movie and Robin Hood Prince of Thieves.

Patrick Friel
Wollaston

It would be to have my brother Scott come home from my aunts' because I love him.

Justin Aniolowski
Snug Harbor

It would be for people not to kill any animals unless it was an animal that we need, like pigs, cows or sheep, etc. I don't think it's fair for animals to be dying for no reason.

Kelli Dykens
Snug Harbor

It would be for homeless people to have homes and food. Some people in the world don't have food and they have no homes.

Leia Amarra
Snug Harbor

It would be that people wouldn't take drugs.

James Florentine
Snug Harbor

It would be that all people would have a home. I also wish that no people would be hungry.

Steven McKay
Snug Harbor

It would be for happiness around the world. If people don't have happiness they might be mean to each other.

Sheena Williams
Snug Harbor

It would be that all people would remember Jesus' birth at Christmas.

Denise Stroup
Snug Harbor

It would be that all the people in the world could save time buying presents. It would be the nicest Christmas ever. All the people in the world would be able to save more time during Christmas.

Laetitia Lutts
Bernazzani

It would be to help the poor people and give clothes to them. I want to be nice to the poor.

Holly Golden
Bernazzani

It would be to have a lot of toys. Then my mother would not need to buy a lot of toys for me. She could use that money for bills.

Patrick Meehan
Bernazzani

It would be to remember Jesus' birth at Christmas. People just think about Santa, toys and candy.

Meredith Oldfield
Snug Harbor

It would be for $5,000 so that I can give it to the helpless people and the handicapped.

Theresa McMahon
Snug Harbor

It would be that my Nana and my Uncle Ronnie would get well soon.

Lisa Fryar
Snug Harbor

It would be to remember Jesus' birth at Christmas.

Danny Mott
Snug Harbor

It would be for a clubhouse because it is fun and I could invite my friends over to sleep and play with me.

Joanne Chout
Montclair

It would be to meet Santa Claus. I really like him because he is nice and he gives me presents.

Ted George
Montclair

It would be $50 million. I would give $5 million to my mom and $5 million to my dad and five to my brothers and sister. I would send $10 million to Father Bill's shelter for the homeless.

David Buckley
Parker

It would be to have peace in the world for all people. I would give the poor people food. I would plant trees in the summer.

Jenny Tam
Parker

It would be for a billion dollars to buy a Corvette and a Porsche for my mother and father.

Mike Delosh
Parker

It would be for my grandmother to come back to work as a secretary at my school.

Kristen Cox
Parker

It would be that all the people who are breaking the law will be arrested and then we can have a good clean world.

Michael McLaughlin
Snug Harbor

It would be for no more wars. Because people die, people get hurt and I don't like to see that.

Phillip Fortune
Snug Harbor

It would be that all the poor people would become wealthy people and have lots of love and money and have good schools, good teachers and good trusting friends.

Janelle Spiker
Parker

It would be for $1 million so I can buy anything I want. I could get a college education too. Also, I would give it to the poor.

Ricky Carmichael
Point Webster

There would be no more wars. When countries go into wars people die. Soldiers get shot. And most of all they lose their families because of hunger.

Ebonie DeRosa
Point Webster

It would be no more wars. On Dec. 7, 1991 the United States of America observed the 50th anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor. This attack was the start of World War II for America.

Christopher Means
Wollaston

I would like peace on Earth so there will be no more wars. No more people will be killed. No more laws will be broken.

Heather Means
Wollaston

It would be to get Sega Genesis. Why you ask? Because a lot of the time I get bored. I don't believe in Santa Claus because Jesus is the reason for Christmas.

Phillip Glackin
Wollaston

It would be for the dining room to be finished, because my father put a lot of work into it. We are going to have sparkles on the ceiling. We're going to have a bathroom downstairs. It's going to look great when it's done.

Stephen Inferreia
Wollaston

It would be to get a gold Eastern Aluminum hockey stick. It is a popular stick and a lot of kids have it.

Mark Gibbons
Atherton Hough

It would be to get a Turbo Fist and I would want a puppy.

Scott Berry
Atherton Hough

It would be for a peaceful holiday because I do not want wars.

David Fitzgerald
Atherton Hough

It would be that the children out in Africa had a home. It would be nice because they are starving.

Michelle DeLong
Parker

It would be world peace. I think there should be no wars and no battles. I wish everyone felt peace in them.

Sean McLaughlin
Parker

It would be that my mother's and my friend, Jim Walsh, would come home from the hospital.

Steve Joyce
Parker

It would give it to my grandmother to help her. My grandmother lives all alone because my grandfather passed away. I was sad. My grandmother was sad too. If I could give her my wish she would be happy again.
Paul Donovan
Merrymount

It would be no snow, rain, cold, wind and winter. And peace! I wish for more trees. I wish for warmth and no smoking.
Paul Chan
Wollaston

It would be a bunny because they're furry and cute and fun to play with. My mom is not too crazy about having another animal in the house. We have three dogs and three cats.

Jessica Brown
Wollaston

It would be that my mother could get everything for Christmas. She's been good to me all year.
Phillip Kane
Snug Harbor

It would be home for the homeless people so they won't die from the cold and they will not die of hunger.
Tonia Fraser
Snug Harbor

It would be to have the 590 Fund make more money so homeless people won't be homeless. Because it's not safe on the streets. They could die of starvation. I would let some live in my house.
Sarah DuFrane
Bernazzani

It would be for all the Super Nintendo games that come out. But the one I like the most is Super Ghouls and Ghost.
Mike M.

It would be to go to Florida for Christmas.

Dave DiTunno
Parker

It would be for a million more wishes because I would be able to wish for everything I wanted.

Chelsea Taylor
Point Webster

It would be peace in the Middle East. I am glad that the hostages were released. Now they will have a great Christmas.

Paul Griffith
Wollaston

It would be to have a genie's lamp with a genie inside. He could grant me all sorts of things: To be a famous football star, to be rich, have cable, have a humongous swimming pool, be a police officer and have a butler.

Paul Flynn
Atherton Hough

It would be to visit the North Pole and visit Santa Claus. I think it would be fun to ride up on the sleigh with Santa Claus and slide down the chimney and put the gifts around the trees.

Jamie Ryan
Atherton Hough

It would be to get Magic Nursery Baby for my birthday.

Shannon Davis
Atherton Hough

It would be for lots of money. I would save my money. When I grow up I will spend true money. I will buy clothes.

Selina Kwan
Montclair

If I could have one wish come true this Christmas it would be a Lego toy.

Hugo Kwan
Montclair

It would be lots of presents for my family. Because I love lots of new things and love presents and wishes that come true.

Renee Maziarz
Wollaston

It would be for all the poor people not to be poor.

Kendra MacKenzie
Wollaston

It would be to have world peace. It isn't just important to me it's important to the whole world so we won't have any more wars.

Michael Raimondi
Wollaston

It would be a baby girl. I would be the happiest girl in my family. I love babies because they are very cute. I like playing with them very much. I like hugging them.

Kai Yee Lau
Wollaston

It would be for my parents and I to have a mansion right near Parker School. The reason why I want a mansion is because my parents have been looking for a house for a long time.

Deanna Kelly
Parker

It would be that everybody would have food. I would like everyone in the world not to fight. I wish everybody would be friends.

Joseph Holland
Bernazzani

It would be for no drugs or alcohol or cigarettes.

Peter Sheffield
Snug Harbor

It would be for no sick or homeless people because I feel very sad for them. I wish there were not any sick or homeless people.

Quincy Edges Falmouth, Falls To B-R

The Quincy boys' basketball team, hoping for another winning season and a second straight Eastern Mass. tourney spot, broke even in its first two games last week, both Old Colony League matchups.

After edging Falmouth, 63-60, in overtime, the Presidents lost to OCL favorite Bridgewater-Raynham, 85-74, last Friday.

Quincy played at Weymouth Monday night and will play in the Boston College High Christmas Tournament Friday and Saturday. The Presidents will face Fitchburg, coached by former North Quincy all-scholastic and Hall of Fame member Doug Grutchfield, in the first game Friday at 6. The championship and consolation games will be played Saturday night.

Bridgewater-Raynham, a solid favorite to win the league crown, had too much size for Quincy, which played well offensively.

In the opener at Falmouth, the first of five straight road games for Quincy, junior Robbie Kane had a fine night with a triple-double. He scored 17 points and had 10 assists and 15 rebounds. He hit on three free throws in the overtime.

The score was 57-57 at the end of regulation, then Kane and Mike Malvesti (three overtime rebounds) took over. Dave Jolley also had a big game with 17 points and 14 rebounds.

North Bows In Overtime To Wayland

The North Quincy boys' basketball team opened its season last week against Wayland's defending state Division 3 champions.

Ted Stevenson's Red Raiders gave the visitors all they could handle but dropped a 52-50 overtime heartbreaker on Dennis Doherty's basket with only two seconds remaining in overtime.

Wayland got off to a 22-18 halftime lead but North came back to tie it at 48-48 at the end of the regulation.

Sean Donovan had a big night for North with 23 points and Tim Johnson added 13.

Wayland, again one of the favorites for the Div. 3 crown, was paced by Jim Kissane's 16 points and Brian Cromwell's 10.

"It was a tough one to lose, but the boys played their hearts out against a fine team," Stevenson said. "Sean (Donovan) had an excellent game and everyone played well. This game should give the boys confidence as they open their Old Colony League schedule."

North Quincy hosted Plymouth Monday in its league opener and will host its annual Christmas Tournament Saturday and Sunday.

North will play Stoughton in the opening round Saturday at 2:30 and Boston Latin will meet St. John's Prep at 1. The title game will be played Sunday at 2:30 with the consolation game at 1.

The Raiders will play at Quincy Friday, Jan. 3 at 7 p.m.

Guidice Stars At Drexel

Amy Guidice of Quincy, a member of the Drexel University (Philadelphia) women's volleyball team, was recently named the North Atlantic Conference's player-of-the-week.

The Lady Dragons won two of three games last week to improve to 18-8 this season. Guidice led Drexel past Fairfield and Loyola but the Dragons fell to Villanova, the top-ranked Big East team, in five games.

In the three games she had 37 kills, 17 digs and nine blocks while hitting .319. Against Villanova she hit .390 with 22 kills, nine digs and six block assists.

The junior middle blocker, who was named team Unsung Hero last season, is currently second in overall team hitting percentage with 229 kills and a .220 hitting percentage. She also has 32 service aces, 153 digs and 55 total blocks.

Drexel hosts the 1991 North Atlantic Conference Volleyball Championships Nov. 16-17. The winner receives an automatic bid to the National Invitation Volleyball Championships.

Bogan Completes Good Season At Curry

Mark Bogan of Quincy recently completed his freshman season as a running back for the Curry College football team.

Bogan started the first

SPEED RACER--A group of Quincy businesses have contributed to help build this stock car, owned by Chris and Michael Condon of Quincy. The car races at Thompson (Ct.) Speedway and will compete at Daytona Beach, Fla., in February.

Quincy Businesses Join Forces To Build Stock Car

A group of Quincy businessmen are making a venture into the exciting world of stock car racing.

Various local businesses have contributed to rebuild a 1983 Chevrolet Monte Carlo for racing competition.

Owners are Chris and Michael Condon, owners of Marina Bay Taxi.

"Everyone who has worked on the car is from Quincy," said Chris Condon. "This shows that there is an interest in racing here."

The car first competed in October in Lee, N.H. It races each Sunday at Thompson Speedway in Connecticut and will run at Daytona Beach in February.

Condon said that many people in this area are unaware of the popularity of auto racing nationwide.

"Stock car racing is the biggest spectator sport in the country," Condon said. "More people attend stock car races in a year than attend major league baseball games."

The Condon brothers

begin putting their car together two years ago with a lot of help from other local businesses and their cousin, Donald Burke of Quincy who put in many hours of work towards the car.

"First we gutted it and built a roll cage," Condon said.

Johnson Motor Parts, 65 School St., built a racing engine for the car and donated parts.

"I'd like to extend a special thanks to Jimmy Triglia, Jr. at Johnson Motor Parts," Condon said.

Other businesses got involved as well. Eco supplied towing services while the car was under construction.

New England Tractor Trailer School, 280 Victory Road, is the primary sponsor along with sponsors Alphagraphics, 74 Washington St., and New England Livery Service of Marina Bay.

The Condon's have signed up an experienced driver to race the car, Mike LaRoushelle of Hookset, N.H., a five-time track champion at Lee.

Hockey

North Upsets Champ Barnstable

Second-year coach Tom Benson couldn't have hoped for a better start for his North Quincy hockey team.

The veteran-laden Raiders opened their season last week by upsetting defending Division 1 champion Barnstable, 3-2, in the battle of the rival Red Raiders.

It was the first loss ever for Barnstable in the Old Colony League with Mike DesRoche and goalie

Dennis Ruggere the sparks in the big victory.

DesRoche scored two goals and assisted on the other and Ruggere had a superb night with 35 saves, many of the spectacular variety.

The score was 1-1 after a period and 2-2 after two. DesRoche scored the game-winner with just 1:52 remaining in the game.

Dave Pacino scored the other North goal with DesRoche assisting.

"This was a great win for us," said Benson. "Barnstable has another fine team and is big and physical. DesRoche had an excellent game and Ruggere was just tremendous in goal. Everyone played his heart out and it was a great team victory."

The Raiders played Silver Lake at Pembroke Saturday, will play at Rockland in a non-league game Thursday at 1:30 and will host Rockland Saturday night at 7:50 at the Quincy Youth Arena.

Cheerleading, Basketball Begin At St. Joseph's

The St. Joseph's School sports program is underway with the basketball and cheerleading teams participating in the South Shore Parochial School League.

The varsity cheerleaders are Dawn Kalafatas, captain; Mary Kalafatas and Elizabeth Crowley, co-captains; Krystin Mazzini, Tricia Oliva, Rachel Repoff, Justina Leskow, Meagan Madden, Melissa DeBonis, Nicole Trabucco, Christine Pollara, Amanda Barter, Bonnie Ford and Erin Madden.

Junior varsity cheerleaders are Jana Bagen, captain; Surita Rorie and Francesca Lorenzano, co-captains; Valerie Doherty, Alicia Bertrand, Aimee Groleau, Caryn Kalell, Amy Chludzinski, Elizabeth Mancuso, Jennifer McCarthy and Charlene Ho.

Cheerleading coaches are Patty Myers and Anita Curran.

The basketball team is under the direction of Frank Brillo, Charlie Kalell and Patricia McHugh.

Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament To Be Held February 17-23

The 19th annual Quincy Kiwanis Youth Hockey Tournament will run throughout school vacation week beginning Monday, Feb. 17 and culminating in the finals in four divisions on Sunday, Feb. 23.

The tournament will have an international flavor with teams from Klagenfurt, Austria; Sackville, Nova Scotia; and Newfoundland.

Also already registered to compete are teams from Beverly Hills, Calif.; Suffolk, N.Y.; Lancaster, Penn.; Braintree, Milton, Quincy, and other cities and towns.

Proceeds from the tournament will be used by the Quincy Kiwanis Club to provide scholarships, camperships, support for the Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Center, and many other needs involving youth in this area.

There are still openings for teams to participate. For more information call 479-8371.

Bill Roche On UMass/Boston Ice Squad

Bill Roche of Quincy is a member of the UMass/Boston ice hockey team.

Roche, a junior defenseman, led the Beacons' defensemen in scoring last season.

UMass/Boston was 16-7-3 overall last season and 14-5-3 in the ECAC East/West, the Beacons' best ever league record.

Girls Basketball

North Girl's Off To Good Start

The North Quincy girls' basketball team, which hopes to qualify for the Eastern Mass. tournament for the eighth time in 12 years, got off on the right foot last week with a 43-36 non-league victory over Braintree.

North played at Plymouth Monday in its Old Colony League opener and will host its holiday tournament Friday and Saturday nights. The North girls will host Quincy Friday night, Jan. 3.

Tricia Hughes, one of several veterans on the North Quincy squad, scored 16 points and Regina Murphy played outstanding defense in the Braintree game. Jennie White came off the bench and scored seven points.

Jenny Goodwin and Jen Simond paced the Braintree girls with nine points apiece.

The North Quincy girls had another outstanding season a year ago with a 17-3 record but were upset by Silver Lake, 39-38, in the opening round of the tournament. They had defeated the Lakers twice during the regular season.

Laitenan Completes Good Season At NU

Nancy Laitenan of Quincy enjoyed a fine season as a middle blocker on the Northeastern University women's volleyball team which had a fine 31-13 record this season.

The Huskies won the ECAC titles the past two years and finished second this year. After tying Drexel they had to play off in a single game. The Dragons won to win the crown. Northeastern coach Maria DiClemente was named the NAC Coach of the Year.

Laitenan, second on the team's block list with a .72 per game average, placed third on the dig list with a 2.33 per game average and she also had an attack percentage of .255.

She is no stranger to volleyball success. A 1989 graduate of Quincy High, she played four years of varsity volleyball, captaining the squad in her junior and senior years. She was named to the Patriot Ledger, Boston Globe and Boston Herald All-Scholastic teams.

Ponkapoag Women's Inner Club Holds Awards Luncheon

The Women's Inner Club of the Ponkapoag Golf Course recently held its annual awards luncheon at the Casa Bianca in Canton.

The club's 1992 officers are president Stephanie Rizza, vice president Nancy Carlton, treasurer Stella Carvelli and secretary Mary Lou Burke.

Carlton received the Gibney Cup, Sue Reycroft the Rothera Cup, Rizza the Johnson Cup and Kay Iredale and Edna Tenney the Crehan Cup.

Awards were presented to Carlton, the club champion, and to Rizza, the finalist. The nine-hole champion was Edna Carter and Tenney was the finalist.

An award also was made to Reycroft, who had a hole-in-one in September on the 11th hole of course 2.

The award for the most improved 18-hole player went to Dottie Pitts and for the most improved nine-hole to Hazel Ford.

Jean McMahon received an award for breaking 100 and Reycroft for breaking 90.

Awards to 18-holers who attended the most tournaments went to Charlotte Dickie first, and Jean McMahon and Marian Dale, second.

Nine-holers who attended the most tournaments were Marilyn Radovsky, first, Mary Garber, second, and Sandy Magier, third.

Awards for the most birdies went to Carlton, with Burke second and Rizza third.

Winner of the nine-hole group was Radovsky with Peggy Cowie and Laura Lynch tied for second.

Awards for the most ringers for the 18-holes went to Carlton, first; Michaels, second and Reycroft, third. The nine-hole winners were Lynch and Canter, first; Doris Brady, second; Jerri Blakely, Evelyn Ecklund, Florence Koffman and Tenney, tied for third, and Hazel Ford, fourth.

The luncheon committee included Pat Fitzgerald, Bess Vanzler and Stella Carvelli.

Bowling

If I Could Have One Wish Come True . . .

(Cont'd from Page 16)

It would be to let my little brother have a fun time. He is now one-and-a-half years old. He is very cute. I hope he has a very fun time and likes his presents.

Lori DeLucia
Wollaston

It would be peace on earth. I want peace because there are so many wars that people die in.

Peter Chan
Wollaston

It would be to make pollution disappear. To stop animals from being endangered and, if you have time for me, I'd like a limousine and my own tv show. I would also like a maid and a butler and to stop the ozone layer from going.

Michael Manganaro
Wollaston

It would be to have lots of books because I love to read, and art supplies because I love to be creative. But I have one bigger wish. It's to have all the homeless, needy and hungry people have all the things they need to keep them living and well.

Jacquelyn Murphy
Wollaston

I would wish for a toy and a car.

Tuan Quach
Parker

It would be that I would get cats and dogs.

Lisa Walsh
Parker

It would be to get Super Nintendo Entertainment System, Sega Genesis, F-Zero for Super Nintendo and Spideeman for Sega Genesis.

Brandon Sleeth
Parker

It would be a billion dollars. I would spend it on all the hockey equipment in the whole entire universe and some toys too.

Matthew Holt
Parker

It would be that homeless and needy people have shelter and food for Christmas.

Jean McCarthy
Atherton Hough

It would be for 1,000,500 so I could buy everything I want including a Lamborghini and a Porsche without bill problems.

Stephen Shuttleworth
Atherton Hough

It would be to go to Gunstock in N.H. I would stay at my grandmother's house for the week. Mom usually packs me a big lunch because when you ski you get hungry.

Mary Maszkiewicz
Wollaston

It would be a Christmas gift, a book and a Christmas doll. I wish Christmas Day will have snow outside.

Margaret Chuong
Wollaston

I would wish for the happiest, best Christmas ever. There would be tons of presents and everyone would get some. We also thank God because it is Jesus Christ's birthday.

Charles Acton
Wollaston

To help clean the Earth and wish that there would be peace on Earth. I would also like everyone to have a safe and happy holiday this season.

Andrea Hettman
Wollaston

It would be a Lamborghini 25th Anniversary Catachic car. I would go 2,000 miles from here. I would water ski in Hollywood.

Eric Lee
Parker

It would be that people who have no money get money and I will get $10,000. I will give $1,000 to mom and dad. I would keep the rest for saving.

Alexcia Romero
Parker

It would be to help my mother do her Christmas cooking and help her with making cookies. I would also help my father wash the car.

Danny Duclos
Parker

It would be that it snowed on Christmas so I can play in the snow and have snowball fights with friends.

Steven Goff
Parker

It would be that all the bad people would be good and that I had a lot of money to give to the Salvation Army. If I had more money, I would give it to my mom and dad.

Sean Cote
Parker

It would be that my nana gets healthy because not long ago she got very sick and went to the hospital. Now she is home. She is not all better but is doing very well.

Jacqueline Niosi
Point Webster

It would be for all of the bad people to be very nice and friendly. The reason I chose this wish is because very many people are getting stabbed and shot.

Amyjo Hooks
Point Webster

It would be to make the world nicer because people say bad things to other people. Also, people must respect each others' property.

Wilson So
Point Webster

It would be for Turbo Bandit. I'd like a red one. It goes fast and it can do a skid.

Jamie Fontaine
Point Webster

It would be for a Super Nintendo. Also, I want to clean up the world by picking up trash. I think the world is special.

Christopher DiCesare
Point Webster

It would be to see my cousin in Ohio. I haven't seen her since I was 7-years old.

Derek Johnson
Atherton Hough

It would be for a pet rabbit. I used to have a pet rabbit.

Anthony Liu
Atherton Hough

It would be for a very happy Christmas. I like Christmas because when we leave cookies for Santa Claus he leaves presents for us.

Pamela Sullivan
Atherton Hough

I would go sledding every day even in the summer. I would ice skate. I would have hot chocolate every morning with oatmeal, ski down a big hill and cross country, and get presents. I would like to see Santa every day. It would be great but you would never go to school and not be bright so that's why it isn't like that.

Michael Campanale
Wollaston

I would be on "Saved By The Bell" with all the actors and actresses like Mark Paul Gouster as Zac Morris and Tiffany as Kelly. That is my favorite show!

Lauren Campbell
Wollaston

It would be to be a better hockey player than Wayne Gretzky! Fans would roar like lions when I went onto the ice!

Domenic Papile
Wollaston

It would be that there be no more wars so people can live in peace.

Stephen Malone
Point Webster

It would be that my grandmother come home to spend Christmas with us.

Mary Kane
Merrymount

It would be to get a black and white kitten, more pencils with good erasers, and something to hold more work that I do.

Elizabeth Caliri
Merrymount

It would be that we stop polluting our Earth!

Lora Knepper
Point Webster

It would be to get Game Boy.

Daniel Douglas
Bernazzani

It would be for people to stop using drugs so they could stay healthy, and to stop littering so they don't pollute the earth.

Taryn Palluccio
Point Webster

It would be for peace in the world.

Robert Castaneda
Point Webster

It would be that my family all be well.

Andrea Verrico
Merrymount

It would be to get Double Dragon II for Game Boy.

Robert Lam
Bernazzani

It would be for people to stop polluting the world because it is a mess already, and to stop using drugs because they are killing people.

Keyona Sanders
Point Webster

It would be that I could draw.

Michelle Zupkofska
Atherton Hough

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES THE SPIRIT ... It's Christmas, time to greet a friend, wrap a gift, help the needy. It's Christmas, time to sing a carol, light a candle, trim a tree.

It's Christmas, time to send a card, surprise a neighbor, delight a child. It's Christmas, time to welcome visitors, spread the festive board, gather the family together for everything good from food to fellowship ... Yea, It's Christmas and steps are lighter, smiles are brighter, hearts are warmer.

On the way to Christmas, there may have been hours when everything seemed just too hectic - too many plans to make, too much to do, too little time. But when the great day arrives, there should be time to pause, to treasure the glow and to contemplate what Christmas is really about - God's gift of a personal Savior and Redeemer ...

Most of all, It's Christmas, time to say a prayer, count many blessings, rejoice. It's Christmas, time to celebrate anew the very first Christmas of all, the Birthday of Christ ... Christmas is more than a holiday. It is a holy day. For those who remember the true significance, Christmas can be THE PAUSE THAT REFRESHES THE SPIRIT ...

Safe And Happy Holidays

It's hard to believe, but the holidays season is upon us already. As we decorate our homes and prepare for the holidays, there are a couple of items we should be aware of to insure a safe and happy holiday season.

Candles are a part of holiday celebrations in many homes. The small flickering flame seems to bring warmth to our hearts, but remember, candles can be dangerous. When purchasing candles, try to find ones that will fit your candle holders snugly, and candle holders made so they won't tip. Never put burning candles near any combustibles, in windows, or near exits of the home. When there are children in the house, be extra cautious not to leave a lit candle unattended, and when you leave your home or go to bed, remember to extinguish all candles.

When decorating with lights, remember the safest type are the miniature lights. Miniature lights don't get as hot and the heat they emit dissipates quickly. There is also less chance of electrical shock if a miniature bulb is broken or missing.

Before using lights, make sure the insulation on the cord is in good condition and there are no bare or frayed spots. When purchasing lights try to find ones that are approved by Underwriter Laboratories (U.L.) If you choose to decorate the outside of your home, make sure the electrical socket is a ground fault interrupter receptacle, this will stop any chance of electrical shock. Also remember if you have aluminum siding, be sure your house is electrically grounded. Always turn off decorative lights when you leave the house or go to bed.

Christmas trees should be safely secured in a sturdy stand, and if needed, tied to an immovable object to keep from tipping. Real Christmas trees should be fresh, and the trunk should be kept in water at all times to slow the trees drying out process. Never put real candles on the tree, and if possible, decorate with miniature lights. Do not run light or extension cords under rugs or furniture. If there are children in your home, choose your ornaments carefully. Glass ornaments may fall and break leaving small pieces of glass on the floor, and small ornaments may be swallowed by children. With children, try to use large unbreakable ornaments.

If you intend to use your fireplace, make sure the chimney is clean and the flue is open. Always remember to keep a fireplace screen in front of a working fireplace. Never put any flammable liquids in a fireplace, and never burn any pressure treated lumber, trash, or paper. If you hang Christmas stockings from your mantle, remove them while the fireplace is in use. Make sure your Christmas tree is not too close to your fireplace.

Holidays are a festive time, and should be enjoyed. By using the information in this article you will greatly reduce the chances of mishaps which may occur. All of the Quincy Fire Fighters want to wish you joy in the holiday season, and all the best in the New Year.

Business Security Part 3

How to put burglars out of business, the rest of the story.

Last week we discussed how to make your business uninviting to a burglar and how to make it hard for him to get inside. This week we will continue to discuss methods of discouraging burglars.

3. Make it hard to find or remove valuable items.

Safes and cash registers should be clearly visible from the street. Leave the cash register drawer open and empty after business hours. The safe should be of good quality and firmly anchored. Lock your check protector and blank checks in the safe. Avoid having large amounts of cash on the premises. Make bank deposits at varying times during the day.

If good lighting doesn't scare a burglar, it will make it harder for him to go undetected while he's working inside or outside the building. If possible, hide or lock in the safe high-value items (such as expensive rings or watches) that would be especially attractive to a thief.

4. Make it likely the thief will get caught.

Consider installing a burglar alarm system. They range from the simple, inexpensive type that merely makes a noise in the building to the complex, expensive and silent type that's tied into a police station or security agency. What kind you need depends on several factors: how likely it is that a thief would be detected without one, how far you are from a police station, how the systems cost compared with the cost of the goods to be protected.

Get a system that either monitors itself or can be easily checked to make sure it's in good operating condition. Shop carefully and buy from a reputable company. If you have a good alarm system, you'll probably get a discount on your business insurance premium.

In lieu of (or in addition to) an alarm system you may want to hire a security guard or security service to patrol your business at night. If not, make sure someone (either you or one of your employees) is responsible for checking security of the business before closing time.

Record all serial numbers of large-denomination bills. Also, a small amount of marked "bait" money may help police trace a thief. Try to keep a good inventory of your stock, including serial numbers of valuable goods, theft prone items and equipment. This will help police trace stolen goods and help you in filing an insurance claim.

If you do become a burglary victim, cooperate with the police in every way you can, including pressing charges if they catch a suspect and have evidence to convict him.

Locks for doors should be the deadbolt type. Doors should be heavy and solid. Protect windows with grillwork or heavy-duty screen.

Openings other than doors and windows-skylights, ventilators, should be protected. Fences should be high, sturdy and topped with barbed wire.

Cover is something you don't want burglars to have. Adequate lighting -- both inside and outside -- is a must. Don't stack boxes or leave a vehicle parked next to the building.

Keep valuable items out of display windows at night. Hide them or lock them up in a safe.

Insurance on your business is something you mustn't be without. How good your security is has a bearing on your premium.

Tip up a thief by installing an effective alarm system, leaving cash register drawer open and empty, anchor safes firmly, record serial numbers of large bills.

Understand the importance of checking out potential employees before hiring, make one person responsible for checking security before closing.

Protect your business and others by working to improve the effectiveness of Crime Prevention in your community.

INVITATION TO BID

The Department of Public Works for the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will receive sealed bids for Contract No. 3A, Washington Street Roadway Reconstruction until 10:00 AM local time on Thursday, January 23, 1992, at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, Massachusetts 02169, at which time and place all bids will be publicly opened and read aloud.

The work under this contract consists of cold planning approximately 4,000 feet of the existing pavement, installation of new pavement, wheelchair ramps, resurfacing of curbs, sewer, drainage and other utility appearances, reforming of road intersections and curb openings to facilitate drainage and to meet the grades at the existing street and driveway pavements.

All work shall be performed in accordance with the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Public Works, Standard Specifications for Highways and Bridges (1988 edition) and Construction Standards (1977 edition) or the latest revisions thereof, unless specified or directed otherwise.

All work under this Contract shall be completed within 150 calendar days.

A non-refundable deposit of $50.00 in cash or check, payable to the City of Quincy, Massachusetts will be required for each set of Contract Documents.

Bidders requesting Contract Documents by mail shall also include a separate non-refundable check payable to the City of Quincy in the amount of $15.00 per set to cover the costs of shipping and handling.

The Contract Documents may be obtained during the business hours from 8:30 AM to noon and from 1:00 PM to 4:30 PM at the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, 55 Sea Street, Quincy, MA 02169 on or after December 27, 1991.

Each bid shall be accompanied by a bid security in the amount of five percent (5%) of the value of the bid in the form described in the Information for Bidders.

The Successful Bidder must furnish a 100 percent (100%) Construction Payment Bond with a surety company acceptable to the Owner.

The bid and award of this Contract shall be in full compliance with Massachusetts General Law, Chapter 30, Section 39M, last revised.

Bidders attention is called to the requirements as to conditions of employment to be observed and minimum wage rates to be paid under the Contract.

No bidder may withdraw his bid within 30 days, Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays excluded, after the actual date of this opening of the general bids.

This Contract to be awarded as the result of this Advertisement for Bids is expected to be funded in part by the Department of Environmental Protection, Bureau of Municipal Facilities; Water Supply Section.

Equal Employment Opportunity, Minority Business Enterprise (MBE) and Women's Business Enterprise (WBE) policies of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and the City of Quincy are applicable to this Contract. The goals for this project are:

1. The Contractor shall maintain on this project a not less than ten percent (10%) ratio of minority employee manhours to total manhours in each job category.

2. A minimum of eleven percent (11%) MBE participation and five percent (5%) WBE participating by state-certified MBEs and WBEs. The bidder shall submit completed MBE/WBE forms with the bid.

Failure to comply with these requirements may be deemed to render a proposal non-responsive. No waiver of any portion of these provisions will be granted.

The City of Quincy has residency requirements for workers which provides for local preference in hiring on City-supported construction projects.

The Owner reserves the right to waive any informality in or to reject any or all Bids if deemed to be in their best interest.

Woodward School Officials Optimistic About Future

said the new board is necessary in order for the school's accreditation to be renewed by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. The association accredits both public and private schools.

Although the school is regarded to have a strong curriculum and solid teaching in education circles, Litchfield said, "The NEASC is not about to certify a school without a board of trustees and fiscal autonomy."

As for goals, Bennett said, "The school has some challenges ahead of it. The first step is for the new trustees to accomplish its organizational tasks."

After the trustees are organized, Bennett said the board will focus on capital fundraising, planning for the school's centennial celebration in 1994 and recruiting new students.

Besides stabilizing the school's governance, Litchfield and Bennett Presently, 67 students are enrolled at the school. Capacity is 125. "Enrollment is turning around. There's a marked increase in inquiries by new families in the school," Bennett said.

Last year at this time, the school had received two applications for enrollment. This year, the number of applications has increased to 12 with six other families expressing interest in the school, Bennett said.

Bennett said the trustees are excited about their role in the school's future since the school will operate as an independent entity. "There's a lot of enthusiasm. The board is eager to get to work and excited by the possibilities."

The board is comprised of 12 members-at-large representing alumni, and parents of students and alumni; four members appointed by the mayor; and four appointees of the clergy.

At-large members are:

Alumnae: Mary Flaherty, Ruth Paven, Louise Randall, Margot Vickery, all of Quincy; Marie Gunderson, Therese Maloney, both of Quincy; and Margaret Zildjian of Norwell.

Parent: Martin Gordon and Ernest Lordeau, both of Quincy; and Robert Raimondo of Dorchester.

Past Parent: Robert Johnston of Quincy and Deanna Seymourian of Milton.

Clergy Appointees: Rev. M. Alicia Corea, Rev. James Kimball, Rev. William McCarthy and Rev. Sheldon Bennett.

The mayor, city auditor, city clerk and city treasurer will also be board members.

Litchfield said the school has experienced a "wonderful semester" thanks to the hard work and dedication of officials, teachers, students and parents. He noted the success of the school's annual Haunted House and musical program involving 48 students.

"The parents have contributed a great deal here. They have really been dedicated. The kinds have been very good too. It's made them feel good to have these kinds of successes," Litchfield said.

Litchfield noted a renovation project is underway at the school. To date, the roof and heating system have been repaired and storm windows added on the upper floor. He also said walls have been repainted and carpeting added to the floors.

Outside, the flag pole is back up illuminated by a new light. Over the summer, a group of parents painted the school's exterior.

Litchfield said the next major project the school hopes to tackle is refurbishing the auditorium with a new ceiling and floor. "I'd like to do something to the auditorium. It's used virtually every weekend," he said, noting the room is used for a myriad of uses, from school music and entertainment performances to basketball games.

PERSONALS

PRAY FOR FAITHFULNESS TO THE HOLY SPIRIT

Holy Spirit, you who solve all problems, who light all roads so that I can attain my goal, you who give me the divine gift to forgive and forget all evil against me and who in all instances of my life are with me; I want in this short prayer to thank you for all things; and to confirm once again that I never want to be separated from you and even in spite of all material illusion, I wish to be with you in eternal glory. Thank you for your mercy towards me and mine. Repeat this prayer 3 consecutive days. After 3 days the favor will be granted even though it may appear difficult. This prayer must be published immediately after favor is granted without mentioning the favor. E.M. 12/23

QHS Students, Staff Feel No Need For Metal Detectors

Steve Durkin said the use of metal detectors is "One of many things the committee will discuss in regard to safety issues."

"I don't think there is anyone involved with our school's that would be pleased to have to put in metal detectors," Durkin said.

He said the problem of violence in the schools needs to be dealt with. "It's not just one—it's a series of incidents."

Hill said he attributes part of the blame to the way society perceives violence and defended the educational system by saying the schools do a good job of teaching right from wrong.

"I'm appalled that society is becoming so violent. And school is a microcosm of society," Hill said. "I see a lack of values in many young people today. Mainly a minority of young people who come from 'at risk' situations.

"We have to react to it. I'm angry that the schools seem to get blamed for everything," he said. "Others (adult areas of society) are not holding up their end. We (the schools) are."

$491,922 In Wire Permits In November

The Quincy Wire Department issued 229 permits for an estimated $491,922 in wiring during November, reports Wire Inspector Thomas Purpura. There were 51 certificates of approval to the Massachusetts Electric Co. and $5,114 in permit fees.

In addition, there were 405 inspections, 59 defects noted, 29 reinspections and three fire calls.

Purpura said many hours were spent surveying and advising homeowners on electrical matters pertaining to the Oct. 30 Northeast storm. Numerous electrical inspections were made as electrical equipment was replaced.

Over 500 Needy Families Homeless Aided At Christmas

trimmings," said Boisbert. "And it's being held for the city's homeless, elderly, children and everyone. All are welcome."

Father Bill's Place will also be giving presents to the shelter's 65 guests on Christmas morning. Mary Jo Dion, a social worker at the shelter, that the presents are made possible through the generosity of local schools, churches, organizations and individuals who have given all they could to help the shelter.

"We've gotten tons of stuff," said Dion. "People have given so many things, it's hard to sort them out. It's incredible how generous the people are."

"The contributions have been overwhelming," added Boisbert, "and the volunteers have been fantastic."

Dion agreed.

"We have a faithful crew of gift wrappers that spend hours wrapping the presents," she said. The gifts are mainly an assortment of hats, scarves, gloves, sweaters and other clothes, although backpacks and stockings will also be given out. The stockings will be filled with candy and personal hygiene and toiletry products.

Dion noted that "people seem to be really thinking now about what a homeless person could use," as opposed to past Christmases.

"We used to get a lot of stuff that really wasn't practical," she explained. "But now we're getting more practical items like sweatshirts and thermal underwear and other warm clothes. And the generosity has been amazing—it's still there, even though the economy is so lousy."

One final special act of charity made possible through the shelter is the selection of someone who has left the shelter—a family or individual for whom life has improved—and giving that family's or person's "wish list" to an anonymous donor who buys "just about everything on the list," according to Dion.

"It's really neat," she said. "I get really excited about everything that we do. If you're depressed, you can just come down here and the spirit goes right through you."

The Salvation Army has been known throughout the years for exemplifying this "spirit," and it certainly is no different this year. Lieutenant Deborah DeGroat, who works at the organization's Baxter St. center, said the Army's recent Christmas program was a great success.

"It went very well," said DeGroat. "Some people are a little shy about coming here (for a food donation), but more and more came in as the day of distribution got closer, so I guess that's a blessing."

Last Friday the Salvation Army distributed what DeGroat estimated to be over 250 food baskets to those who put in requests. Turkey, stuffing and pies had been sold to the Army at discount prices from local supermarkets—DeGroat singled out the Super Stop & Shop on Southern Artery—while canned goods were donated by local schools, companies and churches that had conducted food drives to collect the cans.

When parents arrived at the Baxter St. center to pick up the food for their families, they were also allowed to choose two or three unwrapped toys for their children.

"The children were not allowed to come with their parents because we wanted to gift to be from their parents and not the Salvation Army," DeGroat said, adding that the toys were either ordered by the Salvation Army or donated by persons and organizations who wanted to help the cause.

DeGroat said the Army also recently held Christmas parties for its youth and for members of its church, giving out additional games, toys and presents at both celebrations.

The Koch Club also got into the holiday spirit by donating about 40 food baskets to Quincy families Saturday in the Community Room at the Richard Koch Park and Recreation complex.

"It's more than just a meal," director Thomas Koch said of the baskets, which include turkeys, canned goods, fresh fruit and vegetables, and wrapped toys and gifts for the children of the families.

The food was purchased through the generosity of residents who made contributions to the Koch Club. The gifts were donated by local organizations: The South Shore YMCA on Coddington St., Sacred Heart School in North Quincy, and the Catholic Women's Club of North Quincy.

Koch said he was most appreciative of all the support the club has received not only during this holiday season, but past ones as well.

"We would like to express our deepest thanks to all the individuals and organizations that have helped us on a year-to-year basis with our Christmas charity project," he said.

It seems as though the tougher the times are, the greater the effort people make to help those less fortunate than themselves. And that, after all, is what the spirit of Christmas is truly about.

Makes Chairmen Appointments Phelan To Succeed DeCristofaro As Council President

By ROBERT
BOSWORTH

Outgoing City Council President Ted DeCristofaro will pass the gavel to Incoming Council President Charles Phelan at the city's inauguration program Monday, Jan. 6 at 10 a.m. at North Quincy High School auditorium.

DeCristofaro served two consecutive one-year terms as president from 1990 to 1991. Council rules prohibit a councillor serving more than two years in a row as council president.

DeCristofaro will be sworn in to his sixth two-year term as Ward 2 councillor.

Phelan, who was first elected to the council in 1987, will begin his third two-year term Jan. 6. He expressed interest in becoming the council's new president earlier this year. Over the past few weeks, support for his candidacy cemented and it is expected he will be unanimously elected the next city council president.

At the inauguration ceremony, Phelan will be nominated by Councillor Patricia Toland. Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien will second the nomination.

As the incoming president, Phelan has appointed chairman and vice chairman posts to the council's 12 committees of the whole, meaning all councillors serve on those committees.

Chairman and vice chairman of committees appointed by Phelan are:

•Finance: Toland is chairman; Councillor Tim Cahill vice chairman.

•Ordinance: Chretien chairman; Ward 4 Councillor Tom Fabrizio vice chairman.

•Public Works: Ward 6 Councillor-elect Bruce Ayers chairman; Ward 1 Councillor Peter Kolson vice chairman.

•Oversight: Toland

chairman; Fabrizio vice chairman.

•Disposal and Recycling: Chretien chairman; Kolson vice chairman.

•Downtown Economic Development: Cahill chairman; Chretien vice chairman.

•Public Safety: Kolson chairman; Fabrizio vice chairman.

•State and Federal Funds: Councillor Michael Cheney chairman; Toland vice chairman.

•Education: Fabrizio chairman; Chretien vice chairman.

•Human Services: Cheney chairman; Ayers vice chairman.

10 A.M At NQHS Auditorium Education, Reorganization Major Themes Of Sheets' Inaugural Address Jan. 6

By ROBERT
BOSWORTH

Education, department reorganization and government restructuring will be the major themes of Mayor James Sheets' Inaugural Address when he takes the oath for a second two-year term Monday, Jan. 6 at 10 a.m. in North Quincy High School's auditorium.

Unlike his Mid-Term Address last January, the mayor said his address for 1992 will probably not contain any major economic announcements regarding the city's financial picture. Last year, outlined specific fiscal goals, including cuts in some departments.

"I don't see any economic announcements except to keep a steady hand on the rudder and don't spend any money we don't have," Sheets said Friday as he prepared to begin drafting his address.

Any fiscal developments will likely occur near the end of January when his administration begins formulating the FY 93 budget. Sheets said any drastic changes in next year's budget, such as department cuts and layoffs, will depend on whether local aid is cut and if fixed costs, such as employee health costs and pensions, rise.

One theme the mayor said his administration will focus on over the next two years is education. He said he wants to concentrate on finding the resources necessary to strengthen the city's school system and improve the education process.

"While I think we have an excellent school system, I think there has to be more emphasis placed on education. With what's been happening with the world around us, such as the total collapse of the Soviet Union, the great battles of the future will be economic.

"To compete with Japan and other countries of the world, we have to focus on technology and education."

Sheets is one of three mayors tapped by the Massachusetts Municipal Association to serve on its education task force. As vice chairman of the task force, Sheets and other public officials will evaluate education proposals from Gov. Weld, the legislature and independent organizations.

The mayor said his next two years in office will be marked by the reorganization and restructuring of city government. He said these goals must be attained to help the city maintain its sound fiscal policy.

He noted the city's high bond ratings, A and A+, have remained at those levels the past three years. The higher the bond rating, the less interest the city pays on loans. Generally, bond ratings dip when municipal finances are shaky or in disarray.

"We're going to be looking at reorganization and restructuring and no area is free from that scrutiny. Reorganization has to be a major effort over the next two years if we're going to save some jobs."

Sheets said one of his objectives in 1992 is to avoid layoffs. "We don't have all the financial information (for the FY 93 budget) yet but that certainly is a goal."

The mayor also said his administration will continue working on initiatives it has already started, including the Downtown Quincy Revitalization Plan and a National Heritage Park.

The first phase of the Quincy Plan the administration hopes to implement next year is creating a public-private partnership which, the mayor said, will "drive" the revitalization effort.

Sheets also pointed out his office will begin working on securing funds for a commuter rail station in Quincy Center as part of the Old Colony Railroad restoration project. Funding for a crossway connector from the Burgin Parkway to Southern Artery is also a top priority in 1992, he said.

He said both projects will be financed by state and federal money. "I don't see any city money for either the crossway connector or the downtown commuter rail station."

The connector project is estimated at $25 to $30 million; the station $5 to $15 million.

As for the Lexington, Sheets said his office will continue lobbying for the aircraft carrier. He expects a decision could be made in January.

If he hears before Jan. 6, the Lexington decision could be part of his address.

Inauguration Ceremony At NQHS A First

For the first time ever, the city's inauguration ceremonies will take place inside the North Quincy High School auditorium.

According to Mayor James A. Sheets, the change in venue from the Quincy Vocational Technical School gymnasium will be a "nice change."

He also said the city will save $560 because there is no need to rent chairs for the event. Unlike the Vo-Tech gym, the NQHS auditorium has its own chairs.

Sheet said his executive secretary, Thomas Koch, proposed the change and he agreed.

"We just thought it would be nice to have a change. People have responded in a positive way. There were no problems with the Quincy Vocational-Technical gym. There are very cooperative there. "We just decided to do things a little bit different this year."

Inaugural Live On Ch. 3 Jan. 6

Quincy Community Television, the local programming department for Continental Cablevision, will provide live coverage of the inauguration of Mayor James Sheets Monday, Jan. 6 from the North Quincy High School auditorium. Sheets will deliver his second-term inaugural address after taking the oath of office. The City Council and the School Committee will also be sworn in. The President of the City Council and the Vice Chairman of the School Committee will be elected during the ceremonies.

Quincy Community Television will repeat the ceremonies Monday, Jan. 6 at 7 p.m., Tuesday, Jan. 7 at 9 a.m. and Wednesday, Jan. 8 at 1 p.m.

City Budget, Local Economy, Campaigns Highlight Year

By ROBERT BOSWORTH

The city's budget, local economy, elections and other campaigns were the major news stories in Quincy in 1991.

The city's budget belt-tightening, which began in 1989 and was prevalent in 1990, was again a major money theme in 1991 due to cuts in local aid and soaring fixed costs. The mayor had hoped to level fund public safety and education and avoid layoffs in his Mid-Term Address but by February, that goal had been scrapped in anticipation of a 10 percent or $2 million cut in local aid.

Quincy's fiscal footing was further shaken by $3 million in delinquent tax revenue and a $5 million increase in fixed costs. As a result, the city's three biggest budgets, school, fire and police, were cut by two percent while other departments absorbed an eight percent cut.

In July, only one month into FY 92, the year's fiscal roller coaster dipped a bit more when a $1.3 million shortfall forced seven city employees out of work and eliminated another 33 positions.

However, there was some good fiscal news in 1991 for Quincy.

The city received nearly $6 million in federal and state monies. Three separate federal grants, totaling $4.5 million, was earmarked for housing rehabilitation, downtown revitalization, additional police officers and substance abuse prevention and education.

In addition, the city received $1.4 million in mitigation from the MWRA for the impact on traffic caused by the authority's staging area in Squantum.

The local economy and downtown revitalization also made headlines in 1991, from the $7 million building expansion by Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance in Quincy Center to the mayor's Quincy Plan.

Nineteen ninety-one was also a year of transition for the city as it welcomed some new officials and bid farewell to others. Among those arriving in new capacities were Fire Chief Thomas Gorman, State Representative Ron Mariano and interim School Supt. Eugene Creedon.

Leaving their posts for other endeavors were former Rep. Robert Cerasoli, who was named the state's inspector general, and outgoing School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci.

Voters opted for some new direction by electing Bruce Ayers Ward 6 councillor and Linda Stice to the School Committee. A political comeback by Daniel Raymondi (to the School Committee) succeeded while comebacks by Frank Anselmo, Joseph LaRaia and Joanne Condon Walsh fell short.

Although there were four elections, the longest campaign of the year was the city's bid for the U.S.S. Lexington. In fact, the campaign, which featured a 700-page application from Quincy to the Navy and intense lobbying in Washington D.C., was certain to continue into 1992 as officials from Quincy and the other competing cities awaited the Navy's decision on the ship's future.

Quincy, like hundreds of other communities across the country, welcomed home local servicemen and women who participated in Operation Desert Storm.

One Quincy tradition, the Miss Quincy Bay

Beauty Pageant, ended (at least for one year) and another, the Quincy Christmas Festival Parade, celebrated its 40th anniversary.

The freedom of speech, from Quincy's anti-profanity ordinance to the School Committee's refusal to allow school prayer at graduation, also made major news in Quincy.

In one of the most positive developments of the year, a group of shipbuilders reopened a section of the Fore River shipyard, winning several contracts for vessel repair and maintenance work.

Mother Nature also kicked up her heels twice during 1991. In August, Hurricane Bob left thousands without electricity for several days.

In October, a nameless Northeaster pounded the city's coast, causing the most severe flooding in some areas since the Blizzard of 1978.

Sadly, a Houghs Neck fire killed two children and their aunt in a tragic fire in January. Quincy also lost a favorite daughter, Lee Remick, as well as some other notable citizens, including Wilhelmina Harris, longtime superintendent of the Adams National Historic Site, and Herbert Hollis, former Republican state representative.

Here's a brief look at some of the year's biggest local news items:

January

The city's budget belt-tightening which began in 1990 would continue this year Mayor James Sheets declared in his Mid-Term Address inside a packed

City Council Chamber.

Sheets pledged to avoid layoffs and level fund public safety despite what he predicted what would be a fiscally grim year.

The mayor said he would not close one city school or fire station while vowing to maintain the present levels of fire equipment and the number of Quincy patrol officers. He also pledged to avoid shifting different grades from one school to another while covering at least $718,000 on mandated school program cost increases, such as special education.

To obtain his budget goals, the mayor aimed to cut other city departments by four percent through attrition, retirement incentives, cutting expenses and quarterly tax billing. The latter, which would become a reality in June, was expected to save the city up to $500,000 on temporary borrowing.

Because of fiscal restraints, Sheets did not propose a capital outlay budget. Instead, he planned to introduce a $1.9 million bond issue to the

IN HIS MID-TERM Address in January, Mayor James Sheets pledged to level fund public safety and education and avoid layoffs in 1991. City Council to fund public safety, school and other needs.

The last time Quincy had a capital outlay budget was FY 89 when former Mayor Francis McCauley earmarked $202,965 for capital outlay requests.

Sheets also announced there would not be any pay increases to the city's 21 unions because "the money is simply not there."

Other recommendations included: a full-scale recycling center, a national heritage park and an expanded "Cleaner, Greener" program.

Response from past and present city officials to the mayor's message was mostly favorable and positive. Some, however,

Quincy High Teacher Went Above And Beyond His Call Of Duty

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
In the past two weeks
the two high schools in Quincy have been noted for reporting incidents of a serious nature. Obviously, the reporting is done for several reasons:

1) To bring together resources to deal with these critical issues.

2) To make our schools
safe for all students.

3) To weed out, or identify, troubled youngsters who may need an alternative educational plan.

4) To keep those who are responsible for keeping our schools safe informed.

All of us want the best for our children. We are fortunate in Quincy to have two very concerned principals and dedicated assistant principals and deans in both high schools.
In addition, the teachers and staff have repeatedly cooperated and supported us when needed.

One individual stands out and deserves praise and special recognition for taking action and preventing what could be a tragedy. The person of whom I'm writing about is
Mr. Jim Flahive, teacher at Quincy High School.

On two occasions Mr.
Flahive has risked his safety in order to bring about a peaceful solution to a serious problem. He went above and beyond carrying out his duties as a teacher. Stepping between students with weapons and preventing weapons and preventing serious injuries,
Mr. Flahive displayed a sense of courage and personal bravery that is seldom witnessed by one's peers.

I, for one, salute you,
Mr. Flahive, and thank you for caring. You are one in a thousand.

Opposes Downtown Railroad Station

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
The Sheets
Administration recently did a seemingly complete turnabout on the issue of commuter rail. Now, Mayor James Sheets not only supports the return of commuter rail to the South Shore but is also supportive of a train station at an unselected parkingway site.
Somehow, once again,
Quincy politicians gaze for the quick fix solution in Downtown Quincy. Mayor Sheets, apparently, believes that a commuter rail station will somehow revitalize Quincy Square's older retail area.

As a supporter of commuter rail, especially the Greenbush line down to the Plymouth area, I oppose any Downtown
Quincy station as an idea not worthy of serious consideration. What folks not already entering the vicinity of Quincy Center would be enticed by a brand new train station? If all goes well, aren't folks further down the South Shore scheduled to have stations in both Weymouth

Landing and Braintree?
Townpeople south of Quincy will still stay clear of Quincy Center. Quincy residents themselves will have no need of commuter rail to South Station when the Red Line serves that purpose. Isn't the Red Line Quincy's replacement for commuter rail?

It is time for parochial politics to stop their pipedreams about a robust Downtown Quincy
returning. The retail stores that once lined Hancock Street are never coming back and the sooner local politicians accept reality, the better off the remaining businesses
along that street will be.
Delusions about foot traffic from commuter rail trains having a significant commercial impact along Hancock Street have to be erased.

Personally, I believe the mayor is on the wrong track here. Downtown
Quincy doesn't need any Shining Time Station.

Harold In Clinton's Corner

There's an ornament from Quincy hanging on the family Christmas tree of Gov. Bill Clinton in Little Rock, Ark.

The Christmas ornament commemorates the 350th anniversary of Quincy's historic First Parish Church.

And, Quincy Senator Paul; Harold hopes the ornament kind of rubs off on Clinton in his quest for the Democratic presidential nomination.

You know: Quincy, birthplace of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams and First Parish Church, where they worshipped and which is their final resting place.

Harold, who is backing Clinton in his run for the Presidency, gave the Christmas ornament to Clinton's wife, Hillary, at the State House just before Christmas.

She was here on a campaign trip for her husband. When Harold presented the ornament to her he asked her if she knew anything about Quincy.

"Oh, yes," she said, "I know all about the Adamsses and Quincy's history."

She visited here while a student at Wellesley College.

She promised Harold she would bring the ornament home and hang it prominently on the family Christmas tree.

CLINTON

Harold met Clinton at a Boston Chamber of Commerce dinner four years ago. And since then has been with him a couple of times in Washington, D.C.

Harold says he will work for Clinton's nomination but at this time is not sure what his role will be.

"It will probably be something along the line of a coordinator," he says. Clinton is a moderate Democrat and Harold thinks he can "go all the way."

"He has a lot of experience," he notes. "He is well known in the Democratic party. He has a good fundraising base. And he is moderate enough to win the states needed to win the nomination and election."

Harold disagrees with those who feel that New York's Mario Cuomo would have been the Democrats' best chance of winning the White House.

"Cuomo is a liberal and would probably do well in

Grateful For Quincy Police, EMTs Who Responded To Accident

Editor, The Quincy Sun:
Recently I was involved in an automobile accident in Quincy and would like to express my gratitude to the Quincy Police officers and the EMTs who responded.

Officer Johnson and the EMTs were especially considerate and helpful during a very traumatic and difficult time.

It is comforting to know that the Quincy Police Department responds in such a competent and professional manner during an emergency. I am especially grateful to them.

Post Offices Closed On New Year's Day

Area residents are reminded that all post offices will be closed and there will be no regular mail delivery on New Year's Day, Wednesday, Jan. 1.

In keeping with postal policy, Express Mail and Special Delivery will be delivered on the holiday.

For the convenience of postal customers, 24-hour service, seven days a week, is available at the self-service postal center located in the lobby of the General Mail Facility, 25 Dorchester Ave., Boston.

the East but there's a lot more to a Presidential race than the East.

"Bill Clinton, as a moderate, will appeal to other states and can win some of the southern states that the Democrats haven't been able to do since Jimmy Carter."

Clinton will have some help from Senator Sam Nunn of Georgia, who recently endorsed Clinton and will work to help bring the southern states aboard.

"Nunn is well thought of," Harold notes. "A good man to have on your side."

Massachusetts neighbor Paul Tsongas right now appears to have the edge in the New Hampshire Democratic primary Feb. 18.

Tsongas, living next door, has a better voter recognition there than a candidate from Arkansas or some other far away state. Harold agrees.

"But some good campaigning and a little money for campaigning could offset the name recognition advantage Tsongas now has in New Hampshire," he says.

Once the New Hampshire and Massachusetts primaries are over, the Democrats are going to need a man who can carry the rest of the country, Harold says.

"I think Clinton is that man. I think he is the right man, in the right place, at the right time."

The major reason for the political importance of the New Hampshire primaries is mainly the fact that they are the "first" in the nation, says Harold.

"Up until then people are restricted to giving their opinions in letters to the editor, political polls, and call-in talk shows, but the New Hampshire primaries give the people there the opportunity to go into the voting booth and actually vote their opinion.

The New Hampshire primaries being first are politically important, he agrees.

"But did you know, he says, "fewer people vote in the Democratic primary in New Hampshire than vote in my senatorial district (Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook, Avon) in a regular election.

He doesn't think that "as-goes-New Hampshire-so-goes-the-country," is always so.

Not in 1992, anyway.

BREAKFAST FOR YOUR HEART'S SAKE

Skipping breakfast may have more serious consequences than the rumbling tummy, according to a doctor at the Memorial University of Newfoundland in Canada.

Her study of patients with atherosclerosis (clogged arteries) found that people who started their mornings with empty stomachs were more likely to run into problems such as heart attacks and thrombotic strokes than those who ate before taking off for the rest of the day. The reason may be that blood platelets tend to clump together more in people who forgo breakfast, narrowing the arteries and reducing blood flow. If her findings are confirmed by others, heart patients may find toast and cereal among their doctors' orders.

P.S. Physicians have long been aware that the most likely time for a heart attack is between 4 a.m. and noon. When you eat can be as important to your health as what you eat. If you would like to learn more about how you can help prevent heart attacks, call COMPREHENSIVE CARDIAC CARE at 472-2550. We focus on treating the patient, rather than the disease. When treating patients, I always try to consider how I would like myself, my wife and children or my parents to be treated by a doctor. Office hours are by appointment at 101 Adams St., Suite 24, in Quincy. I am affiliated with Quincy Hospital and South Shore Hospitals.

Karl Briggs Inducted Into Y Hall Of Fame

Karl Briggs, president of Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Quincy, was inducted into the South Shore YMCA's Hall of Fame for his "outstanding service to the community and to the YMCA."

Briggs, a resident of Hingham, has been a member of the YMCA's Board of Directors since 1959, as well as a past president of the board. His association with the YMCA began in the 1930's, to his days as a camper at Camp Burgess for Boys, the Y's resident camp on Cape Cod. He was also a volunteer at the camp, working on maintenance crews and as a junior counselor.

George Atkinson, president of the YMCA Board of Directors, said "Karl Briggs has served the Quincy community in the finest tradition of out YMCA, and has been a strong advocate and friend of our association."

Service to the community through involvement in the YMCA is a tradition with the Briggs family, with Briggs' two sons, Doug and Steve, joining their father as a board member.

Ralph Yohe, YMCA General Executive Director, said "Karl is still very active in our YMCA, and has, in fact, just agreed to serve as chairman of the Major Gifts Division of our 1992 Annual Support fundraising campaign. That campaign begins in April. Karl is respected among our board and members as a true leader."

The YMCA's Hall of Fame was started in 1990 to recognize those individuals who have made a contribution above and beyond the call of duty to the community and the YMCA. This contribution must have significantly impacted the shape of the South Shore YMCA.

In addition to Briggs, two other individuals,

Gilbert Crofts and Eleanor Dacey, were also inducted in the 1991 ceremony.

The South Shore YMCA has been serving the communities of Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, Hull, Hingham, Scituate, Cohasset and Norwell since 1892.

Quincy's Yesterdays Mayor Burgin Vows No New City Buildings

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, stressing the downward trend in the city's debt in his mid-term message, said that Quincy should not start any new municipal construction unless 45 percent federal funding can be obtained.

He reported the funded debt of the city at $4,280,500, the lowest in 13 years.

Myron N. Lane was elected president of the City Council, gaining the votes of all nine members except his own, and six ward councillors except his own, and six ward councillors, including newcomer Louis A. George of Ward 2, were sworn in for two year terms.

Newly re-elected councillors included William W. Jenness, Ward 1; Aldo Della Chiesa, Ward 3; Christian A. Burkhard, Ward 4; Myron N. Lane, Ward 5; and Frank N. Orcutt, Ward 6.

Harry W. Tirrell was elected to his 52nd consecutive one-year term as city messenger and was sworn in by City Clerk Emery Crane in his bed at City Hospital where Tirrell was ill. Tirrell held the post since 1889, the year Quincy became a city.

Mayor Burgin reported that 1,770 men and women in Quincy had been paid some $1,150,000 in federal work relief funds during 1990.

RECEIVER NAMED

Probate Judge Joseph R. McCoole finally named a receiver for the estate of John Toland, who walked out of the National Sailors Home in Quincy on Dec. 28, 1896, and was never seen again.

The judge's ruling meant that Toland, who was 53 years old at the time of his disappearance was legally dead and his heirs were entitled to the $1,097.69 in his account at the Quincy Savings Bank.

NEW LADDER TRUCK

The Quincy Fire Department's new $20,000 aerial ladder truck, able to reach 100 feet in the air, was put through a series of tests witnessed by Mayor Burgin and Chief William J. Sands at the Central Fire Station.

disposal committee to officially include recycling.

He also added a new subcommittee, Handicapped Affairs, which will be chaired by Ayers. Ayers is the owner of a handicapped conversion center specializing in mobility equipment for the disabled driver in Squantum.

Phelan said the creation of that committee and appointing Ayers chairman was a natural.

Toland, Cahill, Cheney and Chretien will each chair two major committees next year. DeCristofaro, Fabrizio, and Kolson will each chair one major committee.

Phelan said he tried to accommodate each councillor's request for a specific chairmanship. He also said he tried to align a councillor's experience and knowledge on various issues to the committee which pertains to those issues.

Besides appointments to major committees, Phelan appointed chairman to the council's subcommittees:

They are:
•Rules, chaired by Chretien.
•Tourism, Cheney.
•Public Parks and Recreation, Kolson.
•Land Conveyance, Fabrizio.
•Beautification, Toland.
•Pension, Toland.
•Youth, Cahill.
•Veterans Services, DeCristofaro.

•Senior Citizens, Ayers.
•Environmental Control, Cheney.
•Data Processing, Chretien.

Phelan said 1992 should be an exciting and busy year for the city council. "A lot of the mayor's ideas, like the Quincy Plan, will come to fruition. It should be an exciting year. We'll have a lot of work to do."

Golden Apple Cake

Here is a recipe for golden apple cake that my mother used to bake as one of her favorites. I recently came across the recipe in one of her old collections. When I baked the apple cake, I used a green apple along with two red apples. As I recall, she used only the red, so you can take your choice.

GOLDEN APPLE CAKE

2 1/2 cups flour
1 tsp baking soda
1 tsp baking powder
1/2 tsp salt
1 1/2 cups sugar
1 tsp nutmeg
1 tsp cinnamon
1/2 cup shortening

(butter or margarine)
1 cup milk
1 cup warm water
2 eggs
3 large apples

(either cut fine or grated)
Cream shortening with the sugar. Add all the dry ingredients (except the cinnamon) gradually with the milk. Beat until smooth. Add the eggs one at a time and the apples and beat until well blended.

Pour into a greased 9 x 12 pan and sprinkle the top with the cinnamon. Bake in a 350 degree oven for 40 minutes. Cool and cut in squares. It's delicious served with either ice cream or whipped cream.

Happy New Year!!

Roydon Burke Celebrates 90th Birthday

Roydon Burke, APSA, ARPS, AFIAR, known as Mr. Photographer, celebrated his 90th birthday Saturday, Dec. 21.

As a novice photographer he joined the South Shore Camera Club in the early 1930s. After about 50 years as a member, at the 50th anniversary of the Club he was honored as one of the world's top pictorialist.

At the time, he was quoted as saying "I owe it all to the club."

During those almost 50 years Roy was president during the 1952-53 season, he was listed on Who's Who as having 1700 acceptances in International Salons and later awarded the Photographic Society of America's Diamond Star, their highest award.

For many years he has judged the Miss South Shore Camera Clubs and handled the Black and White competitions. He still exhibits his extraordinary pictures in

Ecumenical Feast Of Lights At Sacred Heart Sunday

The annual Ecumenical Epiphany Feast of Lights will be held on Sunday, Jan. 5, at 7:30 p.m. in Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy.

Combined choirs under the direction of Robert E. Brown, organist/choir director of First Baptist Church, Wollaston, will sing.

The Handbell Rings will provide music under the direction of Prof. Charles Seifert of the Wollaston Church of the Nazarene.

The Rev. Ross Goodman of the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd will deliver a brief homily. Clergy and laity from all member churches will participate. The event will be enriched by original costumes.

A freewill offering will be taken to further the mission of Christ in the community through the work of Father Bill's Place.

A candlelighting ceremony climaxes with each worshiper holding a lighted candle to carry forth into the world the light of Christ entering the world and gradually spreading through time and space.

The public is cordially invited to attend and there will be ample room for all. A social hour will follow in the school cafeteria across the street.

The members of the Inter-Church Council include the Memorial Congregational Church, First Church of Squantum, Star of the Sea, Sacred Heart Church, Wollaston Church of the Nazarene, First Baptist Church of Wollaston, Union Congregational Church, St. Catherine's Greek Orthodox Church, Wollaston Congregational Church, Wollaston Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church of the Good Shepherd, St. Chrysostom's Episcopal Church and Quincy Community United Methodist Church.

Early Childhood STEP Program To Be Held

At Point Congregational

The South Shore and Coastline Councils for children will provide an "Early Childhood STEP Program" for mothers and fathers, grandparents and other adults responsible for caring for children up to six years of age.

STEP stands for "Systematic Training for Effective Parenting," which is a nationwide and popular parenting program followed by more than two million parents.

A series of seven sessions will be provided by the Quincy Point Congregational Church, Washington St. and Southern Artery, beginning on Thursday, Jan. 9 and continuing each Thursday evening to Feb. 20 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. in the church's social hall. The series will be led by trained volunteers from the South Shore and Coastline Councils for Children.

Topics for the seven classes include: "Understanding Young Children," "Understanding Young Children's Behavior," "Building Self Esteem in the Early Years," "Communicating with Young Children," "Helping Young Children Learn to Cooperate," "Effective Discipline," and "Nurturing Emotional and Social Development."

The fee for the program is $45 per family. This includes a 150-page book, "Parenting Young Children." Some scholarship help may be available through the Council for Children. For more information, call the council at 471-4606 or the church at 773-6424.

'Tough-Minded Optimism' At First Parish Unitarian

This Sunday, Jan. 5, Dr. Sheldon W. Bennett, minister, will give the sermon "Tough Minded Optimism For A New Year" during the 10 a.m. worship service at United First Parish Church (Universalist Unitarian).

Visitors and children are welcome and are invited to the social hour following the service.

Children of the Church School will host the social hour.

Historic First Parish, "Church of the Presidents," is located at 1306 Hancock St. in Quincy Square, opposite City Hall. Church School (Brenda Chin, director) and child care are provided.

New Series Of Sermons At Covenant Congregational

Sunday, Jan. 5 will mark the beginning of a series of sermons by Rev. Kathleen Graves, co-pastor with Rev. Kirk Johnson, at the Covenant Congregational Church, Whitwell and Granite Sts.

The sermon topic at the 10:45 a.m. worship service will be "A Prayer Of Confession."

Richard Smith, minister of music, will direct and accompany the choir in an introit and two anthems. He will also play an organ prelude, offertory and postlude.

Sunday School, with classes for all ages, nursery through adult, will begin at 9:30 a.m. During the worship service, an attended nursery is available for children age four and younger. For children up to age 12, there is junior church.

Choir rehearsal will be held Thursday at 7 p.m. There will be no New Year's Eve potluck supper at the parsonage. The church council will meet Friday to plan the 1992 budget. All church members are invited to make suggestions concerning budget items to any council member.

The all church winter retreat will be Jan. 19-20 at Pilgrim Pines in New Hampshire. The morning worship service on Jan. 19 will be at 9:30 a.m. and there will be no Sunday School, so that those attending the retreat can leave for New Hampshire earlier. The annual business meeting of the congregation will be Jan. 26.

For more information about any of the church's activities, call 479-5728.

questioned whether Sheets could avoid layoffs and level fund education and public safety.

With money tight, the city prepared to take foreclosure action on approximately 274 delinquent real estate tax titles which combined totaled a whopping $727,279.

In 1990, the city had approximately 300 delinquent tax titles totalling nearly $600,000.

Long-time School Committeeman Frank Anselmo resigned from the board because of a physical disability, then threw a monkey-wrench into the replacement procedure by announcing he had recovered and wished to return.

Despite his plea, a joint convention of the City Council and School Committee elected Margaret Nigro, a former School Committeewoman, to fill Anselmo's term through December.

Anselmo, 92, stepped down because of a damaged tendon in his right hand. After the pain miraculously disappeared, he told The Sun he wanted to return and finish out his term on the board.

However, the joint convention ignored his plea. After the vote, Anselmo said he would consider running for his seat in the fall.

A quartz electric space heater ignited a three-alarm fire at 85 Mears Ave. in Houghs Neck one cold night, killing one child and their 25-year-old aunt.

Regiann Wall, 2, her 4-year-old brother, Lawrence Wall Jr., and their aunt, Margarita Cortez, died in the fire.

With the help of several hundred volunteers, the Cortez home was rebuilt and dedicated in June.

Gerald Gherardi, 78, of Quincy, a long-time humanitarian, was named The Quincy Sun's "1990 Citizen of the Year" from 41 nominations submitted by Sun readers.

Deaths during January included: Francis M. Daly, 77, retired Quincy Fire captain; Margaret F. O'Leary, 67, foster mother for 25 years; Harold F. Forrester Jr., 55, past Knights of Columbus grand knight; J. Robert Byrnes, 64, former defense budget analyst; Leo Antonelli, 69, retired Quincy Police detective; Mary "May" Morrill, 79, retired insurance policy writer; John N. Caporale, 68, owned Cobler's Hut; and William F. Costello Jr., 60, co-founded Adams Height Men's Club.

February

Mayor James Sheets scrapped his Mid-Term goals of level funding public safety and education and four percent cuts in other departments after learning Gov. William Weld planned to cut local aid by 10 percent to help balance the state FY 92 budget.

Anticipating a $2 million loss in local aid, the mayor ordered two percent cuts in school, fire and police budgets and eight percent cuts in most other municipal departments to achieve a level spending plan next fiscal year.

SOME 100 QUINCY officials, veterans and residents weathered a cold, steady rain outside City Hall one day in February at a support rally for U.S. troops stationed in the Persian Gulf as part of Operations Desert Shield and Desert Storm. Four months later, about 50,000 residents gave a rousing reception to Persian Gulf veterans who marched in the city's Flag Day Parade.

As a result, Sheets projected a $735,000 cut in schools, $218,000 from police and $198,000 from fire. He hoped to avoid layoffs through attrition, reorganization and early retirements.

The mayor planned to submit a FY 92 budget of $121,600,000 to the City Council in April, an increase of $934,894 over FY 91. However, the two and eight percent cuts were needed to wipe out a $2 million loss in aid, $3 million in delinquent tax revenue and $5 million in soaring fixed costs.

A new city ordinance banning profanity and loitering in public places generated a lot of discussion, both pro and con, in and outside of the city.

In fact, after the story was picked up by some wire services, some city officials received letters from citizens throughout the country.

The ordinance also reached Hollywood, where Talk Show Host Arsenio Hall commented on it during one of his monologues.

Some 100 city officials, veterans and resident turned out to show their support for U.S. troops at war against Iraq in the Persian Gulf during a 45-minute rally outside the James R. McIntyre Government Center.

As a cold, steady rain fell from gray, overcast skies, supporters held American flags and yellow balloons to show their support. Others huddled and hugged one another, comforting each other from the rain and the absence of their loved ones.

Several speakers stressed the troops must be supported now and after they return home. "Don't give them the negative thoughts, give them the positive thoughts," said Mary Anne Keegan, a mother of a Gulf soldier, while fighting back tears.

Bowing to organized neighborhood opposition, the Board of Directors of the William B. Rice Eventide Home abandoned its plan to add a six-story, 104-unit tower to its retirement facility at 215 Adams St.

Residents and several city councillors opposed the plan, saying the addition would increase traffic, pose flood problems and destroy the neighborhood atmosphere of single-family homes of upper and middle income people.

Deaths during February included: Ruth E. Wilson, retired secretary for Union Congregational Church; John F. Crawford, 76, owned Quincy Square gasoline station; Dennis Watson, 38, former substitute teacher; Marion A. Lantery, 78, former Montclair PTA president; Leavitt S. Lombard, 75, shipyard utilities superintendent; Catherine M. Donovan, 87, retired deaf school secretary; William J. Duane, 86, former treasurer, manager of Quincy wrecking company; and Ellen I. Collins, 82, Quincy Golden Age Club member.

March

The process to find a new police chief began as five of Quincy's eligible deputy chiefs signed up to take the Civil Service examination in Boston.

They were: Acting Chief Thomas Gorman, Joseph Jackson, Anthony Innello, Joseph Walsh and Gerald Galvin. Although five signed up, only Gorman and Walsh took the exam.

Mayor James Sheets would have to select either Gorman or Walsh as the department's next chief, provided each man scored a passing grade of 70 or above. Results were expected in June or July.

The test was needed to select a new chief after former Chief Paul O'Connell stepped down to become a deputy chief again last year.

Besides the fire chief's job, another top-notch department head position would have to be filled this year after School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci announced he would leave his $80,467 post by the end of the year.

Ricci said he was upset by a lack of support by the Quincy School Committee and frustrated by dwindling revenue for school programs. In addition, Ricci, who was the first Quincy superintendent hired from outside the system in decades in July, 1987, told the committee he wanted to spend more time with his family.

He made his decision after the school committee reduced his contract from three to two years. Six months earlier, the board had appointed Ricci to another three-year contract after an open review process gave his job performance high marks.

According to new U.S. Census figures, Quincy's population was pinpointed at 84,985, up 242 persons from 1984. The city's population ranked Quincy ninth in the state, just behind Fall River and ahead of Newton.

Census figures listed 77,915 whites, 928 blacks, 5,577 Asian of Pacific Islander, 1,197 Hispanic and 358 other race.

Some city officials questioned the figures, especially the Asian number which they believed to be closer to 10,000.

Assistant City Clerk Thomas Burke, who worked for the city 32 years, retired. He received the praise of his colleagues and from city councillors who gave him a standing ovation at his last council meeting.

Joseph Shea was named the new assistant city clerk by City Clerk John Gillis.

Quincy and the MWRA reached a mitigation agreement which would pay the city $1.4 million for traffic impact created by the authority's staging area in Squantum. Under the terms, the MWRA would pay the city $300,000 for engineering studies and $1 million to reconstruct the intersections at Quincy Shore Dr. and East Squantum St. and Victory Rd. and East Squantum St.

Seven city workers lost their jobs because of cuts in the FY 92 budget. Funding for 33 jobs was eliminated and three other employees had their hours scaled back.

Despite the pleas of small business owners, the City Council approved Mayor James Sheets' proposed change in the tax classification percentage for FY 92. With the change, the residential rate was $10.72, up 54 cents, and the commercial, industrial and personal property rate was $24.02, up $1.12.

The Quincy Center Business and Professional Association suspended its sponsorship of the Miss Quincy Bay Beauty Pageant. The pageant, a long-time summer tradition, would not be held this year.

The phone finally rang for former Mayor Francis McCauley: he was named the new executive director of the State Retirement Board. McCauley, who had worked on both Gov. William Weld's and Treasurer Joe Malone's campaign, was considered to be a prime candidate for a top-notch post in the new administration.

The proposed quint fire truck continued to make headlines as the firefighters union voted against the duel purpose truck which was part of a $605,000 bond issue. Officials and firefighters got a chance to inspect the truck when a Pennsylvania manufacturer stopped in Quincy during a promotional tour.

Despite the visit, the proposal stalled in the city council.

Deaths during March included: Helen M. Ash, 86, retired Quincy art teacher; Carl Leone Jr., 61, former coach, athletics director; Capt. Jack Salenius, 37, was Mayor LaRaia's executive secretary; Ruth D.L. Taylor, 82, former "Miss Quincy;" Emanuel Kaplan, 84, Beth Israel Synagogue secretary for 40 years; and Dr. Grace A. Hawley, 85, retired Regis College professor.

April

Mayor James Sheets began lobbying Washington in an effort to drum up support for the city's bid to bring the U.S.S. Lexington home to Quincy.

Built by the men and women at the former General Dynamics shipyard in Quincy Point, the ship was expected to be decommissioned in the fall. Quincy was among four cities vying for the coveted aircraft carrier.

The mayor hoped to land the Lexington and return her to the shipyard. Once there, plans called for her to be converted into a shipbuilders museum.

Sheets envisioned a bustling tourist attraction with the Lexington, predicting the ship would attract as many as 250,000 visitors to the city annually.

The mayor, who said he would like to make Quincy the second largest tourist destination in the state behind only Boston, added, "Attracting one million visitors is within reach" if the Lexington came home.

In the ensuing months, Sheets would gain the support of Gov. William Weld. Yet, there were setbacks, including the discovery that the ship would not pass through the Fore River Bridge because of the size of its flight deck.

As a result, a second future site was selected for the ship: Town River near the former Quincy Lumber Yard. Some local officials, including Reps. Steve Tobin and Michael Morrissey, questioned whether the Town River would be the best site.

Proponents and opponents of North Quincy High School's mascot, the Yakoo, were engaged in an emotional debate which would decide whether the mascot would remain or become high school history.

Opponents said the Yakoo, a depiction of an Indian carrying a stone hammer and a NQ flag, was racist and stereotyped American Indians.

Backers said the mascot, modeled after Dr. Allan Yacubian, a 1958 NQHS graduate who is Armenian-American, inspires pride and excellence.

NQHS students voted overwhelmingly to retain the mascot. A decision was expected to be handed down by School Supt. Dr. Robert Ricci.

Quincy Hospital celebrated the opening of its new birthing suites with a "baby shower" which benefited the residents of the Mary-Martha Learning Center.

The first Quincy Multicultural Arts Festival opened. Over the next month, the festival would feature 45 events with the help of 40 community organizations. Highlights included an Asian Film Festival, lectures on immigration and jazz concerts.

Darren Kerfoen and Michael D'Amico, both 15, designed a Youth Councillor program in an effort to get teens involved in government and give Quincy youths a say in issues that affect them.

A group of friends of the late former Mayor James R. McIntyre informed neighbors and businesses that it wanted to rename Newport Ave. in his memory.

The mayor appointed Marion Fantucchio as the city's new chairman of the Board of Assessors and hired former assessor Henry Bertolon to fill a vacancy on the board.

Fantucchio replaced Elmer (Mike) Fagerlund who retired in February. Bertolon, an assessor in Quincy from 1971 to 1977, was filled the third spot on the board.

Death during April included: Walter A. Gorman, 87, former oil burner technician; Herbert W. Bryan, 89, former Gillette executive; Elizabeth A. Pullar, 83, wrote for The New York

May

With the city's finances still tight as a drum, Quincy received good news from the federal government in the form of a $2 million grant earmarked for housing rehabilitation, downtown revitalization and the city's community centers.

City officials said the biggest chunk of the Community Development Block Grant money, $600,000, would be spent on housing rehab including rental rehabilitation, five percent loans, deferred payment loans and handicapped loans and grants.

Another $321,500 was earmarked to continue the city's downtown improvement project by expanding the historic-style street lights and brick-trimmed sidewalks in Quincy Center to the Dimmock St. and School St. areas.

McIntyre Mall and the Hancock Cemetery were also slated to be lighted.

Nearly $300,000 was earmarked to fund the community centers and Elderly Outreach program and about $400,000 was ticketed for planning and administration. Another $43,000 would be spent on handicapped accessibility.

Sen. Ted Kennedy visited Quincy and told The Quincy Sun he would meet with two top Navy officials to ensure Quincy's application for the U.S.S. Lexington gets adequate consideration.

Kennedy also commended President Bush's selection of Quincy native Gen. Gordon R. Sullivan as the Army's new commander and expressed support for a bill which would make water and sewer bills tax deductible.

alcohol consumption by minors, Police Chief Francis Mullen and city councillors Michael Cheney and Patricia Toland urged Quincy to adopt the Tag-A-Keg" program.

The program, adopted by a number of South Shore towns, requires package stores to keep a record of anyone who purchases a keg of beer. Information from the buyer's driver's license is record at the package store and each keg is marked with an identification band.

Kegs, which are popular at parties of young people, must be returned with the ID band intact or the buyer forfeits a $50 deposit. In the event police confiscate a keg from minors they would be able to identify the purchaser.

To decrease the city's budget and maintain the number of city jobs, the Quincy Citizens Association asked Mayor James Sheets to implement five percent pay cuts for all municipal employees.

The mayor replied that the pay cut idea is "a down-the-road" option.

In an effort to persuade the school committee to reverse its decision to ban prayer at this year's high school graduation commencement ceremonies, 2,500 residents signed a pro-God petition which was delivered to Mayor Sheets.

The mayor said he was willing to call a special meeting on the issue only if the four committee members who voted for the ban changed their mind. However, Stephen Durkin, Mary Jane Powers, Margaret Nigro and Mary Collings, would not waver and the meeting was never called.

The majority said they based their decision to ban prayer at graduation on the advice of school attorneys. Marily Cadogan and

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. Unveils $7 M Expansion Project

Carole Danckert collected the signatures at Quincy churches and some senior citizen facilities.

Deaths during May included:

Donnell M. Carr Sr., 87, managed Woolworth's in Wollaston; Ettore S. Rossi, 86, flew with Amelia Earhart; Delina D. Parisi, 75, who died on a pilgrimage to Our Lady of Fatima Shrine in Portugal; Robert H. Hanna, 73, retired tool, blacksmith supervisor; and Wilhelmina Harris, 95, former superintendent of Adams National Historic Site.

June

With the local economy sluggishly moving along, one local company expressed confidence that the area's financial future was bright.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company, one of the oldest businesses in the city, announced plans for a $7 million project which would double the size of its facility at 57

Washington St. and put as many as 100 union employees to work.

The insurance company, which has been in continuous operation in Downtown Quincy since 1851, needed to expand to accommodate a growing business employing more than 125 people.

The projected called for new three-story, 27,000-square-foot addition at the rear of the 30,000-square-foot headquarters as well as 124-space private parking garage. Work was expected to be completed in the spring of 1993.

With mixed emotions, the City Council voted 7-2 to implement a quarterly tax billing system.

Summing up the council's general sentiment on the plan, Council President Ted DeCristofaro said, "I'm not happy to do it. But it will save a half-million dollars and I will support it."

A North Quincy High School student alliance group, the Alliance Against Racism, was honored by the Human Rights Coalition for its leadership and work against racism.

Earlier in the year, the school and North Quincy community had been labeled racist because of its mascot, the Yakoo. "It's ironic," Principal Peter Chrisom said referring to the award.

High school diplomas were presented to 304 Quincy High School and 272 North Quincy High School students during the city's annual commencement exercises. Another 411 Quincy College students received degrees.

An underground oil storage tank at the Atlantic Middle School leaked 3,800 gallons of fuel, costing the city $100,000 to remove and replace it.

Officials, who said the leak did not pose any health problems, announced plans to inspect and test the city's other 10 underground storage tanks on school property.

Yves Poirier, owner of Quincy Memorials, Inc., at 18 Willard St., reported more than 115 granite headstones had been knocked over one late Friday evening or early Saturday morning. Five empty beer bottles were found near the overturned stones.

After a two-year absence, the city's Flag Day parade returned in grand style with a patriotic lineup featuring more than 40 marching bands, floats and color guards.

The parade, co-sponsored by the Quincy Partnership and the city, also included national, state and local dignitaries such as White House Political Director Ron Kaufman.

Among the specialty units were a real (albeit disarmed) Patriot Missile, a 40-foot model of the Lexington and nine Gettysburg peace flags.

In addition, the crowd of 50,000 gave a rousing welcome home to local Persian Gulf Veterans.

The parade also honored the late Richard Koch, founder of the Koch Club. Under his direction, the club sponsored the city's flag day parade for 34 years.

The city also saw the return of a different sort: former School Committee member Frank Anselmo announced his comeback bid for a seat on the board.

He resigned in January because of health reasons but by June he said he had recovered. He also said the school committee's decision to ban prayer at high school commencement in part prompted him to hit the campaign trail.

Deaths during June included:

William A.D. Wise Sr., 85, poet, inventor, retired painter; Allen B. Folger, 79, Bank Trust Officer, QHS Class of 1930 president; Blanche Cattaneo, 57, worked at Quincy Housing Authority; Arthur F. Pinel, 85, active at YMCA; Leslie M.

Bierley, 81, banker, organist, yachtsman; Vivian MacPherson, 83, retired Quincy purchasing clerk; and Frank Pellegrino, 77, owner Fan Fare Fruitland.

July

With the surprise announcement of Robert Cerasoli as the state's new inspector general, the speculation and scramble for his state representative seat in the Third Norfolk District was on.

Cerasoli, a Quincy Democrat who had represented the district for 18 years, was selected inspector general by Gov. William Weld, Attorney General Scott Harshbarger and Auditor Joseph DeNucci from 109 applicants.

His resignation opened the door for a potential blockbuster election. Notable Quincy residents considered possible candidates included School Committee member Ron Mariano, former Norfolk County Treasurer Daniel Raymondi, former mayor and city councillor Joseph LaRaia and Bruce Tobin, son of former mayor and Norfolk District Court Magistrate Arthur Tobin.

Other Quincy names which surfaced in the speculation included Tony Siciliano, deputy director of Quincy Emergency Management; Michael Marshall, son of Norfolk County Sheriff Clifford Marshall, Quincy Atty. Anthony Falco, Cheryl Balzano and Francis "Sandy" Eaton.

of the district, Atty. John "Jack" McGlone and Thomas Tanner were mentioned as possible candidates.

The potential candidates pondered their next move while waiting for the date of the special election which was expected to be held in October.

With the annual Miss Quincy Bay Pageant suspended by its sponsor, the QCBPA, another woman, actually a couple, took center stage during the Quincy Sidewalk Sale.

With several thousand well-wishers looking on, Kim Gagel of Quincy and Stephen McCann of Hanover exchanged wedding vows under a tent in downtown Quincy as the highlight of this year's annual pageant.

Hailed as a cooperative effort by the MDC, MWRA and the city, a host of state and local officials as well as several dozen residents joined in celebrating the opening of Squantum Point Park.

The 45-acre park features 10 acres of landscaped grounds, parking lot and a lighted wooden pier. The pier, used as part of the water transportation system to Deer Island for Boston Harbor cleanup workers, will become part of the MDC and be open to the public after the cleanup is finished.

The city, as well as millions of entertainment fans and admirers everywhere, mourned the loss of award-winning actress Lee Remick who died after a two-year battle with kidney and lung cancer.

Miss Remick, the daughter of the late Frank Remick, founder of the former Remick's store in downtown Quincy, was perhaps best known for her performance as an alcoholic in "Days of Wine and Roses" with Jack Lemon. Her career spanned 37 years.

Doris Oberg, a Quincy resident who was close to the Remick family, remembered Lee as a very sweet, unassuming, very beautiful, very proper and gracious lady with a tremendous amount of talent.

In a way, she followed in the footsteps of her parents. In their younger days, the Remicks were members of the Quincy Community Players, a talented amateur theatrical group that staged plays throughout the city.

Oberg, an authority on local history, also became knowledgeable in skydiving after she parachuted 10,000 feet from a Cessna plane in Warm Springs, Ga. Oberg, who turned 79 Dec. 1 and is a mother and grandmother, became the oldest person to skydive from Roosevelt Memorial Field.

It may have been the start of a new fiscal year but FY 92 was beginning to look a lot like FY 91.

Less than one month into FY 92, Mayor James Sheets announced there was a $1.3 million shortfall which would be made up by eliminating 15 to 20 job positions and expenses. After conferring with city councilors, the mayor decided against asking for a Proposition 2 and a half override.

The shortfall was brought on by reduced local aid and low receivables. Sheets hoped the shortfall would not lead to more layoffs.

Over the past three fiscal years, the city lost $9.7 million: $3 million in FY 90, $1.4 million in FY 91 and $5.3 million in FY

92. During that time 225 to 250 municipal jobs were eliminated.

Deaths during July included: Laurence L. Duncan, 61, orchestra leader, insurance broker; Sarah "Sally" Riley, 73, honored for work with homeless; George F. Abdon, 68, owned service station 14 years; Mary E. Laugelle, 71, church communicant; Rev. Daniel A. O'Leary, 75, vicar at Most Blessed Sacrament; Florence A. Abbott, 93, former head clerk in purchasing department; and Carl N. Barnhill, 63, past commander of the Houghs Neck Legion Post.

August

Nearly a year after it was first proposed, the City Council granted a special permit for an $8 million home improvement retail center in West Quincy but not before attaching as many as 30 stringent conditions to the permit.

By a 7-1 vote, the council okayed Home Depot's development project for a 102-250-square foot retail store with an attached 20-125-foot enclosed garden center at 179-189 Willard St., the site of the former Antonelli Ironworks.

The conditions, placed by Ward 4 Councilor Tom Fabrizio and called the shipyard in Quincy Point most stringent of any permit in the city's history, were intended to keep Home Depot accountable for its development, monitor vehicle traffic in the area and preserve the integrity of the neighborhood.

One condition required Home Depot to post a $1 million bond which would be used to fund any additional traffic improvements and mitigation within one year.

Dormant for five years, a section of the Fore River shipyard in Quincy Point officially reopened with the arrival of the commercial freighter USNS Wright.

A host of regional business and government sectors, headed by Lt. Gov. Paul Cellucci, joined the Massachusetts Shipbuilders Corporation and AK Engineering in ushering in what they hoped was a new chapter in Quincy shipbuilding.

Home Depot Project Approved; Repair Work Begins At Shipyard

"This shipyard has always been a linchpin and driving engine of the South Shore economy," Cellucci said. "Gov. Weld and I are committed to doing everything we can to restore a thriving maritime industry at Fore River and to put people back to work."

The $1 million maintenance contract employed about 100 workers. Over the next several weeks, the MSC and AK Engineering secured contracts for repair and maintenance work on two more ships, keeping the workers dream of a revived shipyard alive.

The partnership had hoped to reinstate jobs for as many as 1000 shipyard workers by 1992.

Figures from the first year of the city's expanded recycling program were impressive: 370 tons of glass, 5,450 tons of newspaper and 50 tons of plastic, a savings of $300,000 in landfill costs.

From 1989 to 1990, the city collected 3,039 tons of newspaper only.

Hurricane Bob, the most damaging of hurricanes locally since Hurricane Gloria in 1985, bore down on Quincy, forcing the evacuation of about 50 residents, knocking down hundreds of trees and limbs and leaving thousands of residents without power.

The evacuees, mainly from Houghs Neck, Squantum and Germantown, were given shelter at the Quincy Vocational Technical School and provided with cots, blankets, food and water.

Most of the damage was caused by winds which reached 70 mph. Twenty-four hours after the storm first hit Quincy, 16 percent of the city's 40,000 Mass. Electric customers were still without power. Power was not fully restored for several days.

Despite the havoc Bob created, the storm would have been much worse if the hurricane had hit when it was high tide. Also, Quincy was located west of Bob's track; typically, the force of a hurricane is more intense to the east of its track.

The Quincy Police and City Officials were victorious on the field but the real winner was the Muscular Dystrophy Association at the fourth annual Dick Koch Memorial MDA Softball Doubleheader.

The event raised $1,700 for MDA, bringing the 15-year-total to $21,700.

Deaths during July included: Vera Call, 92, Quincy High School teacher; Warren J. Burrell, 71; retired Quincy firefighter; Williamina Ricker, founder, past president of Bethany Church Mother's Club; Mary P. Sheets, 78, mother of Mayor James Sheets; and Angelo "Mike" Papile, 80; shipyard worker, WWII veteran.

September

Political veteran Daniel Raymondi and newcomer Bruce Ayers made impressive showings in the preliminary election, piling up votes enroute to their victories in the School Committee and Ward 6 preliminary races.

Ayers, making his political debut, led incumbent Thomas Nutley, 64, who was also nominated, by 501 votes. Ayers, who carried five of six Ward 6 precincts, polled 1,227 votes to Nutley's 726.

A comeback bid by former Ward 6 Councillor Joanne Condon Walsh fell short. She finished third with 425 votes.

comeback after losing the Norfolk County treasurer's office in an upset last year, rolled up a convincing vote of 4,133 or 17 percent to lead the field of 11 School Committee candidates.

He was followed by newcomer Linda Stice (3,219), Incumbent Stephen Durkin (2,957), newcomers Margaret "Peggy" King (2,583), JoAnn Bragg (2,530) and Incumbent Mary "Jane" Powers (1,679).

Those failing to qualify for the Nov. 5 general election were, in order to finish: Sean Barry (1,651); Frank Anselmo (1,634); Edward Lee (1,456); Toni Kabilian (1,222) and Michael Jovanovic (460).

Turnout was highest in Ward 6, 34.5 percent; and 21.7 percent city-wide.

The Muscular

Dystrophy Labor Day Activity Center co-sponsored by The Quincy Sun and the Quincy Sons of Italy raised more than $5,000.

The City Council supported an appropriation of $360,000 to the fire, police and school departments handed down from Mayor James Sheets. The money was taken from the city's general fund which had received a $1 million delinquent tax payment from Jordan Marsh.

The money was used to hire five teachers, fund police overtime and training, and boost the fire department's overtime account.

For the first time in about 15 years, Quincy revoked a bar's license.

The license board voted unanimously to revoke the Sagamore Inn's license because members of alleged drug dealings on the premises at the troubled bar located at 78 Sagamore St.

Despite the license revocation, the bar continued operating while the bar owners appealed the board's decision.

A 700-page application prepared by members of the mayor's administration for the U.S.S. Lexington was delivered to the U.S. Navy department in Washington, D.C., closing one chapter of the city's bid for the ship and opening another.

With the application in the Navy's possession, Sheets and his administration turned to an intense lobbying effort to win the Quincy-built aircraft carrier.

Navy Secretary H. Lawrence Garrett III was expected to make a decision by the end of the month. However, the decision was postponed after Garrett requested more information, especially on financing the project, from the competing three competing cities.

Deaths during September included:

Katherine LeBeau, 93, soprano soloist, friend of Ruth Gordon; Louis Lubarsky, 88, Grossman's manager; Mary E. McCulley, 69, helped run husband's cab company; Robert K. Gardner, 51, civil engineer for state DPW; Alice H.M. Power, 100, retired school teacher; and Arnold R. Melanson, 66, retired QPD radio technician.

Gorman New Fire Chief; Storm Pounds Quincy

(Cont'd from Page 14)

October

The wait for a new fire chief ended when Thomas F. Gorman Jr., a 28-year veteran of the Quincy Fire Department, was appointed the city's new fire chief by Mayor James Sheets.

Sheets passed over Deputy Chief Joseph Walsh who had scored a 94 on a Civil Service examination earlier in the year. Gorman scored an 82.

The mayor, who said he "agonized" over the decision because each candidate had excellent qualities, noted Gorman's experience on the department was a significant plus for him. He pointed out that Gorman had served as acting chief for 19 months during two separate stints. The new chief had served as acting chief one full year before his promotion.

Gorman's appointment was historical since it gave the city its first father-son fire chief combination. Gorman's father, the late Thomas F. Gorman Sr., served as Quincy fire chief from 1947 to 1967.

The recently revived Fore River Shipyard continued to flourish as shipyard workers landed its second repair contract in as many months.

The $1 million contract to overhaul the 876-foot SS Cape Mohican employed about 100 workers, including 70 from Massachusetts Shipbuilders Inc. MSI and AK Engineering opened the yard last month after forming a partnership.

Residents in the Montclair, Wollaston and North Quincy neighborhoods were put on alert by police following a rash of recent house breaks and attacks in those areas.

According to police, there had been five reported incidents since January where five women had been assaulted at knife-point.

The city's fight against drug and alcohol abuse got a boost by the federal government which awarded Quincy two separate grants totaling $2.45 million.

A grant of $250,000 was awarded to the Quincy Housing Authority by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. The one-year grant was earmarked to fund two police officers who will patrol the housing development on foot in an effort to eliminate drug dealing.

It was also intended to fund a drug education and counseling center in Germantown, a recreation program for youngsters through the Quincy Police Athletic League, and jobs for up to 100 Germantown teenagers at the Quincy Quarries. Duties include installing trail signs and park benches.

Two weeks later, the city was awarded a five-year federal grant of $2.2 million on behalf of the Quincy Coalition for the Prevention of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse.

The grant from the Office of Substance Abuse Prevention of the Health and Human Services Department was the largest single award of this type in the state.

The money was earmarked to create a community-wide coalition to prevent alcohol and substance abuse. Organizations who benefitted from the grant included the police, school and health departments, Quincy Housing Authority, Quincy Hospital, Survival, Bay State Community Service and the Asian-American Committee.

Ronald Mariano cleared the first hurdle in the race for state representative in the Third Norfolk District by winning the Democratic nomination.

Mariano, a Quincy School Committeeman, defeated Weymouth attorney John "Jack" McGlone by 224 votes. Turnout, which was higher in Quincy, appeared to be the deciding factor in the race.

In Quincy where turnout was 29.6 percent, Mariano tallied 1,935 votes while McGlone received 554 votes, a difference of 1,381. In Weymouth where turnout was 25 percent, the results were almost the inverse: 1,735 for McGlone and 578 for Mariano.

The final test would come in November with Mariano facing Weymouth Republican William Izbicki and Quincy Independents Cheryl Balzano and Francis "Sandy" Eaton in the final election.

The Quincy Partnership's historic site lighting project was culminated with the illumination of United First Parish Church and Old City Hall (McIntyre Government Center).

The partnership, made up of business, community, government, non-profit organizations and the public was also responsible for the lighting of Adams Academy and Beechwood Community Life Center celebrated its 10th anniversary with a variety of special events and activities, including a concert and walk.

A devastating coastal storm wreaked havoc on Quincy's shoreline, causing an estimated $3 million in damages to municipal property and hundreds of thousands of dollars more to private property.

The Quincy coast, like other waterfront communities in the North and South Shores, was declared a federal disaster area.

The nameless Northeast pounded the coast with heavy rains, strong winds and tremendous tidal surges. Severe flooding closed about a dozen streets and forced 61 residents to be evacuated.

Deaths during October included:

John H. Frederickson, 71, bank vice president, mortgage officer; Timothy J. Reidy Sr., 73, budget analyst, World War II POW; Miriam S. Wheeler, 87, who was New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's secretary for six years; Alvan E. Shuman, 62, assistant harbor master; and Peter L. Eleuteri, 18, a QHS senior.

November

The final municipal election turned out few surprises as Quincy voters elected two new School Committee members and a new ward City Councillor and returned five other challenged incumbents to office.

Daniel Raymondi and Linda Stice were each elected to a four-year term on the School Committee and incumbent Stephen Durkin was re-elected to a third term. Incumbent Mary 'Jane' Powers lost her bid for a four-year term on the board.

Newcomer Bruce Ayers, who finished first in the preliminary election, continued his voter-getting strength to unseat incumbent Thomas Nutley in the Ward 6 council race. Nutley became the fifth incumbent to lose his ward council seat in 30 years.

City Council at-large incumbents Tim Cahill, Patricia Toland and Michael Cheney finished in that order to win reelection.

Former Mayor-Councillor Joseph LaRai failed in his third political comeback in four years, perhaps his last attempt for public office.

First-time candidates George Miller and William Ryan finished fifth and sixth respectively. Louis Zagami, a write-in candidate, was seventh.

Ward 1 Councillor turned aside a challenge from Gail Glover to win a second term.

Rounding out the School Committee field were Peggy King (fourth), JoAnn Bragg (fifth), and Powers (sixth).

Turnout city-wide was 39 percent and 46 percent in Ward 6.

One week after the city's municipal election, voters in the Third Norfolk District elected Ronald Mariano state representative in a special election.

Mariano succeeded longtime friend and former rep Robert Cerasoli by defeating Weymouth Republican William Izbicki and Quincy Independents Francis (Sandy) Eaton and Cheryl Balzano.

dwellers and businesses an opportunity to recycle glass, plastics, cans and newspapers. The center would also generate 20 to 30 jobs for Quincy residents.

Nearly two weeks after Quincy 18-year-old Peter Eleuteri was found dead on the electrified third rail at the Haymarket MBTA station, a suspect was arrested and charged with murder.

Vincent Haddock, 22, of Malden, was sent to Bridgewater State Hospital for observation. He was scheduled to return to court in December.

Haddock's arrest brought some relief to Eleuteri's family and friends who were outraged after the MBTA called his death an apparent suicide.

After the arrest, MBTA General Manager John Haley apologized to the family for any grief caused by the T's statements.

The License Board banned video gambling machines in Quincy.

Ron Adams, a seventh grade arts teacher at Broad Meadow Middle School, was honored as the Massachusetts Department of Education Teacher of the Year at a ceremony held at the John F. Kennedy Library.

In other education news, Eugene Creedon, was named acting school superintendent by the School Committee. There were indications Creedon would replace Dr. Robert Ricci who planned to step down next year.

North Quincy High claimed the city's football championship by shutting out Quincy High, 7-0.

Deaths during November included: Alvan E. Shuman, 62, assistant harbor master; Walter F. Gavin Sr., 64, letter carrier; Evelyn Shea, 79, legal secretary and traffic supervisor; Elise Perry Webby, 78, hospital auxiliary president; Wilfred 'Fred' A. Nolan, 63, retired Quincy assistant school superintendent; Joseph E. Burke, 73, former Quincy Park Board chairman; and Elinor D. LaFleur, 64, Quincy public school bookkeeper.

December

Two important economic issues, the FY 92 tax rates and the mayor's Quincy Plan, were the major news generators for the last month of 1991.

In the first week of December, Sheets had recommended higher tax rates of $12.05 per $1,000 for residential property and $26.59 per $1,000 for commercial, industrial and personal property to the City Council. The new rates reflected an average increase of $57 for residents and 6.1 percent for business.

At a public hearing, about 150 homeowners and business owners opposed the mayor's recommendations, sending the administration and council a "no new taxes" message.

One week later, a divided council opted for a classification package proposed by Ward 3 Councillor Lawrence Chretien. It was the first time in recent years the council had voted in favor of its own plan instead of one proposed by the mayor.

A majority of the council viewed Chretien's proposal as the best plan for both homeowners and business owners. Compared to the mayor's plan, homeowners would pay slightly more and business a little less under Chretien's plan.

With the approved plan, residential taxes would rise an average of $75

On the heels of the tax vote, Sheets released his long-awaited Quincy Plan, a blueprint for the revitalization of downtown Quincy.

Highlights of the plan included the mayor's support for an Old Colony Commuter railroad station in Quincy Center and a $26 million east-west crossway connector linking Route 3A with the Burgin Parkway.

Other features of the plan, which the mayor said would be established over a 10-year period by a public-private partnership, included:

- Develop a retail center and possible hotel on the site of the 5-acre Hancock Parking lot across from the Quincy District

Courthouse.

- Establish a design review board to oversee future development in the downtown area by having the authority to direct and control exterior changes to building facades and signage.

- Award grants of 25 percent ($3,000 maximum) to defray the cost of any improvement mandated by the design review board.

On the 50th anniversary of Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, local Pearl Harbor survivors solemnly remembered the day that has lived in infamy.

Those who were there said they will never forget the horror and destruction as some saw their friends die. Other unforgettable memories recalled were the countless acts of courage as men risked their lives to save others while under attack.

A little rain failed to dampen the spirits of an estimated 200,000 parade goers as the 40th annual Christmas Parade was a tremendous success. Three past parade grand marshals, former Red Sox hurler Louis Tiant, television personality Rex Trailer and Quincy's John (Jake) Comer, former national commander of the American Legion, returned as marshals to help celebrate the gala event.

Quincy and National Park Service signed an agreement calling for a "cooperative planning of the city's historic and cultural resources." With the agreement, the NPS would preserve, promote, interpret and develop Quincy's historic resources.

One direct result of the agreement will be a three-mile pedestrian Quincy Historic Walking Trail from the Adams Mansion to the Adams Birthplaces via Hancock St. The trail was scheduled to be completed in the spring.

Confronting perhaps the most trying economic times in recent years, several local charitable groups found the resources to help 500 Quincy families enjoy a brighter and more festive holiday by providing food, toys and other gifts to those less fortunate.

Deaths during December included:

Charles N. Ross, 85, attorney, assistant registrar of Deeds, son of former mayor; Daniel H. Forde, 83, retired Quincy police officer; and Herbert H. Hollis, 92, former Republican state representative.

North Blanks Rockland, 6-0

The North Quincy hockey team improved its record to 2-1 with a 6-0 non-league victory over Rockland last week at the Rockland rink.

In their previous game the Red Raiders, following a big win over defending Division 1 champion Barnstable, dropped a 3-2 squeaker to Silver Lake.

Tom Benson's North squad played Rockland again last Saturday at the Quincy Youth Arena. This Thursday it will play at Marshfield, Saturday will play at Falmouth at 8 p.m. and next Wednesday, Jan. 8, will play at Weymouth at 7:20 p.m.

Sean Vermette scored two goals in the win over Rockland and Joe Carinci, Mike DesRoche, Steve DesRoche and Aiden

O'Donoghue had a goal apiece.

Goalie Dennis Ruggere, who has played fine hockey in every game, had 15 saves in recording the shutout.

Silver Lake's Mark Dorsey put in his own rebound with just 29 seconds to play to give the Lakers a 3-2 Old Colony League win.

Mike DesRoche scored a shorthanded goal to give North a 2-1 lead early in the third period but the Lakers' Mike Connors tied the game with a 35-foot slap shot.

Mike Christopherson had given North Quincy an early 1-0 lead.

Ruggere had another fine game with 21 saves.

Quincy Edged By Undefeated Boston Latin

The Quincy hockey team, following impressive Old Colony League victories over Plymouth and Taunton, suffered its first loss last Friday when it dropped a 6-4 non-league decision to undefeated Boston Latin.

The Presidents played at Revere in a non-league game Saturday, played at Falmouth Monday in a league game, will host Boston Latin this Thursday at 2:45 p.m. at the Quincy Youth Arena and will host Bridgewater-Raynham Saturday at 6:40 p.m. at the Youth Arena.

In the loss to Boston Latin Scott MacPherson put Quincy on the board first with his eighth goal of the season. He has nine points in three games with an assist. Jeff Craig and Shane Abboud assisted on his goal. Steve Miller scored the second goal with assists for goalie Steve MacPherson and Jamie Schatzl. Latin led, 3-2, after one period.

Latin widened its lead to 5-3 in the second period with Steve Barrett scoring for Quincy with freshman Dave Cooper and Dan Morrell assisting.

Quincy's final goal in the third period was scored by Jimmy Smith with Dave Mullen and Schatzl assisting.

"Latin has a fine team," said Quincy coach Bob Sylvia. "They are big and aggressive and they should have a fine season."

In their previous game the Presidents rolled over Taunton, 13-2, with MacPherson, one of the top scorers in the Old Colony League last year and the Suburban League the previous season, scoring four goals.

Craig and Cooper scored two goals apiece and Miller, Schatzl, Dave Mullen, Smith and Steve Provost one each.

Quincy had opened the season with a 5-4 win over Plymouth, which had defeated Brockton, 4-0, in its opening game.

MacPherson had a hat trick and Craig and Mullen a goal each for the Presidents.

Steve MacPherson has done a fine job in goal and Mark Smith did well sharing the duties in the romp over Taunton.

Squirt Cs Win 4 Straight

Quincy's Squirt C hockey team is off to a fast start with four straight wins.

Quincy started off with back-to-back victories over Milton with Mike Sullivan scoring the first goal in each game.

The Squirt C's won the opener, 6-3, and won the second game, 8-2.

The team then blanked South Boston, 6-0, with John Sullivan and Nick Pizziferri shining in goal.

Quincy romped over Hanover, 15-2, with Kevin Cellucci and Jeff Glynn having hat tricks and Paul Burke and Matt O'Connell two goals each. Jamie Parisi, Mike Hastings, Joshua Silvermen, Joe Watson and Joe Vallontini had a goal each.

Chris DeLise and John Katsirikas had two assists each and Sean Fitzgerald and Avery one apiece.

Nominations Opened For QHS Hall Of Fame

The Quincy High School Hockey Hall of Fame is accepting nominations for this year's inductees. To be eligible, a nominee must have graduated prior to 1982.

All nominations must be received before Jan. 31 and the annual induction dinner will be held March 31.

Nominations should be sent to George Peachey, c/o Quincy High School Athletic Department.

Tickets may be obtained from Peachey.

Flaherty Hat Trick Paces Lydon

Neponset Valley Survey and the Paul Harold Club played to a 2-2 tie in Mite House League action.

Mike Sullivan and John Walsh scored for Neponset Valley and Tom Piscatelli had an assist. Jordan Virtue and Adam Smith scored for Harold and Andrew Ross, Mike Campanale and Conrad Leger had assists.

Purdy's Ice Cream and Samoset Pharmacy tied, 3-3. John Segalla, Steve Segalla and Ken Reichel scored for Purdy's and Joe Cunningham, Billy Ryan and Steve Segalla had assists. Ryan Doyle, Matt Glynn and Matt Kenney scored for Samoset and Matt Miller, John Alves and Bill McKeon had assists.

Shaun Flaherty had a hat trick to lead Lydon-Russell over Balducci's, 10-1. Mark Giesse and Matt Minicucci had two goals apiece and Matt Petit, Joe Jackson and Graham McShane one each.

Giesse had four assists, Minicucci two and Steve Romanowski, McShane and Petit one each. Josh Giordani scored for Balducci's and Danny Sheehan assisted.

Basketball

North Lands On Plymouth

The North Quincy boys' basketball team rebounded from a tough overtime loss to Wayland to even its record at 1-1 with a 62-52 victory over Plymouth last week.

Desmond Bellot and Sean Donovan each scored 17 points for the Red Raiders. Donovan had scored 23 points in the opening night loss to Wayland.

Chris Luongo had 15 points to lead the Plymouth offense.

North Quincy hosted its Christmas Tournament last weekend with the Raiders meeting Stoughton and Boston Latin playing St. John's Prep in the opening round.

North will play at Quincy Friday at 7 p.m., will host Taunton Monday at 7 p.m. and will be at Silver Lake next Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Fitchburg Too Much For Quincy, 84-55

The Quincy boys' basketball team found Central Mass. power Fitchburg too much last Friday night and the Presidents dropped an 84-55 decision in the first round of the Eagle Tournament at Boston College High. Quincy fell to 2-2.

The Presidents faced Cathedral, loser to B.C. High, in the consolation game Saturday night.

Quincy will host North Quincy Friday night, will play at Plymouth Monday and will host Taunton Friday, Jan. 10.

Fitchburg, annually one of the top teams in Central Massachusetts, is coached by North Quincy Hall of Fame member and former all-scholastic Doug Grutchfield, and had too much size and had an excellent shooting night in downing Quincy.

In its previous game Quincy edged Weymouth, 62-61, in double overtime for its second overtime victory.

Robbie Kane hit an off-balance 10-footer with eight seconds left in the second overtime session to give the Presidents the win.

Quincy trailed, 55-47, with 1:03 left in regulation.

David Jolley hit two three-pointers and Mike Bartlett converted a three-point play to put Quincy ahead, 55-54.

Weymouth's Mark Carpin hit one of two free throws to send the game into overtime. In the first OT period, Quincy held the ball for the entire period and missed its only shot.

Joey Crespi led the Presidents with 20 points. Kane, who had played a prominent role in the season's opening OT win at Falmouth, had 14 points and had two key offensive rebounds in the second overtime.

Swimming

North Defeats Stoughton, Loses To New Bedford

The North Quincy boys' swim team opened the season with a 103-77 victory over Stoughton.

The Raiders then lost to South Sectional champion New Bedford despite a school record by North's Dan Reilly in the 100-yard freestyle (51.70 seconds). The previous mark was held by Bradley Martin eight years ago. Martin is now a North assistant coach.

First place finishes for North were Mike Ploof, Dan Reilly, Barry Canavan, Erik Delorey and Mike Kelley.

Finishing second were Jim Flaherty, Nader Sidahmed, William Lee, Erik Oster and John Aliberti.

Taking third places were Greg Mackay, Jacky Lei and Dan Bermingham.

Coach Bill Walker has been pleased with the efforts of his young team and expects the Raiders to improve as the season progresses.

Youth Hockey

Johnson Romps, 11-3 Sun Tops D&H

Johnson Motor Parts held on to a one-point lead in the Squirt House League with an 11-3 romp over Burgin Platner.

Nick Pizziferri had a hat trick, Kevin Patten and Kevin Cellucci two goals apiece and Jeff Glynn, Chad Fitzpatrick, Joe Prada and Shawn Dooley one each. Cellucci had three assists, Dooley, Billy Norris, Glynn and John Sullivan two apiece and John Healy, Prada, Pizziferri, Scott Mattson, and Fitzpatrick one each. Paul Markarian had two goals and Scott MacDonald one for Burgin and Ron Gamel had an assist.

The Quincy Sun remained one point behind with a 7-3 victory over Doran & Horrigan. Pat Grogan and Sean Garvey had two goals each and Joe Ardagna, Tom Gaeta and Billy La one apiece. Garvey had two assists and Grogan, Gaeta, Ardagna, Steve McGonagle, Sean Haidul and Steve Ford one each. Matt Gibbons, Chris Cullen and Joe Vallatini scored for Doran and Gibbons and Ryan Barrett had assists.

Green Environmental edged Granite Auto Electric, 3-2, on goals by Pat Kenney, Kevin Mason and Brian Ehrlich. Mason and Chris DeLisle had assists. Shane Kabilian and Chris Carthas scored for Granite Auto and Tom Hughes and Kevin Regan had assists.

The standings: Johnson Motor, 7-3-1; Quincy Sun, 6-3-2; Doran & Horrigan, 6-4-1; Green, 5-5-1; Burgin Platner, 4-6-1; Granite Auto, 2-9.

North Girls Off To Good Start

The North Quincy girls' basketball team is off to a flying start and a 44-36 victory over Marshfield in the first round of the Red Raider Tournament last Friday improved its record to 3-0.

The North girls faced East Boston, winner over Quincy, in the championship game Saturday.

North Quincy will host Quincy Friday night, will play at Braintree Saturday at 8 p.m. and will play at Taunton Monday at 5 p.m.

In the win over Marshfield, Tricia Hughes scored 17 points, including 13 free throws. Cindy White had 13 points for North, which trailed, 19-17, at halftime.

In their previous game the North girls defeated Plymouth, 52-47, as White scored 15 points and Hughes 14. North trailed, 24-20, at the half, but Jen Santry came off the bench and scored seven quick points as North scored the first nine points of the second half.

Barron Sparks Squirt Bs

Quincy's Squirt B hockey team opened the second half of the Greater Boston League season with a 5-2 victory over Triboro.

John Barron had two goals and an assist, Chad

Fitzpatrick a goal and two assists, Kevin Regan and Paul Markarian a goal each and Jimmy Sullivan, Patrick Kenny and Billy Griffin an assist apiece.

John Bertucci, Joey Ardagna, Mike Welch,

Ryan Barrett and Shaun Haidul had fine games on offense and Steven Ford and Shaun Slattery played well on defense. Goalie Jeff Langille was outstanding.

Sean Munroe Sets UMass-Boston Receiving Records

Sean Munroe of Quincy, a junior wide receiver for the UMass/Boston football team, set three single-season receiving records and was part of a team record 1,317 yards passing and record 2,322 yards in total offense.

Munroe scored a touchdown in the Beacons' recent 31-12 loss to UMass/Lowell. His score came on an 18-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Don McNeil.

Munroe's individual school records include 31 catches, 541 yards and four touchdowns.

The Beacons finished the season at 4-5.

Suzanne Lewis Named Cross Country All-Scholastic

Suzanne Lewis of North Quincy High School has been named to the 1991 Boston Globe All-Scholastic Girls' Cross Country Team.

Lewis, a junior, won the Division 2 race at the Brown Invitational Meet in 19:03 and won all but one Old Colony League dual meet this season.

She took second in the OCL Meet and was third in the Div. 2 EMass championships. She also placed fifth in the Div. 1

State Coaches Meet.

Lewis is ranked in the top five percent of her class and is active in the Peer Education Group, Students Against Driving Drunk and the foreign language honor society.

Tangney, Flynn Westfield X-Country Runners

Julie Tangney and Jennifer Flynn of North Quincy were members of the Westfield State College women's cross country team that captured the Mass. State Conference championship. Both are freshmen and graduates of North Quincy High. Tangney is the daughter of Paul and Rita Tangney and Flynn is the daughter of Brian and Ann Flynn.

Christine Maus Passes Skating Test

Christine Maus of Wollaston recently passed her preliminary freeskating test held by the Skating Club of Hingham at the Pilgrim Arena. The test is sanctioned by the United States Figure Skating Association.

Terrence Roche Mayor Of Central Middle School

Terrence Roche, a student at Central Middle School, was recently elected mayor of the school's Student Senate.

Other Senate officers elected are:

Mary Ann Patch, deputy mayor; Kelly Guggan, secretary; and Margaret Goodwin, treasurer.

Twenty-five students campaigned hoping to win votes of the student body. Each candidate addressed the students in two separate assemblies. Campaign posters and tags were evident throughout the school.

Simultaneously, each division was conducting campaigns for Senate representatives. Social studies teachers discussed the responsibilities and duties of the potential officers and encouraged students to run for the representative's seats. Central's social studies staff includes John Buckley, Lawrence Coombs, Patricia Drew, Linda Lew-Hanson, Robert Saunders, Arthur Svensen and department head, Dr. Lawrence Osborne.

After campaign speeches were delivered, primary and final elections were held. Students elected are:

Sixth grade: Erin Tormey, Kara McSweeney, Andrew Mauriello, Kathleen Burke, Sarah Beston, John Sullivan and Jared Downey.

Seventh grade: Jamie Christo, Donald Macheras, Maureen Sullivan, James Melchin, Bridget Shaughnessy, Meghan

Powers and Melissa Lord.

Eighth grade: Jessie Barnes, Kristen Champoux, John Marinilli, Lynn Garland, Christina Amate, Daniel Hughes, Matthew Beston and Jodi Mackie.

The Student Senate convenes regularly on Tuesday mornings before school. School and student issues are discussed with hope that Central will be an even better place in which to learn.

A survey is now in process. The agenda also includes plans for Thanksgiving and holiday season projects—food collections, fundraisers for the annual family adoptions' clothing outfits. Compassion for those who have little is underscored.

John Manos Joins Quincy Hospital As Chief Of Anesthesia

Ellen Zane, Director of Quincy Hospital, announces the appointment of John Manos, M.D., as the new Chief of Anesthesia at the hospital.

Zane said, "Dr. Manos has been chosen as the individual who possesses the broadest array of expertise as well as the greatest depth in management skill. He is a wonderful addition to our medical staff."

Manos most recently worked at Malden Hospital. Previously he chaired the anesthesia programs in several small hospitals and ambulatory surgery centers in Pennsylvania. He has worked as a staff anesthesiologist at the Beth Israel Hospital in Boston and Mount Sinai Hospital in New York.

A graduate of the Medical College of Ohio, Manos did his internship at St. Mary's Hospital and Medical Center in San Francisco and his residency in anesthesia at Beth Israel Hospital.

Council On Aging Chairman To Address Senior Citizens

John Noonan, chairman of the Quincy Council on Aging, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the senior citizens of Pagnano Towers Wednesday, Jan. 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the recreation hall.

Noonan will speak on the programs and services of the Council on Aging, coping with some of the problems of growing old, medication misuse, legal rights of seniors, health and fitness.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

D. Scott Deware

Christmas 1991 has come and gone.

The Christmas trees have been taken down and all the decorations that added a sparkle of beauty of the holiday season in homes, churches and places of business have been taken down.

Some stored for another year and some cast to the wind.

Batteries have run down on mechanical toys and children, as well as adults, will spend a lot of time now mastering the fine new points of their computers.

Most of the Christmas candy and nuts have been eaten.

Moms have been busy for several days cleaning the house and trying to vacuum small particles of Christmas droppings from the rugs.

The holidays for many families was a joyous season, but for many, especially the unemployed family bread winner, sadly things were bleak.

As we enter the New Year it is our prayer, our hope and wish that every family in our community will have a happier, healthier and more prosperous New Year ...

LEGAL NOTICE

CITY OF QUINCY
IN COUNCIL

ORDER NO. 305
ORDERED:

September 16, 1991

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy, 1976, as amended, be further amended as follows:

Chapter 24, Article 1, Section 12, add a new Section (2A) to read as follows:

1. INTENT

The purpose of this Amendment is to promote the health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the City of Quincy; to lessen congestion in the streets; to facilitate the adequate provision of transportation and other public requirements; to conserve the value of land and buildings; to provide for orderly growth and development and to assess the needs of the community in the form of a comprehensive study of city resources in relation to this growth and development.

Therefore, in order to provide a hiatus in which the City may properly make its findings and recommendation to the Mayor and City Council, Chapter 24, the Zoning Ordinance is amended so as to preclude the issuance of certain building permits for a limited time period so as to complete the comprehensive study.

2. ESTABLISHMENT

(A) Notwithstanding anything contained in this Ordinance to the contrary, no building permits shall be issued for new construction, additions or a change in use which requires additional required parking of the following District uses, except for routine maintenance or repairs to existing structures, as they appear in the following sections of the Zoning Ordinance:

- (1) Any use permitted in the Business B, District as shown in Article IV, Use Regulations, Section 42, Table of Use Regulations
- (2) Any use requiring a Special Permit in the Business B District, subject to the provisions of the Amendment.

Said suspension of permits for construction shall be for a period of six (6) months from the date of passage of this Amendment or until the City acts upon the recommendations contained in the comprehensive study, whichever occurs sooner.

(B) The land shown on the City of Quincy's Assessor's Plan 4050, 4065, 4066, 4068, 4073, 4074, 4078, 4079, 4080, 4081, 4082, 4083, 4084 and 4111, which is currently zoned Business B, is subject to the provisions of the Suspension of Permits for Construction of Buildings amendment of Chapter 24, the City of Quincy Zoning Ordinances. Said land is located on the easterly and westerly sides of Willard Street between Copeland Street on the south and the Milton Town line on the north.

A Few Words on FUNERAL SERVICE

What are the rules for Funeral Traffic?

Traffic rules for funerals differ sometimes from those governing other traffic. These tips may help if you are in a funeral procession — or if you encounter one.

1. Use the windshield sticker and keep your headlights on.
2. If the procession is crossing an intersection while the traffic light turns red, continue through. The funeral procession has the right-of-way. The lead car, will stop and obey all posted signals. DO NOT CROSS OR JOIN A PROCESSION.

CITY OF QUINCY
IN COUNCILORDER NO. 322
ORDERED:

October 7, 1991

Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Quincy that the Revised Ordinances of the City of Quincy, 1976, be amended by inserting after Chapter 13, Section 53, the following:

ARTICLE VSection 54. Definitions.

Dumpster - Any receptacle used for the collection and storage of rubbish, garbage, offal and other substances.

Owner - The person or legal entity having title to the land upon which a dumpster is located and/or the person or legal entity operating on the premises where a dumpster is located. The name and address of the owner shall be on file in the office of the Health Commissioner.

Facilities Affected - All commercial business utilizing dumpsters except businesses using temporary construction dumpsters and all residential buildings having eight or more units.

Contractor - the person or legal entity owning or having legal title to the dumpsters.

Enforcing Person - The health commissioner and agents are hereby designated as the enforcing officers of the provisions of this Article.

Section 55. General Requirements, Location, Enclosure, Etc.

Each dumpster shall be located at a distance from the lot line so as not to interfere with the safety or obstruct the curb and sidewalk, the convenience or health of abutters and the general public, or obstruct the view of flowing traffic. The location of dumpsters shall be subject to approval of the Health Commissioner and Building Department.

All dumpsters shall have a cover capable of containing the contents therein and shall be covered and secured when not in use and at all other times except during the actual filling of the dumpster with the exception of a roll-on/roll-off or similar dumpster used for construction debris, auto body parts, recycled or bulky-type materials.

All dumpsters must be of sufficient, size and capacity, shall not overflow and must be free of any distasteful odors. The owner utilizing the dumpster must take appropriate action to have the dumpster emptied of its contents immediately when full. The owner must properly sanitize the dumpster as often as is required and/or as deemed necessary by the Health Commissioner.

Effective immediately, all new commercial businesses in the City utilizing a dumpster, shall be required to enclose their dumpsters with a material capable of obscuring the view of the dumpster from the public and shall place the dumpster on a cement or asphalt pad. The enclosures are subject to the approval of the Health Commissioner. Owners may apply for a waiver from this section if they can demonstrate that the area is incapable of a complete enclosure or if their location (i.e. on the waterfront) requires placement of a dumpster on a wooden pier.

Sheets Orders Halt To Blasting At Home Depot Site

By MICHAEL WHALEN

Mayor James Sheets Friday asked for a temporary halt to the blasting at the Home Depot site on Willard St. after one of the blasts caused damage to property on both Rogers and Perkins Sts.

Sheets has asked Police Chief Francis Mullen and Fire Chief Thomas Gorman for a cease and desist order to prevent further work on the project until the reasons for the accident can be determined.

The Mayor's Office reported several calls Friday morning from residents complaining about damage to property on the two streets as a result of the blast.

According to Ward 4

Councillor Thomas Fabrizio, flying rocks caused by the blast Friday morning went through the roof of a metal shed in the backyard of a house on Rogers St. as well as through a window through the house next door.

Fabrizio said he had been told a car window was also destroyed, but added that he could not confirm that as a fact. He also said he could not give any specifics on damage that reportedly occurred on Perkins St.

Asked about the mayor's cease and desist order, Fabrizio said he supported Sheets completely.

"We're concerned about this," said Fabrizio. "We have to proceed with caution on projects of this size and make sure that public safety is ensured."

Fabrizio said one of the things that concerned him was that the two streets are "way out of what's considered the blasting site."

City regulations require that anything within 300 feet of the site be considered part of the blasting area.

Fabrizio said both he and Sheets want an investigation conducted to determine what caused the accident. He added that the matter was to be discussed at a meeting at City Hall Monday night that was originally scheduled for discussion of the blasting schedule of the site.

The blasting at the Home Depot site, which began recently, is expected to continue for another three to four months,

Squantum Group To Replace Damaged Playground Equipment

By STEVE KAVANAGH

Squantum residents are planning to replace playground equipment which was destroyed in a fire last week behind the Squantum School.

"We're in the process of getting quotes now from the company that builds the equipment, Creative Playgrounds of Braintree," said Grace Buscher, co-chairman and secretary of the Squantum Community Association.

"We estimate it will cost $3,000 to $5,000 to repair," she said.

The playhouse and slide in the "Toddler's Lot" section of the playground were ruined in the fire which fire department officials said was arson.

The "Kidsport" playground was built last spring with the help of local volunteers. The SCA raised nearly $30,000 to purchase and install the equipment.

Buscher said she has spoken with fellow association officers Tim Reidy and Judy Levering and the association intends to replace the slide and playhouse.

The group had already planned an auction in April to raise money for maintenance of the playground. Buscher said the money will probably go to pay for the replacement equipment now. She also said the association has a few hundred dollars left over from a previous fundraiser for a playground fence.

Buscher also said it was likely the SCA will plan an additional fundraiser for the equipment in the coming year. "The economy is worse off which will make it (fundraising) harder... But we're confident," she said.

Chinese Language School Spreads Holiday Cheer At Quincy Hospital

Chinese children's voices recently rang throughout Quincy Hospital.

Under the auspices of Peter Jae, the Chinese Language School of Quincy brought holiday cheer to the patients and staff.

The children were delighted to come to the hospital for the first time and they saw a brand new baby boy. They sang a special carol for the new baby and afterward were treated to refreshments at the cafeteria. Helen Lau and Kristen Poon, both 9 years old, were soloists. Jae founded the Chinese Language School in 1988, feeling the necessity to preserve the Chinese culture in Quincy. In 1990, he added Chinese Folk Dancing to his program. Classes are held Saturdays from 9 a.m. to noon.

Quincy Hospital welcomes the Chinese Language School as part of its special outreach efforts.
